

Some Short SPLINTERS...

NOTES . . . "Alpha '65" is ready to rise from page two with you; the Athletic Association has plans afoot for fall football and spring softball; the Drama Workshop would like to see you wrapped in its web of make believe; parents of pupils at the College have attended a proper orientation program; Oregon, Ohio, and Ontario are but three of the familiar homesteads from which some of the Nurses hail; both the Freshmen and Sophomores have a date soon to select some few peers for public service

Total of Two

The Instructorial Staff of Christopher Newport College lost one of last year's members for the 1965-66 session, but gained, in turn, eight new faces. Among those teachers added to the school's staff is one Associate Professor, giving the school a grand total of two, one Psychologist, one Math teacher, one History teacher, one Lab Assistant, and three English teachers.

Hint In January

The request of Christopher Newport College for two and one-half million dollars for the next biannual is money needed for the growth of a community college, which is desperately needed and of vital importance to the Tidewater Area. The first hint as to the amount CNC should receive will become apparent in January, with the announcement of the Governor's budget.

Sweatshirt Sale

The Christopher Newport Athletic Association will have CNC sweatshirts on sale registration day. There are three styles: the long sleeve, the short sleeve, and the surfer shirt. The price is three dollars per shirt. Orders will be taken by members of the Athletic Association Board, and shipment will be in about four weeks.

A Fitting Name

Christopher Newport College's new science building has a new name: Gosnold Hall. Fittingly, the building was named after one of Captain Christopher Newport's aids. Gosnold, who served the New World as a Vice Admiral under Captain Newport, is accredited with having charted the seas off of the New England Coast. He is buried in Jamestown.

Track Plans Set

The Christopher Newport track team ended its first season of intercollegiate competition with a banquet at the Warwick Motel Restaurant. The highlight of the evening was an address by Coach Groves of William and Mary. Mr. Weinstein, Christopher Newport track coach, concluded with the presentation of eight varsity letters to the school's first letter winners.

The team last year was somewhat weakened for the first few meets due to its formation late in the season. This year's team should prove much stronger as Coach Weinstein plans to start cross-country track soon after registration. All boys interested in participating should see Mr. Weinstein sometime after registration.

Godwin Cites CNC's Role, At Dedication

On Saturday, September 11, 1965, the College of Christopher Newport was officially dedicated. The dedication took place at the campus on Shoe Lane in conjunction with the meeting of the Board of Visitors of the College. Mills Godwin, Lt. Governor of Virginia was honored as guest speaker. In his address he emphasized the growing need for higher education and the importance of college to every individual. He also illustrated the increasing role the community college is playing in this demand for higher education and cited Christopher Newport as an excellent example.

The growth of Christopher Newport since its doors opened in 1960 has been phenomenal. It has moved from an old elementary school building downtown, to a spacious campus on Shoe Lane of two new buildings. The budget for the next two years encompasses three more new buildings.

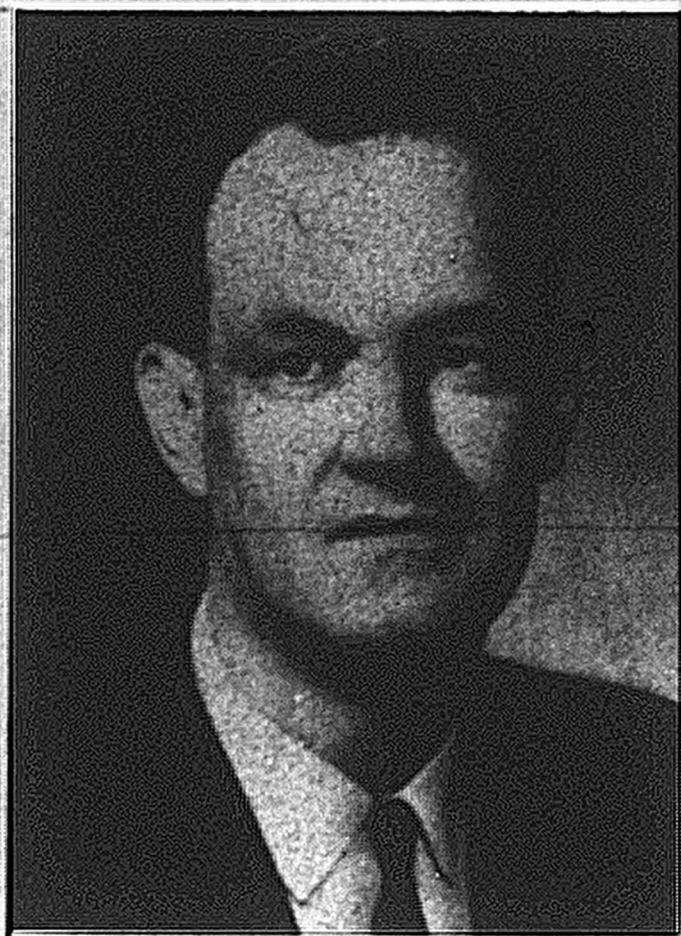

The Capital Outlay for these three buildings totals $1,593,230.00 and includes a physical education building costing $557,700.00; a combination Library and Administration building costing $608,400.00; and another classroom building costing $427,130.00. The first of these buildings to be built will be the physical education building. The college was given permission in July to draw up preliminary plans for this building; the plans are to be completed by October so they may be presented to the State Architecture Commission which will prepare the plans for the meeting of the General Assembly in January. The Library-Administration building will be

Mail Boxes Installed

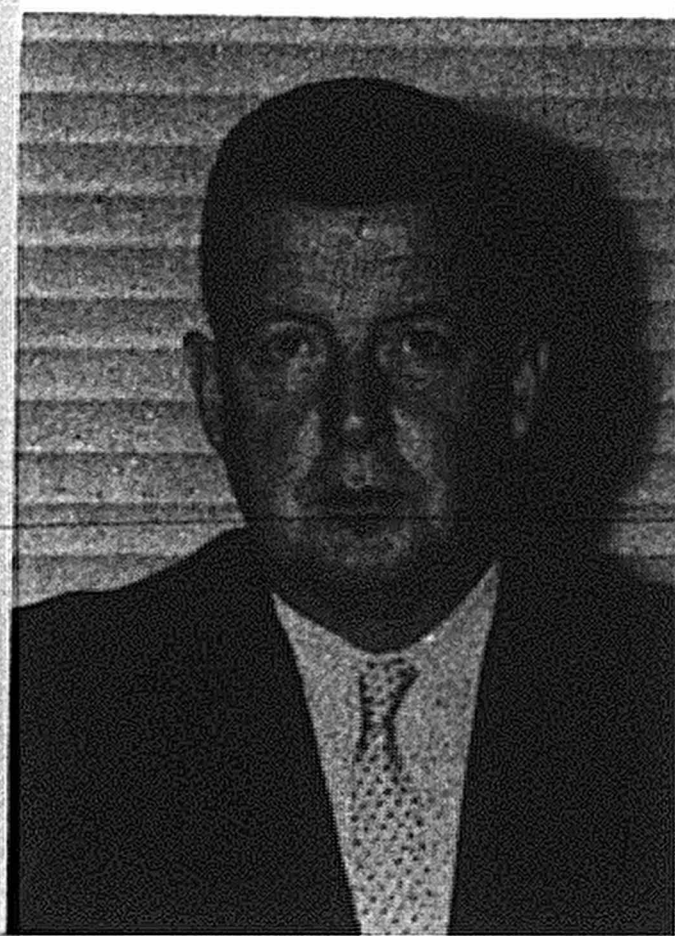

Mail boxes have been installed in the student lounge to facilitate intramural communication. A box is provided for each letter of the alphabet. Each individual—Freshman or Sophomore—may locate his or her mail by looking through the items in the mail box which bears the first letter of the person's last name.

Correspondence between students and between faculty and students is to be exchanged through this intramural system. It is important, therefore, for each student to check for mail each day that he or she is at the college. Faculty members will continue to receive their mail in the boxes located in the business office.

All correspondence placed in the mail boxes should be in envelopes or it should be folded and stapled, with the recipient's name on the outside.

the second building to be constructed within the next two years. This building is necessary because presently in Christopher Newport Hall there are nine classrooms that are being occupied as office space; consequently, classroom space has been cut short. The last of the buildings included in the coming biannual is the second classroom building.

The actual operating cost of the college, including salaries, electricities, heat, water, paper, equipment, from July 1966 to 1968 will be $443,662.00 from July '67 to July '68; and $555,479.00 from July '67 to '68. Approximately two-thirds of the amount is earned by the college itself through tuition fees. Just under one-third of this amount comes from the state's general funds or tax dollars. In addition to the money received from the general funds, the college is asking for an additional 35,000.00 for laboratory equipment for the new science building, Gosnold Hall; $40,000.00 for books, periodicals, and equipment for the library; and $20,000.00 for educational and recreational equipment, such as movie projectors, screens, tables, chairs, and couches for the new student lounge in Gosnold Hall.

Counseling Services Set To Serve Student Body

Since all college students, at one time or another, tend to find themselves in some sort of distress—be it financial, mental, or physical—as they venture through the realms of higher education, the Administration of Christopher Newport has worked out a thorough and precise plan to guide members of the Student Body out of any dark corners they may be unfortunate enough to back into.

Each member of the school's Instructorial Staff, whether he or she is an Associate Professor, Assistant Professor, Instructor, Lecturer, or Lab Assistant, is available to assist students with problems relative to their particular courses and with academic matters in general.

