Board of Visitors discusses faculty evaluations, salaries

by Patricia Earls

The CNC Board of Visitors met for the first time this semester on September 11. The standing committees met all afternoon in various parts of the Campus Center. Committees included the Executive Committee, the Committee for Academic Affairs, the Building and Grounds Committee, the Development and College Relations Committee, the Financial Affairs Committee, and the Student Affairs Committee. Ad hoc committees were the Audit Committee, the By-laws Committee, the Inauguration Committee, and the Naming Committee.

At 7:10 p.m., the committees reported on the day's discussions. The first report, from the Academic Affairs Committee, concerned the nearly completed standardized faculty evaluation sheets. These are expected to be ready to be taken under consideration at the November board meeting.

The committee also reported on the possibility of a "book exchange" between students taking the same courses. This would aid those students who cannot afford to buy all of their books. It is still in the planning stage.

The committee announced that the library hours have been expanded to accommodate more students' schedules.

The board discussed the possibility of doing a study on funding a cultural arts center to equal the Chrysler Museum/Hall Center.

The Committee for Financial Affairs intends to continue to bring President Anderson's salary up to the par of other state institutions. They also plan to obtain a residence for the President and to raise faculty salaries to compare to other state colleges. At present, the committee is researching the possibility of renovating the Mariner's Museum house for the President's use. The house is ideal for both entertaining and for living quarters.

There is a continued effort by the College to acquire more land, because we're "running out of space on these 75 acres of ours." The College does not intend to put people out of their homes in its efforts to gain more space but hopes to find other ways of expanding itself.

The Committee on Student Affairs announced several changes. Guest speakers at this committee meeting included William Winter; Phyllis Fletcher, cafeteria director; Dick Ryther, Campus Center director; Lisa Cipriano, S.A. President; Jamie Powell, S.A. Attorney General, and John McCaughey, Director of Student Life.

Dick Ryther announced improvements made in the Pub, including strict inventory control and new management techniques. The Pub currently is being stressed as the center of student life.

The cafeteria, too has been improved. Breakfast is being served, featuring items that the students have requested.

The committee also announced the need for a bookstore pricing policy. They requested that the board discuss the possibility of requiring professors to include the College's Code for Academic Work on their syllabuses.

Mr. Bob Hixon, from the Building and Grounds Committee, announced the possibility of the new science building being started in February 1981. The Campus Center construction should begin in late winter, 1981. Hixon added that there have been changes in the proposed Campus Center addition. The Pub will be enlarged to twice the size originally planned. The game room will be larger, and the cafeteria will be entirely open.

The Ad Hoc Committee on Development and College Relations announced a change in name from the "Christopher Newport College Development Foundation, Inc." to the "Christopher Newport College Educational Foundation, Inc."

The final committee report was from the Committee for the Inauguration of the President, which announced its intention to spend only $10,525 on Dr. Anderson's inauguration. The event, to be held Saturday, November 8, on the CNC grounds, will begin at 9:00 a.m. in the Campus Center. Lunch will be served at noon on the lawn in the form of a "gourmet box lunch." The actual inauguration will take place in Ratcliffe Gymnasium. Attendance will be by invitation only.

VELA curtails student loans

On Sept. 10, the College received notice from the Virginia Education Loan Authority (VELA) advising all state institutions participating in its program that it will be unable to accept additional applications for student loans after Sept. 22 for the 1980-81 academic year. This curtailment in lending resulted from the unprecedented lending volume so far, together with the failure of the Senate on September 4 to pass the Higher Education Act of 1980. VELA further advises that should it determine at a later date that it can finance additional loans, institutions will be notified.

400-meter track plans await Dalton's signature

by Darlene Willett

There have been several delays in getting the new track past the initial stages of proposal, but it is expected that the track will be well on its way in the very near future.

The request for approval of working drawings was sent to Richmond on September 3 and is now awaiting the signature of Governor John N. Dalton. No explanation has been given for the delay in obtaining the Governor's signature.

The initial delay was caused by opposition of neighboring property owners who feared that the construction of the 400-meter track would cause additional drainage problems to those existing in their areas. It is now believed, after a careful study of the area behind the gym, that the construction of the track should instead alleviate some of the present drainage problems.

