

Expansion Pace Continues, But Date Undecided

The future date for Christopher Newport College to become a four-year institution has not been decided by the Board of Visitors of the College of William and Mary. The college could begin its expansion to a three-year program this fall or wait for the original date, 1968. However, the approved plans to build a Physical Education Building and a Library-Administration Building are now underway.

The plans for the gym have been passed by the State Arts Commission and were expected to be approved by the State Engineers during the week of April 18. They will then be submitted for bidding to construction companies. The Library-Administration Building is expected to begin taking shape this coming September.

The more immediate plans of the college include the regular Summer Session, which begins June 13 and July 13. Registration for the first session is to take place Friday, June 10, and registration for the post session is scheduled for Tuesday, July 12. Classes will end on Friday, August 12. Mr. William W. Kitchin, Coordinator of the Evening College, said that they are already receiving early applications.

Next year's students can expect to see some expansion changes in courses. A new math course will be added, the Freshman Biology Department will be expanded, Spanish 208 will be offered, and there is a possibility the English Department will expand.

For the future there will be many more new buildings.

Commencement Plan To Feature Downing

Commencement at Christopher Newport College will be held on June 3, at 4 p.m., at the college. Rep. Thomas N. Downing is scheduled to be the guest speaker. Eighteen students have applied for the Associate of Arts Degree. The Registrar will process the applicants and determine the number of eligible students from those that applied.

To be eligible for an Associate in Arts Degree a student must have a minimum of sixty hours with a quality point average of 1.00. Thirty-four of the sixty hours must include six hours of Freshman English, six hours of Sophomore English or Humanities, ten hours of science, six hours of social studies, and six hours of math or Philosophy. The student must have completed these requirements in six semesters, with a minimum of thirty semester credits received at CNC.

Jay And The Americans In Campus Concert Sunday

Jay and The Americans will be on campus, in concert, on Sunday, May 1, under the sponsorship of Christopher Newport College's Circle K Club. Tickets for the concert are now on sale, at $2.00 for general admission and $2.50 for reserved seats, at Wornom's Drug Store, the Young Men's Shops, and the Varsity Shop.

The concert will be held outdoors, behind Christopher Newport Hall, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

College concerts are nothing new to Jay and The Americans, since they first merged into a singing group back in 1961, they have visited over fifty colleges and universities throughout the nation.

Their act, which they polished with singing, dancing, and acting lessons, is no one-dimensional affair. In addition to their five greatest pop-hit records—"She Cried, Only in America," "Come a Little Bit Closer," "Let's Lock the Door" and "Cara Mia"—the group's repertoire is replete with show tunes, standards, and good humor.

The quintet recently finished a stint in the legitimate theatre, acting in the musical comedy "Bye Bye Birdie." Presently, they are negotiating for their first starring role in a full-length feature film.

By combining a beautiful big voiced vocal performance by Jay, some harmonies by the Americans, and a vibrant rock beat, Jay and The Americans have come up with one of the most unique and entertaining sounds in the musical world.

Buriak, Sands Seeking Election To Office Of SGA President

By Susanne Chepui
Staff, The Captain's Log

Elections for the officers of the Student Government Association will be held Friday, April 29, in the Student Lounge. At press time, only five students had filed their petitions for office. They were: Mr. Richard R. Buriak and Mr. Kenny Sands, who are candidates for President of the SGA; Mr. Kit O'Mara, who is a candidate for Vice President; Miss Linda Spradlin, who is a candidate for Secretary; and Miss Jean Colonna and Mr. Alen Sorrell, who are candidates for Treasurer.

Both Mr. Buriak and Mr. Sands have expressed a strong desire to lead the Student Body next year and both men have issued statements in the form of campaign platforms. Mr. Buriak endorses "the growth and development of Christopher Newport College into a four-year status."

He also endorses "regular meetings with the faculty in order to present directly the problems of student life; the formation of a student-faculty task force group to study the areas of friction; a program of active finance reporting to all students; and the recreation of the S.G.A. Constitution if it does not serve the needs of the College."

Further, he advocates "the creation of Student House of Delegates and Senate to allow more students to take part in the governmental process; the prompt collection of all outstanding dues to the S.G.A. and more efficient means of broadening the S.G.A. money base."

