Business Woman Update

Christopher Newport College will host "Professional Update for Women in Business," a two-day workshop on September 22 and 23, 9:00 a.m.-4:30 p.m. on both days. These workshops will allow participants to follow a controlled and systematic flow of material resulting in an effective and comprehensive program designed to help women acquire successful techniques for dealing with business colleagues and situations.

The leader for these two sessions will be Pamela L. Noel, a career education specialist who has conducted workshops for professional women both here and on the West Coast. Her degrees are in behavioral science, counseling, and education, and she has earned credentials in psychology, guidance, and personnel services.

The cost to each participant for this two-day workshop is $100.00, including collateral material. All fees, including registration, travel, and living accommodations, are tax deductible. For additional information and registration procedures, call 599-7158.

New Graduation Dates

Because of scheduling conflicts at the Coliseum, graduation exercises will not be held on the dates as set forth in the current catalogue. The new graduation dates for 1979 are as follows: 7:30 p.m., Monday, January 8, 1979; 7:30 p.m., Thursday, May 17, 1979.

Vice-Presidential Debates

There will be a meeting of the vice-presidential candidates for the Student Association outside the Campus Center on Wednesday from 12:15 to 1 p.m. Each will present his platform to interested students and will be open to questions following the presentation.

The candidates running for this office are Dale Warden, Sherrill Lantz and Bill Humphreys. All students are urged to attend.

Write a Resume

Mr. Jay Dunn, Technical Recruiter for Newport News Shipbuilding, will be present in the Campus Center Theatre on Wednesday, September 20, between noon and 1 p.m. for all students interested in learning "How to Write a Resume." Mr. Dunn has had a number of years experience in personnel work with the Newport News Shipbuilding. He will provide a number of examples of resumes which will prove to be very helpful to students interested in this subject.

New dean of students arrives

by Kenneth Gillespie

Dr. Charles Behymer, newly appointed Dean of Student Affairs, thinks that students coming into college from high school with severe reading and writing problems is a problem with which colleges have to cope. Dean Behymer said, "I think we have an obligation to the students to try and take them from wherever they are and eventually graduate them at the level we feel they ought to be at."

Dean Behymer took over his duties on Thursday, September 14, and was introduced to the Board of Visitors and student leaders on the same day. He succeeds Philbert Doleac as Dean of Student Affairs. Doleac was appointed temporary dean following the death of Dean William Polis.

Prior to his appointment here, the Ohio-born Behymer was Associate Dean of Student Affairs at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Dean Behymer, 33, now resides in Newport News with his wife Jan, 4-year-old daughter Kelly, and 8-month-old son Jeffery.

When asked how colleges could cope with the reading and writing handicaps of incoming students, Behymer feels that by using special writing tests and setting up special writing classes and programs, the problem could be reduced.

Dean Behymer had this to say on what the Dean of Student Affairs is: "I think the Dean of Student Affairs is a liaison between the students and the administration and the students and the faculty." Behymer feels that a student with a problem should be able to come to the Dean of Student Affairs and be directed in the right way.

When asked about any possible changes in the policy of the Dean's office, Behymer said it was "way too early to say." He added that he was just beginning to review the policies of the Dean's office. He added that he will "try very hard not to come into this job or any other job with Health Services, University Judicial System, and the Student Government Association. He has also served as Director of Admissions and Financial Aid and as an admissions counselor at the Detroit Institute of Technology in Detroit, Michigan. Dean Behymer is also the author of numerous papers.

Behymer said that he was attracted to Christopher Newport because it offered satisfaction in his career goal. He and his wife like the outdoors and being near the ocean, and the Tidewater area satisfies

any preconceived ideas about making changes."

Dean Behymer has his B.A. in English from the University of Maryland, his M.A. in counseling and student personnel from Eastern Michigan University, and his Ph.D. in higher education from the University of Michigan.

Dean Behymer's responsibilities while at Duquesne University included the supervision of the Departments of Counseling and Student Development.

Board approves 78-79 budget

by Melissa Edeburn

The Board of Visitors got things moving at a meeting last Thursday by approving an operating budget of over $6 million for CNC during the 1978-79 year. Board members also designated uses for funds raised last year and approved revisions that allow CNC to conform to the Governor's affirmative action plan submitted to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW).

CNC's budget figure, $6,262,454.00 exactly, is the largest budget the school has ever received. Sixty-five percent of the money came from tax funds--the highest percentage CNC has ever enjoyed. Next year members are hoping the tax funds will reach 70 percent of the budget--a goal the school has been working on for over eight years.