The estimated cost of the proposed track is $395,185.00. It will enable the college to sponsor intercollegiate athletic events in track. The cost of the track also includes facilities and equipment for such track-related events as pole-vaulting and the broad jump. It is hoped that the track will be completed some time this winter and will be operational for 1981 spring athletic events.

Admin. building to open in December

Mr. Robert Hixon, Capital Outlay Specialist for the Department of Building and Grounds, reports that the faculty and administration will be moving into the new administration building in late December. Departments such as Financial Affairs and the Office of the Registrar are scheduled to move in early January.

Campus Close-Up

"Drop" date corrected

The Registrar's Office has advised the Captain's Log that the last day to drop/withdraw without penalty is October 31, not November 3, as reported in the Sept. 4 edition of the Log.

Women tennis players sought

If you're a full-time female student and like to play tennis, please contact the Department of Athletics at 599-7025 or come by the office in the gym, R-104. Experience is not required. The coach is willing to instruct if there is a willingness to learn!

Office hours are Monday-Friday, 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.

You can join ROTC

The ROTC points out that it's still not too late to get into the ROTC programs at the freshman, sophomore, or junior level. To find out how you qualify for Army job opportunities, contact Capt. Steve Rose at 253-4366, or ask any ROTC cadet.

OTHG seeks members

The Over-the-Hill Gang is having a membership drive on Wednesday, Sept. 24, and Thursday, Sept. 25, in the Campus Center hallway. All interested students should stop by and ask questions.

SIS meeting scheduled

The Student Information Service is scheduled to meet on Thursday at 3:30 p.m. Students interested in surveying and publishing information pertaining to the Student Association should plan to attend. If you are interested in serving on this committee but are unable to attend, contact Darlene Willett, Director of the S.I.S., at 599-7197.

Bridge Club to form

Any student or faculty member interested in forming a bridge club here at CNC, please contact John McCaughey at 599-7260 or Jim White at 7197. We have tentatively planned to have everyone interested meet in the Campus Center cafeteria on Friday, Sept. 27.

Alumnus speaks on resumes

Roman Schenkkan, a 1974 CNC graduate, will give a talk on "How to Write a Resume" at 12 noon, Wednesday, September 24, in the Campus Center Theatre. This meeting is being sponsored by the Office of Career Planning and Placement.

Mr. Schenkkan will show the audience the correct way to write a resume, and he will provide sample resumes as guidelines to follow. He will be available to answer any questions students or alumni might want to ask.

This meeting should aid all CNC seniors, as well as other students and alumni, in preparing resumes for their first jobs.

Schenkkan has been associated with Prudential Insurance Company since 1974. He began his insurance career as a salesman, and he presently is Special Agent for Prudential's Peninsula office.

BSA wants models and talent

The Black Student Association is holding auditions for their second annual fashion/talent show Saturday, Sept. 20, 2:00-5:00 p.m., and Sunday, Sept. 21, 1:00-4:00 p.m. Talent auditions will be held in the Campus Center Theatre, and model tryouts will take place in Room 233. All interested men and women, please attend.

'Currents' meets Tuesday

Currents, the fine arts magazine, will hold its organizational meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 23, at 2:15 p.m. in Room 205 of the Campus Center.

Unclassifieds to elect reps

There will be a divisional meeting for all students in the Unclassified Division of the CNC Student Association on Monday, Oct. 6, noon-1:00 p.m., in Room 233 of the Campus Center. Appointment of representatives to the Student Senate is on the agenda. Any student with a question, complaint, or grievance is encouraged to attend this meeting.

An unclassified student is one who has not declared a major or decided upon an area of academic concentration at this point in his/her college career. Anyone having questions about the meeting may contact the divisional president, Ken Gillespie, at 596-9556.

Alpha Chi to choose officers

Alpha Chi Honor Society will meet on Sept. 23 at 11:00 a.m. in the Admiralty Room. The club will hold elections for officers for the 1980-81 academic year at this time. If you would like to nominate someone or run for office yourself, please attend. Contact Dr. Gary Hammer, G-116, ext. 7063.