He would continue "the firm support that the S.G.A. must give the other organizations on campus," which includes "the registering of them under the old Constitution (which was never undertaken!)." Also, he would "endorse regular hours for all S.G.A. officials and the posting of these same hours."

For the students, he endorses "the S.G.A. project of providing a used book sale in order to provide newer students with cheaper books and older students with needed funds." As he sees it, "Each student would place unneeded books on sale and the S.G.A. would serve as a clearing house for them."

Finally, Mr. Buriak endorses "the adoption of the naming of one new buildings built during our term of office for Dean Cunningham."

His opponent, Mr. Sands, has also spoken for the record. The political party that has been organized around him, STAG (Students Take Action in Government), issued a party platform which stated:

"It is generally agreed that the school should provide each student with an official student identification card. For most people will readily admit that there have been times when one had to prove he was a CNC student. A constitutional convention must be called to delete and revise some of the outmoded regulations now existing in the constitution.

Linkous, SGA Secure Change In Dress Rules

Thanks to the initiatory action of SGA President Steve Linkous, Mr. James C. Windsor, Dean of Students, has announced a change in the Student Dress Regulations of Christopher Newport College. The following policy will be effective as of Sunday, May 1, 1966:

"October 1 through April 30—Shorts, pedal pushers, slacks, gym suits, or other such clothing are not to be worn on college property, except when appropriate for participation in an intramural or intercollegiate sport or social function.

May 1 through September 30—Men and women students may wear bermuda length shorts with the understanding that high standards of personal appearance will be maintained."

In addition to the above statement, which was issued in the form of a memorandum on Thursday, April 14, Dean Windsor stated that "greater freedom assumes that the students will be responsible in terms of good taste."

More specifically, he sought to make it clear that "good taste" meant "shoes at all times" for everyone and no "slacks" or "shorts" for the women on campus. Neatness and cleanliness, in other words, will be expected at all times.

Dean Windsor made the change, he said, after receiving a letter from SGA President Steve Linkous, acting on behalf of the Student Body, which requested a decision to liberalize the College's stringent dress regulations.

KENNY SANDS

"Also, an inter-club council to smooth relations between various student organizations in the college is needed. And so is a definite inquiry into the exorbitant prices of textbooks. Why are the prices so high? Must the students pay them?"

"Consider a planned fall and spring weekend in which well known groups would be invited to the campus for student entertainment. Kenney recognizes, as all students must, the lack of things to do in town on the weekends. An activated social committee is needed in the student government."

At the same time, the party platform points out that Mr. Sands' "bid to office offers one important criteria that no other candidate possesses, AGE." STAG's candidate "is somewhat older than the average student," and the party feels that "this fact alone gives him the advantage of experience and developed insight that maturity and age bring."

The petition deadline for filing for office was Friday, April 22. Election results are to be announced late Friday afternoon. Along with the election of officers for the Student Government Association, the Sophomore class officers will be elected.

Where We Stand

We have noted, somewhat apprehensively, the approaching elections; for echoing in our ears is the warning that "the warmest places in Hell are reserved for those who refuse to take sides." The present election campaign has produced two distinct political camps—that of Mr. Buriak and that of Mr. Sands—two distinct sides.

Both have taken strong stands. Mr. Buriak and Mr. Sands appear to be ready to act firmly and forcefully if they are elected, one or the other, to the office of President of the Student Government Association. Both men voice a desire to change things, to shake up the campus, to get people moving, acting, participating.

So where do we stand? Well, we are sitting this election out, taking our chances with the fires of Hell. Neither candidate (kind of reminds you of Lyndon versus Barry, doesn't it) has set the campus on its ear, so to speak. Both have, however, promised that they will, if elected. (That, of course, remains to be seen.)

No, if we could, in any way, influence the election's outcome (and we have been assured that we could not), then we would take a stand and support that candidate who did not take himself or his promises too terribly seriously. After all, someone is going to be disappointed.

Mercenary Women

With all due respects to the psychology department of the College, we would like to offer a few comments on some of the findings turned up by the survey it (the department) recently undertook. We feel, though we do not know, that something is amiss, that the whole story has not been told.

The story in this issue of the paper by Miss Ellen Babb exposed some very mercenary attitudes among the young women students of our fair College. For instance, consider the women's attitude toward the guillotine that hangs over all the young men on campus, toward the draft. The freshmen and sophomore women on campus disagreed sharply on whether or not "all men" should be subject to "a universal service obligation." The freshmen women, as noted in the story, said "no." The sophomore women "yes." Why the difference—the great difference—in opinion?