Beyond the individual attentiveness of staff members, however, the College offers extensive aid in: Educational counseling, Vocational counseling, and Psychiatric consultation. Educationally, students may receive help in selecting proper courses of study and in establishing effective study habits; vocationally, they may receive help in determining the profession or position for which they are best fitted, or in choosing the field of study in which they intend to major; psychiatrically, students may receive help in personal adjustment, such as difficulties in social adjustment or difficulties caused by uncertainties of aims and purposes, and other personal problems.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Ruth Mulliken or Mr. James C. Windsor, both psychology professors, students may take vocational interest and aptitude tests for purposes of choosing their major field of study or life's work. In addition to the psychiatric consultation services of Mrs. Mulliken or Mr. Windsor, the facilities of the Mental Hygiene Clinic of Newport News are available to students of Christopher Newport College. As the college Catalogue points out, however, "In cases of referral, the appropriate fees for the services of the Clinic will be paid by the student and/or his parent or guardian."

As far as scholarships, loans, and student employment is concerned, the College offers financial assistance to deserving students who wish to defray a part of their total college expense. Information on particulars may be obtained by contacting, as the case may be: Miss Nancy A. Ramseur, Registrar, for information on scholarships and loans; Mr. Thomas S. Dunaway, Jr., Business Manager, for information on student employment in the College; or Mr. Graham Pillow, for information on student employment in the community.

Enrollments Upped By 400 Fresh Frosh

Christopher Newport College is expecting approximately 600 students for the school year 1965-66. This is an increase from the 435 enrollment during the 1964-65 year. The college is anticipating about 400 freshmen, but the exact number will not be known until registration is officially closed. Approximately 135 students are returning and 13 are transferring from other colleges. The majority of transferees are from out-of-state colleges.

Hampton High School to date has the most incoming freshmen with 54 registered, Ferguson H. S. follows with 45 registered, Warwick - 33, Newport News H. S. - 30, Kecoughtan - 12, York - 10, and St. Vincents - 7. Other high schools in the area such as Matthews County, Poquoson, and Gloucester have added to the freshmen enrollment. Also, there are a number of freshmen from military families who are coming from high schools in foreign countries.

Added to the Freshmen class will be about 52 nurses from Riverside School of Nursing, who will be taking subjects required for a Registered Nurse.

Miss Ramseur, C.N.C. Registrar, said that about 99% of the freshmen said they expected to transfer to a four year college. Most freshmen stated, "I will get out of college what I put into it." The majority of the men applicants chose engineering as their hopeful major, while the women picked teaching. The favorite majors were English, Math, History, and Science.

Mr. Cunningham, Director of the college, feels that the students at C. N. C. have a definite advantage

Parking Change Noted

Parking regulations for the 1965-66 session of Christopher Newport College are almost identical to those of last session. One very important change has taken place, however: Whereas, last year, students were denied parking privileges in the ellipse in front of Christopher Newport Hall only and were permitted to park either in the parking lot or on the roadways leading to and from it, this year students must park within the lot only and not, at all, on the roadways.

Parking in the ellipse or along the roadways is reserved for members of the faculty or staff and for visitors to the College. Students failing to comply with the parking regulations will have their cars ticketed. The tickets impose a $3.00 fine, which is to be paid within one week from the Friday following the date of the infraction, for each violation.

Sieze The Day

Congratulations . . . now you are a College student. We, as you probably do too, wonder "Why?" How come? Is it because you do not yet feel like working for a living? Because you wanted to escape the draft? Or is it, possibly, because you wanted an education? If you dislike work, you have come to the wrong place. If you came to escape the draft, good for you . . . we did too. And, sir, if you came to learn, may we say welcome, glad to have you; for College, if it is nothing else, is, as someone has said, the place to learn. It is a vast, rich vein of knowledge, truth, and understanding. A virginal strip, awaiting your bespoiling hands. Mine it; dig into it, deeply; and build.

Samuel Johnson, whom most of you have not met yet, but will if you pursue your College careers, once admonished his biographer, James Boswell, with some advice that he had gained from an old gentleman at Oxford. Said he, "Young man, ply your book diligently now, and acquire a stock of knowledge; for when years come upon you, you will find that poring upon books will be but an irksome task." Being young, as we are, places us at a disadvantage in judging the truth of Johnson's statement in the light of old-age and irksomeness; but we can judge it in the light of the more immediate future. Over the hill, just beyond today's Orientation, lies your first Exam, closer, as you will soon see, than Tomorrow. Prepare, now, to greet it.

College students, especially Freshmen, are set upon and subdued, most often, by Sloth, one of the deadliest (for collegiates) of the Seven Deadly Sins, before they can get their bearings in College. Beware! When your History professor tells you to study your history notes See Sieze, Page 5, Col. 4

Pedant Parade

The first few weeks of College, for those of you who are new to this mode of life, are likely to be, seemingly, long and lonely periods in which you must face a continual parade of Pedants: your Professors. They may strike you as cold, indifferent men and women capable of doing nothing more than handing out failing grades for what you regard as the best theme or essay you ever wrote in your life. Be patient; Professors, too, laugh and cry.

They differ from most people, however, in that they have a genuine fondness for Knowledge, and a realistic respect for the work involved in pursuing it. They like to see students work; and, generally, they do not care to hear excuses, having, as they have, heard them all before.

You will note also that Professors tend to forget your name as well as your face rather easily, but this forgetfulness on the part of these College teachers is a distinct boon for you—for a Grade (that which, as things stand now, helps decide who goes to South Vietnam and who visits the Student Lounge after the first semester) given by a stranger to a stranger can only reflect what a stranger has earned.

You and your Professors need not, however, be strangers. With a little initiative on your part, you can get to know a Professor as a person, as something more than that pedant who constantly uses words you do not understand, who sometimes chides your most precious beliefs, and who often berates and belittles your apparent lack of an education. Someday, you may want to thank him (or her) personally for showing you where to find the truth.