Sailing Club begins fall season

The Sailing Club has begun the fall season with the election of officers for the 1980-81 year and has announced the hours the sailboats will be available to club members.

Andy Gillis was re-elected Commodore, with Bruce Ogelsby as Vice Commodore. Cody Henley is this year's Treasurer, and Julie Homestead is the new Secretary for the club. Weekly meetings will be held during the fall season on Fridays at noon in Newport 125. The Sailing Club is looking forward for interested students who want to learn to sail and for students who know how to sail and who might be interested in racing.

The Sailing Shack on the grounds of the Warwick Yacht Club is open for Sailing Club members Monday through Friday from 1:15 to 5:00 p.m. Members can use any one of the 11 sailboats that are available. There are five Ghost 13's, three Skipjacks, two new Puffers, and a Mac Dinghy. Several boats can be rowed as well as sailed.

Cody Henley will be on duty at all hours when the Sailing Shack is open. He will help members rig their boats and get them in the water, and he has a motorboat at the ready in case the wind dies and a sailor can't get back in.

Members of the Sailing Club who know how to sail will be down at the Shack on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday from 1:15 to 5:00 p.m. They will give sailing lessons to club members. The Racing Team will practice on Friday afternoons. (Continued on p. 8)

Uniform Faculty Survey Committee schedules open working session

The Uniform Faculty Survey Committee invites all students to attend an open working session on Monday, Sept. 22, at 12:00 noon in N-125. Before attending, all students are asked to read the guidelines listed below.

The committee includes Lisa Cipriano, S.A. President; Jamie Powell, S.A. Attorney General; Steven Sanderlin, Tony Tseng, Jay Paul, Lora Friedman, and Bob Durel.

Guidelines for Use and Presentation of Survey Results

1. The department secretary shall record that the survey was conducted and will hold the survey forms in the sealed envelope until the instructor has turned in the grades. Once the grades are turned in to the Registrar, the secretary shall forward Part C of the survey to the instructor, Part B to the department chairman, and Part A to the director of the Computer Center.

2. The director of the Computer Center shall assure the confidentiality and security of the survey forms. The survey forms shall be read by means of a scanner and the data stored in a confidential data file.

3. Once the data are stored, the survey forms shall be forwarded to the FEC/FPC staff secretary. A member of the FEC shall verify the comments and shall provide typed copies of such comments to the instructor. Within two weeks of receiving the comments, the instructor may request further verification from the FEC. After the two weeks, copies of the comments are made available to the department and the instructor's peer group chairman for entry into the instructor's dossier.

4. The survey forms shall be stored in the FEC files until the FEC certifies that all decisions utilizing the survey results have been made. Unless otherwise specified, the survey forms are then destroyed.

5. The results of the closed-ended items of Part A stored in the confidential data file shall be summarized in a standardized format indicating only the median verbal category for each item, i.e., strongly disagree, disagree, neutral, agree, and strongly agree. The summarized data shall be included in the instructor's dossier. Within two weeks of receiving the summarized data, the instructor may request additional verification of the data through the FEC.

6. The faculty survey data shall remain stored in the confidential data file until the

Croall elected Senate President

by Laura Brown

The Student Senate holds its first meeting of the semester on Tuesday, September 16, at 12:15 in Gosnold 145.

S.A. Vice President Jim White led the election of this year's officers. Mike Croall, Darlene Willett, Tim Morgan, and Joel Quass were nominated for President. Mike Croall was elected and was asked to assume office and continue the elections.

S.A. Attorney General Jamie Powell questioned Croall's right to the position since he did not win by a clear majority. Croall was removed from the position, and a run-off between Croall and Willett was held. Croall was again elected.

Vice-Presidential nominees were Joel Quass and Tim Morgan, with Darlene Willett declining. Quass won, and Tim Morgan was elected Secretary/Treasurer by acclamation vote.

Career Planning & Placement

The Career Planning and Placement Office is available to students for many invaluable services.

