Coburn resigns SGA V-P seat, for "financial reasons"

By A. Ashcraft, Sr.

The cloud of suspicion surrounding the SGA was lifted today as the second ranking officer threw in the hat. As of October 6, 1976, the office of SGA Vice President was vacated. In hushed silence, during the first Senate meeting, Mike Coburn announced his decision to resign.

As some 40 students listened in awe, the newly resigned Vice President echoed his sentiments to those present. He stated, "I was aware that I'd have to resign prior to the starting of Fall classes. However, the duties of Vice President required my chairing the important orientation program which was reported to be highly successful. I chaired the Student Elections Committee in elections of class officers and Senators held just recently. Also the Speaker of the Senate, which Bob Oliver (senior) won, while Jim Cobb (Senior) was elected as Assistant Speaker and the post of Secretary was won by Ann Colligan. After these commitments were met, the constitutional duties of Vice President for this semester has been fulfilled.

Mike continued, "I resigned primarily for financial reasons. My work load and lack of study time was another consideration. He pointed out that he chairs several committees and will continue to do so, as a concerned student.

Lastly, Mike stated, "My interest will continue to be the welfare of the students and Christopher Newport College as a whole. I resigned after much forethought and with deepest sorrow. I'll always feel like a member of this body and will encourage its support by the students, faculty and community."

Sam Fairchild, Attorney General, said "I appreciated the interest and time Mike Coburn has shown and spent during his tenure as SGA Vice President. I look forward to his continued interest and support."

George Lord, SGA President, said, "I to appreciate the job Mike has done. I'm currently looking for someone who has the time and energy necessary to carry out the duties of the office in such a way that it will be to the benefit of the entire student body."

You readers may submit the names of persons you would like to have considered for this important position. Qualifications for SGA Vice President can be obtained from any of the SGA officers, or Mary Stump, Secretary to Dean W. Polis. Remember, your SGA works for you and is receptive to your problems and areas of interest.

CNC freshman presented "Good Citizenship" award by Moose Lodge

Congressman T. Downing presented Susan Jean Rankin, CNC Freshman, with a good citizenship award at the Annual Warwick Moose Lodge Youth Honor Day on Sunday October 3rd.

Attorney General Andrew Miller addressed the Royal Order of Moose, parents, families and friends of the area youths.

Sue was sponsored by Mr. A. Peirce, Warwick Lodge member, of Newport News. Lodge member George Oder completed background investigations of the recipients and was chiefly responsible for initiating the event.

Susan's accomplishments include; 250 hours of Candy Stripper service at Riverside Hospital, Ferguson High S.G.A., Girl Scout Camp Counselor and CNC Deca Club member.

When asked what she would remember most about the event Susan replied, "Perhaps the public will look favorably on today's youth after hearing about some good ones." Susan later added, "Not only have we been honored as outstanding young citizens, but we'll certainly be expected to set good examples for those younger than ourselves."

Joll Burch, a Pembroke High Sr.; Lynn Larson, a University of Virginia student; and Russel Witener, a Bethel High Jr., also received honors.

Anxiety workshop in Math to be offered by CNC Counseling Center

The CNC Counseling Center, in keeping with a trend that has been started by leading universities and colleges around the country, offered early in the fall, a Mathematics Anxiety Workshop. The Workshop was an effort to help alleviate negative mathematics attitudes, blocks, and background limitations that seem to plague incoming mathematics students. Because of the success of the program, the Counseling Center has announced the opening of another workshop beginning in October.

While a systematic assessment of workshop results remain to be done, a number of participants have reported positive results in diminishing those anxiety symptoms that sprang up whenever students crossed the threshold of a mathematics class.

The students learned to relax themselves in the face of what were formerly anxiety producing situations and thereby retained their objectivity. Thus, they are able to bring

Dean bans Fritz and Marlon

(CPS)-The banning of two popular X-rated films is causing the Boyce Campus of Allegheny County Community College in Pennsylvania to split into two camps. The dean of students has taken a rock-hard stand against the wishes of the student body who wish to view the films.