We found some clues in the way the women answered some of the other questions on the questionnaire, those dealing with morals and expansion. The women students were again divided in their opinions. Most of the freshmen women felt that morals were declining; most of the sophomore women felt that they were not. Most of the freshmen women stated that they would not consider going to Christopher Newport for four years if the college became a four-year institution; most of the sophomore women said that they would. The sophomore women want to stay and send the men away for a "universal service obligation," it appears; and the freshmen women want to go somewhere else and keep as many men as possible here. Why?

The answer is, our consulting psychologist reports, that the freshmen women are suppressing their hostility towards the men on campus and the sophomore women on campus are not. The freshmen women answered "no" to the question dealing with the draft, but what they really meant was "yes." The freshmen women are obviously not as sophisticated as the sophomore women. Being young, the freshmen women feel threatened. Seeing nothing but "moral decline" all about them, they sought to protect themselves from the depravity of the men on campus by saying they were against "a universal service obligation" for those same men. Clever?

Not really. Just naive. The sophomore women know better. They do not feel threatened at all; thus they could freely advocate "a universal draft obligation" for all the men on campus. You see, the sophomore women have discovered that the men on campus are not nearly so depraved as the freshmen women pretend to be afraid that they are. Consequently, they (the sophomore women) want to see the present group of men on campus off campus, drafted, in hopes that a truly depraved group of men will decide to go to College. That, we say, is mercenary.

Not of Advocacy

The recent embarrassing disclosure that one of the nation's more reputable institutions of higher learning had been party to an operation by the CIA must be providing many other schools with more than a few anxious moments. For it is likely that other schools have been, and are being, used in the same manner. They are getting CIA funds to buy prestige (i.e., prestige that results from having the finances to undertake major research and building programs). But at the same time, they are compromising their right to be called a University.

A University is not a University when it is operating as the arm of something else, such as government. It is then a branch bank. A University owes its allegiance to nothing, to no one. It is an oasis, where students and professors should be free to attack, expose, examine, and expound anything in the pursuit of truth, refreshing truth.

No University worthy of the name, no institution of higher learning of any kind, should allow a situation to exist wherein its citizens—students and professors—might not feel free to discuss the Communist Manifesto, to attack organized religion, to attack the immorality of the Capitalists, to attack the Klu Klux Klan, or (since we are feeling threatened) to not discuss the Communist Manifesto, to not attack organized religion, to not attack the immorality of the Capitalists, to not attack the Klu Klux Klan, etc. The point is, University policy should not be one of advocacy but one of examination, reappraisal, and criticism.

Moving Away

The recent policy change concerning student dress on campus is a step in the right direction. But only a step. We are still looking to the day when no one (perhaps it will be the Second Coming) will feel compelled to tell anyone, least of all a college student, what, when, where, and how he should dress (or not dress, for that matter).

In a nation that preaches freedom for the individual (however hypocritically), rules concerning one's personal appearance are starkly out of place, strikingly unnecessary, and serve only to reflect a pettiness bordering on prejudice. Fortunately, we on campus are moving away from pettiness of personal prejudice forcefully propagated, thanks to Dean Windsor, the SGA, and the co-operation of the faculty.

LETTERS to the editor:

Dear Editor:

Following on the heels of my last letter to The Captain's Log, I hereby announce to the students that I will be on the ballot for the office of SGA President. The problem which faces Christopher Newport will not be solved by another half-hearted attempt.

In addition, a close and very qualified friend has consented to join my drive to this goal. His name is Alan Sorrell. I feel that he will do credit to his office if he is elected. . . .

Yours truly,
Richard Robert Buriak

Dear Editor:

The office of Treasurer will be an office which I would gladly accept. Under the leadership of my other team member I hope to provide fair and accurate accounting of the SGA's revenues. This College must come alive to the problems which face it and the students can take part in electing this team.

Sincerely,
Alan Sorrell

At The Corner

Christopher Newport is in process of turning its first major corner. The College is preparing to conclude its fifth year of operation. Just six short years ago when the General Assembly authorized the establishment of a two-year college at Newport News, the College as we know it today was just a dream in the minds of a few men. It had no name, it owned no property, it did not even own a single book.