Dr. Susan St. Onge, Chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages and Literature, offers these comments:

"The Modern Language Department has been continually impressed with the very positive contribution made by the Placement Office to the welfare and interests of our students. Given today's economic climate, CNC is fortunate to have a Placement Office which seeks to provide the very best of information, special programs, and placement counseling. Every student should be aware of the services offered by the Placement Office and should not hesitate to make full use of this valuable organization."

The Placement Office conducts "Career Day" programs during the year and is available at all times for student utilization.

Mr. Ted Bruccoleri of Arthur Anderson & Co., Washington, D.C., will be on campus on Wednesday, September 24, to interview seniors majoring in accounting. Interviewing will begin at 2:00 p.m.

Conditions for employment with Arthur Andersen include a willingness to work in Washington, D.C., and a 3.0 average both overall and in your major.

Any student interested in being interviewed by Mr. Bruccoleri must bring his/her resume to the Placement Office, Campus Center, Room 208, by Friday, September 19. In addition to the resume, interested students should fill out a course sheet and Arthur Andersen Personal Data Sheet. These forms may be secured in the Placement Office.

On Wednesday, September 24, Career Day will be held at Hampton Institute. Eighty-two employers will be available to discuss career opportunities within their organizations. In addition to Hampton Institute students, students from local colleges and high school and military personnel are invited to attend. Career Day will be held in the Student Union Building from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

The Placement Office has received the September issue of Black Collegian and Graduating Engineer magazines. Interested students may pick up a copy.

New Assistant to President holds many degrees

by Kim Fizer

Mr. John T. Colson began his new job as August 6 as assistant to President John Anderson. Colson explains that his job entails "helping Dr. Anderson in any capacity and taking some of the load off of him." Colson was previously employed at Enterprise Junior College.

"I try to sell myself" was his answer as to the qualifications needed for this type of job. Colson's degrees did not need selling; they spoke for themselves. In 1956, he graduated from Auburn University with a B.A. in government. He acquired a Master's in Education from Troy State in Alabama in 1966. At Georgia State, Colson studied Education Specialization.

In 1977, Colson returned to Troy State as a full-time student. He graduated summa cum laude with a degree in business administration. By March 1980, he had finished the requirements for a Master's Degree in Personnel Management from Georgia State.

A native of San Antonio, Texas, Colson has three children and one grandchild. He spent 22 years in the Army, some of them in Germany, Korea, and Vietnam as a helicopter pilot. During the last five years of his military career, Colson taught military science at Columbia University in Columbus, Georgia.

John T. Colson, Assistant to the President

Having worked in a cotton mill to finance his college education, Colson sympathizes with the working college students of today. He always has thought highly of college students, even during the late sixties and early seventies when students were much maligned. Colson feels that all college students are serious about learning. If they weren't, why would they waste their money?

Colson praises the CNC faculty. He points out that many professors hold degrees from prestigious universities. The position that Colson holds fulfills his goals.

'Inherit the Wind' kicks off CNC's fall film series

Inherit the Wind, a powerful drama that presents the events of the famous Scopes trial in Dayton, Tennessee, in 1925, will be shown on Sunday, Sept. 21, at 6:30 p.m. in the Campus Center Theatre. Admission is $1.00. After the film, a discussion in the Campus Center led by Dr. Theodora Bostick of the History Department and Dr. Jouett Powell of the Philosophy Department will deal with the positions of the two main characters, William Jennings Bryan, played by Frederick March, and Clarence Darrow, portrayed by Spencer Tracy.

John Thomas Scopes was a high school biology teacher who on April 24, 1925, told his class about the theory of evolution and said that man had evolved from "a little germ of one-cell organism." One month later, Scopes was indicted for breaking a Tennessee law which stated that "it shall be unlawful to teach any theory that denies the story of the divine creation of man as taught in the Bible."

When Scopes came to trial on July 10, a huge audience had gathered. William Jennings Bryan, three times a Presidential candidate and a self-described "zealous indefatigable champion of the Bible," was the lawyer for the State. Clarence Darrow, one of America's most famous trial lawyers, defended Scopes. Both men were fine orators, and the clash between them was personal as well as professional, since Darrow was a religious sceptic.