Just Like Home

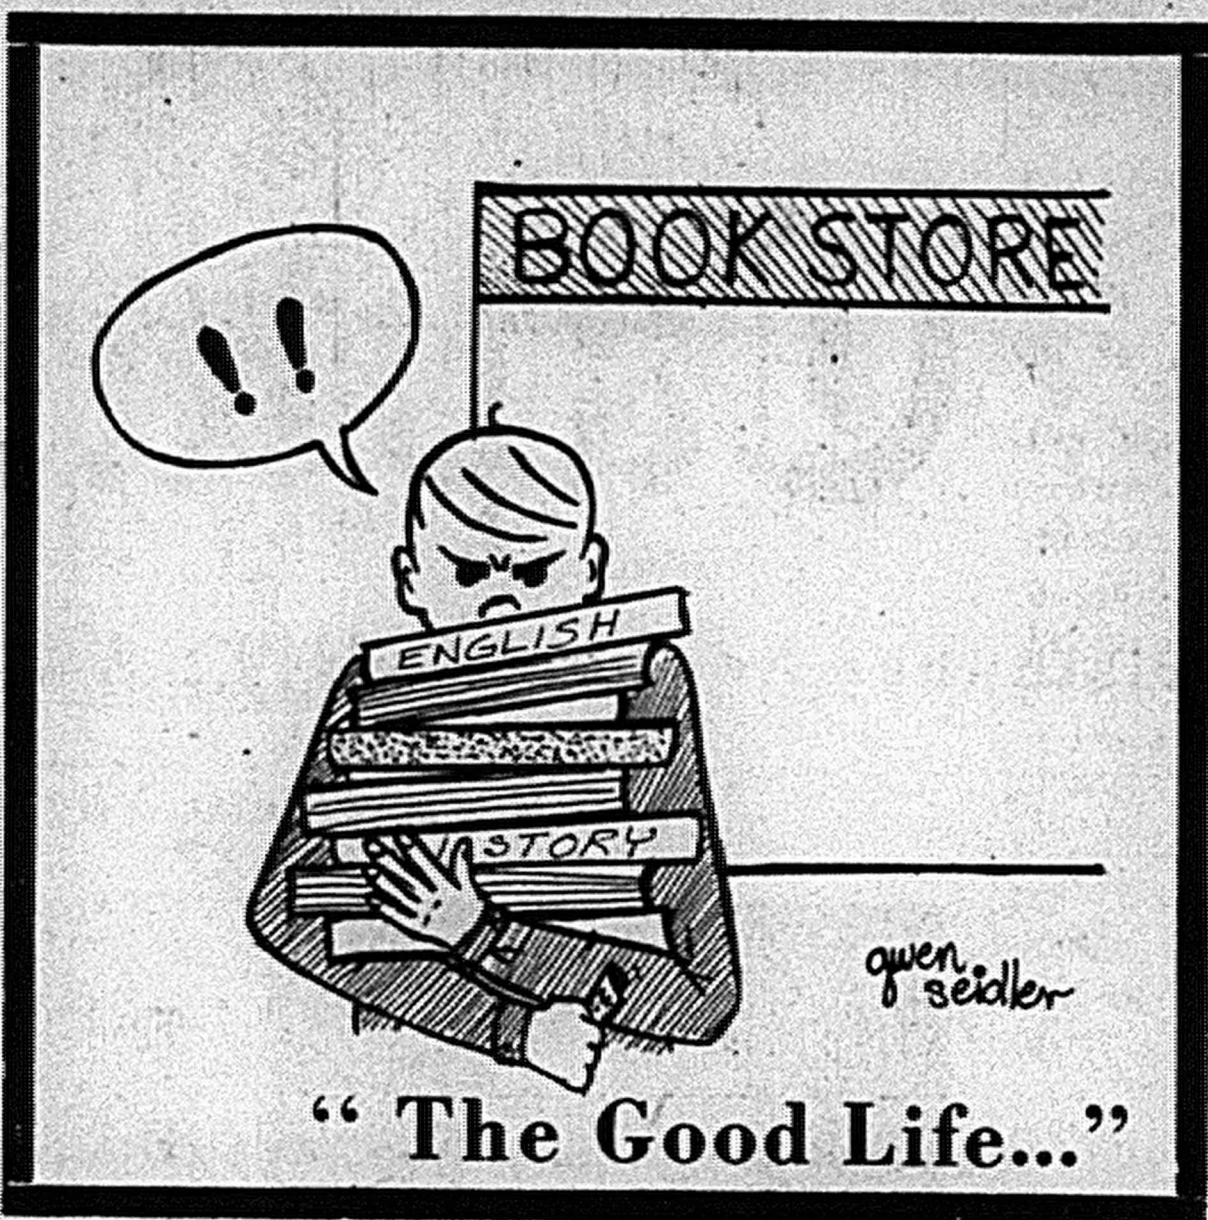

Aside from the library and the business office—both extremely popular habitats for new, studious students—the most frequented place around Christopher Newport College is the Student Lounge, a refuge for frustrated Freshmen and surviving Sophomores.

For those of you who do not already know, or knew and have forgotten, the Student Lounge in Christopher Newport Hall has been transferred to the new Bartholomew Gosnold science building, where, among other things, you may enjoy the extravagant luxury of air-conditioning during the blistering days of September and the merry months of May and June. You can enjoy a comfortable, climate-controlled temperature—usually not under 55 degrees, nor over 70 degrees—which will, hopefully, stimulate the metabolism of your body sufficiently enough to permit you and your soul to participate (together) in some of the Lounge's more fashionable functions, such as playing games, watching television, and cramming for tests.

You, most certainly, will do well in the lounge if you have, at least, a vague idea of how to play Bridge, Hearts, Oh Hell! (it's a game, too), or Gin Rummy. Also you will do well to cultivate a knack for "free-loading" snacks, decks of cards, books, money, cigarettes, cokes, dates, and other necessities. Fundamentally, the ability to beg (free-load) a bit is a prime prerequisite for poverty-stricken collegiates—be they male or female.

Occasionally the Lounge may be commandeered by a student for the purpose of presenting a soliloquy (his thoughts) or a speech (someone else's). Please, bear with him; for he, possibly, is seeking to relieve some inner tension. And, do not be alarmed by any unusual sights you

"The Good Life..."

Operation Alpha

Time: T minus zero. Place: mission control, Christopher Newport College.

While you read this a launching is taking place. The vehicle is the 1965-66 school year. It is a solid fuel rocket combining teachers with text books to develop enough thrust to put several "G's" of pressure on student payloads of fourteen to eighteen hours. It is a two stage affair with the first stage burn-out occurring around exam time and the initial ignition of the second stage lasting until spring vacation.

Like most launchings and flights this one is most complex and the complexities, in turn, make it easily prone to malfunction. Mission Control has on hand a staff of experts ready to lend assistance in solving any problems that might arise.

The Student Government stands like a gantry tower giving support for the launching. Later, after your orbit pattern of classroom routine has stabilized, a rendezvous with some club or organization can take place and you can add more activities to your mission.

In your journey you will discover much new data which will have to be examined. Much of it will be routine, but some of it will be contrary to what you know or believe. This must be looked at even more carefully; don't be afraid to question. This is the space age; anything goes.

All systems "go," stand by, 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1-BLAST OFF. Accept the responsibility and work and the mission will be a success. The fate of Alpha '65 is in your hands—good luck!

Climb Aboard

In the closing line of one of his sonnets, John Milton opined, "They also serve who only stand and wait." Indeed, we suppose, they do; except, we like to think, when it comes to governing. In a few weeks elections will be held to fill now vacant Freshmen, Sophomore, and Assembly offices. Some few persons, needless to say, will have to "serve"; we do not think they will be able to, however, if they "only stand and wait." So, if there are those among you who enjoy trying to get things done, prod them into climbing aboard the ballot.

As for yourself, you might join the Circle K Club, the Student Athletic Association, the track team, the Young Democrats Club, the Young Republicans Club, the Drama Workshop, or the staff of the Trident, Christopher Newport's yearbook staff.

If you like to write, sell advertising, type, or take photographs, then come, join us . . . we would be glad to have you on the staff of The Captain's Log. Our office is presently located in Christopher Newport Hall, room 203. Should you come up to room 203, however, and no one is there, you will know that we have moved into Gosnold Hall, where you are welcome to visit at any time. Incidentally, we will be glad to help you get in touch with any of the afore-mentioned clubs or organizations. By the way, if you know of a good news story, let us know . . .

A Rich Reward

As the College opens its doors for the fifth academic session in its short history, I take great pleasure in welcoming the 1965 freshmen to the Christopher Newport campus. I hope that your stay here will be both stimulating and enjoyable.

You will find here a competent faculty, dedicated to assisting you with your academic and personal problems. Do not hesitate to call on your faculty advisor, or for that matter, any member of the faculty or staff when you need help. It now becomes incumbent on you to inquire, to challenge, and to absorb the intellectual stimulation these able people will offer you. Remember if you will that you have now a greater responsibility to yourselves than you have ever had in your lives. We are well aware of this, and our sincere hope is that you too will recognize the importance of the race you will run at Christopher Newport College.

The Library has been expanded to meet the burgeoning needs of a growing student body. This year the facilities of the Library will be available to you throughout the day, on Saturday mornings, evenings Monday through Thursday, and Sunday afternoons. This increased availability of the collection is a reflection of the College's effort to provide a broader cultural environment for you, but it will mean nothing unless you are willing to assume the responsibility of using these facilities.

The building program has completed another major step with the completion of the new science building. Currently we are developing plans for a physical education building and these will be presented to the Governor when the General Assembly convenes in January 1966. It is our hope that funds will be appropriated for the construction of this facility. In addition, we are seeking appropriations for the construction of a library and another classroom building.

I have mentioned the fact that you will be assuming new and great responsibilities to yourselves as you become college students. In addition you must recognize that you now have an obligation to represent your college academically, socially, and in the community. The College will be judged by your actions, your dress, your enthusiasm, and your willingness to be responsible young adult citizens. You can do as much for the College as it will attempt to do for you.

Good luck to each of you. I invite you to establish close personal rapport with the faculty and staff. If you do, your educational experience here will be a rich and rewarding one.

Inner Morality

The Honor System at Christopher Newport College is a vital part of student life. The system covers "four specific areas - lying, stealing, cheating, and failing to report an infraction of which one has first hand knowledge" as stated in the Honor System manual. "The effectiveness of the Honor System rests upon the high sense of inner morality of the student, and the efficiency of th external control established as a form of self government by the students and collectively imposed. These operational forces complement each other, and one cannot be substituted exclusively for the other."

Each student will be given an Honor System manual during registration and the college strongly urges that it be read completely. If this is done each student will know his requirements towards the system. A student is held responsible for the information in the manual and therefore cannot plead innocent of the procedures that are followed.

The Honor System at CNC was established in 1960 when the college was founded. Since then the system has functioned due to student cooperation. This year there will be a combined Men's and Women's Honor Councils made up of sophomores and freshmen elected by the student body. In the past the Men's and Women's Honor Councils were separate.

Any student aware of a violation of the honor system is to report it to a member of the Honor Council who will handle the matter from there on. Before reporting the offense the witness should, however, approach the offender and tell him that he is aware of his violation, thus giving the offender the opportunity to report himself. A trial will be held if necessary and after two weeks the verdict will be posted on the Library bulletin board and printed in the school newspaper the Captain's Log. No names will be mentioned.

Students will be "required to sign a statement to the effect that he understands what is expected of him under the Honor System and that infraction of the Honor Code at any time during his student days may be punishable by dismissal from the College," as stated in the Honor System manual. Professors may want students to sign the Honor Code to their papers during the year even though the students have signed the initial pledge at the beginning of the year. By doing this a professor constantly reminds his students of their responsibilities toward the system.

The Faculty: Tough, Talented, Trying

Charles F. Brewer

Georgia M. Hunter

Richard H. Lawson

The three pillars of professorial pictures which support the headline on the crown of this page are made up of but part of that tough, talented, and trying group of men and women which compose the Instructional Staff of Christopher Newport College. They, with the aid of their unpictured peers, will, as the year progresses, be seeking to stimulate the sometimes eager, but generally indifferent minds of the members of the Student Body.

Because College hiring policy demands it, each and every member of the faculty holds, at least, a Master's degree—or is now a candidate for his Master's. Some are working towards their Doctorates, having become candidates for their Ph.D.'s; and some few others have already ascended to that academic plateau whereby a Professor becomes a Doctor. Members of the faculty, as they appear from left to right across the page, are as follows:

First is Stephen Sanderlin, Jr., who heads the list of returning faculty members. He, the lone returning Associate Professor on the College's staff, holds an A.B. from the College of William and Mary, a M.A. from Catholic University, and a Ph.D. from the University of Virginia. He teaches English.

