

African-American History Month concludes with discussion

by Mayo Caldwell

On March 12 in the Campus Center, the Black Student Association concluded its second annual African-American History Month celebration with a panel discussion on "The Role of African-American Women in Today's Society." The general idea of the discussion was to bring together professionals and students to exchange views about problems confronting the modern black woman.

After the participants presented their three-minute opening statements, the panel and the audience joined in some lively--and sometimes emotional--discussions and rebuttals.

It was the consensus of the panel that black women should have equal opportunity in the areas of both credit and employment (including the clergy and the armed forces). They also agreed that black women should continue to rise above their traditional cultural heritage and strive to develop a sense of personal worth and awareness.

On the question of whether a woman should take her husband's surname, however, there was a slight disparity between Ms. Vivian Smith and Dr. Carolyn Hines, the only two women on the panel. Ms. Smith said that she preferred to keep her maiden name and have it hyphenated in front of her husband's name.

"I have accomplished a lot with my father's name," she said enthusiastically, "and I have one brother, so I want to keep the family name alive." Dr. Hines, who is married and using her husband's name, said that the individual should be free to make a choice. "However," she quickly interjected, "it is important that the woman establish her own credit rating in case the couple should separate or should decide to borrow money, since you can do more with two little bits of money than with one little bit of money."

"In 1979, the black woman finds herself as the hunter and not the game," said Mr. Julius Wilkerson, who recently attended a workshop on the Modern Black Woman. "A black female has difficulty if she's interested in a man of like interest, educational background or economic level. If you exclude the 'brothers' that will die or

by Stephanie E. Mosca

The CNC Board of Visitors met on March 8 to act on a plan of reorganization for the College. Under the new plan, Dean Robert J. Edwards becomes the Vice President for Academic Affairs; Dean Charles E. Behymer, Jr., Vice President for Student Affairs; and Calvin E. Hones, Vice President for Financial Affairs. The titles were changed to help provide for a more efficiently organized structure, since the new titles are deemed more appropriate for the type of institution we now have.

Also to be organized at CNC is a School of Business and Economics and a School of Liberal Arts. President James C. Windsor stated that the College has no aspirations of becoming a university at this time.

Work on Phase II of the Campus Center and on a 440-yard track will begin soon. Tuition, however, will not increase. The money will come from a reshuffling of funds.

In the fall of this year CNC will have met its 70%/30% goal of ten years. The 70%/30% goal is 70% of funds from the state and 30% from student funding.

Dorms for CNC are still a big issue. It must be feasible to construct them and make them pay for themselves. HUD money, which is periodically available to colleges, has been looked into. If CNC can get some of that money, the answers will come more easily.

The Board approved the new retirement policy. Employees other than tenured faculty may continue to work until they reach the age of 70. After July 1, 1982, everyone may work until he's 70. This new policy will have two effects on the College. There will be an increase in the cost of personnel, and with a larger number of people aged 65-70 still working, there will be fewer openings for younger people.

The College is living within its budget. The state of the College was described as excellent.

Bio and Psych tie in debate

by Stephanie E. Mosca

"What do art and economics know about how to reap and how to sow?" asked Dr. Jean Pugh in her poetic opening statement for the Raft Debate.

The Raft Debate, sponsored by Operation Self-Help. All proceeds from the debate will go to the annual fund drive at CNC.

The idea behind the Raft Debate was that the world has met with terrible disaster. The five scholars who remained were in a raft which was designed to hold only one. The raft had to be forfeited by the four losing scholars so that the winner can float to safety and spread knowledge to the scattered survivors. Five CNC faculty members, each representing a different department, portrayed the scholars. The debate was moderated by Dr. Al Millar. Also there to add a little mischief was the Devil's Advocate, personified by Dr. St. Elmo Nauman. Dr. Pugh, the biology representative, was the first to give her opening statement. She was followed by the Business Department representative, Dr. Harold Booker, who stated that if he only had a phone booth he could show us who he was. In arguing for his department, Dr. Booker stated that the first businesswoman could be traced back to Eve.

"She sure sold Adam a rotten apple," said Booker.

After Dr. Booker came a verse recited by Dr. Jay Paul in honor of arts and letters. In his prose, Dr. Paul said that keeping our heritage is important. Without someone to care for our heritage, we'll have to spawn another. There is more to life than just making money. Art will encourage us to be responsible and loves us too much to over-simplify things.

Sociology was next, represented by Dr. Robert Durel. Dr. Durel felt that the problem of a scholar surviving was not as important as the survival of a society. The crisis can be a time of renewed strength for the society. The society can work together and move out of the crisis. The conflict must be studied as well as answered. Sociology is the one that will be able to bring the society together.

Captain's Log seeks Editor-in-chief

Dr. Charles Behymer, Dean of Student Affairs, is accepting applications for the position of editor-in-chief of The Captain's Log. All interested persons should apply by Friday, April 6.

Kenneth Gillespie, who assumed the editorship in January, announced his resignation at a staff meeting on March 13, citing personal problems as his reason for stepping down.

Nelson Harris, the Log's photography editor, will act as managing editor until a new editor-in-chief is selected by the Publications Review Board.

Notice to Students Using the Deferred Payment Plan

This is to remind you that final notes on the deferred payment plan were due March 15. All unpaid accounts are considered delinquent.

Financial Aid Checks

The Financial Aid checks payable to approved recipients will be available for pickup from the cashier in the Business Office after 2:00 p.m. Tuesday, March 27.

English Club

At the March 29 meeting of the English Club, Dr. William Wolf and Dr. John Harwood will discuss ways of securing jobs. The talk is scheduled at 12:15 in Newport 202. Everyone is welcome to attend; the suggestions presented will be useful to people in various fields. Feel free to bring your lunch.