The battle between the two was encouraged by the huge crowd. Each side cheered when its partisan scored points. The sweltering heat and the carnival atmosphere added to the tension under which Bryan and Darrow worked and contributed to a dramatic conclusion.

The trial came to be known as the Monkey Trial, and is often discussed as a vivid demonstration of anti-intellectualism in America.

The film series is being presented by the Classic Film Club, the Honors Council, the Subcommittee of the Dean's Colloquia, and the History Department. Other films being shown during the fall semester will be A Man for All Seasons, October 5; The Life of Emile Zola, November 16; and Judgement at Nuremberg, December 7. The series is designed to fit into the syllabus of the honors course for the Styron Scholars.

Counseling Center offers Counselline

COUNSELLINE is a service provided by the Christopher Newport College Counseling Center. COUNSELLINE is a phone-in tape program and a self-help service. By calling 599-7010, an individual can request any of a number of topic tapes. They can listen to the tape and receive information on local referral agencies in total confidentiality and anonymity.

Communications and interpersonal concerns, marriage and family, and women's concerns are just a few of the general categories that are offered. Each of the nine categories offers specific topic tapes geared to create an awareness of possible reasons for specific feelings or emotional reactions. Suggestions on how to cope with problems in a productive way and information on obtaining further assistance are included on each tape.

The Counseling Center believes that each student will want to take advantage of this individualized program. COUNSELLINE is a unique service offering students a valuable and confidential source of up-to-date information on contemporary issues. The total anonymity of the call-in service assures students that they may seek advice "with no strings attached" and with complete confidentiality.

As always, the Counseling Center extends the opportunity for students to seek personal counseling by appointment in Wingfield Hall, Room 116. Call 599-7046 for an appointment. A full listing of COUNSELLINE tapes is available in the Counseling Center.

Robbin Thompson Band "wows" record CNC crowd

by Ana Kimball

A few of the words describing the Robbin Thompson Band's performance last Wednesday in the Pub were "fantastic," "terrific," "great." Lines started forming at 7:30 p.m., and by 9:30 p.m. the cafeteria was filled by an over-capacity crowd. From beginning to end, the atmosphere was explosive, dynamic--almost magical.

Born in Boston and raised in Florida, Robbin began performing at age 15 and has been performing ever since. He graduated from Virginia Commonwealth University. His desire to perform has never died.

This desire has, finally, put Robbin Thompson at, or at least near, the top. The success of Two B's Please has created quite a stir, particularly in this area. Sales have passed the 20,000 mark regionally--a mark equivalent to a gold record nationally. Virtually every cut from the album has received or is receiving heavy air play by Tidewater's top radio stations.

Sixteen years of hard work have certainly paid off. After negotiations with such record companies as Columbia, Ovation, and Electra Asylum, the band decided to sign with Ovation Records. Through Ovation, the album and the band will gain the nationwide recognition they have been seeking. The band, featuring Thompson on acoustic guitar and harmonica; Velpo Robertson, lead guitar; Erich Heiberg, Keyboards; Michael Laning, bass guitar; and Bob Ricantenelli on drums, will be traveling to Chicago, the Northeast, and Florida. They recently played back-up to "Le Roux" at the Premiere Theatre. In a recent interview in the Daily Press, Robbin Thompson commented, "We're at a crossroads in our career. The guys in this band have all been playing for about 15 years with a combined total of maybe 100 bands. If it doesn't happen for us now, well, it never will."

Listening to the successful album can in no way compare to attending a live performance. Robbin Thompson sings of truckdrivers, drunks, cowgirls, and old cheerleaders, good times and tears. The lyrics of his songs deal with the raunchy realism of life. The music is good, solid, gutsy rock. Wednesday night's performance included nearly every cut from Two B's Please as well as "Trouble," "Take Me Away," "Highway 101," and "Let's Get Just a Little Bit Out of Control." The band's rendition of "The 700 Club" (714 Club) and "Movin' On Up" brought the expected howls and cheers from the crowd. Undoubtedly, though, the greatest crowd-pleasers were "Candy Apple Red," "Sweet Virginia Breeze," "Let It All Out," and "Bright Eyes."