The Board, which has scheduled a luncheon the first week in November for the state legislature, might be discussing

Bell proposes Senate liquidation

(SIS) Bill Bell, Student Association president, announced last Friday that he will introduce legislation this week to the Executive Committee to liquidate the Student Senate. This move, says Bell, is necessary due to a lack of cooperation on the part of the Senate.

The Senate, comprised of representatives from each discipline on campus, presently holds equal power with the Executive Committee, as well as acting as a check on the Committee's power. It can do the work of the Executive branch or it can veto their actions.

CNC's successful fund drive with Virginia house and senate members. Both the board members and President Windsor

Bell, who also chairs the committee, will introduce legislation which will, in effect, shut down the Senate. This will be done on Thursday, September 21, following conclusion of the CAC Supervisory Committee meeting. It will be tabled because of the nature of the legislation.

"This legislation is required," says Bell, "because the Senate refuses to do its job, and, as a consequence, is bogging down the SA."

Non-student arrested – disorderly conduct

by Mark CS Funk

Acting in the line of duty, Officer Calvin Ivey of the CNC Police Force arrested 21-year-old Robert Shaffer, charging him with trespassing, resisting arrest, assault on a police officer, disorderly conduct, and public drunkenness. The incident occurred in the Pub on Friday, Sept. 15, around 2:00.

Shaffer, a resident of Hampton, is not a CNC student.

The incident began when a female student came to the police booth from the Pub to report that there was a man within who was "making trouble." Officer Ivey entered the Pub and found Shaffer, allegedly drunk and disorderly.

According to Ivey, Shaffer would not leave the Pub until Ivey produced his handcuffs. At that time, Shaffer walked peacefully to the police booth where Ivey examined the suspect's identification card.

When the officer asked Shaffer if he would leave if his ID was returned, Shaffer allegedly became "disagreeable" and very reluctant to leave. Ivey then decided to arrest his suspect for trespassing.

After searching the man for a weapon and once again producing his handcuffs, Ivey claims that Shaffer shoved him away, remarking that "No nigger would arrest a honky" before escaping. When he recovered, Ivey gave chase but was unable to restrain the man.

Officer Ivey telephoned the Newport News Police to be on the alert for Shaffer. Ivey then went downtown to obtain a warrant for Shaffer's arrest. During this time, Newport News Police succeeded in apprehending the escapee.

Forum goes prime-time

Dr. Robert J. Edwards, Dean of Academic Affairs, recently announced that "Faculty Forum," the CNC-sponsored radio program, has been moved to WGH-FM radio with an expanded format and will begin October 4.

The program, which was aired last year in a 15-minute, late evening time slot, will be presented this year at 7:00 p.m. on Wednesdays in a 25-minute time slot. Another change involves using faculty members from all of Tidewater's colleges and universities instead of only CNC, as in the past.

Dr. James M. Morris, Professor of History, is the moderator of the show. He interviews faculty members about topics of current interest within their areas of special competence. In the past, program topics have ranged from women's athletics and inflation to William Styron's Lie Down in Darkness and Jefferson's political philosophy. After the shows have been aired, the cassette tapes are deposited in the Captain John Smith Library for reference use by the students.

Dr. Edwards expressed the College's enthusiastic support for "Faculty Forum" as an excellent means of serving the Tidewater community and urged the students to listen to the program regularly as part of their educational program.

Organizational fair to be held for clubs and organizations

On Sept. 27 there will be an Organization Fair held in the Campus Center from 11:00 until 3:00.

For all students, this fair will allow you to scout out the different organizations and activities held on campus, ask questions, and join the activity of your interest.

For all clubs, this is a great opportunity to inform students that you do exist, recruit new members, display information, and compare notes with other groups on campus. Contact the SAC in CC-231 or phone 599-7197 about reservations.

Come on out and meet new people, new groups, new experiences, and new interests.

Office of Career Planning and Placement acquires directories

The Office of Career Planning and Placement recently acquired telephone directories from most of the major cities in the United States. The majority of the directories contain yellow pages. The C & P Telephone Company has assured members of the Placement Office that new directories will replace the old ones each year.

These directories have been used increasingly by the students and graduates of Christopher Newport College. The major reason for having these directories is to find a particular company name or government agency's address and telephone number for employment purposes. The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company very generously donated these directories to the Placement Office.