Such names as Delegates McMurran and Hutchens, Admiral Alvin Duke Chandler, King Meehan, Dr. Robert O. Nelson, J. C. Biggins, former Mayor O. J. Brittingham, Jr., J. B. Woodward, Jr. and a host of others will always be a part of the founding of this institution. Each deserves our unreserved thanks.

The City of Newport News was eager to invest its substance and time in the new venture. Enthusiastically it furnished the new college with a seventy-five acre campus and installed roads, parking lot and lighting. The City also provided in Christopher Newport with its first home, the Daniel Building in downtown Newport News. For all of this, the City deserves a great vote of sincere thanks as we look back over "the first five years."

The Commonwealth responded quickly, and in its 1962 session the General Assembly appropriated funds for the construction of Christopher Newport Hall. Two years later in the 1964 session the legislative body appropriated funds for the construction of Gosnold Hall, and in the 1966 session recently completed the General Assembly gave additional support to the College by appropriating funds for the construction of a library and a physical education building, and additional funds were made available for the preparation of plans for another classroom building. This type of outstanding support by the Commonwealth deserves recognition and sincere thanks. We have every hope that it will continue in the years to come.

All of this material growth of bricks and mortar could never have breathed life into a collegiate institution without the strong arm and the umbrella of accreditation furnished by the venerable College of William and Mary in Virginia. We shall always be grateful for this support and the guidance which have brought Christopher Newport to the point of being able to spread its wings and fly with stability and purpose.

Certainly in the line of accolades the first recognition should be accorded the dedicated, competent and exacting members of the Christopher Newport faculty—these men and women who are the very heart of this institution—these are the persons who have demonstrated outstanding teaching and unflagging interest in their students.

Now we are arriving at the conclusion of the first five years. On July 1, 1966 Christopher Newport College shall cease being listed by law as a two-year college. The corner must be turned. The next segment of five years must produce unparalleled academic growth. The General Assembly's legislation is permissive, and its presents to the College the opportunity to move efficiently and with order into third and fourth year work and the granting of four-year baccalaureate degrees. It is hoped at the moment that early agreement can be reached with the Board of Visitors in setting forth the academic master plan for the next five years.

H. Westcott Cunningham
Director

On The Heels; No Apathy

flective side concerning our ruses de la politique, "The Green Brays" by Sgt. Hairy Prattler.

And when my brain is suffused with these masterpieces of native culture, and looking around and seeing my fellow students stamping their feet, gnashing their teeth luxuriously, and clapping their hands in frantic ecstasy as they do, I feel nothing but unity. For everyone knows (but if anyone doesn't know, I refer them to the extensive resources of our library) that music is one of the first things to bring about a cultural union in man, and I am consequently clapping my hands along with my brothers and sisters of the wild, chanting along with them: Cool! Rave! Fab!

So let there be no complaint of unity among the students of CNC, for I tell you, mon cher editeur, that whenever the wax begins to spin from the Treasure-Box-of-Sound, all are filled with the unity of the pulsating wilds—MAN-TRIBE REGAINED!!

Faithfully,

Recent Survey By Psychology Class Discloses Honor System Is Resting On Shaky Ground

By Ellen Babb
Staff, The Captain's Log

Getting some first-hand experience conducting surveys and compiling statistics, the Psychology classes of Professor Mulliken and Dean Windsor have detected some conspicuous cracks in the College's Honor System, revealing that it is resting on shaky grounds. In addition, they discovered some interesting variations of opinion between men and women students on the Campus concerning morals and expansion proposals.

The psych classes limited their survey to 121 members of the College's Campus—79 women and 42 men (the large number of women being due to the fact that an entire class of student nurses was included). The 79 women consisted of 58 Freshmen and 21 Sophomores, while the 42 men were divided between 18 Freshmen and 24 Sophomores.

Everyone who participated in the psychological research was required to fill out a questionnaire consisting of eleven multiple-choice questions. And to insure that the questions were answered in an atmosphere as free of inhibition as possible, no names were attached to the forms. Respondents were identified only by class—freshman or sophomore—and sex.

The results were revealing. Consider, for instance, the responses given to the following two questions concerning cheating:

"Given the situation: You are in class taking a very hard test. Most of the students are having difficulty with the course. The prof has left the room, and someone is cheating very conspicuously. Would you?" and the questionnaire went on to list four choices from which the respondent was to pick one.