A note about the April 1 meeting of the English Club: the speaker will be Tony Ardizzone, who will read from his novel, In the Name of the Father, recently published by Doubleday. The bookstore has a few copies of the book if you would like to read it in advance of the presentation.

Counseling Center offers film, lecture

Barry S. Stern, Assistant Professor of Community Health Professions at ODU, will present an informal discussion on educational and professional opportunities available to persons with a B.S. in Environmental Health. The meeting will take place in the Campus Center Board Room from 12:15 to 1:00 p.m., Thursday, March 29. He will provide information on required curriculum for the degree and the areas where potential employment is greatest.

Come and relax for an hour and watch a film that is not only fun, but revealing, too! The Counseling Center presents Dr. Eden Ryl in Pack Your Own Chute, a film that explores how to overcome one's fears in order to realize hidden potential. Be in Newport Hall 125 on Wednesday, March 28, at 12 noon. You'll be glad you did.

Student Teaching

Students who plan to enroll in supervised teaching during the 1979-80 school year should pre-register with Mr. Jenkins, Director of Student Teaching, prior to March 30. Registration blanks and information can be obtained from the Department of Education, W-226, each day from 8 to 4.

BSA Meeting

The B.S.A. will hold its first meeting under new administration on March 28 at 12 noon in G-145. All students interested in being chairpersons or taking an active part in the organization should attend. Your input and participation will be greatly appreciated.

Special Olympics

The Portsmouth Parks & Recreation Department will be presenting the Third Annual Special Olympics Benefit Dance/Concert on March 30 at the Portsmouth Armory from 8 p.m. until 1 a.m.

There will be rock 'n' roll music by PACE and disco music by Les Burke. Proceeds from the dance will be used to send participants to state competition and pay for transportation, lunches, awards, T-shirts and ribbons.

Special Olympics is an international program of physical fitness, sports training, and athletic competition for mentally retarded children and adults. It is unique in that it accommodates competitors at all levels by assigning them to "competition divisions based on both age and actual performance. Even athletes in the lowest divisions may advance all the way to the international Games.

Special Olympics contributes to the physical, social and psychological development of mentally retarded participants. Through successful experiences in sports, they gain confidence and build a positive self-image associated with success rather than failure. Success on the playing field often carries over into the classroom, the home and the job.

Tickets for the benefit dance/concert are now on sale. The cost will be $2.00 in advance and $3.00 at the door. They can be purchased at the following locations: Portsmouth Parks and Recreation Department, 430 High Street; Downtown District Office, 900 Elm Avenue; Southern District Office, 345 McLean Street; Mid-City District Office, 3801 Kingman Avenue, and the Churchland District Office, 3209 Cedar Lane.

Health Programs

The Peninsula Nature and Science Center will sponsor programs on health during the month of April. Most events will take place at the Science Center at 524 J. Clyde Morris Blvd., Newport News.

Local health agencies, physicians, dentists and college professors will be involved in much of the programming, such as evening lectures on cancer and psychotherapy, blood pressure screening, receiving blood donations and giving children a chance to meet a dentist and doctor. Workshops for children and several tours of a local hospital will be conducted in order to acquaint children as well as adults with health care in our community.

For further information contact Barbara Barnes at 595-1900.

Auditions Held

The spring production of the Frederick Theatre, Frederick Campus, Tidewater Community College, will be Diamond Studs, a musical version of the life of Jesse James. It will be produced May 11-13, 18-20, and 25-27.

Auditions for Diamond Studs will be held March 28 and 29 at 8:00 p.m. in the Frederick Theatre. People who would like to audition should bring a prepared song. An accompanist will be provided.

There are parts for ten men and eight women. Some characters will play instruments. The violin, bass, harp, drums and harmonica are called for in the orchestration. We may use the banjo, washboard, etc., as well.

For more information please call Gayle Pipkin at 484-2121, extension 340 or 246.

Free Lectures

The College of William & Mary and the NASA Langley Research Center are again bringing to Tidewater a free public lecture series: "Our future in the Cosmos," a unique and popular public forum featuring well-known lecturers on the future of man in a rapidly changing environment.

Robert B. Hotz, editor and publisher of Aviation Week, and Space Technology, will present his personal views on the future of international space programs on April 9 at 8 p.m. at Hampton Coliseum. Free general admission tickets are available by phoning the Office of Special Programs in Newport News at 877-9231, extension 238 or 200. After April 1, tickets will be available only at the Coliseum Box Office. A question and answer period will follow the lecture.

Consumer Congress

Consumer Congress of Virginia, a state-wide, non-profit citizens' organization, is seeking to give a consumer voice in utility rate-setting matters. This effort is particularly urgent now because of the potential cost to consumers of the shutdown of VEP-CCO's Surry nuclear units. In addition, Consumer Congress intervenes on behalf of consumers at State Corporation Commission hearings on utility rate matters, introduces legislation of interest to consumers to General Assembly members for their support, lobbies on behalf of consumer legislation, and provides information on utility matters.

Consumer Congress needs help with their outreach and fund-raising efforts and will pay students who are available to go out to Tidewater neighborhoods in the afternoons and evenings. It is an opportunity to help a consumer cause while earning. Call 380-0355 between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Consumer Congress representatives will be glad to come speak to your club, class or organization.

CNC student headed for Miss Virginia Pageant

by Melissa Edeburn

Just about three weeks ago, CNC gained a Miss Williamsburg. After winning the swimsuit competition, Debbie Fitch, a junior majoring in elementary education, took the title and was crowned by --who else-- Miss America, Kylene Barker, who was last year's Miss Virginia. Now it will be a hectic schedule for Debbie, who must be prepared to perform in front of cameras in the Miss Virginia Pageant in Roanoke July 14.

As winner of the Miss Williamsburg Pageant, Debbie received a $1000 scholarship, wardrobe money, two trophies (one for Miss Williamsburg, the other for first place in the swimsuit competition), a crown (which she keeps) and a scepter which is passed along each year.