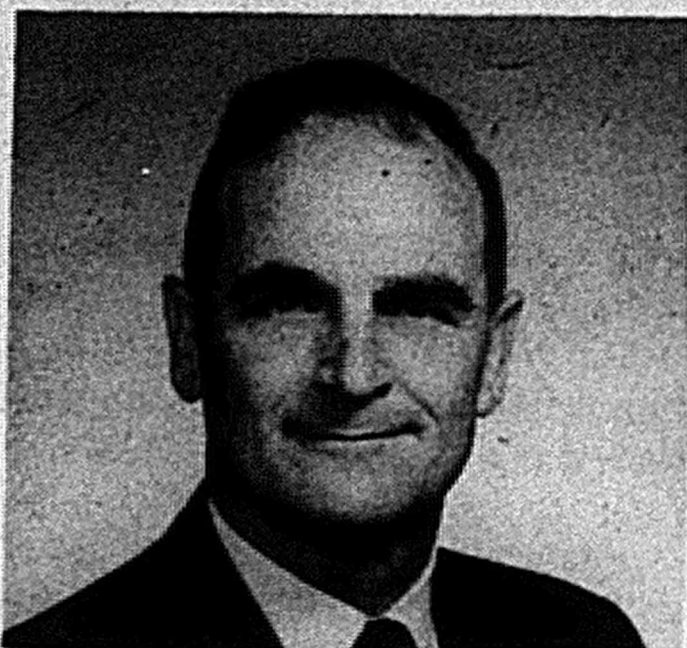

Next in order, of the returning faculty member, are the school's Assistant Professors. They are: Jane N. Byrn, Assistant Professor of Chemistry, with a B.S. from the University of Manitoba and M.S. from Johns Hopkins University; R. M. Usry, Assistant Professor of History, with both an A.B. and M.A. from the College of William and Mary; and Lawrence B. Wood, Jr., Assistant Professor of English, with an A.B. from Hampden-Sydney College and a M.A. from the University of Pennsylvania.

Others are: Charles F. Brewer (returning to Christopher Newport after a year's leave of absence), Assistant Professor of Biology, with an A.B. from Maryville College and a M.S. from the University of Tennessee; Georgia M. Hunter, Assistant Professor of Biology, with an A.B. from Atlantic Christian College, a M.A. from East Carolina College and a M.Ed. from the University of North Carolina; and Richard H. Lawson, Assistant Professor of Mathematics, with a B.S. from the United States Military Academy and a M.A. from Duke University.

Next, as professorial titling permits, are the College's Instructors. Those returning are: Joseph R. Ambrose, Instructor in Government, with a B.A. from the University of Denver and a M.A. from Georgetown University; Jane Chambers, Instructor in English, with a B.A. from Pfeiffer College and a M.A. from the University of Arkansas; William K. Neal, II, Instructor in Biology and Chemistry, with an A.B. from the College of William and Mary and a M.S. from Rutgers, the State University.

In addition: Elijah G. Pillow, Instructor in Physics, with both an A.B. and M.T.S. from the College of William and Mary; Delia D. Reppen, Instructor in Modern Languages, with a B.A. and M.A. from the University of California; Donald B. Riley, Instructor in Business and Economics, with a B.S. from the College of William and Mary and a M.B.A. from the University of North Carolina; and Ernest O. Rudin, Instructor in Modern Language, with a B.S. and M.Ed. from the College of William and Mary.

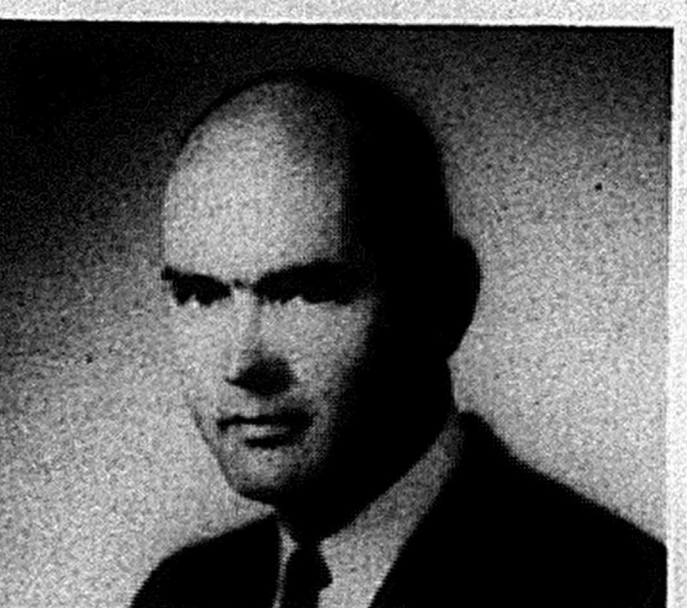

Completing the list of returning Instructors are: Edward S. Wise, Instructor in Biology, with a B.S.

Joseph R. Ambrose

Jane Chambers

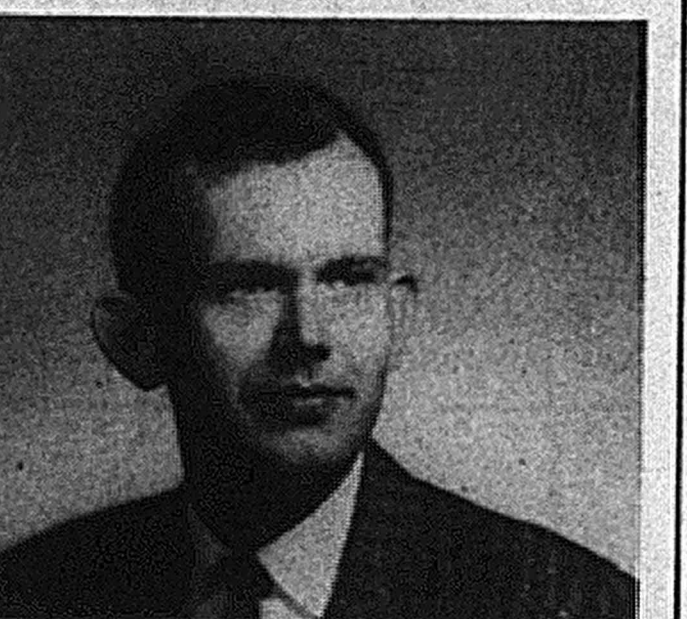

William K. Neal, II

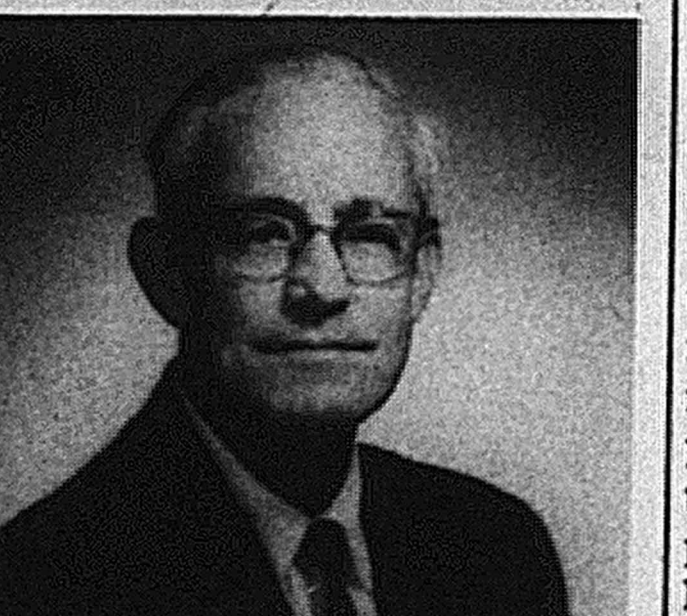

Elijah G. Pillow

Delia D. Reppen

Donald B. Riley

from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and a M.S. from the University of Illinois; and Raoul L. Weinstein, Instructor in Mathematics, with a B.A. from the University of Richmond and a M.A. from the College of William and Mary. Weinstein, last session, was an Assistant Instructor.

Continuing down the professorial titling ladder, we come to the Lecturers. Returning faculty Lecturers are: Richard L. Covey, Lecturer in Sociology, with a B.A. and M.A. from Ohio State University; O. Edwyn Luttrell, Lecturer in Philosophy, with a B.A. and M.A. from the University of Richmond and a B.D. from Crozer Theological Seminary; and Barron F. Tabor, Lecturer in Graphic Arts, with a B.S. from Louisiana State University. Mr. Tabor is presently a candidate for his M.S. from the College of William and Mary.

Though Mr. Tabor is, as classifying reveals, the last of the returning faculty members, he is not, by any means, the last of the staff—for Christopher Newport College, as the new science building will attest, has grown. The faculty, accordingly, has too, with the addition of eight teachers.

Heading the list of these "new-faces for '65" is Doctor Jean Pugh, Associate Professor of Biology, with an A.B. from Madison College and a M.S. and Ph.D. from the University of Virginia. In order, then, comes: Ruth K. Mulliken, Assistant Professor of Psychology, with a B.S. and M.S. from New York University; Daisy D. Bright, Assistant Professor of Mathematics, with an A.B. and M.A. from the University of Alabama; Taylor Alderman, Instructor in English, with a B.A. from Emory and Henry College and a M.A. from the University of Wyoming.