In the end, the success and popularity of the band helped, according to Greg Jackson, CAC Director. "They are more mature and down to earth," commented Jackson. "They're being patient because they know it's just a matter of time."

Anyone present Wednesday night knows the time is here.

Mike Croall, OTHG President, stated, "Individual effort on the part of Over-the-Hill Gang members made the event a profitable success. Inclement weather dampened attendance, but not spirits, at the cookout." Although some students fled indoors to escape the rain, many members of the college community simply found a

Captains place fourth in annual Soccer Festival

by David Bean

Last weekend's third annual CNC Alumni Soccer Festival was a good example of history's repeating itself in a funny way at the wrong time in the wrong place.

This year's Soccer Festival featured Roanoke College, Salisbury College, the University of Richmond, and CNC. The first match was Friday at 2:00 p.m., featuring Salisbury State versus U.R. The match was mostly a double case of a slow offense and a good, tough defense. The match ended in a 0-0 tie; therefore, a 10-minute overtime period was played. This, too, ended without either side scoring, so again an additional 10-minute overtime period was played. In these situations, penalty kicks are given. Each team picks five players to shoot at the opposing goalkeeper. The team with the most goals wins the match. Salisbury State won this two and one-half hour marathon, 1-0, beating U.R. 4-2 in the penalty kick competition.

The match most important to the CNC community was next, featuring CNC vs. Roanoke College. Both clubs started out testing each other for strengths and weaknesses. At one point in the first half, the Captains had several good chances to score; however, the shots landed everywhere but in the goal. Three-fourths of the way through the first half, freshman Frank Vincent's shot found the mark. His goal (an assist to Albert Abraham) came from just outside the penalty area and worked its way through a maze of players to find the net. Using this as a spark, the Captains pressed harder for another as the half ended.

Things did not appear to change much in the second half. The Captains' offense continued to play very aggressive ball. Roanoke, too, had plans to win this match and began to make things tougher for CNC as they began to take the match to the Captains.

CNC's goalkeeper Philip Milburn was in fine form, stopping several hard shots which came his way, including a booming shot from the foot of Roanoke's Paul Karch. If a team puts on enough pressure and shoots both hard enough and long enough, odds are that something will happen. Roanoke's Tom Prest took a pass from teammate Chris White and fired a blistering shot which went past Milburn's outstretched arms, tying the match at 1-1.

Then things started to happen—slowly, but fast enough to determine the outcome. In the last 20 minutes came the final humilating mistake which cost CNC the game. Milburn charged out to get a high-bouncing ball which had worked its way over the heads of the CNC defense. He hesitated, then continued his motion. By this time, the ball had bounced by Roanoke's Rob Black, who managed to put enough foot on the ball to drive it past Milburn and into the net, sealing the victory for Roanoke, 2-1.

The Captains played the next day against the University of Richmond. The new day brought with it a surprising development. As the Captains came out in the first half of the match, they seemed to be playing for the championship. They were playing very good ball, aggressive on defense, and were smart with their passes. Early on in the match, it appeared that the Captains had gotten the break they were looking for. A shot which came from a melee out in front of the U.R. net went sailing into the Spiders' net and was thought to have been a goal for CNC. However, the referee ruled that CNC's Mike Oblein was offside on the play.

This did not stop CNC's aggressive behavior as they pressed more than a few times around the Spiders' goal mouth. Moments before the half ended, the Spiders' Paul Sullivan took a long shot at the Captains' net which would have been stopped, but his shot deflected off a CNC player in front of the net and veered towards the right as Milburn was going to the left. Although this did not have an immediate effect on the Captains in the second half, its effect was felt nevertheless. CNC's offense was still shooting and getting some good hard shots. The only problem was that, as in the first match, the Captains were not getting any breaks.