How do you get into a beauty pageant? Well, if you're like Debbie, you audition to be a model in some television commercials (such as Rice's Nachman's) and win the contest. Then a director of a pageant, such as Mrs. Nonie Kellogg, director of the Miss Williamsburg contest, sees your picture in the paper and asks you to enter her pageant. Then you take a couple of months to decide--say from November to January--and voila! You're up on the stage, and by the end of the evening you've decided all the preparation and panic were worth it.

For Debbie, the actual being on stage part is less frightening than anticipating being on stage. "I get nervous before I go on, but after I'm on stage I'm fine. I feel at ease and I think the audience can sense that." If Debbie was nervous on stage at all, it was during the swimsuit competition. "I'm kind of modest. It feels funny to be walking out in front of a lot of people like that!"

Her talent managed to keep things in a mirthful mood, however. She innovated Shakespeare in his Two Noble Kinsmen with her comedic monologue rendition. "I turned it into a comedy," she says, "by using a mop." She said her background in theater helped (she used to be a theater major). She also had to make up a 15-second speech at the end of the pageant, but it was a little more serious. Her theme was "the greatest gift is the gift of yourself."

Since the pageant, Debbie has been busy giving interviews with the Daily Press, Yorktown Crier, Virginia Gazette and Kingsmill Patent, where she works as a hostess/receptionist when she is not taking classes or working at the Information Desk in the Administration Building at CNC. In between now and the end of her reign as Miss Williamsburg, she'll be involved with even more activities like parades, dedications and various other appearances.

She begins working for the time she'll be spending at the Miss Virginia Pageant this week. Her sponsors, Mrs. Kellogg from the Williamsburg pageant and her sister Marylou Mueller, will be sponsoring and coaching Debbie along with several other people. She'll be getting a wardrobe together, practicing her poise and learning how to give interviews, among other things. She'll also be working on a new talent. Right now she is contemplating another dialogue.

Debbie is not sure what her plans will be after she graduates. One thing she's interested in is being a photographer's model. Asked if she'd defer her college plans if she should win the Miss Virginia Pageant, she said, "Well, if I won--sure. Why not?"

Dr. James M. Morris publishes book, prepares for International Maritime Conference

by Stephanie E. Mosca

He's not only a professor of history, the moderator of Faculty Forum, and the father of six; he's also an author. In addition to writing quite a few articles, Dr. James M. Morris is the author of Our Maritime Heritage: Maritime Developments and Their Impact on American Life, recently published by University Press of America in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Morris began writing the book after he entered the field seven or eight years ago when he found that there was no history of American Merchant Marines that was adequate. He completed the book after three years.

Dr. Morris's book is divided into sixteen chapters which relate the history of maritime developments and the impact which they had on American history. The chapters are topically and chronologically sequential. The first eight chapters deal with maritime events which occurred before the Civil War; the last chapters cover events which happened from the Civil War to the present.

In these sixteen chapters, Dr. Morris has emphasized the difference between maritime history and other facets of American life and has tried to blend the two. He has also dealt with fresh water, such as the Great Lakes and the Mississippi River system, as maritime. Dr. Morris feels that in 30 years there hasn't been one good book that has treated fresh water as such.

Dr. Morris' book emphasizes accuracy and readability for the undergraduate student or the general reader. This has been done to enable the reader to gain a clear understanding of the evolving maritime picture and its impact. The book also presents historical topics of wide interest in readable terms.

Dr. Morris feels that his book can be used as supplemental reading in American survey and American studies courses where the instructor wishes to add emphasis to the maritime areas and tie them to the economic, social and political life of the nation in a convenient way. It may also supplement courses in American economic history, where textbooks typically meld maritime developments into other economic developments and in economics courses in international trade.

His book can also be used as a basic reader for course in American maritime history or American maritime and naval history. It will provide a strong general background for lectures on maritime developments. Presently, there is no such book on the market.

Another book, America's Maritime Legacy: A History of the United States Shipping and Shipbuilding Industries from Colonial Times to the Present, is expected to be released at any time now. Dr. Morris is the senior editor of this book.

Currently, Dr. Morris is working on an article dealing with the impact of steam technology on the U.S. Navy in the 1840's and 1850's. This article will be presented at the International Maritime Conference at the National Maritime Museum, Greenwich, England, in September.