The majority of the students—46 women and 17 men—replied that they would "talk to that person privately and ask him to turn himself in to the Honor Council." That is, they chose the first (a.) answer.

The other choices were: b. "turn him in to the Honor Council"; c. "tell the prof"; d. "forget about the whole thing"; and e. "action would depend on whether or not it was a friend." Out of the final four choices, only d. "forget the whole thing" attracted a somewhat larger number of students, with 13 women and 15 men making it their choice.

The second question concerning the problem of cheating was this: "Have you seen any cheating yourself this year?" The majority of the students replied "no," but more importantly, 31 women and 9 men replied "yes." Still, a majority of students (70) felt that the present

Honor Code was adequate in controlling cheating.

Some of the other revelatory findings were: The vast majority of students who took part in the survey answered "definitely yes" to a question asking if they felt "that the 'liquor by the drink' issue should be submitted to the voters in Virginia."

The question—"Do you feel that a universal service obligation for all men would be fairer than the present selective draft system?"—produced a somewhat confused result. Most of the freshmen women (31) said "no," but most of the sophomore women said "yes." The men students were nearly evenly divided, as 19 answered "no" and 18 "yes."

When asked, "Do you feel that morals on American campuses are on the decline?" the men and women students reflected distinctly different opinions. A plurality of the men said "no," while a plurality of the women demurred with a "yes."

Somewhat surprisingly, only a slight majority of the students (64) answered the question—"If CNC were a 4-year school, would you consider going to it all your 4 years?"—with a positive "yes." Twenty-one students were undecided, and the rest of the students said "no." The largest number of "nay-sayers" were freshmen women.

Committee Set To Reappraise Honor System

Spurred by the recent research findings of the Psychology Department of the College, Dean Windsor's office has announced the formation of an Honor System Study Committee which is to meet, probe, discuss, and then make recommendations for the purpose of strengthening and improving the Honor System.

The committee, with Professor Mulliken as chairman, will be a joint student-faculty endeavor. Joining Mrs. Mulliken will be (from the faculty) Doctor Pugh, Professor Ury, Professor Wood, Professor Byrn, and (from the Student Body) the members of the Honor Code Committee—Larry Dobie, Shiela Gebhardt, Ann Smallwood, and Charlie Snead—plus SGA President Steve Linkous. Dean Windsor himself will serve as an ex-officio member of the committee.

The committee will meet in closed sessions; however, anyone wishing to comment on the present status of the College's Honor System, either to criticize or commend, should feel free to approach any member of the committee with his (or her) suggestions.

The Committee's findings are to be published sometime in May. It is expected that the members of the faculty and the members of the Student Body will be called into separate meetings to review the committee's report.

Linkous Reviews Stint In Presidential Office

The office of President of the Student Government Association is one which begins in the summer before the beginning of the school year. John Scull was elected President last year and I was elected Vice-President. One week before school the duties of president were to be in my hands since John had been relieved of the office. I found that there were few club offices filled and no organization whatsoever. There were three S.G.A. officers, no Freshman Class officers, no assembly members, and only a few Sophomore Class officers. Plans for the Orientation Reception had to be made within a few days.

The task of inducing candidates to run for office was almost impossible because of a feeling of apathy on the part of many students. With the Orientation Reception and the collection of dues behind us, elections were held. The Freshman Class officers looked promising. The assembly was smaller than what was needed because no one wanted to run for office. The S.G.A. gave one hundred and fifty dollars of the dues to the Freshman Class and one hundred dollars to the Sophomore Class. Milton Cole provided the help needed in the position of Vice-President.

We began making plans for speakers, such as Eldon James, and service projects for the school, such as buses to the intercollegiate football games with Old Dominion College, and service projects for the community, such as collecting money for the Daily Press Christmas fund.

The highlight of the social activities for the first semester was the Christmas Dance held at the Chamberlin Hotel, with the entertainment provided by the Fugitives. The S.G.A. co-sponsored the dance with the Circle K, the S.A.A., the Dramatic Workshop, and The Captain's Log. These organizations helped greatly and it was the first time that most of the organizations of the college worked together on one project. The S.G.A. conducted nominations for Miss CNC 1965-66, and the crowning of Sandy Paxon took place at the dance.

