

Graduation Set For June 2

NAN STRINGFIELD, Staff

The new gymnasium will be the location for graduation exercises to be held on Friday, June 2, at 4 p. m. If the gym is not completed, the lecture room in Christopher Newport Hall will be used. For the first time at CNC there will be a procession in caps and gowns. The choir, the candidates for degrees, and the faculty will march in the procession.

The invocation and benediction will be given by the Reverend William P. Johnson, III, curate of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church and Episcopal chaplain for the students here. Dean James C. Windsor will be the marshal for the degree candidates, Dean W. Stephen Sanderlin will present the candidates with the degrees, and Director H. Westcott Cunningham will confer the degrees.

Parke Shepherd Rouse, Jr., will be the featured speaker. He was born in Smithfield, educated in Newport News public schools, and graduated from Washington and Lee University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1937. Mr. Rouse served in World War II as a Naval officer, and, after serving as a reporter for the Times-Herald in Newport News as well as the Richmond Times-Dispatch, he became director of public relations of the Virginia Chamber of Commerce, director of publications for Colonial Williamsburg, and finally executive director of Virginia's 350th Anniversary Commission. He is married to the former Elizabeth Gayle and has three children.

Besides writing for newspapers Mr. Rouse has written a number of books. They include: Virginia: The English Heritage in America; The City That Turned Back Time; They Gave Up Freedom; Williamsburg in Color; The Colonial Printer; and a James-town Guidebook. He has also written articles in the New York Times and the Saturday Evening Post.

Awards of all types have been bestowed upon Mr. Rouse. They include: first awards in feature and editorial writing from the Virginia Press Association, the Public Relations Award from the Richmond Public Relations Association, The Meritorious Service Award from the Virginia Travel Council, and the Freedom Foundation Award. He is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa; past governor of the Jamestown Society; past president of the Williamsburg Rotary Club, the Williamsburg Chamber of Commerce, and the Williamsburg Community Council; and has served on the boards of the Williamsburg Community Hospital and the Williamsburg-James City Council of the United Fund.

Following the graduation ceremony, which is open to the public, a reception for the graduates, their families, and the faculty will be held in the student lounge.

The 30 degree candidates this year compose one-fifth of the sophomores who plan to continue in college. All of these candidates have fulfilled the requirement for the Associate of Arts degrees which are 12 hours of English, ten hours of science, six hours of history, and six hours of math or philosophy. They have maintained at least a 1.00 average.

Because these requirements are more strict than those of many four-year colleges, many students do not choose to meet them, but instead choose to work toward the requirements for a degree from the college to which they plan to transfer.

For 1967-'68 Term

Students Elect New Officers

Lynn Lindberg was elected Student Government Association president for the term beginning in September, 1967, at the general election held May 3. Voting was done outside of the Student Lounge and was open to all full-time students enrolled in good standing at Christopher Newport.

Elected to the other SGA offices were Vera Knez, vice-president; Sally Deazley, secretary; and Linda Dingledein, treasurer. The position of treasurer was the only contested office.

Present Freshmen also elected students to serve them as Sophomore officers next year. Elected include Corky Tierney, president; Peggy Jarvis, vice-president; Toni Swanson, secretary; and Carolyn Watson, treasurer.

Upcoming Sophomore assemblymen elected on May 3 are Marian Donnelly, Dale Hargrave, Dick Jones, Cheryl Kabana, Carol Pesko, Terry Sowder, Pat Thomas, Jeff Trask, and Linda Watson. John Dyksen was elected by present Sophomores to serve as Junior assemblyman next year.

1966-'67 SGA President Bob Buriak officiated at the ceremony at which the new officers and assemblymen were sworn into office.

Newly elected Student Government Association officers include Vera Knez, vice-president; Lynn Lindberg, president; and Sally Deazley, secretary. Also elected was Linda Dingledein, treasurer.

Deadline Approaches For Summer Session

All students wishing to attend the 1967 Summer Session of the Evening College at Christopher Newport are reminded that all admission requirements are to be completed before Monday, June 12.