The films in question, Last Tango in Paris and Fritz the Cat, were released in 1972 with an X-rating. Many students and some faculty members feel that the dean is equating 'X' with hard-core pornography.

The dean said of her decision "In my judgement, the showing of X-rated movies on campus is not part of our function as an educational institution supported by tax dollars."

Petitions signed by more than 300 students disagree with that decision. The petition requests that the movies, picked by the student union board and paid for by student fees, be shown without any further interference by administrators.

their mathematics learning to play without the crippling effects that fear sometimes produces.

The fears that are of concern for workshop students are fears that were learned inappropriately, fears that arose in the context of some negative or inappropriate association with math. The workshop can teach you to put your body in a relaxed state. It does not teach you to substitute relaxation for a concrete knowledge of mathematics facts and ideas!

A new Math Anxiety Reduction Workshop will begin October 14 and run for five consecutive weeks on Thursday afternoons from 3 to 4:30 p.m. If you would like to sign up or just find out more about the nature of the workshop, please come to the Counseling Center, Wingfield Hall, room 116.

House Bill threatens student activities

Recently, some controversy has emerged on campuses throughout Virginia concerning House Bill No. 547, a Bill to amend the Code of Virginia relating to student activity fees at State institutions of higher learning. In essence, if the Bill were enacted, it would outlaw the collection of student activity fees by State supported colleges and universities, unless approved by 40% of the total student population; and even then the payment would be optional. This Bill, if it is enacted, would severely handicap, if not completely terminate all social, cultural, and recreational activities provided for the student body outside of the class room.

The activity fee, here at Christopher Newport, helps to support a vast number of programs and activities that are used to develop the social atmosphere at CNC and provide outside educational experiences not found in the class room. The fee is used to help support intramural sports, clubs, concerts, the literary magazine, the newspaper, our Student Government Association, and entertainment provided by the Pub; essentially a major part of the campus activities.

Few people realize that our Student Activity Fee also helps to pay for the Campus Center, tennis courts, and parking lot construction that was only recently completed. If the college were to lose this income it would be in considerable danger of losing these facilities, unless other means of income could be found.

The Bill itself has caused considerable commotion among our SGA and the administration, yet few people outside of these organizations seem to be aware of its pending consideration by the State Committee on education. It seems that the Bill was proposed by a single student who formerly attended the University of Virginia. The student disagreed with the editorial policy in the Cavalier Daily, the student Newspaper at UVA, and felt he should not have to pay for a newspaper he did not support. His view was that college education should begin and end in the classroom, and that those activities outside of class should not be paid for with the general fee.

This attitude in my opinion is narrow minded. Education is a part of living, and is by no means confined to the class room. College provides a place not only for academics, but also a resource for culture, entertainment, and recreation; resources that can rarely be found outside of school at such a minimal cost.