Log to spotlight VA Center

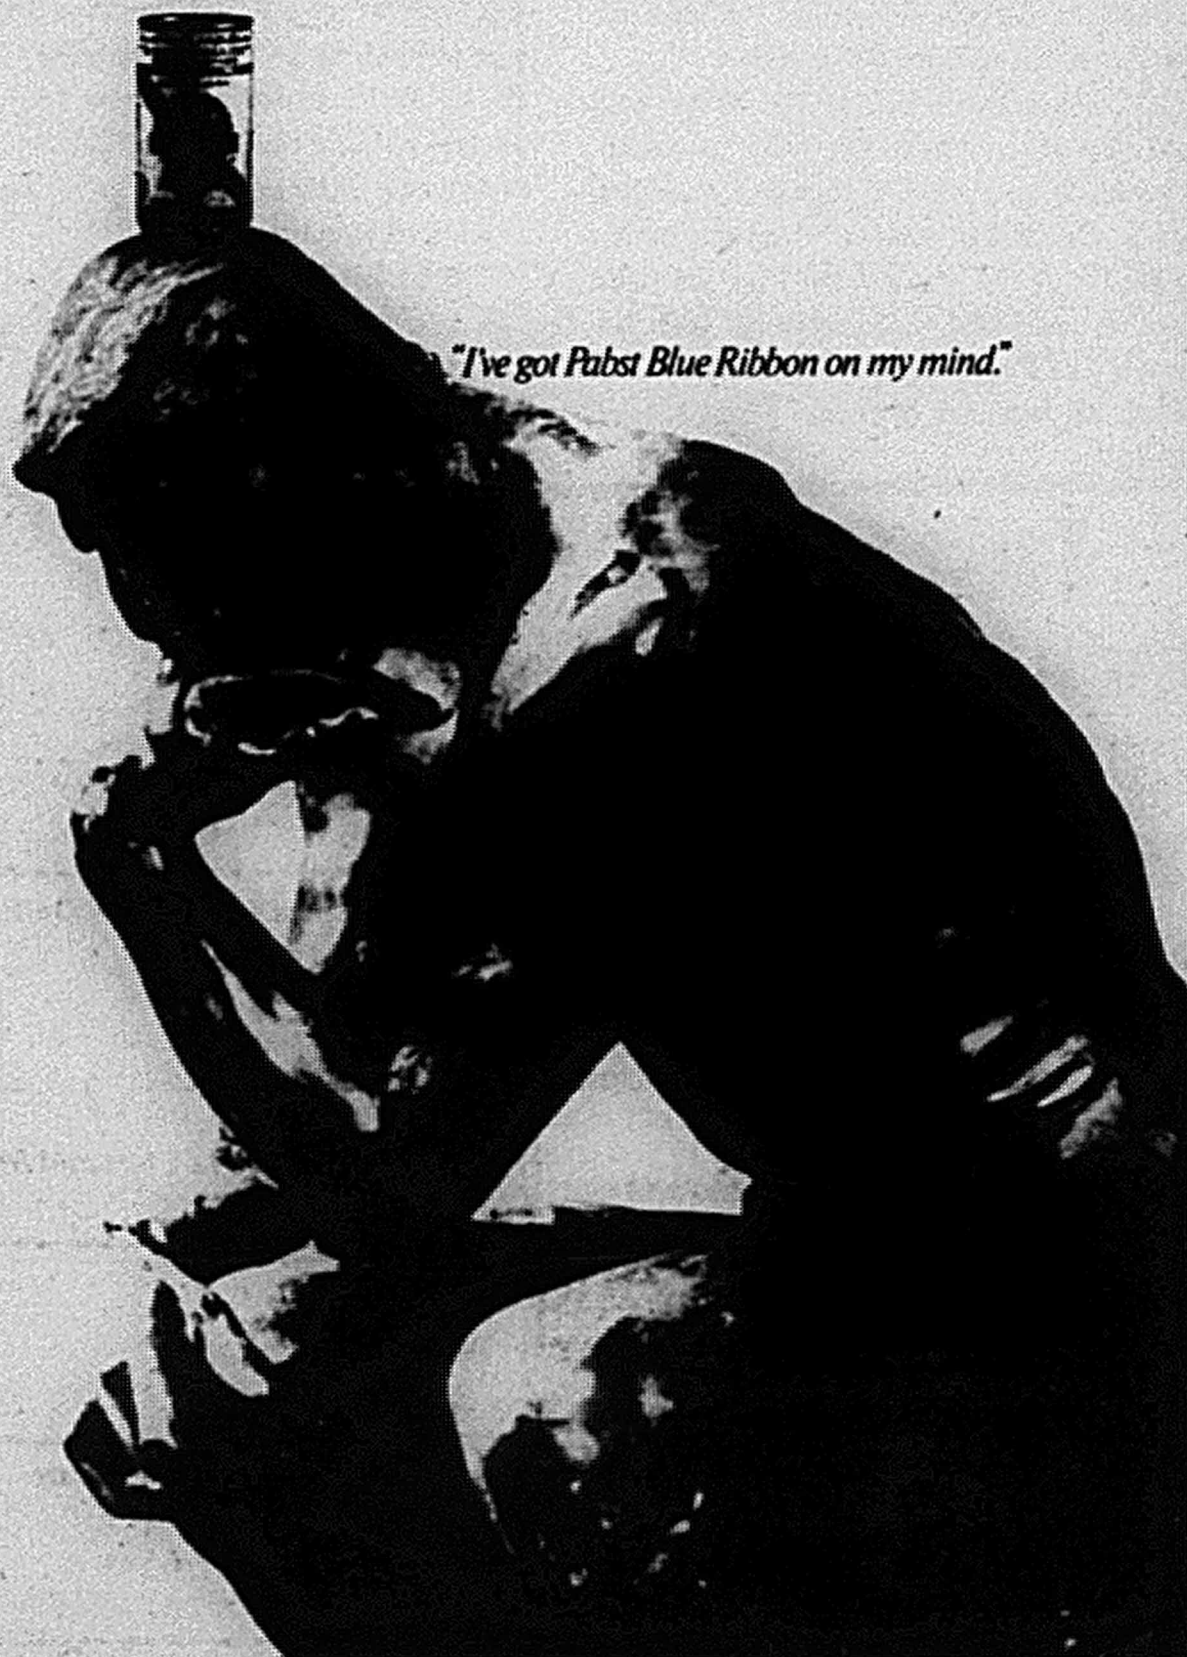

by Melissa Edeburn

The Veterans Administration Center looks like a medical center at first glance, but it is much more. In addition to the general medical and surgical hospital, there is a 750-bed domiciliary which, along with other VA facilities on the campus, form a complete living community for residents. It is almost a city within a city, and yet the larger community is constantly permeating it while the center itself makes a constant impression in the Hampton area. It is a unique relationship—especially for interns at the Eastern Virginia Medical School and students at Hampton Institute and other area colleges and universities who experience the Center as a clinical training ground.

Volunteers who work in varied jobs from pharmacy assistants to physical therapists and who are involved with visiting and recreation in direct patient relations are a big part of the Center. According to VA Center Chief of Voluntary Service, Mr. James Tanner, there are about 400 regular volunteers giving time and attention to those who are temporary patients and those who live at the Center.

Next week's Captain's Log will feature a story on the VA Center, its benefits to the community, its needs, and its goals.