This Summer Session is designed to serve those students who wish to accelerate their programs, that is, high school graduates who have been accepted for the Fall Session and who wish to begin their college education earlier; those students who wish to make up deficiencies in their educational programs; and those students who wish to become certified to teach in public schools, that is, students who aspire to be teachers and who must complete certain courses in order to obtain their teaching certificates.

Many students also wish to take summer jobs during the day and the Evening College's Summer Session allows them to continue their education during the summer even though they work.

The nine-week Summer Session, which covers a year's work, carries a tuition fee of 15 dollars per semester hour. An auditing fee of five dollars for each semester hour of credit will be charged those who wish to simply audit a course. The minimum auditing fee will be 15 dollars.

Anyone desiring additional information about the Summer Session is asked to contact Mr. William W. Kitchin, Coordinator of the Evening College, Christopher Newport College, Shoe Lane, Newport News, Va., 23606. The telephone number to call is 596-7611, Extension 46.

Campus News Briefs

The Original Club in downtown Newport News will be the scene tonight of the Spring Semi-Formal sponsored by the Student Government Association in conjunction with the Freshman and Sophomore classes.

Scheduled to last from 8 p. m. until 1 a. m., the dance will feature the music of The Delnotes and The Shepherders International Trade Union.

Tickets are priced at $3.00 per couple.

The Student Athletic Association has donated some CNC T-shirts to the Sophomore class. Proceeds from the sale of these shirts will go into the James C. Windsor Student Loan Fund, initiated by the Sophomore class this year.

Editors for the three college publications have been selected and approved by the SGA Publications Committee.

Nannette Stringfield and Dale Hargrave will co-edit the 1967-'68 Captain's Log. Dan Clark will assume the duties of editing the yearbook, The Trident, and Jim Spielberger, the present editor of the literary magazine, The Undertow, will continue in his present position.

At the present time, Dan is consulting with representatives from various printing companies in an effort to obtain a contract for next year's annual.

Progress Replaces Charge Of Apathy

Being the rapidly expanding community college that it is, Christopher Newport ought to be founded, during these growing years, in accomplishment rather than in apathy.

It seems, however, that a lack of student involvement has been discussed all year. It has been called concern, lack of school spirit, and student apathy, but regardless of the label, it has been said to exist.

True, the campus had an apathetic air at the beginning of the year, but this was probably due to the late elections of class officers and subsequent late date that they began functioning.

An argument against progress during the latter part of the year, however, is hardly valid. A glance at some of the accomplishments of CNC tends to override the apathetic attitude that existed in September.

The Sophomore class initiated a student loan fund that not only honored Dean of Students James C. Windsor, but also provided short-term loans for students needing them. The Circle K sponsored a bloodmobile which surpassed its expected goal of blood donations. The Student Government Association sponsored the Christmas formal, the speech by Mr. Clifford Hill of the British Embassy, the First Annual Variety Show (the proceeds of which went toward the adoption of a child in Vietnam), and the social get-together between Richard Bland College of Petersburg and CNC.

Now, as the year ends and the new officers have been elected to lead Christopher Newport next year, a question is raised — will CNC continue to advance and completely rid itself of the student apathy that prevailed, for a time, at the beginning of this year? There is every indication that such a question can be answered with an emphatic yes.

It all depends, however, on the new officers, with the full support of the student body, realizing their responsibilities and continuing the progress begun this year to make Christopher Newport a place where students will proudly and eagerly become involved.

Two CNC Students Express Sentiments

(Editor's Note: The William and Mary Board of Visitors' refusal to grant Christopher Newport permission to offer an expanded third-year program during the 1967-'68 session, coupled with the recent denial of the use of Blow Gymnasium by Christopher Newport and Richard Bland College (both extensions of the Williamsburg institution), has aroused much controversy here at CNC.

With regard to the latter point, a letter to the editor in the last issue of The Captain's Log revealed the fact that "W&M felt that their facilities (namely Blow Gym) were so overburdened they were unwilling to accept the reservation of an outside group." Such an attitude on the part of the "parent" college of both of the groups desiring the use of the gymnasium came as a shock to those at CNC who had planned the meeting between Richard Bland and CNC. In addition, the letter from William and Mary stated that "W&M does not usually schedule athletic events on Sundays." It is interesting to note that a Lacrosse game was held at William and Mary several Sundays ago!