Plans for second semester included a speech presented by the Mayor of Hampton on April 20, a collection of paperback books to be sent to Viet Nam for distribution by the USO's, participation in the Second Annual Trident Prayer luncheon in Norfolk, a teacher-course evaluation to be held during exam week with an award to be presented to the "best teacher," and finally the Spring Dance at the Chamberlin Hotel on the Roof Garden with the Fugitives on June first.

In looking back over the year, as a whole the S.G.A. has tried to provide activities in which the students would be interested. Last year numerous programs were initiated with little success. This year we have tried to select activities on the basis of student interest, all of which have been successful.

From the beginning, many things had to be learned, most the hard way. The Freshman Class officers failed to produce the programs that they promised and the sophomore class officers spent some of the money we gave them on benches, with a party planned for the rest. The assembly was ineffective due to lack of interest. All of our programs had to be carried out with the aid of a small number of interested students. I wish the next S.G.A. officer luck and a Student Body with less apathy and more interest.

Spring Formal June Second

The second social event of the year, the Spring Formal, will be held from 9:00 P.M. to 1:00 A.M. on Thursday, June 2, at the roof garden of the Hotel Chamberlin at Fort Monroe.

As yet, the theme of the Ball has not been definitely decided upon, as the price for tickets is still uncertain.

Appropriate dress for the men will be semi-formal (a dark suit); dress for women will be formal (either a short or long gown). Music will be provided by the Fugitives. Exams will be over Thursday, June 1, so here's your chance to celebrate!

Evaluation Set For Week Of Examinations

During the week of exams, questionnaires will be given to all students. The students will be asked to evaluate the faculty members on the basis of their teaching methods, competence in class, ability to get information across to the students, and their classroom personality. The students will also be asked to give their opinions on the text books and the material covered in the course.

The Student Government Association is sponsoring this project for the purpose of helping to improve the level of instruction in the college.

A committee consisting of Steve Linkous, Milton Cole, Barbara Hamel, Katie Dempsey and Larry Dobie will evaluate the questionnaires. They will select the member of the faculty who is best liked by the student body. This teacher will be awarded a plaque at the commencement exercises held in June.

The questionnaires will be mailed to the teachers. For this reason it is necessary that the students take this project seriously and give their honest evaluations. This will be the best way for the student body to help raise the level of teaching.

Captain's Record-Setting Track Performance Hidden By Ledger

By Larry McCoy
Staff, The Captain's Log

Though the won-lost ledger does not show it, the fact is that the Christopher Newport Track Team is performing at a record-setting pace. Numerous records have been established by the Captains thus far this season.

Lee Abrahamson, for instance, has set new standards of performance in four events. He broke the record in the 100 yard dash, with a clocking of 10.3 seconds; the record in the 220 yard dash, with a clocking of 22.9 seconds; the record in the 120 yard High Hurdles, with a clocking of 15.7 seconds; and the record in the 440 yard intermediate hurdles, with a clocking of 57.5 seconds.

In addition to Abrahamson's efforts, Joe English set a High Jump record of 5 feet 9 1/4 inches, while Joe Hutchko set a new 149-foot record in the javelin. Jim Ray's performance in the discus produced a record distance of 117 feet.

Outstanding point-makers for the team this season have been Abrahamson himself, of course, who had taken 10 first places in the first three meets of the season; Wade Williams, who had captured 5 first places; and Joe Hutchko, who had 2 first places to his credit. John Duyksen, Bob Deans, Joe English, and Jim Ray had each garnered one first place apiece.

Depth has kept the team from winning. In their first outdoor meet of the season, the team lost by a mere five points, 75-70, to Frederick Military Academy. They lost their second meet, 74-57, to Christ Church Prep School, and then succumbed to Chowan Junior College, 76 1/2-63 1/2. (It should be noted that though the team did lose to Chowan, the victory margin was only 14 points, a far cry from last year when Chowan chewed up the Captains by 97-41.)

Coach Weinstein says that the boys are doing a good job, but that they have not been able to win enough second and third places to match their first-place scoring punch. To win, they need more than first-place finishes. As it is, many of the team members have to run in several events.

On Saturday, April 30, the Captains will meet Christ Church once again. This time, however, the meet will be held at Ferguson High School. The team will climax its season by participating in the State Intercollegiate meet at Washington and Lee on May 7. Coach Weinstein is confident the team will turn in a good performance.