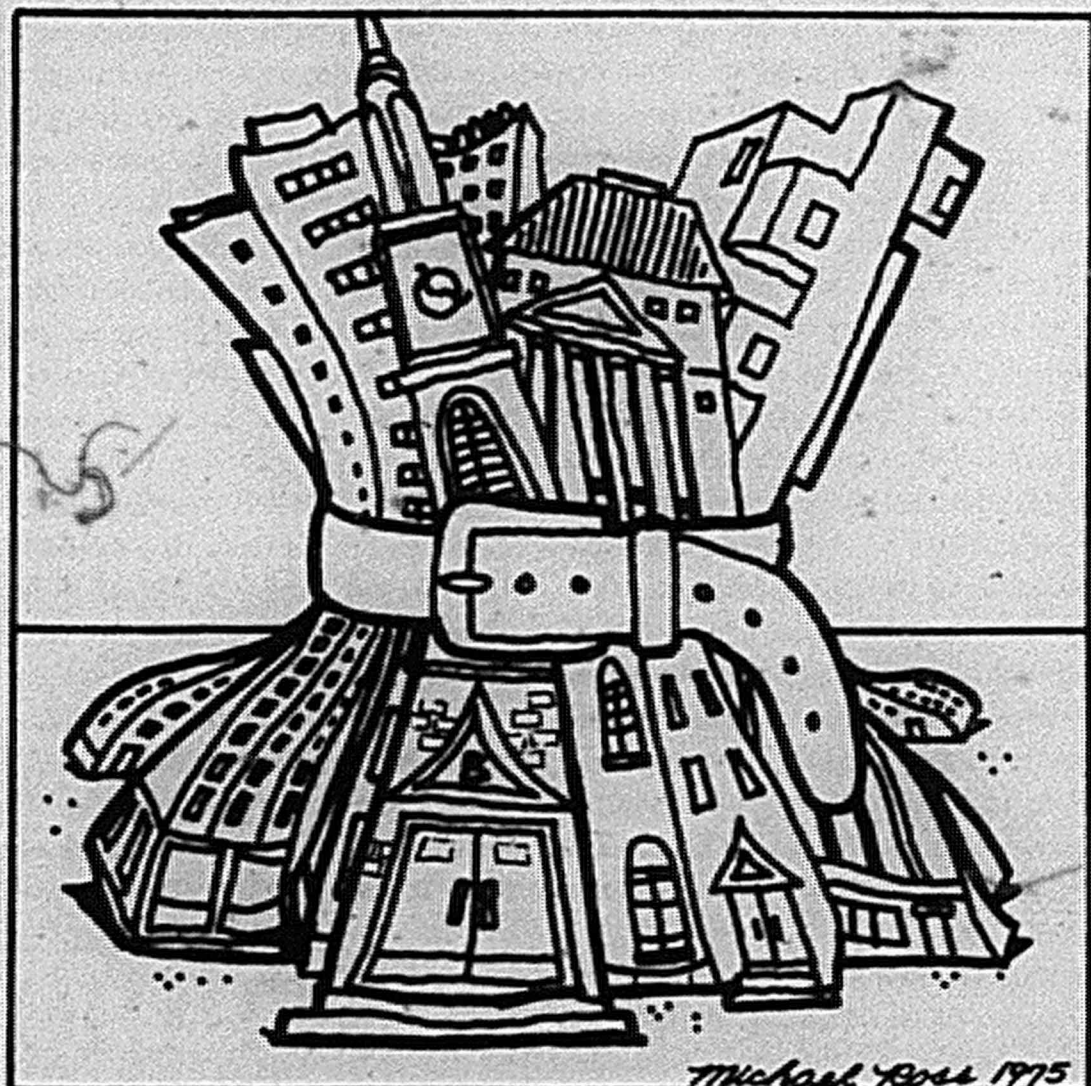

Christopher Newport within itself is a community, and it is cradled in an educational atmosphere. Few people outside of this kind of scholastic atmosphere have the opportunity to develop themselves to the extent we do, academically and socially. Why should one student, because he has strong feelings about an editorial opinion, want to destroy this atmosphere that so many envy, and that has become a tradition so vital to higher education? Especially when his objection is based on one of the most basic rights provided by the Constitution, that is freedom of the press.

The Bill in any form would be a handicap to the State institutions throughout Virginia, but in its present form it is devastating. The 40% vote needed to institute even an optional activity fee is completely unrealistic. Our recent SGA elections drew a 16% voter response, and that was considered outstanding. If we can only generate 16% interest in SGA elections, how can we expect to generate 40% interest in this Bill, and have 100% of the students voting support the activity fee? If the fee was agreed upon by 40% of the student body, how many of those students, when it came time to pay tuition, would dish out extra money if they knew it wasn't required?

I doubt there are many students who don't utilize some facility paid for with this fee or participate in some programs sponsored by it. If you don't like the way it's being spent, it's your money and you can do something about it. If the costs currently paid with this fee were taken over by other sources, that control would be out of your hands. It is our education that a few people are trying to take away, and we have to do something about it.