Placement and Planning News

The most recent Career Program at CNC was held on March 14 from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Many students took advantage of the opportunity to talk at length with professionals who could advise them about career opportunities for education, history, and philosophy degrees, specifically. Though representatives were not on campus to recruit, they did offer students some very worthwhile information and hints to keep in mind when job hunting. Both professionals and students who participated in the Career Program commented that their time had been profitably spent.

Mr. Richard McMurran, Director of Placement for CNC, has planned two more career programs for April 4 and 18, from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., in the Campus Center Lobby. The April 4 program will be designed to help art, music and theatre majors, while the one on April 18 will be of particular benefit to students concentrating in biology and chemistry.

Though the career days are planned around specific disciplines, they can be of value to any student.

For additional information, call the Placement Office at 599-7013.

The Virginia Association of Assessing Officers scholarship grant will cover tuition charges, course materials, dormitory housing, and meals to attend Course I of the State Department of Tax Assessors' School at the University of Virginia on June 4-8, 1979. In order to qualify for a scholarship, an applicant must successfully meet three requirements: (1) be a resident of the Commonwealth of Virginia; (2) be a college student, college graduate, accepted candidate for college, or the equivalent; and (3) be interested in the assessment profession. An adequate background in mathematics and economics would be helpful and is desired.

Applications must be received by April 15, 1979. Interested students may pick up applications from the Placement Office.

In the Winter, 1979, issue of the Journal of College Placement, John William Zehring, Director of Career Planning and Placement, Earlham College, has written an informative article entitled, "Job Sources for Liberal Arts Graduates." Mr. Zehring has compiled a list of helpful sources which will greatly aid the liberal arts graduate in obtaining information about employment opportunities in various careers. This article can be found in the Placement Office.

Attention, Seniors! Please make appointments through the Placement Office to see the following company representatives:

UVA Personnel Dept., 3/29, MIS/Bio-/Chem/Math majors for lab technicians and computer programmers; Montgomery Wards, 3/30, business admin. majors for retail management; U.S. Air Force, 4/2 & 16, Math/MIS/Physics/Biology/Chemistry, for research and development; Metropolitan Life, 4/4, all majors but prefer business admin./Mkt/Ed. for sales representatives and manager trainees; Systems Development Corp., 4/10, MIS/Math/Physics for computer programmer or systems analyst; Northwestern Mutual Life Ins. Co., 4/11, all majors, for sales representative; Liberty Mutual Life Ins. Co., 4/12, Math/Sci./will consider BA's heavy in math or science, for loss prevention consultant with business management.

Last was psycho-dynamics represented by Dr. Robert Wildblood. On behalf of psychology, Dr. Wildblood stated that sociologists are just the poor stepchildren of psychology.

After the five scholars presented their opening statements, the representative for the Devil, Dr. St. Elmo Nauman, spoke. He advocated an honest dumping. He wanted to see the rascals and the lovely lady thrown out.

Two open rebuttals followed. The first rebuttal was two minutes long, and the closing rebuttals, one minute long.

Throughout the two rebuttals, Dr. Pugh's rhyme continued.

"Listen not to these misguided fools, biology is the one that has the tools."

Believe the others if you think you must, but biology is the one that makes them eat the dust."

In closing, Dr. Pugh said, "It's a trilogy, you, me, and biology. Give me the raft and give them the shaft."

Dr. Booker said in closing, "I'm on top."

In response to that argument, Dr. Paul retorted, "If he's on top, then we know what's coming down."

Dr. Paul also stated that the simple solution was not what was needed. We should keep looking and learning and be a whole person.

Dr. Durel responded that the whole debate was a social construction. It was a definition from each of us to decide what was going on.

Dr. Wildblood stated that we don't like to make decisions. With the understanding of psychology, we wouldn't have wound up in this situation. Psychology makes us whole persons, he stated.

Said the Devil's Advocate, "A vote for the Devil is a vote for the future."

After this final rebuttal, Dr. Millar held the clap-off. After the wild applause, screaming and general hysteria had died down, Dr. Millar stated, "It is the determination of the moderator that we need another clap-off." The clap-off was between Dr. Pugh and Dr. Wildblood. The result tie was not broken. They shared the raft.

SA Candidates

by Vennie Wright,
Campaign Manager

This year's Student Association elections will see two familiar faces as candidates: Bill Humphreys, the current SA Vice President, and Gary Bromley, presently the Attorney General. Bill and Gary have united their efforts and will be running on a combined ticket. The concept of parties is new to CNC, and Gary and Bill are anxious to make use of this traditional form of campaigning.

Bill Humphreys formally declared his intentions on March 9 to run for the office of President of the CNC Student Association. Through his work this past year as Vice President, Bill has become involved in many committees and has enjoyed the benefits of working closely with Bill Bell, the current SA President. This experience is invaluable to him in his quest for office, and especially to the quality and effectiveness of his service to you, his fellow students. Bill is most anxious to continue his work with these various committees next year in the capacity of your SA President.

Gary Bromley will be running for reelection as Attorney General for the 1979-80 school year. Like Bill, Gary's past experience in the office of Attorney General is one of his biggest assets as he seeks reelection. Both Bill and Gary are fair and patient men, willing and able to work hard for each CNC student (that includes night students too).

Bill and Gary's platform consists of issues concerning not only students, but faculty and administration as well. Issues such as the comprehensive fee paid by students, faculty evaluations and the parking situation will be discussed by Bill and Gary at an outdoor question and answer session to be held Thursday, March 29, at 12:15 under the trees (no birds, please) outside the Campus Center. It's a brown bag affair and everyone is welcome and urged to come.

The SA Elections will be held April 2, 3, and 4 (Monday through Wednesday). Cast your vote Bill Humphreys and Gary Bromley. Remember, it's each student's responsibility to VOTE.

Last Call for a 19 year old Christopher Newport College Sophomore to become a 21 year old Army Officer.