Although the following prayer has already been circulated throughout the campus, the staff of The Captain's Log feels that it merits space in this issue. The staff acknowledges Mike Haywood and Mike Joyce, whose time and effort in preparing this prayer are appreciated by a great number of students at CNC who share their sentiments on the matters involved.)

THE STUDENT'S PRAYER

*Our father which art in Williamsburg,
Hallowed (?) be thy name?
A new kingdom come. A greater "will" be done
At Christopher Newport, as it was at Old Dominion!
Give us this year our separate status
And forgive us our excellence, as
We forgive your disdain.
And lead us not into oblivion; for
Thine WAS a kingdom that has lost
Its power and glory forever! Amen*

May Captain's Mate Is Christine Neilson

"I like cities," says Christine Neilson, May's Captain's Mate. "I like traveling too. I lived in England for six years and consider New York and England as my two homes."

Born at West Point Military Academy, Christine plans to return to New York City to work this summer.

Christine enjoys folk music, Simon and Garfunkel, and Judy Collins.

When asked about Christopher Newport, she said, "There is a great lack of school spirit. The SGA Variety Show was a good example. It's not really the school's fault, though," she added. "People do not live close together here as in a dorm school."

Christine plans to make a career for herself as a librarian. She wants to major in Sociology. Going to William and Mary next year, she would "love to go to graduate school at Columbia University."

Miss Christine Neilson, May's Captain's Mate, was elected by the student body to serve as a princess on Miss CNC's court, which was announced at the Christmas formal, sponsored by the Student Government Association.

CNC Comes Of Age, Says Mr. Cunningham

As the curtain falls on the College's sixth year of operation I should like to congratulate the entire college community on a year of marked accomplishment. Usually this sort of thing is done at the end of one year, or five, or ten, or some other magic number. This year, however, I feel that Christopher Newport has come of age.

First of all I would like to commend the faculty and the student body for the remarkable forbearance and maturity that was exercised by everyone in the face of the news that the proposal to offer a widely-expanded upper division program during the session 1967-1968 had been delayed. In many places such an announcement might have prompted irrational actions, but not so here. I am extremely proud of everyone.

During the year, under the even hand of a newly appointed Dean of the Faculty, the faculty organized itself under a strong and lucid set of by-laws. Committees were formed and the business of the College has been going forward according to best academic practice. Regular faculty meetings have been held to provide a forum for mature exchange of opinion. These meetings have profited the College a great deal.

Student activities have flourished this year, and it has been extremely gratifying to see the enthusiasm with which the student body has participated in the full round of extracurricular activity now available on this campus. The SGA, the Circle K, the staff of the Log, the choir, the dramatic workshop, the athletic association, the various student religious organizations, and the basketball and track teams are but a few of the student groups which should be commended for a fine year. Christopher Newport is growing up and things augur well for a continuing development in the various extracurricular pursuits.

The Library continues to expand its fine collection and now it has become an excellent resource for students, faculty and the community. We must exert every effort to continue rapid growth in the College's holdings. We were especially fortunate in April to receive about six hundred extremely valuable volumes from the nautical collection of a very generous Mr. Alexander Crosby Brown. With the completion of new, modern library facilities prior to September 1967, the College will add one more strong link to its growing chain of cultural opportunities available to everyone. On September 11, 1965 when Governor Mills E. Godwin, Jr. spoke on the occasion of the dedication of the College he concluded his remarks by saying, "For surely Christopher Newport College is well on its way to becoming the educational and cultural center of this vital area of our Commonwealth."

Finally, and perhaps the most meaningful experience the College has undergone during the past year, has been the self-study which has been conducted and is now nearing completion. It is the fervent hope of everyone here that this study and the October 1967 visitation by a committee from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools will result in complete and independent accreditation by this regional association. Certainly a word of sincere appreciation must be voiced to our parent institution which for six years has shared its accreditation with us and through this sharing of accreditation has enabled our students to receive fully accredited degrees and to transfer to senior institutions all over the country without difficulty.