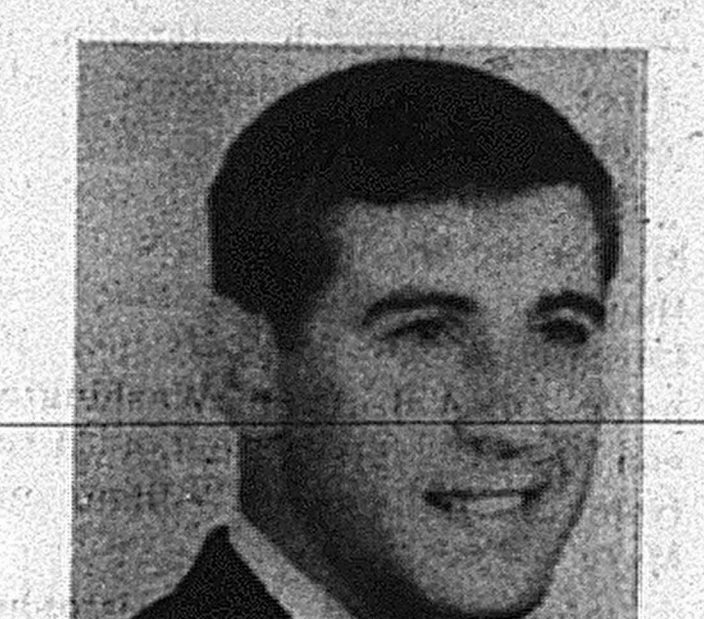

Finally, in order, comes: Richard E. McMurren, Instructor in History, with a B.A. and M.A. from the University of Alabama; Albert E. Miller, Jr., Instructor in English, with a B.A. from the University of Richmond and a M.A. from the University of South Carolina; Talmadge B. Pierce, Lecturer in English, with an A.B. and M.A. from Lehigh University; and Nolan C. Reid, Jr., Laboratory Assistant in Chemistry. Mr. Reid is now a candidate for his M.S. at the College of William and Mary, while studying at the Virginia Institute of Marine Science.

One member of the College's faculty, Robert W. Vargas, Instructor in Mathematics, is now on leave of absence. He will, after completing work for his Ph.D. at the University of Texas, return in 1966. Of the new faculty members, one is now a candidate for her Ph.D.—Ruth Mulliken, at the University of Utah. Elizabeth B. Scott, an Instructor in English during the last school session, will not return to Christopher Newport this year. She resigned her position to return to the University of Beirut, in Lebanon, to teach.

Thus, with the addition of James C. Windsor and William W. Kitchen, who are mentioned elsewhere in this paper, we have the instructional staff of Christopher Newport College. It has, in the past, proven to be tough, demanding, and (as a recent local newspaper article reported) some members of it have proven, themselves, to be more difficult than their counterparts at William and Mary. The talent it possesses is indicated, in part, by the Degrees its members have earned. Henceforth, its members will try to teach you; you may, at times, find them trying.

W. W. Kitchin Takes Post As Evening College's Head

Taking over as Coordinator of the Evening College, a vacancy created by the appointment of James C. Windsor to a post as Dean of Students, will be Mr. William Willis Kitchin, who is heading into his second year as a member of the Christopher Newport College faculty.

Mr. Kitchin's appointment was announced on July 1, 1965, by Director of the College, H. Westcott Cunningham. With the appointment, goes a twelve-month contract, a two-month extension, in effect, over the normal ten-month teaching contract.

But Mr. Kitchin, an Instructor in English and Speech, will continue to teach as a member of Christopher Newport's faculty. He holds an A.B. from Washington and Lee University and a M.Ed. from the College of William and Mary.

Before coming to Christopher Newport, Mr. Kitchin served for several years as Assistant to the Director of the University Center in Richmond, Va.

October Dates Set; Elections In Near Future

Freshmen will have the opportunity to select their President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer and nine Assemblymen on October 21 and 22, between 8:30 and 3 p.m. Sophomores will elect their new Treasurer and nine Assemblymen October 7 and 8, between 8:30 and 3 p.m.

Candidates for class offices and Student Assembly must turn in to the Elections Committee a petition with 15 signatures. Candidates must meet the requirements for qualification for membership in their respective classes as set forth in the College's catalogue and must be in good standing and possess a scholastic average equivalent to graduation requirements as set forth in the College's catalogue.

To vote in the forthcoming class elections a student must be a qualified member of his respective class, as set forth in the College's catalogue.

Steve Linkous, Vice-President of the Student Government Association and head of the Elections Committee asks that a genuine interest be taken in these elections, as there effect on the student and school is of great importance.

Parents of Students Attending CNC Get Guidance At Special Orientation Program

The first Orientation Program for parents of students at Christopher Newport College was held at 6:30 p.m., on Monday, September 13 for the parents of all new students. The orientation began with a welcome and some brief comments by Director Cunningham and Dean Windsor. By informing the parents of the expectations of the college and also providing them with a clear understanding of the student activities and the Honor System, the parents, it is hoped, will be better prepared to help in the education of their children. Such an understanding will provide the students with an easier academic and social adjustment.

Following the introductory program, the parents and guardians were invited to a reception on the lawn of the north side of Christopher Newport Hall. Refreshments were served, and the faculty and administration were available to better acquaint the parents with the college life. The parents were

The first social event of the year takes place tonight at Christopher Newport's Gosnold Hall, in the form of a reception to be held for the incoming Freshmen in the new Student Lounge. Beginning at 7:30 p.m. and running until the refreshments run out, the reception will give the Freshmen a chance to meet each other and to talk with upper-classmen on an informal basis.

Joe Warren, head of the "punch" committee has been working overtime to see that there is enough food to sustain several hundred people well into the night. Music will be provided either by the juke box or the radio in the lounge. Dress will carry over from the morning program; that is, coats and ties for men, heels for women.

Nurses Travel Miles To Get An Education

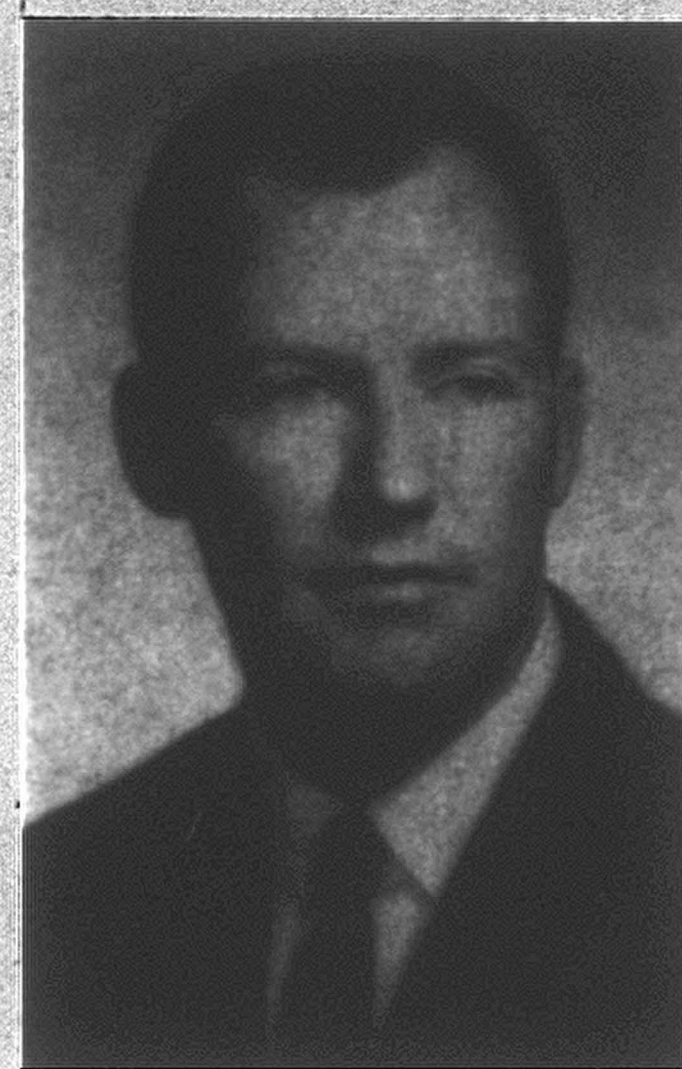

Although Christopher Newport is primarily a community college, it will not be deprived of students from other states or even other countries. The freshman class of student nurses from Riverside Hospital will continue to take courses at Christopher Newport this year and several of them will have traveled many miles before they reach Newport News. The class will consist of girls from Oregon, Ohio, New York, Maryland, West Virginia, North Carolina, Virginia and Ontario, Canada.

The student nurses, commuting from their nearby dormitory at Riverside Hospital, are full time freshmen taking courses in English, chemistry, sociology, and biology. Aside from these, they will also be taking classes at the hospital.

Their life here won't be just classes and study. They will be given the opportunity to participate in many outside activities. For the journalists in the group, there is a school newspaper. The Community Theater sponsors a dramatic club for those interested in dramatic arts. There is a choral group, and the more athletic girls can join the basketball team, which is a member of the league of the schools of nursing.

It is obvious that the student nurses will not have a dull time while in Newport News. We hope they find the time they spend at CNC one of the most enjoyable periods of their training.