The Army offers college sophomores the opportunity to earn an officer's commission in two years. The deadline for this year's class is soon.

Apply now and once you are accepted for the special two year program, you attend a six weeks' summer camp, for which you'll be paid approximately $500. And that's not all. You may find yourself in the best physical condition you've ever been in.

Then back to college and the Army ROTC Advanced Course in the fall. If you've done exceptionally well at camp, you may be heading back to college with a full two-year scholarship.

For the next two years, you learn what it takes to be an Army officer. You get the kind of management and leadership experience that will be an asset to you in any career, military or civilian. You will earn an extra $100 a month up to 20 months. And when you graduate, you will have earned your college degree along with the gold bars of an Army officer.

The Army ROTC Two-Year Program

If this is the kind of challenge you are looking for, you are the kind of student we are looking for.

Women's Tennis Team wins season opener

by Beth Wright

CNC's Women's Tennis team hit the courts for the season's opening matches with a win over James Madison on Friday. Under the guidance of their new coach, Keri O'Donnel, former UVA standout and state doubles champion, the women took their first victory, 5-4. The team fought a tough game, which was a draw until the last match in which Maria Holt and Beth Wright outlasted their opponents in a tie-breaker in the second set (5-3) to give the team an overall victory of 5-4. Linda Phill, playing the number two position, displayed excellent concentration while overpowering her opponent in three sets, after winning a tie-breaker (5-4) in the first set. Freshman Vicki Nebinger, who holds the number one position, is proving to be a great asset to the team, winning her singles and then doubling with Linda Phill for another win playing number one doubles.

This year's team shows great potential, losing only one of its top six members, while picking up freshman Vicki Nebinger who is currently playing in the top position, and gaining sophomore Marcia Holt from Randolph-Macon College, who is playing the number five position.

Coach O'Donnell believes the team is strongly competitive statewide. The team has good depth all the way down the line, which should prove to give the team a winning season.

The starting line-up for the game was Vicki Nebinger, Linda Phill, Beth Wright, Janet Waddy, Maria Holt and Muriell Hofstetler. The women will be traveling to William and Mary on Tuesday, Southern Seminary on Wednesday, and Lynchburg on Thursday. They will play at home Friday against the University of Scranton.

Hikes set for April

Tidewater Appalachian Trail Club met Wednesday to recount what happened on trips and to discuss what's coming up next, as well as to solicit helpers for cabin building (Jackie Jenkins, 587-6024), working on Mau-Har Trail (Lee Hulton, 850-1554) and maintaining the club's section of the Appalachian Trail (second weekend of every month). There is also planning for a Dismal Swamp Trail and a committee to prepare maps.

This next weekend, March 31-April 1, there are six hikes, overnight and day:

Dave Wyke will lead an overnight in the Dismal Swamp, following a seminar given Tuesday at Blue Ridge Mountain Sports (Curtis Eley, 587-8624).

John Folsom will take a group up the Priest and down Crabtree Falls, leaving at 6:30 p.m. from Holiday Inn (446-9662 or 444-5041).

Chuck Jesse will be on the Appalachian Trail (486-3486).

Otey Shelton and Reese Lukei will be pacing out the Mau-Har Trail.

Anne Huster will lead a short hike in Seashore State Park April 1 (489-0600).

Another group is heading for Old Rag (484-1803 or 855-6068).

April 6 has two weekend hikes, one to work on Mau-Har Trail with John Folsom and the other in the VPI area (Curtis Eley, 587-8624). The weekend of April 13-15 is trail maintenance, and April 20-22 is cabin building or canoeing and hiking at Merchant's Mill Pond (cheap canoe rental available).

Come on out! For carpooling or more information, contact your correspondent, Al-Salam (G-221 or 599-0898). Bikes rides and Coastal Canoeist posted on bulletin board.

Track team loses overcomes defeat

The Dixie Conference track team lost to host Salisbury State (Maryland) this past week.

The Seagulls won three of the events, which allowed Maryland to win the meet and outscore the Captains 36-5.

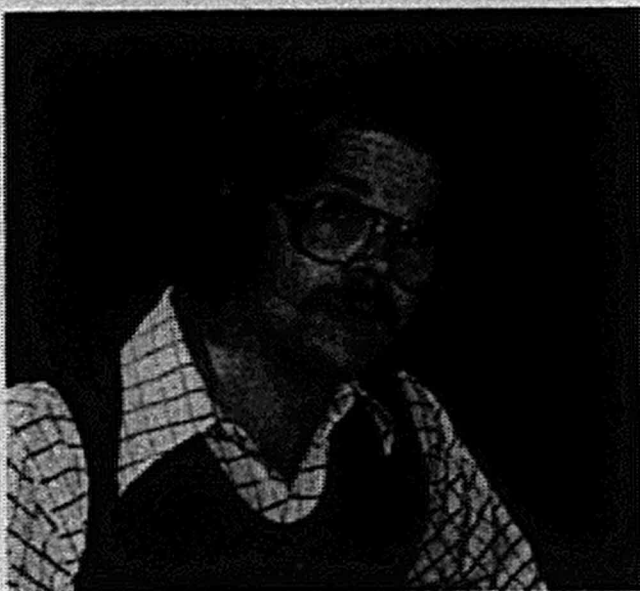

The Captains recovered from their defeat and won three trophies at the Hampton Institute Relays. They recorded two third places in the 4-mile relay and the distance medley and placed second in the pole vault. Track star Paul Vrooman broke a new CNC record with his pole vault of 13 feet.

Golf team scores victory

The CNC Golfers were victorious over Mary Washington College with Mike Hott shooting a 79 and Rick Burns scoring 80 in the 18-hole contest. CNC's 330 to Mary Washington's 390 was the best score posted by CNC in over three years.