The staff of the Office of Career Planning and Placement has been able to contact many companies through the use of the telephone directories, thereby providing greater assistance for our seniors and graduates.

If the Placement Office can assist you in other ways, please come by and make an appointment between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, in the Campus Center, Room 208.

Temporary parking lot established

A temporary parking lot to accommodate approximately 100 cars has been established on the north side of the gym next to the tennis court. Currently the new lot will only accommodate approximately 50 cars, but will be ready for full utilization sometime this week.

Initiation costs are not great. A one-time national dues of $12.00 is required, which makes you a life-time member and entitles you to a 1-year subscription to the society's journal, Sociological Inquiry, and eligibility for the Civil Service Commission's GS-7 grade rather than the GS-5 grade normally applicable to the bachelor's degree.

For further information and application forms, contact Dr. Chung-Wu Chang, AKD faculty advisor, in the Sociology Department, 599-7115.

Currents chooses 1978-79 editors

Currents, the CNC literary magazine, recently selected students to fill key staff positions for the 1978-79 academic year.

Nancy Jett, a graduate of Newport News High School—the old school—has accepted the position of Photography Editor. Nancy completed the photography course at CNC in May of this year. She views the assignment with Currents as both a personal achievement of her photographic skills and as a challenge to every "Shutterbug" on campus to excell in bettering the quality of photographs that are so important to the success of the magazine. She knows that in the hands of the students are truly excellent pictures that just must be a tribute to the faculty and the students.

Nancy has a son Glenn and a daughter Dana at Menchville High and a son Michael at Carver Intermediate School. Her husband Morris is in Iran and will be reunited with the family in December.

Janet Lingebach assumed the position of Literary Editor. Jane, a sophomore, is a graduate of Kecoughtan High School and is a biology major. She writes poetry and seeks to bring the poetic talents of the student body to the surface and into the pages of Currents for the enjoyment of all. Jane says, "Many of the students have secreted away short verses and stories which at one time were most intimate. Time has robbed the items of their personal meaning, and now the writings have matured into thoughts to be gainfully shared by everyone."

Jane is busy reviewing the files of Undertow and Currents and setting the standards which she expects will make this issue of Currents the best ever.

Bart Weakley—he is known to the media room as Jeff—sized the opportunity for a little experience in the business world and took the position of Treasurer. Bart is a York High graduate and in his senior year here at CNC has just about achieved his goal as a political science and philosophy major.

Currents' Art Editor is a graduate of Hampton High and before joining the staff was the art editor at Meredith College in Raleigh, N.C. We would like you to keep her name in mind—Leslie Cross.

Leslie is expecting great art work from Bety Anglin's Basic Drawing and Design class, Ken Bowen's Life Drawing class, and from the painting classes of Dr. Stuart Van Orden.

With the rounding out of the staff it becomes even more important that the students, staff, faculty, and alumni get their material submitted. Material should be left on the desk in the Currents office and should bear the name, telephone number, and address of the person submitting it.

Tentatively, representatives of the staff will be available at the office on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 11:00 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. and 4 to 5:30 p.m. The editor, George G. Mosgrove, may be reached by phone at 898-4146.

Black Student Association hopes to integrate Negroes and black people on CNC campus

by Mark Funk

"Let us seek the integration of Negroes with black people," said Don L. Lee. And that is the goal of CNC's Black Student Association (BSA).

At the BSA's Annual Awards Day on April 26, 20 of the association's 32 active members gathered to participate in the induction of new officers and to honor the recipient of the annual scholarship.

Julia Pace won that scholarship this year by achieving the highest grade point average among BSA students. Ms. Brenda Blount, former Registrar, presented the award. Eight other Association students had GPA's over 3.0: Francis Bruce; James Dinkins, Joye Harvey, James Johnson, Myra Mieth, Vernell Patterson, James Tabron, and Wanda Wallace.

This year's BSA president is James Tabron. "This year we made a lot of mistakes," he concedes, "but we also got a lot accomplished. We'll try more next year than this year."

Working with Tabron as BSA officers will be Vice President Louisa Hill, Secretary Benita Groom, Assistant Secretary Denise King, Treasurer Dwayne Thomas, and Parliamentarian Nathaniel Hunt.

Gloria Mathews, a past recipient of the scholarship, spoke briefly on the importance of the BSA and its obligation to the college.

Musical selections by the Barber Shop Quartet were planned but had to be cancelled because of a sore throat.