The one thing that was going downhill faster than they were was the officiating. Several noticeable handballs, rough tackles, etc. were going uncalled by the officials. They did catch one. As the Spiders were pressing in the CNC end zone, the ball was chipped towards the Captains' goal. Milburn came out to the middle of the net, where another shot was taken by a Richmond player. This shot, according to the referee, was stopped by the arm of CNC's John Ward, who was in the penalty area. The referee then blew his whistle only after Ward had kicked the ball out of play. The Spiders were awarded a penalty kick on which they scored their final goal of the match.

This was the final blow. The Captains just could not find the range on the Spiders' net, and the match ended with the Captains being shut out, 2-0. Coach Cummings commented Saturday morning, "The guys played real well. It's just that we did not get the breaks. We were starting six upperclassmen and five freshmen. We did, however, play much better this time than we had played in the tournament last year."

The championship match was won by Salisbury State, 2-1 over Roanoke.

Sailing Association sets fall schedule

The South Atlantic Intercollegiate Sailing Association has announced the regatta schedule for fall. At each race, teams compete from the eight colleges in the northern district of the SAISA, of which CNC is a member.

The Racing Team of the CNC Sailing Club is looking for additional good racing sailors. Anyone who is interested in racing, please get in touch with Andy Gillis, President of the Club; Joe Quass, a member of the Racing Team, or come to the Sailing Shack at the Warwick Yacht Club Mondays through Fridays from 1:15 to 5:00 p.m. and talk to Cody Henley.

The six-regatta schedule is as follows:
Two-person boats: Sept. 20, at Davidson; Oct. 11, at Duke; Oct. 25, at U.Va.

EDITORIAL

Up to our Editorial ears . . .

Ralph Average Student sits down in the cafeteria with his morning coffee. In front of him, stacked like a paper wall, is two inches of trash. He plows through it, clearing away some space for his books and coffee. Unlike some people, Ralph feels that it's worth the effort not to have milk carton monsters leaning over his breakfast.

Two tables away, a cafeteria employee is trying to clean up a table that's a little worse than this one.

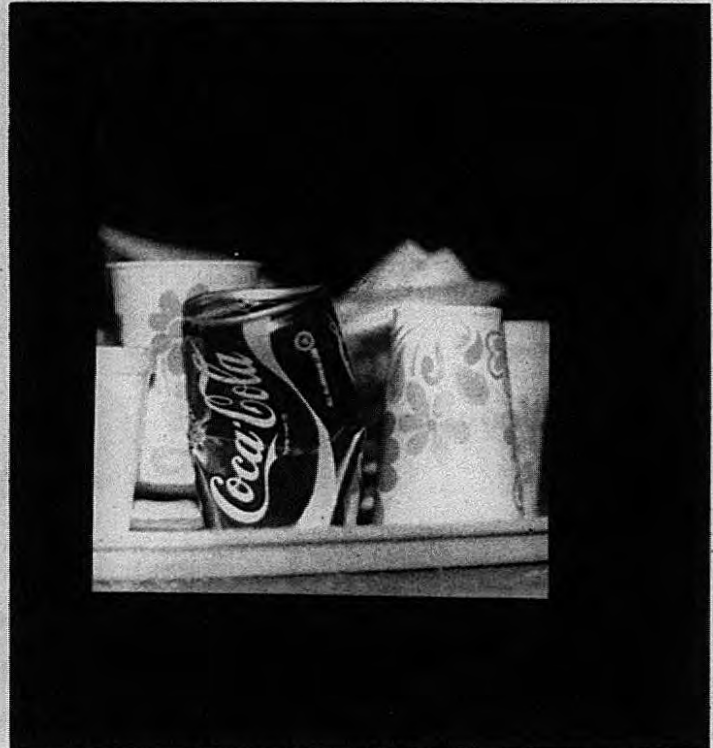

"She's been working at it since 10:00," Phyllis Fletcher says, "but it's still a mess." It's 11:30. Fletcher adds, "The soccer camp kids of about seven or eight kept this cafeteria cleaner this summer than these college kids have."

Walking across campus, Ralph passes the historic Sigma Pi/Kappa Nu benches. Nestled in the grass, looking like a disco perversion of the Easter egg, is a potato chip wrapper. Next to it, as a monument to tackiness, is a Sprite can, half full.