Mike Coburn's Efforts Produce Enthused Choir

Mike Coburn has earned a reputation around campus as an organizer. Mike took over a weak, struggling choir and molded it into twenty-five enthused singers with a definite program to follow. Mike explained how he was troubled with the student apathy we've heard so much about lately, but instead of talking about it, he set his mind to doing something about it. He saw a choir as something students could show pride in and which would give them a feeling of unity.

Thanks to Mike and those who have worked with him, CNC now has an organized choir. Mr. Brewer of the biology department is the choir's sponsor.

The conductor, Mr. Auby of Ferguson High School, has an M.A. degree in choral directing.

Scheduled for the coming months are concerts for the field day sponsored by the S.A.A., the first annual Spring Concert, and the choir will sing at commencement. The choir has earned and needs your support. New members are welcomed and in demand. For those interested in helping to build something the student body may be proud of, and have some fun in doing it, there is an open invitation for new members to attend practices on Tuesday and Thursday at 12:00 noon in room C-110.

Baptist Student Union Elects 3; Announces Plans For Building

By David Johnson

"Leadership is the co-ordination of the efforts of persons in the effective accomplishment of mutually determined goal, done in such a manner that both the persons and the goal are realized in fulfillment. As well, it incorporates success, dedication, ability, and strong responsibility."

The Baptist Student Union of Christopher Newport College has been striving hard this year in setting the foundation of its work on campus effectively and firmly. However, its invitation for combined efforts of all Baptist students has not been answered. It is with this atmosphere and condition that the Baptist Student Union continues at Christopher Newport.

On April 12, 1966, the B.S.U., at its weekly meeting, held general election of officers for the school term 1966-67. Elected to the presidency of B.S.U. was Michael P. Haywood. Mike has been active in B.S.U. this year and is a Royal Ambassador counselor at his home church, Hampton Baptist.

The Vice-President elect is David W. Johnson who will also assume the duties of program chairman. Nancy M. Jordan will assume her duties as Secretary-Treasurer on April 19, 1966 with the other two officers. Very much in both church and B.S.U., Nancy maintains a good school average and is on the Dean's List.

As every association interested in its purpose and goals, the B.S.U. is always working for a larger membership. In its future plans, a Baptist Student Center and Lounge are included. Also, and not least, the B.S.U. maintains its faith in Summer World Missions Programs by contributing beneficial funds. For a club or organization to promote interest and maintain strength of its members, the club must work—and hard. The B.S.U. will maintain this policy as it progresses.

To promote interest and encourage discussion, the B.S.U. has each week a guest speaker who presents a varied and interesting talk. Our special speakers include ministers and CNC faculty. In each month a business meeting is called for the sole purpose of planning future engagements and presenting official reports.

Warm Appraisal For Production Of J. B. Given

By Kathy Young
Staff, The Captain's Log

The Christopher Newport College Workshop presented their long-awaited production of J.B., the Pulitzer Prize-winning drama by Archibald MacLeish on April 22 and 23. Their months of plans, preparation, and strenuous rehearsal under the experienced direction of Mrs. Frances J. Kitchen, Workshop Director, were well rewarded with the final "curtain" on Saturday night.

Their performance was warmly received, and certainly demanded the highest praise by all who had the good fortune to attend. The excellence of the play itself was truly brought out through the skill of the cast.

J.B. was hailed with critical superlatives at its Broadway opening and, after achieving a long run in New York and several national tours, it has made a place for itself as an authentic modern American classic. Its theme is a re-examination, in terms of modern experience, of the ageless story of the Book of Job from the Bible.

The backstage crew, which contributed to making the play possible, was a large one. Stage Manager Chip Rhody and Ginger Graef, Production Chief, headed a large staff that included Camille Krone, Sharyn Bendos, Sandy Paxson, Barbara Hamel, Barbara Griffin, Larry Dobie, Robin Van Thiel, Sharon Morris, Bob Perkins, Alan Watson, Pete Tench, Kathy Young, Charlie Snead, Betty Takis, Ted McFalls, Norman Blankenship, and Patricia Fabbri. The Circle K served as ushers.

Special thanks should go to Hunter Avis and Kathy Babb, guest actors with the group.