Impressive music and cinematography grace Days of Heaven, a thought provoking commentary

by Elena Watson

Terence Malick's Days of Heaven is a haunting adventure story about three wanderers who become farm workers in Texas.

The year is 1916. Bill loses his job in Chicago after a brawl. He takes his little sister Linda (Linda Manz) and his Girl-friend Abby (Brooke Adams) with him to Texas, where they become itinerant workers harvesting wheat. He passes Abby off as his sister.

When Bill hears that the lonely young farm owner (Sam Shepard) is dying, he sees a chance to become rich by having Abby marry him. At first she is reluctant to marry the farmer, but soon she does fall in love with him. Their happy days in the big house do not last long as Abby's husband begins to wonder why her brother is so attentive. More disaster comes in the form of locusts.

The brilliant cinematography is the real star of this film. There is no way one can describe the beauty of it—from the shimmering wheat fields to the harvest celebration to a small boat going down a river, every image is entrancing.

The film relies heavily on visual story telling as well as narration by Linda; dialogue is sparse. Linda's commentaries are brief and filled with folk wisdom, such as "Nobody's perfect. You just get half devil and half angel in you."

The music further enhances the mood with the score of Ennio Morricone. However, particularly effective are the selections by Leo Kotke and Doug Henshaw. These provide a very rural, intensely American feeling.

In a sense the film is deeply American, a celebration of the wandering spirit of this vast land.

Days of Heaven is a beautiful film which is much more than just a beautiful film. It also provokes thoughts about money, power and nature itself.

It is playing at the Riverdale Twin and is rated PG.

Disco features dance contests through May 16

by Elishia Luce

The last issue of The Captain's Log told about two exciting bars which are very close to CNC. It seems that there is one more that calls for equal space. Even closer to CNC is the Village Forum. The Forum not only features great disco dancing every night of the week (with the talents of Craig Ireland as D.J.), but now through May 16 it is holding a free-style dance contest every Wednesday night.

The contest is free style in that the dance is left up to the contestants, who may also bring their own albums or choose one from the Forum's own record library.

Weekly prizes ($money$) will be awarded to first and second place winners. During the ninth week of contests (May 16) a finals will be held; at this time winners of previous contests may participate again.

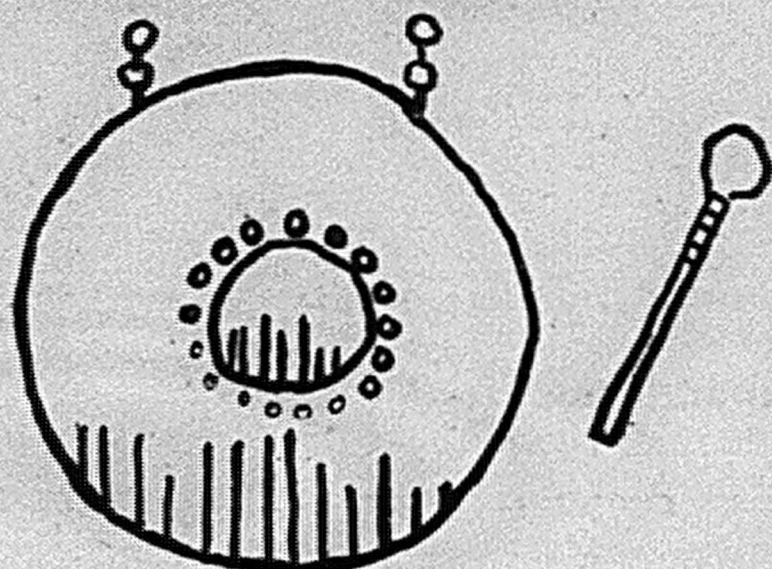

Prizes during this week include: first prize, $200, a trophy and two steak dinners; second place, $100, a trophy, and two steak dinners; third place, 2 steak dinners and a plaque. Fourth and fifth place couples will receive plaques.

Winners are chosen by the audience. One ballot is given to each customer when entering the Forum, and at the completion of each night's contest the ballots are collected and counted.

Even if you don't enter the contests, the Forum is a "white-hot night spot" and a great place to meet girls and guys alike.

editorial

Student Association elections are scheduled for next week, April 2-4. Offices to be filled are those of SA President, Vice President, Attorney General and division senators. Last spring the voter turnout was a mere 8.1% of the student body. Hopefully, students will show more interest this time around, although the fact that only one candidate has filed for the office of Vice President is not exactly encouraging.

The Captain's Log does not intend to endorse any candidates. We do hope that the student body will give some thought to the candidates before casting their ballots and not turn the process into a popularity contest as so often happens. Weigh the merits of each candidate carefully. Experience and background are important considerations if there were positive contributions made.

Another point to ponder is special interest groups--is the candidate bound by ties to any one group or will he or she represent every student, whether part-time or full-time, day or evening?

Exercise your voting privilege next week, but first, think it over.

Letters

Dear Editor,

I would like to take this time to urge the student body of CNC to vote for his or her candidates, and to use his or her discretion and wisdom to place into the offices of his or her divisions, Senate, and executive body.

I wish to recommend these candidates for your consideration: Mr. Richard (Rick) Reams for President, Ms. Lisa Cipriano for Vice President, and Ken Gillespie for Attorney General.

Mr. Richard Reams has a wide and varied background in working and management positions. He is a graduate of York High School and received his Associate Science of Business Administration. He has also participated in the life of the community in the role of a Cub Scout Leader in Grafton. His working and management experiences have been as an Electrician, Assistant Head House Keeper at one of Williamsburg's fashionable motels, and also he has been a Shipping and Receiving Supervisor in a local materials warehouse. He has also done a six year hitch with the U.S. Army Reserve as an Airborne Parachute Rigger. At the present he is a rising Senior at CNC majoring in Business with a Management specialty.

It has been a great pleasure for me to have Rick working with me as my Executive coordinator on the CNC Gong Show because of technical expertise, his management experience, and his constant concern for the successful completion of this college fund raising mission.