James C. Windsor To Serve As First Dean Of Students

James C. Windsor

Mr. James C. Windsor, who heretofore had served the Student Body of Christopher Newport College as Student Personnel Officer, has been named to serve as Dean of Students. The announcement of Windsor's appointment came on July 1, 1965, from the office of H. Westcott Cunningham, Director of the College.

Along with his appointment, Windsor was relieved of his duties as Coordinator of the Evening College. He will continue to serve, however, as a teaching member of the school's faculty, having been elevated from the status of Instructor in Psychology to that of Assistant Professor of Psychology.

Also, in addition to his responsibilities as Dean of Students, he will continue as a member of the school's counseling staff, with the assistance of Mrs. Ruth Mulliken, Assistant Professor of Psychology.

Now in his fourth year as a member of the Christopher Newport faculty, Mr. Windsor took his A.B. from the College of William and Mary, his M.S. from Richmond Professional Institute, and his B.D. from Colgate-Rochester Divinity School. His Bachelor of Divinity Degree was achieved with a concentration in Psychology; and, likewise, his Master of Science degree was taken in Psychology.

As Dean of Students, he will have cognizance over all aspects of student endeavor, in so far as those endeavors touch on college life. His office is located in Gosdon Hall, the newly completed science building, room 201.

$2.00 Membership Will Be Collected By Athletic Group

The Christopher Newport College Athletic Association will collect, on registration day, a membership fee of two dollars ($2.00) from each student interested in participating in the College's intermural sports program. The money collected will go toward financing the Association's activities for fall and spring semesters.

The Association was formed at the beginning of the fall semester of last year when a "flag" football league was started. Six teams were formed and three games were played each Sunday at the Ferguson practice field. A large part of the student body turned out each Sunday to cheer the team and participate in the games. "Flag" football teams will be formed for this year's season as soon as the new membership is completed.

After Christmas of last year, plans were made for a softball league for the spring season. The games were held on the field adjacent to Christopher Newport Hall every Sunday and these also provided a boost to our school spirit. Softball will be a part of the intermural program again this spring.

The Christopher Newport College Athletic Association proved to be a big success as Christopher Newport's first athletic endeavor. The success of this year's Association depends on the support of the student body and the participation of the boys. Bring your two dollars registration day. Sorry, no girls!

Library's Expansion Program Looks To New Reading Room

The library of Christopher Newport College is in the process of an expansion which should greatly benefit its students. When the library opened for the first time last year, it was located in room 111 with a seating capacity of 36. At that time the library owned approximately 11,000 volumes classified according to the Dewey Decimal system, 153 periodicals, and 4 newspapers.

This year another room will be added. The former student lounge, room 109, will become a reading and reference area, seating 32. The reference collection along with the bound and current periodicals will be housed there. If plans continue as they have, this room should be open for use in October.

The main room will offer a fiction-browsing area where the former reference section was located. The seating capacity will remain the same.

As they are processed, an additional 1,000 volumes will be available to the students. This is a time consuming project which will require several months. Also being added are 30 new periodicals and 4 newspapers including the Norfolk Virginia Pilot, Washington Post-Times Herald, St. Louis Dispatch, and News Leader.

Much of the credit for the difficult job of remodeling and expanding the library goes to the librarian, Miss Bette V. Mosteller, and her staff: Mrs. Flora H. Gill, circulation assistant; Mrs. Lavena E. Smith, cataloguer; Miss Jean C. Garner, acquisitions assistant. A new assistant will be employed in the fall when the reading and reference room opens. As usual, approximately ten students will work as assistants.

During the school year the library's hours will be:

Monday - Thursday — 8:00 A.M. - 9:45 P.M.

Friday — 8:00 A.M. - 5:00 P.M.

Saturday — 8:00 A.M.-12:00 Noon

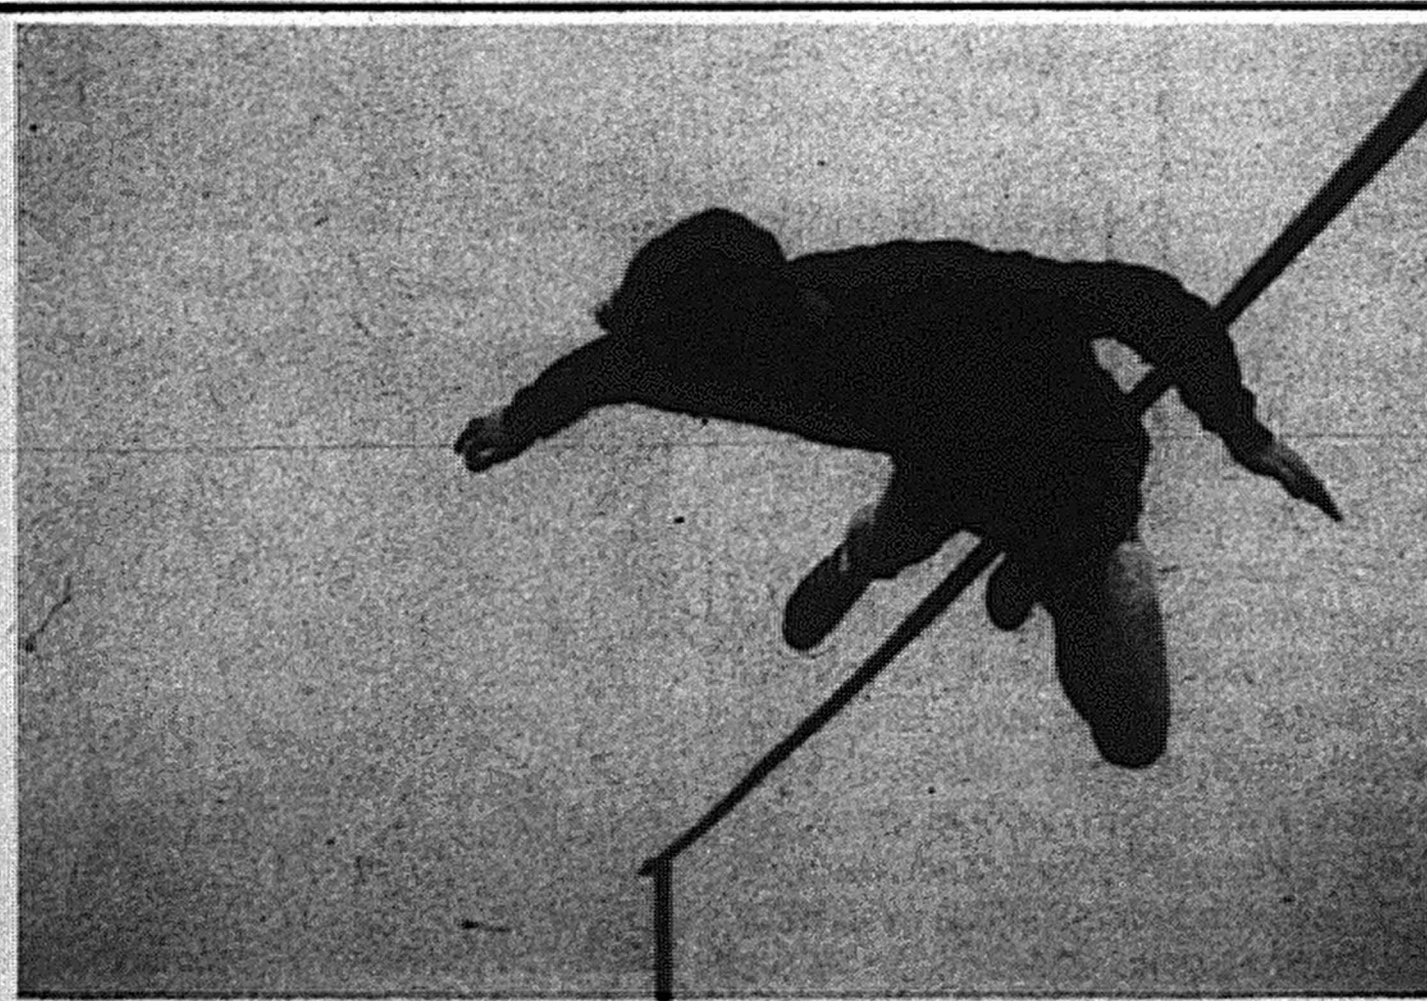

Sunday — 1:00 P.M. - 5:00 P.M.

This time schedule is a definite improvement over last years, in that the library will now be open regularly on Sundays.

also given the opportunity to tour the campus in an attempt to acquaint them with the buildings and facilities available to the students.

Director Cunningham expressed the purpose of this new orientation program by stating: "If parents and the College can establish good relations and meet one another, the entire communication between the two will help the students a great deal."

An Athletic Association member, no doubt . . .