The program ended after 30 minutes with a celebration aided by cake and punch. The new officers seemed to agree that this year would be the most productive.

The integration of Negroes and blacks at CNC has begun.

New faculty spotlight

Dept gains religion prof

by Melissa Edeburn

"I taught before at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, which was a nice location," said Professor Jouett L. Powell, "but the faculty was a little removed from the students and the administration somewhat removed from the faculty. I guess that's what I like about CNC--the openness, the fact that everyone is a little closer."

Powell, who moved here only last July with his family, has already settled down in his trailer office and gotten a "feel" for CNC. As a new member of the Philosophy Department, he teaches the Old Testament and World Religions courses. If the names sound new, they are. "CNC has never had specific courses designed to be part of a religious studies program before," Powell says. "This is a new experience to see a program being born in this day when money for education is being cut almost everywhere. It will be possible," Powell went on, "to receive a B.A. in religious studies here by the fall of 1982."

Next semester Powell will be teaching the New Testament and "possibly a course of introduction to Christianity." The introduction class might include issues such as conflicts between Protestants and Catholics and delve into religious personalities and events.

Powell, whose special interest is modern religious thought (including the status of religion in today's world), says religious studies should form a part of the basic liberal arts educational background, since religion has been from the earliest times an important part of society. "What I think students can gain from a program like this is a knowledge of religion and other cultures. One way to learn about your own religion is to learn about someone else's."

Powell emphasized the point with his own experience. "At Chapel Hill lots of students who received degrees in religious studies went on to medical and law schools." These careers, he revealed, are ones in which "one may better deal with other's problems by understanding their religious beliefs and what fears and convictions they might have as a result." People in counseling positions would also benefit from a knowledge of the religious studies, he explained.

Powell thinks he'll like it here--especially with the work he's doing in CNC's new program. "I'm looking forward to living here a long time."

Folk Life Festival underway for fifth year

Preparations for the fifth annual Newport News Festival of Folk Life are underway with plans to feature over 50 Tidewater craftsmen demonstrating their traditional skills in Newport News Park Oct. 7 and 8.

Sponsored by the City of Newport News Division of Recreation and Parks, this year's festival will center around a presentation of inherited hand methods of doing the crafts of everyday living.

Hours for the festival will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

Many craftsmen from previous festivals have accepted invitations to participate this year, as well as some new entrants who were selected to participate after demonstrating the quality of their traditional craft and the extent of their experience.

Also participating in the festival will be musicians and dancers who represent a cultural continuity from earlier eras which are a part of our heritage.

Lucy Tekinder, program supervisor for the City's recreation and parks division, is currently seeking to identify craftsmen who work in the "traditional ways."

"Emphasis on selecting craftsmen for this year's festival has been focused strictly on traditional qualifications. We will have some revival craftsmen in cases where a traditional craftsman cannot be found," Mrs. Tekinder said.

A blacksmith from Heathsville, Va., will demonstrate the difficult skill of forging iron.

He will be joined by other craftsmen practicing the skills of basket weaving, rug making, butter churning, canning and food preparations, chair caning, musical instrument making, wooden toy making, spinning and weaving, quilting, leather working, vegetable kilning, shingle making, soap making, and many more crafts.

Old time fiddlin' and banjo pickin', high spirited jigging, blues guitar and native American dancing will accompany the work of the craftsmen, providing a slate of continuous entertainment throughout the two-day event.

Arrangement for the demonstration and sale of traditional and ethnic foods has been made.

This year's festival will be free and open to the public; however, there will be a parking admission per car to cover the festival expenses.

Newport News Park can be reached by taking Route 143 to Fort Eustis Blvd.

For further information on the festival, contact the Newport News Division of Recreation and Parks at 247-8451 or the Newport News Park Headquarters at 877-5211.

Memorial Services

The Captain's Log staff would like to share these words, spoken by Dr. James Windsor at the memorial service for Dr. William Parks, with students and faculty of CNC who could not attend the service.

With sadness of heart we have gathered to mourn the death of our friend, Bill Parks, and to express Thanksgiving for his life.

Mrs. Parks; Bill's son, William II; his daughter, Mrs. Hare; and his sister, Mrs. Givens, are with us today. Mrs. Parks, all of us here at the College share in the great loss you and your family have suffered. We appreciate your coming to be with us.