Ms. Lisa Cipriano has also had many experiences in the short time she has had participating student affairs. In her Kecoughtan High School experience she has held a number of executive positions in her graduating class. She has also held down being President of the Thespian Society and Vice President of the school's Drama Club. She also attained membership in the National Honor Society with her academic achievement.

Within the short time she has been here at CNC, she has been concerned with the functions of executive leadership. She presently holds down the positions of being President of the Natural and Quantitative Division which qualifies to be on the CNC Student's Executive Council. She is also the Student Liaison to the CNC College Development Relations Committee. She has also had time to appreciate the experiences of her world travel. These experiences not only have given her a micro overview but also a world overview of places and events. Her sister, Joy Cipriano, was also involved at CNC in the Student life. She is former Vice President of the S.A. and former head of the SAC. I am quite confident that Lisa will be superior to the job to which she has aspirations to.

Mr. Ken Gillespie, who's running for Attorney General is a transfer student of Emory and Henry and a resident of Smithfield, Va. His newspaper experience will enhance and will attune his ear to the need of the student. He was formerly Editor-in-Chief of Emory and Henry's Whitewater, News Editor, Senator, and Editor-in-Chief of the CNC Captain's Log.

Thank you for your time.

Bruce M. Pierce

Dear Editor,

AKPsi recently sponsored a dance featuring Slapwater as the attraction and the band did just that. Over 400 people attended, resulting in net income of $530.35 to be donated by Alpha Kappa Psi to the student fund drive to purchase reference books for the library.

This dance was far more successful than expected due to very high student attendance. Alpha Kappa Psi and Lisa Cipriano, Chairman of the Student Committee-Fund Drive, would like to thank you very much, students, for your support.

Dear Editor,

As a teacher of astronomy, and as a scientist, I must protest the inclusion of a horoscope in our otherwise rather high quality student newspaper. This subject is covered well enough in the daily papers (appropriately located on the comics page). I will be the first to acknowledge that the heavenly bodies affect our lives; without the sun we would not exist, and even a small change in its energy output could be quite disastrous for us, and the moon causes our tides, and also the slow precession of the earth's axes, affecting the location of the sun as seen against the starry "sphere"; according to the horoscope my sign is Gemini, but according to Sky and Telescope it is Pisces! One advises me to get plenty of rest, when I am most worried about not enough exercise; the other advises me to go with the majority (no comment). The paper said a letter would cheer me (junk mail$%$).

I do strongly recommend seeing the local planetarium show "Wheels of Fortune" which deals with the same subject and is outstanding. It will be shown for the last time Thursday night I believe (do check).

Senate Minutes

There was a brief Senate meeting on March 13. Vice President Vennie Wright called the meeting to order and the Senate discussed a possible fund raising project as its contribution to the Fund Drive. Three committees were set up, and Terry Sloneker was appointed the overall chairman of the project. More details will be published after the next Senate meeting to be held on March 27 at 12:15 p.m. in N-125. This project promises to be a source of strength for the Senate as they pull together to work for its success. There is even a possibility that this project will become an annual event! More details will follow soon.

There were no committee reports; however, the Auxiliary Committee and the Veterans' Committee will be submitting written reports of their efforts at the next meeting. Since there was no further urgent business, the meeting was adjourned to the Campus Center Theatre to support the Raft Debate sponsored by the Student Association.

Again, I would like to urge each CNC student to attend these Senate meetings. The issues that are discussed are of concern to each of us on campus. There are 160 designated seats for Senators from all the divisions and club/organizations at CNC. Find out how you can fill one of those seats. This is no come-on; we really need your support. Can we count on you at the next Senate meeting? That's every Tuesday, 12:15 p.m., Newport 125. Thanks.

Vennie Wright, Senator
Business and Economics

Dear Editor:

The only statement in Ms. Glaude's letter (March 13, 1979) that I have to comment on is the part about "When people work together, each doing what he/she does best (regardless of whether it is traditional to their sex), they compliment each other." My husband says I'm the best. The best dishwasher, floor scrubber, child watcher, bathroom cleaner, lunch maker, house painter, window scraper, grass cutter, food cooker, light bulb changer, in the whole world. He only claims to be the best husband (oh, he's so modest, isn't he?).

Signed: The Best Wife

suffer from drug abuse, homicide, unemployment and incarceration, there just isn't enough men to go around," he added.

In closing, the Rev. J.W. Johnson related the panel discussion to the theme of African-American History Month ("Accepting Responsibility in the Transition from the 'Age of Protests' to the 'Age of Choices'"). He said, "During the 'Age of Protest,' from 1963-73, blacks were primarily concerned with opening the doors of opportunity. Now, in the 'Age of Choices,' we are hard at work making realistic and practical decisions that will ensure our survival, enhance our struggle for equality and preserve our culture."

Student Association Elections

April 2, 3, 4

Vacancies for offices of President, Vice-President, Attorney General and Senators from all divisions.

Two science lectures offered

This month marks the 100th anniversary of the birth of Albert Einstein, an extraordinary human being. To celebrate this event we have invited a distinguished science journalist, Dietrick E. Thomsen, Senior Editor of Science News, to visit our campus on Wednesday, March 28.

Mr. Thomsen will speak twice: 11:55-1:00 p.m., "On Albert Einstein," Newport 125; 3:00-4:00 p.m., "A Conversation with D.E. Thomsen: On Einstein, On Science, On Journalism," Gosnold-145.

The 3:00 meeting with Mr. Thomsen will be very informal, and he will answer general questions from the audience about science and science journalism. It should be quite informative.

The Physics Department invites all interested faculty and students to attend these events.

NOTICE

Those students whose locker rentals are in arrears will be able to reclaim their property at the Information Desk in the Campus Center. After 10 days, these items will be donated to charity.