A Short Glimpse Of 4 Faces Seldom Seen In A Classroom

T. Dunaway, Jr.
Business Mgr.

Nancy Ramseur
Registrar

B. V. Mosteller
Librarian

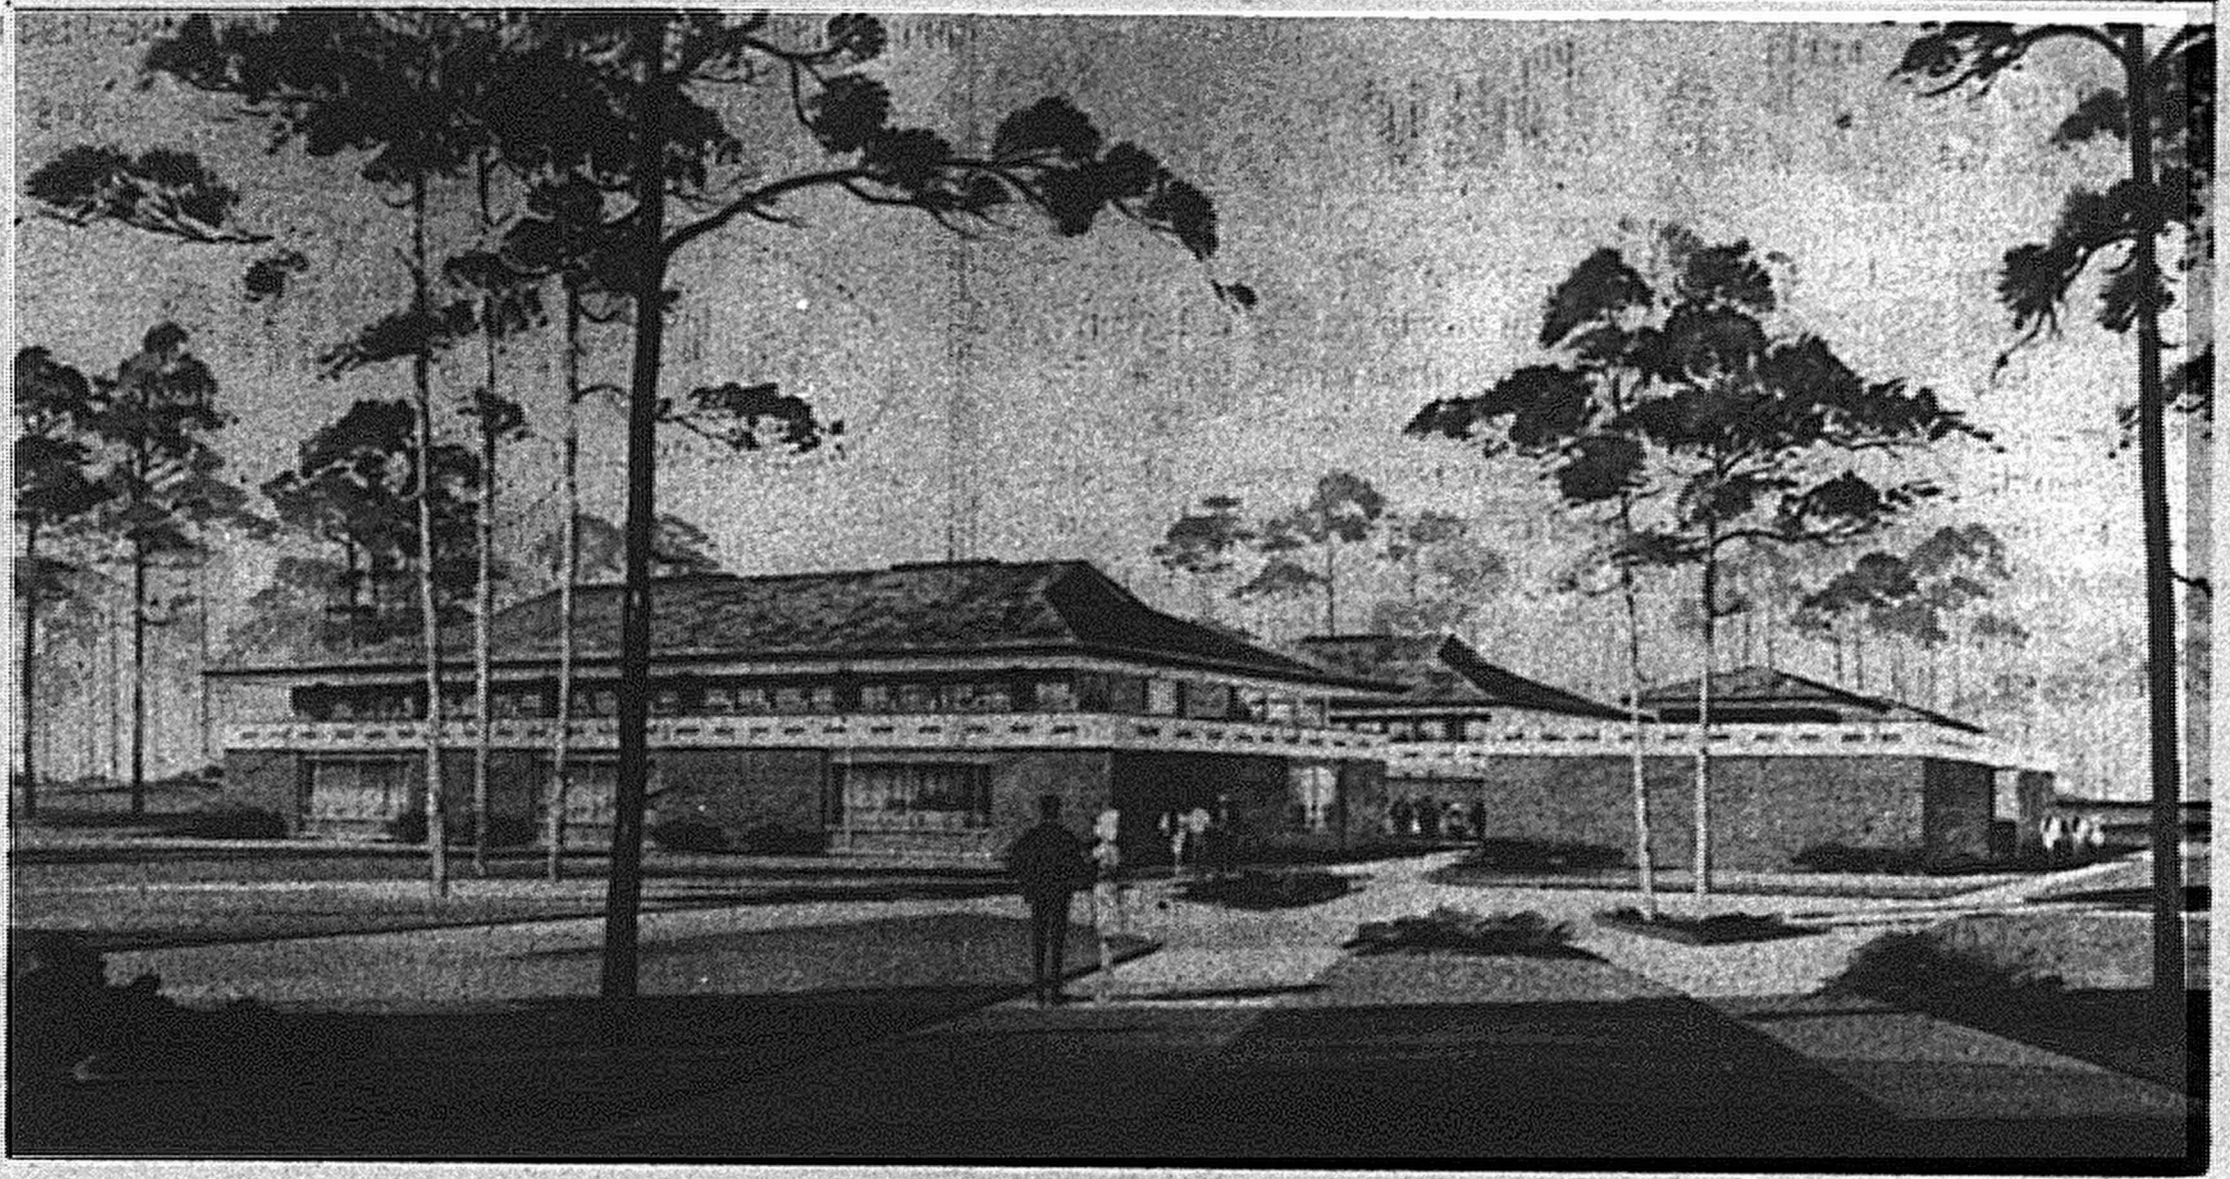

Flora Gill
Circulation Asst.

As the 1965-66 session of Christopher Newport College wears on, students new to the school will get to know most of their professors as they greet one another from day to day in and out of class. The four personages pictured at the left, however, will seldom be seen in class; but they will often be seen elsewhere around the college.

The first two—Miss Ramseur and Mr. Dunaway—handle much of the business of Christopher Newport. Miss Ramseur, as Registrar, looks after problems concerning student admissions and withdrawals. Mr. Dunaway, on the other hand, as the school's Business Manager, looks after the financial health of the College.

The latter two—Miss Mosteller and Mrs. Gill—with the aid of their staffs, look after the business of the College Library.

Gosnold Hall In Its Finished Future

Gosnold Hall—after the carpenters, electricians, and plumbers have finally hung up their tools for good and trekked away, and after the dust has settled to the earth and been tied down securely by lush, green grass—will, it is expected, look like the artist's conception printed above. The view shown (as seen by the artist who did the sketch) is one that future students of Christopher Newport College will have as they venture from the school's planned physical education building to whatever Lab classes they might have.

may see in the Lounge, like seven or ten bottle coke pyramids; they probably, if you see them, are not optical illusions.

The Student Lounge is a meeting place for "philosophers" and "intellectuals," not to mention broad-minded individuals who do not mind discussing any topic of conversation that might arise. Usually, discussions, of whatever nature, come swirling from out of the seas of smoke that tend to surround card games and sessions of television watching. On occasion, heated arguments erupt, with the result that a few vaporous (discomforting as high Humidity and every bit as uneverlastingly harmful) words are exchanged. But, since students are seldom, if ever, seen as "sedate" Homo sapiens, disagreements are to be expected.