Ralph picks up the soda can and leaves the potato chip wrapper for his girlfriend Claudette to pick up. As the two of them enter the Campus Center, they hold hands while putting the trash in the Peli-can.

They pass the ladies' room. Claudette rushes in. She instantly leaves as she notices a Campus Center employee trying to clean up the toilet paper wrapped around the room, a reminder of the previous night's activity.

Ralph may be a figment of editorial imagination, but the situations are not. The building and grounds people may be paid for keeping the campus clean, but who pays them? We do. If they constantly have to clean up the mess of a minority, when do they have time to do important things like stocking the bathrooms or mowing the grass? How can the cafeteria employees cook lunch when they are busy cleaning up student litter?

This is the view seen by many CNC students when they sit down to eat in the cafeteria. See accompanying editorial.

Crow's Nest

A new use for Dial . . .

by David Byrn

Discussion of politics is never easy, because hardly anyone understands it, and those who do are too embarrassed to say anything. My dear old grandmother used to say, "Son, politics is a four-lettered conversation. If I had my way, the whole world would have its mouth washed out with soap."

Personally, I'm one of those people who will never really understand political ambition. To me, a man who spends half his life and millions of dollars just to be tortured, harasses, and humiliated should be a questionable candidate for a trusted public office. It's like having 12 of your peers listening to evidence and trying to determine your innocence or guilt. Who wants someone who is too stupid to even get out of jury duty deciding on your fate for the next 20 years?

Of course, there are exceptions; some men were just born to lead. Throw them in a pigsty and they come out vice-president of the hogs every time. Conversely, there were some men born to fail; they turn out to be the president. That's in-compassionate irony at its best.

I don't know if I could ever bring myself to support publicly any candidate for the election in November. If, four years from now, I decide (as well as everyone else), that I made a mistake, I won't want anyone to know that I was one of the jerks who put him there. You just couldn't lie your way out of it.

Now, the best measure of politics that I can possibly dream up would have to be candidate-symbol comparisons. Whoever thought up the party symbol for the Democrats must have known Mr. Carter was going to be President. The Republicans, believe it or not, knew who was going to be the candidate for the 1980 election. Obviously, an elephant has big feet, and just two of them aren't enough to fill Mr. Reagan's mouth. Finally, we should give Mr. Anderson a big hand; it takes a lot of guts to run independently. Unfortunately, there is no party name by which I could compare this Presidential hopeful. Maybe he could change the Bull-Moose Party to just plain old Bull; that seems appropriate. So there we have it; one of these three men will decide the course of events for the United States during the next four years, and with any luck, he won't have a brother or acting experience or lack a party.

Folks, I think Grandma was right . . .

dry spot outside the Campus Center where they could enjoy their lunches.

Beth Glasser and Larry Davis were not hindered by the rain as they strove to keep the hot dogs and hamburgers sizzling. At the first sign of precipitation, Iggy Novo, membership chairman, moved his operation into the Campus Center in order to keep OTHG hats, shirts, and blouses dry.

Audio entertainment was provided by Sound Approach of Newport Square. Business Manager Rick Reams presided over a Yamaha receiver and cassette deck and two Analog Digital System stereo speakers.

The Over-the-Hill Gang anticipates many more events this semester. Plans for the near future call for a membership drive and a business meeting. Detailed information for both will be posted.

Youthgrants offered for humanities students

by Patricia Nuckols

The Youthgrants program of the National Endowment for the Humanities is offering cash awards this fall to people in their teens and early twenties pursuing non-credit humanities projects outside the classroom. Applications should be submitted by November 15, 1980.

Grants as high as $2,500 may be made to individuals, while groups may qualify for as much as $10,000. Certain high-cost media projects, however, may be funded for up to $5,000. The program cannot provide financial assistance for degree-related work. Money is available only to young people aged 15 to 25 doing independent work in the humanities. Subject areas include history, folklore, ethnic studies, and art history.

Interested students should contact the Placement Office for guidelines or write (before October 15) to: Youthgrants Guidelines, Mail Stop 103-C, National Endowment for the Humanities, Washington, D.C. 20506.