Let us pray: Eternal God, we express thanksgiving for the life of thy servant, Bill Parks. May the light which we beheld in him never forsake us. Grant to each of us his faith, his courage, and his hope in any trial which may come to us. Grant Thy blessing in this hour, and enable us to put our trust in Thee that our spirits may grow calm and our hearts be comforted.

Bill was a deeply religious person. He had the courage and openness to embrace both science and religion. He had learned to live with his doubts without losing his faith. He had a favorite scripture which articulated the essence of his belief. I would like to share it with you.

Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or anguish, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us. For I am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor things present, nor things to come, nor powers, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus, our Lord.

Rom. 8:35, 37-39

Bill was a competent administrator and an inspiring teacher who was respected and admired by his students. Dr. Bob Edwards, Dean of Academic Affairs; Dr. Teddy Bostick, Professor of History; and Bill Bell, President of the Student Association, will share their thoughts with us at this time.

Bill's favorite hymn was arranged from Beethoven's 9th Symphony. It is entitled Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee! and expresses the joy of one who is confident in his faith. Several students, whose names I will not take time to read, will sing this hymn, under the direction of Dr. Jim Hines.

Please stand for the benediction.

Eternal God, help us to carry the joy of this hymn, the spirit of Bill Parks' life, and the inspiration of this hour beyond this day, and grant that the vision may not pass, nor the impulse die until they have found expression in our lives.

Brent Hughes named men's tennis coach

For the second time in a week, Christopher Newport College has tapped Ferguson High School to replenish its tennis stock.

Thursday, former State Virginia High School League champion Brent Hughes was named coach of the men's team. Last week, Athletic Director Bev Vaughan appointed Keri O'Donnell to head the women's team.

Both were standouts on the Ferguson men's squad before launching college careers.

Hughes, 25, was a four-year campaigner for the University of Georgia, performing at the No. 3 position as a sophomore before injury deterred his progress.

Hughes succeeds Jack Armistead, who resigned last spring after the Captains captured the Dixie Conference (DIAC) championship. Virtually the entire squad must be replaced for the 1979 season.

Hughes, who also played shortstop and outfield for the Newport News Post 25 American Legion baseball team, graduated from Georgia in 1975 with a B.A. in psychology.

He currently is the tennis pro at Newport News-owned Huntington Park courts and will retain that position while coaching the Captains.

While the new coach isn't even sure who he'll have returning from last year's Division III powerhouse, he does feel "one way to maintain and slowly improve the program is to have a tough schedule. We'll do that as much as possible."

He also plans to get a fall program under way "as soon as possible."

Last year, Hughes was ranked 12th in state men's singles.

Individual scores indicate improved golf team balance

Even though the final outcome resulted in two losses for the golf team, the individual scores point to improved team balance for this year's team.

Playing from the championship tees at the Stumpy Lake Golf Course in Norfolk, the final tallies for the top five men from each school were as follows: ODU, 366; Newport News Apprentice School, 412; and CNC, 421.

Coach Hubbard feels that this year's team has the potential to develop into the strongest group of players that have ever represented the college. The fall golf schedule is in reality a form of practice in preparation for the spring season. The younger players need the match and tournament play to ready themselves for the high level of competition that they will experience later on.

In addition to the above scorers, the rest of the team members are: Rick Burns, Dave Caldwell, Mike Chambers, Scott Clark, Keith Judkins, Ron Stearns and Randy Tison.

The remaining fall golf practice schedule is as follows: Mon. and Tues., Sept. 25 and 26, Methodist Invitational, Fayetteville, N.C.; Fri., Oct. 6, ODU and the Apprentice School, Ft. Eustis, 1:00 p.m.; Thurs. and Fri., Oct. 26 and 27, Greensboro Invitational, Greensboro, N.C.

Babcock resigns to concentrate on work at Sarah Hudgins

A long, warm relationship here has ended. Assistant Basketball Coach Paul Babcock has resigned to concentrate on his duties at Sarah Bonwell Hudgins Regional Center.

Babcock, a native Hamptonian, is a former Most Competitive Athlete at CNC, having won the award in 1973, the same year he earned honorable mention on the State Small College squad. He has helped coach the Captains since then.

Athletic Director and Basketball Coach Bev Vaughan made the announcement "with the deepest of regrets. Paul was a pleasure to coach and then to work with. We will surely miss him."

No replacement has been named yet.

OTHG, EHO AND SOB's take first games of intramural football season

by Ray Ellis

Intramural Flag Football started again this fall with tough competition.