It gives me great pleasure to thank everyone for a meaningful and profitable year and to wish each of you a very pleasant summer holiday. I hope that you will return in September with renewed vigor to a campus whose physical growth is being matched stride for stride by its intellectual growth. We shall make every effort to continue to broaden the College's academic offerings in order to assure Christopher Newport students a rich academic experience.

Director Cunningham

Inclinations...

JOSEPH LEWIS, Staff

This, of course, is my last column, and my last chance to tell everyone what I know. (Al-right, nada.) But the real purpose now, I suppose, must be to tell you what I remember, or what I will remember. I'm getting out, so I might as well tell what I did when I was in (not in). The memorabilia are as follows.

English class and maybe learning to write. But I sometimes doubt it. Oh, these ridiculous in-class essays, where you should produce something in 50 minutes, something cogent, something precise — in 50 lousy minutes. Should rhetoric be reduced to automation? Or the overbearing presence of sad literature. People never laugh when they read for English classes.

History class and Friday morning quizzes. Who, what, where, when, significance. Outline the French revolution. Locate the Arno river.

Science? Well, zoology I flunked the first year I was here because it is infinitely boring to catalog the animal universe.

Enough of the classes for the moment because everyone has had them, are having them, will have them. They're part of our make-up. We might even learn something from sitting in them for nine months.

Actually, I could write a novel of social protest (since I don't live the protest), and show how foolish some parts of Higher Education really are. Well, maybe not foolish. Let's say meaningless. I wonder if number nine of "Topics for Writing" in A Casebook on Existentialism is applicable: "The American university or college and the kingdom of anxiety." But what do we have to be anxious about?

Everything. But everyone can survive. Everyone can make something out of nothing. And since we are college students, we can do things that we might have been hindered from doing before — like learn, think, rebel. We can become human beings.

And CNC as well as anywhere to humanize us. I have learned things here, and I'll remember them. And even Christopher Newport College I'll remember, and the recollections might be pleasant. That's all you can ask.

New Officers Elected, Projects Announced

Ottawa, Canada, is the destination this summer for members of Christopher Newport's Circle K club. The International Convention of Circle K Clubs will be held in that city from August 27 through August 30. While in Canada, the CNC delegation plans to visit Expo '67 in Montreal.

Plans are in the making for various projects for next year. Under the leadership of newly elected President David McCormick, the club hopes to sponsor another visit by the Red Cross bloodmobile. This year the club exceeded its expected goal of 115 pints of blood when the mobile unit visited the campus under the club's sponsorship.

The prospects of a used book sale are being discussed by the club members. If accepted as a project, the sale will be held at the beginning of the '67 fall term.

New student directories will be published by the organization in the fall. According to David, it is hoped that they will be ready for distribution during the first weeks of school next year.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

The Scene: Jamestown Beach
The Time: April 30, 1967

The area was swarming with people. What was it? Another Normandy Invasion? No! It was the CNC-Richard Bland Beach party. And what a party! I thought it was beautiful. The spirit of goodwill and generosity which flowed between the two groups was appreciated by all.

Since The Captain's Log is concerned with spreading news, I present these first hand reports about the beach party for those poor souls who weren't there.

Peggy Jarvis: "It was real great to get CNC together on something. I found that it was good experience socializing with another junior college. We have a lot in common. I hope we can plan another one just like it before the end of the semester."

Charles Flaherty: "What can I say except that we have another one? I enjoyed the softball game very much." (Poor Charles, there was no softball game!)

Dick Jones: "D-m, that water was cold!"

Bob Hines: "I had a good time and I liked seeing the student body finally get together on something. There was no apathy on this function. Let's have another one!"

Rusty Hilditch: "It was a very invigorating experience. It was quite different than anything CNC is accustomed to!"

So, congratulations to the SGA and, to you who did not attend, better luck next year!

SGA Adopts Orphan

A check in the amount of one hundred and twenty dollars was presented to Dr. Edmund W. Janss, a representative of the Christian Children's Fund, by SGA President Bob Buriak at the First Annual SGA Variety Show, held last month. The money, proceeds from the show will be used to adopt a Vietnamese orphan, through the CCF, for one year.