This year the new lounge will feature more vending machines than the number that were on hand last year. In addition, students may enjoy the convenience of a (sigh!) coin-changer. During the 1964-65 school session, students had to utilize stupendous bargaining talents to obtain enough change to get a cake or sandwich(?). The question mark? Well, last session reportedly, an animal (other, that is, than one of the human species) refused to eat the machine's victuals. We do not know, but some say that the sandwiches came from someone who was less than a gourmet.

In any case, enjoy yourself in the Lounge; treat it as if it were your home. You know: Instead of washing the dishes (as you usually do after dinner at home), put your empty paper cups in the trash can, your empty bottles in the bottle racks. And, even if you are not frustrated, relax.

after class, do so; you will learn History. When your English professor advises you to memorize the "Black Print" in your Harbrace College Handbook, do so; you will not have any punctuation problems. Listen to your professors, utilize whatever wisdom they may possess, sort out the practical (as it befits you) from the impractical in what they say, and, then, go to work.

Work, but enjoy yourself. You can, you know. There is, believe it or not (as the cliché goes), an immense amount of pleasure to be culled from College curriculum. If you will, you can experience the strange pleasure of Tragedy, as you reason and suffer with Oedipus, Hamlet, and Blanch DuBois or Willie Lomen; you can take pleasure in seeing Christianity born, seeing it grow and prosper, and seeing and understanding why it was cleft in twain by the pressures of the Protestant Reformation; you, if you will, can take pleasure in a journey with Creation from first flagella, through final fin, and on to the most rudimentary mammalian limbs; you may even discover the lasting pleasure and peace of mind that comes with the realization that Life is more than newspaper headlines, new cars, and NASA-tic (newly coined, with an accent on the SA) send-offs.

The opportunity is here. So, sieze the day (as the poets say) and find out why you came to Christopher Newport College and why you should labor to stay. Hamlet, as you will, or have already learned, said, "We know what we are, but know not what we may be." You 'know, yourself, what you are.

WHY

There's more than fabric superiority in Gant. In addition, "needled-into the warp and woof of every Gant shirt" — there's flair-fit show — three vital inhereents that make all the difference when a man wears a Gant.

We chose Gant because they take shirt making seriously. They're hard to please (like we are) when it comes to fit of collar, its roll, its profile—how much it shows above the suit collar. They're fastidious about the way the body of the shirt drapes and folds. All must integrate to achieve that viable ingredient which gives comfort and aplomb. In substance, Gant shirts are keyed to the discerning tastes of well groomed men who appreciate quality. These men are our customers.

CNC's Director May Travel To Lexington

Director of Christopher Newport College, H. Westcott Cunningham, has been invited to attend a meeting of the Southern Regional Educational Board when it meets in Lexington, Kentucky, on October 10, 11, and 12.

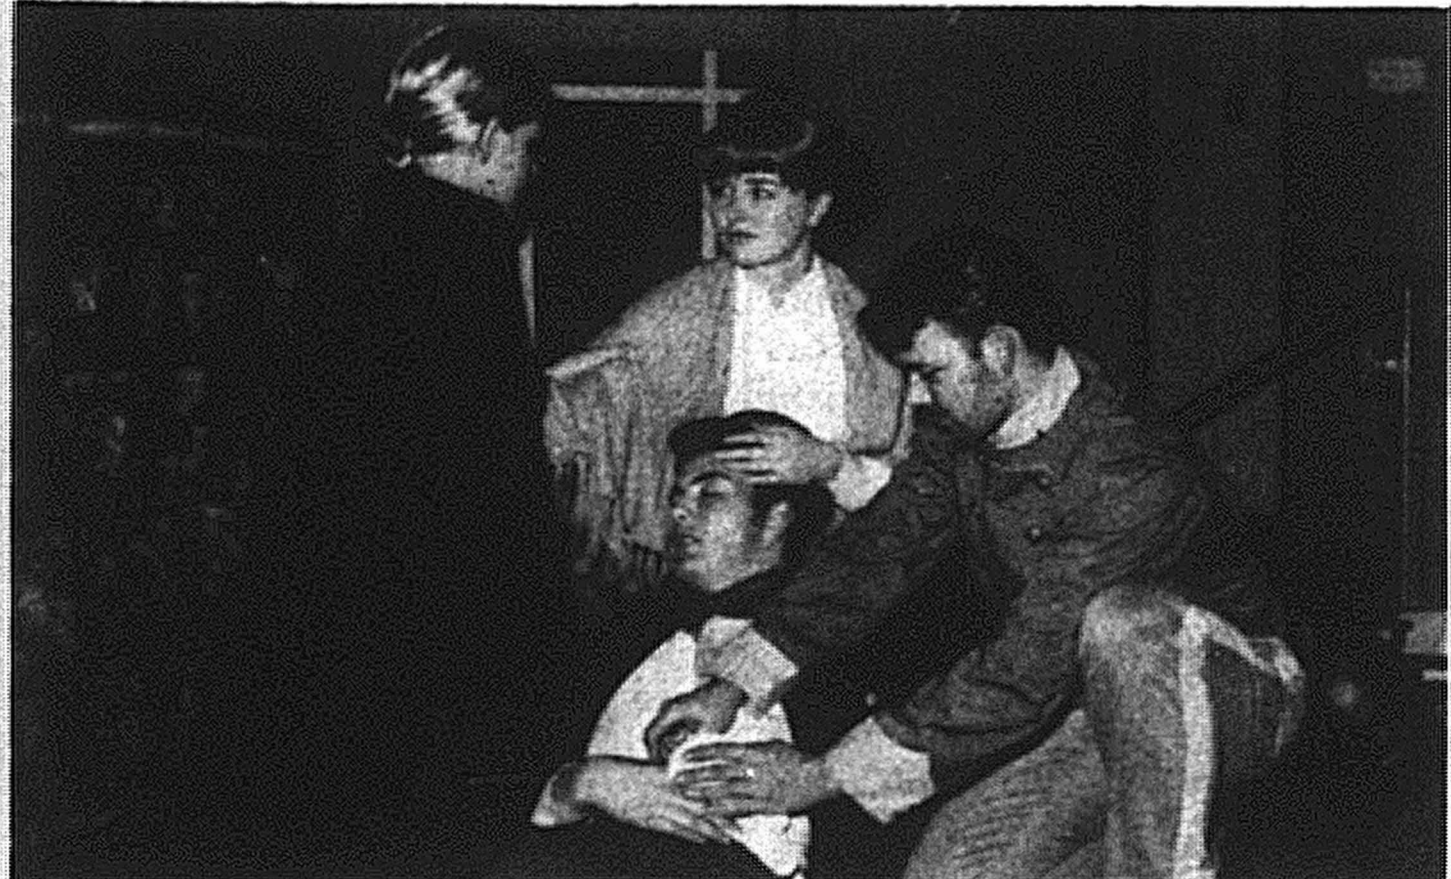

Serving as Chairman of this year's meeting will be Virginia's Governor Harrison. He spells Governor Terry Sanford, of South Carolina, who presided over the board in 1964. The Board's program is aimed at methods of financing community colleges.

Drama Workshop Participation Is Open To Anyone At Anytime

The Drama Workshop at Christopher Newport College is a unique organization and a vital part of life at college. It is a workshop—not a club. This is important in that students need not join at the beginning of the year. Instead, anyone with an interest and some free time may help anytime throughout the entire year. The organization is also unique in that there is no president; but, rather, a Student Workshop Director, who will be Larry Herman. Mr. Francis J. Kitchin helps as the Workshop Director. Mrs. Kitchin is the wife of Mr.

Larry Herman, Student Drama Workshop Director

Final Scene of "Cold Harbor," a '65 Production

William Kitchin, an English teacher, who is also Coordinator of the Evening College.

The Workshop accomplished a remarkable amount as a new organization last year. The student body and the surrounding community strongly supported its activities, and the coming year will provide even more opportunity to gain acclaim for the workshop. The activities last year included: two one-act plays, a radio play broadcast on WVEC, a visit to Ft. Eustis to perform two one-act plays. It contributed, also, to C. N. C.'s Spring Classic with an evening program, "Anything Goes" which consisted of dramatic readings and scenes from various plays. The Director, Mrs. Kitchin, will hold informal classes one night a week in drama, radio, and T.V. for anyone interested. The plans a three-act comedy whose title will for the coming year, which include be announced at a later date, hold many new opportunities to all students.

All students are invited to participate in this worthwhile activity; many are needed for work backstage as well as for parts in the actual productions. Everyone is encouraged to come to the workshop at the college anytime he has some spare time, to help on the current activity. Notices will be posted on the bulletin boards throughout the year for play try-outs and any other Workshop news. So, old and new students, please help this organization grow; and, in turn, you may become an active personality at C. N. C. over students going away to college in that they don't have the "initial adjustment" of college academics along with a new environment. Mr. Cunningham also asks for cooperation from students concerning the occupancy of the new Science Building, which may not be completed when classes begin. However, he expects the building to be completely ready for use within two weeks after school begins. The Science Building will have eleven new classrooms and eight new science laboratories.

Something new added this year for freshmen is a pre-testing program which will be used for placement purposes.