This Thursday in Williamsburg, a public Hearing will be held concerning the presentation of this Bill. Two more hearings will be held in Blacksburg and Charlottesville. These Hearings are open to the Public. The Sub Committee preparing a referral of the Bill is headed by Delegate Wyatt B. Durrette and includes John Buckley, State Chairman of the Young Americans for Freedom, the organization that has tried to get this Bill passed into other states. If you are interested in getting involved, or attending the Hearing, contact SGA president George Lord and find out what you can do. Your support is needed!

C.A.C. begins second year of operation

The Campus Activities Committee handles a sizable chunk of Student Activities funds each semester. Now entering its second year of operation, the C.A.C. is responsible for most of the co-curricular programs held on the campus on a regular basis. Pub entertainment, weekend movies, cookouts, Springfest, craft exhibits, and much more in the line of social and recreational activities fall under the auspices of the C.A.C. The model for the structure of the Committee is a composite of similar bodies found on other campuses around the country, and its membership is restricted to students only.

Four "subcommittees" comprise the total organization; they are: Programming, which plans and executes the activities; Publicity, which handles all areas of advertising; Budget, which acts as the treasury and accounting body; and Building and Facilities, which sees to the provision of equipment and furnishings for all activities. The student coordinators, who both head these subcommittees and sit on the C.A.C. Supervisory Committee, are appointed each year by the SGA President for the period of one academic year. These four are paid a salary of $500.00 for the year, a token amount for the number of hours devoted to the process of creating successful activities. In addition, the Campus Center Assistant Director, Jim Rollings, acts as the Program Director for the C.A.C., providing advice and help whenever necessary.

The students who work on the C.A.C. are people who really like to do what they do; furthermore, they want a voice in the decision-making process concerning the nature and quality of events scheduled here at CNC. Their goal is to give each and every student the opportunity to reap a return on student fees while maintaining a level of programming that is consistent with the expectations of a sophisticated urban student body. While no absolute guarantee for success is ever offered, the ability to learn from past experiences, and to build on existing programs, offers the possibility of continuous improvement for the Campus Activities Committee.

Students are encouraged to join in the programming process by attending meetings of any of the four Subcommittees of the C.A.C., or talk to John Schindel, Program Coordinator; Bob Lucas, Publicity Coordinator; Faith Ann Gibson, Budget Coordinator; or Mickey Mesic, Building and Facilities Coordinator. You may also leave your name at the Campus Center information desk. Your ideas, your criticisms, and your advice, are all needed and welcome.

Future articles in the Captain's Log will deal with the structure and duties of the four C.A.C. Subcommittees, as well as other important aspects relating to the operation of the Campus Activities Committee.

Guaranteed student loan program in "HEW-ge" trouble

By Helaine Lasky

Suppose they gave a class and nobody came? Well, that's exactly the grim situation at Beaver County Community College, a school of 2800 students outside of Pittsburgh.

The faculty has been tied up in contract negotiations with the administration since September 2 and students have had no classes this semester. The college officially closed down on September 23 when the latest contract package was turned down by 85 percent of the faculty. The administration is calling it a strike, the faculty is calling it a lockout and some students are calling nearby colleges with transferring in mind.

Nearly one fifth of the student population at Beaver is made up of veterans and they are especially distressed. The veterans have given up jobs to go to school and are not getting any education in return. "Our futures are going down the drain" said Ed Cistolo, a student and veteran at Beaver.

Support for the faculty is measured. While Dr. Alviani, president of the Society of Faculty at Beaver asserted that students were pro faculty, one student offered another picture.

"They're out for the money" he said. Several students contacted Governor Milton Schaap of Pennsylvania but received no indication that he would get involved.

Teaching load, overtime and summer pay are the three major issues in the dispute. Speaking for the Faculty, Dr. Alviani emphasized that the faculty is willing to work without a contract but that the administration will not allow it. The administration further opposed binding arbitration, according to a source at the university.

Students at Beaver have few legal options to take while their school remains closed. the strongest possible action is a court injunction which would force teachers back into the classrooms.