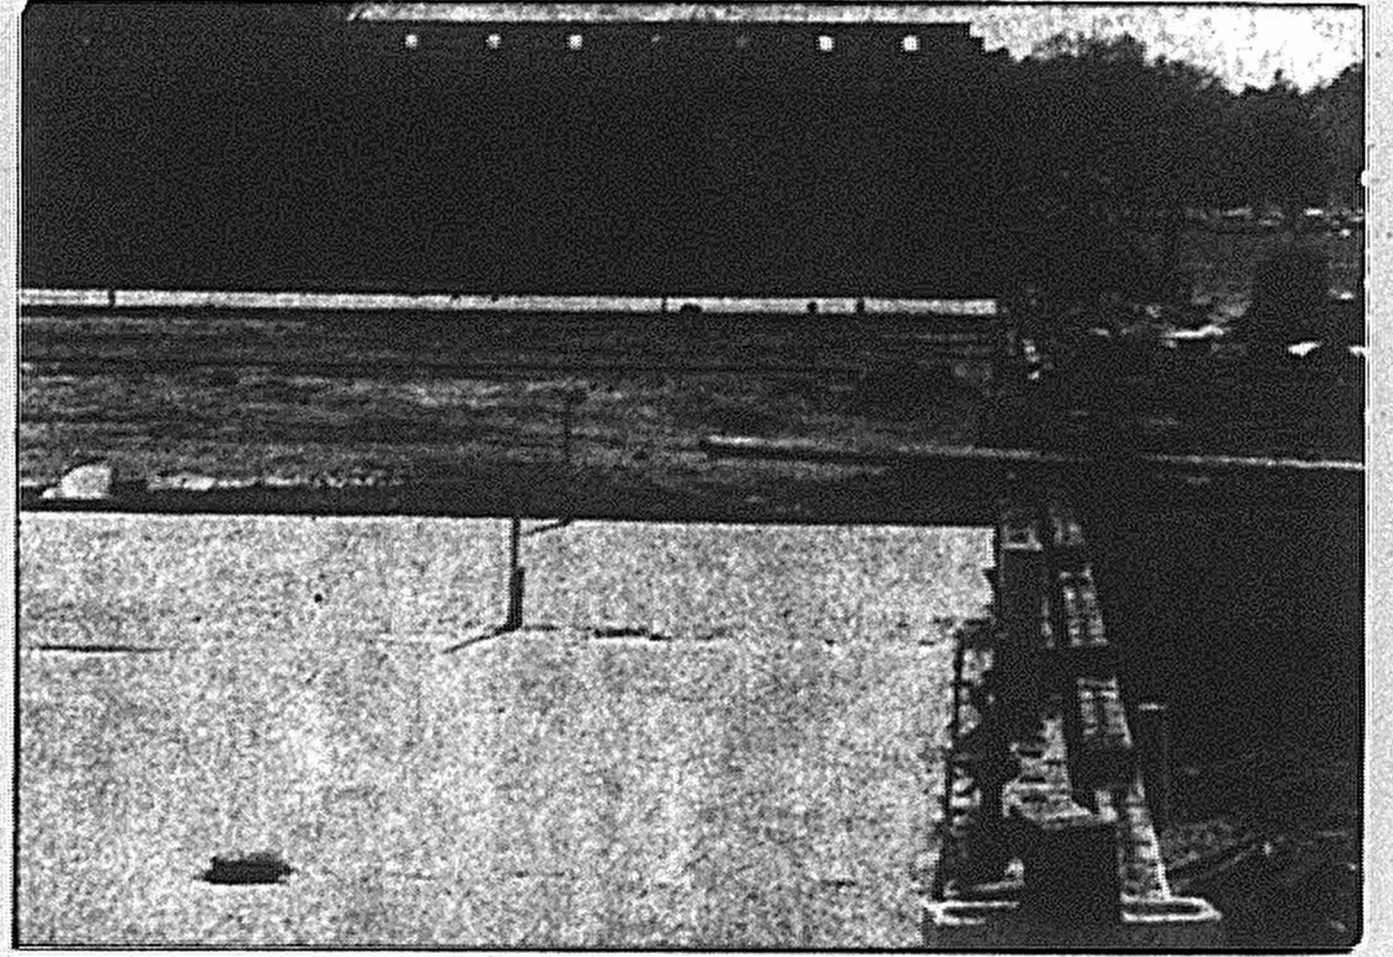

Awards for group and individual competition were awarded at the end of the evening of entertainment.