Court injunctions have been successful in the past. In fact, successful anti-strike action was taken in Pennsylvania by students in 1973 when they filed suit against the Community Colleges of Philadelphia and Allegheny County. Administrative and union leaders attributed settlement in that case to student pressure.

Earlier in 1971, 15 students representing six of seven campuses of the City College of Chicago filed suit in Cook County seeking to end a five week old faculty strike. The judge ordered public negotiations and the union voted to return to classes while negotiations proceeded.

Student involvement in a collective bargaining situation is a recent development, and the situation at Beaver County Community College is a perfect example of students being rendered voiceless in decisions which affect their futures and their pocketbooks. Because students have been delegated little bargaining power in the affairs of their universities they are often pawns in the annual faculty-administrative joust.

A study by a national collective bargaining group indicated that out of 145 academic contracts which they studied, only 28 percent referred to student rights. Even then, the contracts only dealt with student evaluation of faculty, student senates and other student governance.

Actual student input was found in only 15 of the contracts. Moreover, only six four-year and two two-year college contracts established committees which gave students any voting rights.

And when it finally came down to the actual faculty-administrative negotiations, no students were present at the bargaining table during any of the 145 contract talks.

The salary increases which are negotiated between faculty and administrations often translate into tuition hikes for students. In Wisconsin tuition is fixed by law as a percentage of the cost of education. As faculties get higher salaries and benefits, the cost of education rises. Presto! So does tuition.

Few colleges have made any provisions for tuition rebates for time lost due to faculty strikes. At Beaver, a student claimed that the administration has agreed to refund their $250 fee for the semester. But there is nothing to prevent a student elsewhere from losing an entire semester's tuition, room and board in the wake of a faculty-administrative dispute.

The college textbook business - Bread between the lines

By Helaine Lasky

(CPS) - When students begin studying for their first economics exam, chances are they will overlook one very rich lesson in basic supply and demand theory. That textbook, for which the student has probably supplied between $13 and $15, is happily and steadily filling the publisher's demand.

The textbook industry is a financial oasis in the publishing business as new markets open up in adult education, women's studies and texts which one leading publisher says are down-shifted for the increasing number of junior colleges, community colleges and night school courses. There is also a "return to basics in education philosophy in 1976," reports Jim Bradford at Scott, Foresman and Co. publishers.

This trend marks a change from the past five years. "In 1971, we were still in Vietnam. Today students are more interested in what this course will do for them in terms of coping with the world. There is a focus on the consumer side of economics," Bradford stated.

Textbooks are being geared more towards practical education. Today a student can open a textbook and learn how to borrow money for a new car, finance a house or even balance a checkbook, instead of confronting one hundred years of historical data. In fact, the all-time best-seller on the college textbook charts is a volume called Accounting Principles by C. Rollin Niswonger and Philip C. Fess which has been on the list for 2,444 weeks and is in its eleventh edition. And for anyone who thought that textbooks existed only for that rare student who is adept at memorizing dates and figures, Prentice-Hall publishers put out a text called Life Insurance that has been selling steadily since 1912. The new edition is priced at $15.95 and is expected to sell 25,000 copies in 1976.

But the words new "edition" are enough to bring tears to the eyes of a student taking introductory courses like economics or political science. These courses often require texts which are revised regularly and that means that a student cannot buy the book used and possibly save as much as fifty percent.

For the publisher, though, the used book business is a pain in the profits. In fact, one of the main reasons for revisions, according to a leading college textbook publisher, is to cut out the used book market. Apparently there is no money for publishers in used books.

Barnes and Noble, which operates used book franchises, buys books back at 40 percent of the original cost and resells them at 60 percent. The author of the book being resold receives no royalties as songwriters do.

The publisher of the college textbook must also deal with an interesting form of rip-off, that of the free sample. Periodically, publishers will distribute thousands of complimentary books to professors for possible sales or reviews. However, these books are often sold to the used book dealer. It costs a publisher between $3 and $5 to give away a $12 text, for example, and often that text ends up on the eye-catching table marked 60c - 70c.