Ron Hochheimer, representing the Freshman class, took first place in the group category. Ron played classical as well as popular piano selections. Placing second in the group competition was the Christopher Newport Choir, which performed a medley from South Pacific.

Sue Wheldon, who sang "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," an aria from the opera Samson and Delilah by Saint Saens, as well as several popular songs, placed first in the individual competition. Rodney Hespenshield and Dave Huchins, folk singers, placed second, and Carrie Sue Clark, who sang several popular songs, placed third. All award winners were presented with certificates from the SGA.

Library-Administration Building Rises

European Study Open To Eligible Transfer Students

Freshmen and Sophomores who are transferring from Christopher Newport for the September 1967 session to U.S. four-year liberal arts colleges are eligible to apply for five undergraduate programs in Europe.

An intense summer language session in France and fall-semester programs in Austria, Germany, Spain, and France will be inaugurated this year by the Institute of European Studies, a Chicago-based educational institute for study abroad.

The six-week summer program will begin June 19 in Nantes, France. This program has been instituted primarily for students who need accelerated instruction in French before participation in academic-year programs at the Institute's Nantes and Paris centers. The summer program is, however, also open to students who do not intend to pursue further studies in France.

The fall-semester programs will be offered at the Institute's centers in Paris; Madrid; Freiburg, West Germany; and Vienna. (Participation in the Vienna fall-semester program is restricted to students from the 21 colleges belonging to the Institute's Council of Affiliated Institutions, so students interested in this program should check with the college to which they are transferring to see if they are eligible.)

For further information students are asked to contact Mr. Robert Mander, The Institute of European Studies, 35 E. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill., 60601.

Classes Putt To An End

VERA KNEZ, Staff

Bowling classes, part of the physical education program this year, ended with a tournament and, as the year draws to a close, the bowlers can look back on their attempts at golf, which comprised the second part of the phys. ed. course.

The "course" used by the students enrolled in the gym classes was the lawn to the rear of Christopher Newport Hall and the field behind the site of the new library-administration building.

To familiarize the students with the game of golf and to inform them of the rules of the game were the main purposes of the instruction. Performance was graded on general improvement as the term progressed and on the score of written tests which concentrated on rules and terminology. Most of the class time was spent in actual practice in an attempt to learn the correct use of the different clubs.

Some students gained experience on a real golf course by contributing toward a book of tickets to be used at Newport Park Golf Course. The tickets offered them a reduced rate of two dollars, rather than three, for 18 holes of golf. One advantage, besides practical experience, of playing a game of 18 holes was that it was equal to two class cuts.

"What are all those kids doing running around in the woods?" was the initial reaction of many students, who were not in the golf class, when practice first started on the school lawn.

Visible from the windows of the Business Office, the golfers got reactions from the office personnel. "It's been interesting to note the great improvement of the students. It was hilarious at first, but we've really enjoyed it. Sometimes we wished we could play!" One lady remarked that students were always coming into the business office to borrow scotch tape for their blisters.

According to Miss Lillian Seats, instructor, the attitude of the students in the class was very good. They improved rapidly and the practice "kept them warm on cold days" she said. Miss Seats felt, however, that lack of a proper putting green was a disadvantage to the class.

Those enrolled in the course expressed admiration for Miss Seats. "She's patient," was the most-offered comment. The students felt that the class was a great idea and that it gave an opportunity to learn the game to many who would otherwise have never had the chance. Most of the students wished they could have done better, and some of them put some of the blame on the golf course. "There ain't no golf course out there!" was the emphatic opinion of one boy.

Other student opinions were "I wish they would have mowed the lawn," and "The course had moles and gophers." One student said, "You had to actually dig the golf ball out of the dirt and grass; it was plain old pitiful, but it was fun!"

The above photograph was taken at the phys. ed. department's bowling tournament. Jim Kooi placed first in the competition. Other winners were Jim Parker, second; Buddy Haley, third; and Allen Sorrell, fourth.