Scott, Foresman and Co. recently gave away nearly 10,000 copies of a new biology text but it turned out to be a fruitless endeavor. A source at the publishing company reported that these complimentary editions would probably be sold by the professors for their own profit and cited one instance in which sample books were sold to finance parties.

Nevertheless, publishing companies are still priming the textbook market by giving an average advance on a college textbook of $5000 and royalty payments are being doled out at a rate of 15 percent.

There is one encouraging movement by publishers to make textbooks more responsive to classroom audiences. They are arranging a collaboration between the professionally recognized author and the professor at the small community college who is more familiar with his or her classroom audience than the professional, but whose writing ability often keeps that teacher out of the textbook field.

While it is not certain who is getting the largest slice of the textbook dollar, there seems to be no substantial decline in the amount of college book publishing...perish the thought.

Hash leads Captains to Division III State Tennis Championship

Mike Hash, sophomore at CNC, almost singlehandedly led Christopher Newport College to victory in the first annual Division III State Tennis Championship last week. Hash collected four of the seven team points garnered by the Captains, and won the individual singles over Morris Turner of Hampden-Sydney 4-6 6-0 6-2.

The No. 1 CNC doubles team of Randy Bryant and John Ireland lost a heartbreaking match in the doubles finals to Hal Brubaker and John Lawyer of Eastern Mennonite, 7-5, 4-6, 7-5.

Christopher Newport won the Championship with seven team points against runner up Hampden-Sydney with five points. Randolph-Macon and Eastern Mennonite tied for third with four points and Virginia Wesleyan finished fifth with three.

The Victory was the finest hour for a young CNC team and gave host coach Jack Armistead of the Captains reason for optimism for this year's team. After the finals Armistead stated that, "the Captains look to be a strong contender this year for Dixie Conference Honors and have a good chance to enjoy their fourth winning season in a row." The team finished the 1975-76 year with 12 wins against 1 loss.

Thousands of college students join non-profit hostel for summer fun

Thousands of college students across the nation joined the non-profit American Youth Hostel Association this past summer and took advantage of inexpensive, overnight lodging facilities in various parts of the world.

The International Youth Hostel Federation, of which AYH is a member, is comprised of 50 countries throughout the world that collectively operate over 4,500 hostels (simple, overnight establishments that offer beds, usually bunks in dormitories, showers and kitchen facilities) for as little as $1.50 to $3.50 a night. Travelers are expected to "hostel" -- hike, bicycle, canoe, ski, etc., while visiting a hostel.

Hostelers do such "square" things as sitting around a blazing fireplace in the hostel common-room, while guzzling cider, toasting marshmallows and exchanging dialogue with other hostelers from various parts of the globe.

If you are the type of person who enjoys the reality of nature -- the sound leaves make when you kick through them in the woods, making a "snow angel" even though you are grown up, or roasting hot dogs around a campfire with a group of fellow hikers or cross-country skiers -- then you're a candidate for membership in AYH!

AYH 1977 Membership begins on October 1st and runs until December 31st of next year...all for $11 (if you're 18 or above) or $5 (for those 17 and under).

It's true that a lot of AYH members use their membership only in the summer, in order to get inexpensive lodging while vacationing. But those in the know, take part in the many activities offered throughout the fall and winter by one of the 30 AYH Area Councils in the United States. Each of the councils offers group activities in caving, canoeing, hiking, bicycling, rafting, sailing, etc....so there is always something to do.

If you are interested in any type of outdoor recreation, from plant study to nature photography, contact Potomac Area Council, 1520 16th St., NW Washington, D.C. 20036, (202) 462-5780..to see if they currently have an activity you like. They can also give you information about hosteling next summer, using any of the almost 200 hostels in the U.S. or one of the thousands overseas.

If there isn't presently an AYH council near your school, write to American Youth Hostels, National Campus, Delaplane, Virginia 22025, for information about starting a hostel club.

AYH is non-profit, non-sectarian, non-political -- but it's not "non-fun!"

Senator Proxmire gets fleeced

(CPS) - Kathy Anderson, a Wisconsin student leader, offered to drive Senator Proxmire on a campaign trip following a request for volunteers from his staff. Ms. Anderson was hastily jilted and when she wanted to know why, she was told by a senatorial aide, "Well, you know -- it would look funny."

Ms. Anderson commented in the National On Campus Report: "He's just perpetuating the myth that a man and a woman couldn't be together for purposes or business or politics."

The Wisconsin fringe benefit will just never be written, thanks to Senator Proxmire.

ODU defeats Captains, 0-3 to break winning streak

The CNC Soccer Team continued their winning streak last weekend by beating two North Carolina teams in away games against St. Andrews College of Laurinburg and Greensboro College. In both games Richard Clemence came through to carry the Captains to victory.

The first game on October 2nd was a close fought battle between CNC and St. Andrews, the Captains winning 2-1. Clemence scored both goals with assists from Roland Reeves and George Galle.

The following day the team moved up to Greensboro where they faced the Hornets of Greensboro College. The Captains took a quick lead as left-wing George Galle assisted center-forward Clemence for two goals. Midway into the second half Greensboro tied up the score and with minutes remaining Richard Clemence scored his goal of the day, unassisted, earning himself a hat trick.

The Captains returned home and the injury stricken team faced O.D.U. with three starters out of the game. However, even with the handicap, the team played a good tight game. The score was 1-0 at half time, with a final score of 3-0 in favor of O.D.U.

The next home game played by the Captains will be on Tuesday, October 12th against Liberty Baptist, and will take place behind the Ratcliff Gym. Come on out, and show your support.

Late Endeavor

(CPS-ZNS) - The Procrastinators Club of America celebrated its "Be Late For Something Day" by putting the whole thing off until next year.

Procrastinator's President Lew Waas explained that he had intended to mark the day by "doing nothing but I didn't get around to it."

Concert Music Club to sponsor "Child Prodigy" on violin

The second of this season's monthly concerts presented by the Department of Fine and Performing Arts and sponsored by the CNC Concert Music Club will be held on Friday evening, October 15, at 8:15 p.m. in the Campus Center Theater. Perhaps the most unusual concert of the season, it will feature a young violinist, David Kim. This 13 year old prodigy, who began studying the violin at age 3, is presently studying at the prestigious Julliard School of Music in New York, commuting there from his home in Columbia, South Carolina, where his parents are members of the faculty at the University of South Carolina.

David's television, concert, and recital appearances have been many. Among these was a television appearance with famed violinist Itzhak Perlman on a program entitled "Child Prodigy." He has performed concerts with the Columbia Philharmonic Orchestra, the Greenville Symphony Orchestra, the Kingsport Symphony Orchestra, and the Florence Symphony Orchestra. He is the youngest recitalist to have appeared on the Columbia Museum's Concert Series.

David will be accompanied by his mother, Bong Hi Kim, a native of Korea, who received her doctorate in performance from the Eastman School of Music. Dr. Kim will perform several solo piano compositions on the first half of the program in addition to accompanying her son on the second.

Piano selections will include works by Granados, Hummel, and Ravel. Violin selections will include works by Paganini, Sarasati, and Wieniawski.

Season and individual tickets will be sold at the door. CNC students are admitted free.

Opera star to perform in Theatre

Ashley Putnam, who made her operatic debut with the Virginia Opera Association's production of Lucia last year and has since won the 1976 Metropolitan Opera auditions, will present an informal noon recital in the CNC Campus Center Theatre on Friday, October 15. Her appearance, which was arranged by the Department of Fine and Performing Arts, is made possible through the courtesy of the Virginia Opera Association.

She will appear in their upcoming production of Verdi's "Rigoletto" singing the role of Gilda.

This will be Ms. Putnam's second appearance at CNC. Last year's highly successful program was extremely well received by the large and enthusiastic audience in attendance.

The recital will be free and open to faculty, staff, and students, as well as interested persons from the community.