In the first of the scheduled three games, the EHO's defeated the defending champion Head Hunters (21-14). The EHO's were led by Randy Lint on offense and Jerry Schenk on defense. The Head Hunters had one super play with a catch by Glenn Corey in the end zone in the third quarter.

The second game scheduled was the returning SOB's and the Bone Crushers. The SOB's won by forfeit.

The third game pitted Riley's Bounty Hunters against the never failing Over-the-Hill Gang. Plagued by penalties the Bounty Hunters never had a chance. The OTHG won convincingly (20-0).

Remember, all games are played on Sunday morning at Ferguson High School. Come on out and support your favorite Intramural Team.

Something new at CNC this year is the Intramural Bowling League. Sign-ups are now being held. Pick up a sign-up sheet at the Information Desk in the Campus Center, Dean of Student Affairs Office or Intramural Office.

The League will be held at the Hidenwood Bowling Alley and will begin in October. Teams will consist of four members, two women and two men. We are hoping to have a ten-week schedule. Sign-up sheets should be turned in at the Intramural Office or the Dean of Student Affairs Office.

Cross country Captains braced for season opener, Sept. 23, against VMI

Cross country has sky-rocketed on the CNC campus, but storm warnings are ahead.

With new coach Doug Dickinson kindling heated interest, the Captains are braced for their season opener Sept. 23, when Virginia Military Institute visits.

The Captains are headed by junior Ken Roberts, who was the Dixie Conference (DIAC) outdoor 880 and mile champion. He captains the squad, which also includes a quartet of four returning sophomores and senior David Williams.

The sophs are Bob McElheney, Mike Parcell, Charles Dunston and Tom Walsh.

Freshman Chris Przygocki and junior Burt Thompson, a transfer, also should help.

Exotic lights and sounds denote Last Chance, Wednesday night's band

by Nelson Harris

Last Wednesday night proved to be one of the better "Wednesday nights" in the past several weeks. The sounds of Last Chance encouraged several people to get up and do their own thing to the rocking rhythmic beat coming from the stage.

Even though they have played together for only one year, Last Chance still has some fine sounds emerging from their speakers; better, in fact, than some groups which have been together for longer periods of time.

Songs from Joe Walsh, Black Sabbath, and Aerosmith, for example, provided students, staff, and faculty with interesting and up-to-date entertainment. Most of the tunes were of current vintage ("Hot Blooded," for example) and all were played well.

Their lead guitars (Jeff McGrady and Darrell Mann) were hot on the riffs and added a considerable amount to the group's professionalism; yet, their lead singer, Ricky Huth, added the sound and color of a true stage band.

Other members of the band included Donny Throckmorton on drums and Chris Berry on bass, with Jim Butt running sound and Jim Eacho on lights.

One interesting thing to note is that all of the members of the group are relatively young, with two members still in high school (Warwick). Chris Berry (bassman) is a current CNC freshman, while the other two members are with the Shipyard.

The exotic lights and sounds of Last Chance were absorbed by a relatively small crowd, even though the music was fast-paced with little "dead air" between the songs.

If you didn't get a chance to catch this group last Wednesday night, do not alarm. They will be back. Back with more of the same up-to-date rock beats.

Guitarist Jeff McGrady plays as if it were his last chance.

Celebrated musicians perform for CNC concert series, soprano opens

Christopher Newport College announces its fifth annual Nancy A. Ramseur Memorial Artists-in-Concert Series. The series, like its predecessors, will bring to Tidewater leading performing artists from all over the world and is open to the public through a subscription.

The series begins Saturday, October 7, with a joint recital by Elizabeth Hynes, soprano, and William Harness, tenor. Miss Hynes, a graduate of Indiana University where she studied with Martha Lipton, has received numerous musical awards including the Liederkrantz Foundation Scholarship and the William Sullivan Musical Foundation Award.

In 1975-76 she made her debut with the Opera Society of Washington, the National Symphony Orchestra, and the Pittsburgh Symphony. Subsequently, she has appeared regularly with the New York City Opera, the Fort Worth Opera, the Pittsburgh Opera and the Opera Theatre of St. Louis.

Miss Hynes stars in the new production of Naughty Marietta which opens the Fall 1978 season of the New York City Opera.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram wrote of her 1977 performance as Sophie in Rosenkavalier, "Elizabeth Hynes as Sophie seemed a special young artist with not just a bright, but a major career ahead of her... The voice is full, flexible and exciting, and her musical instincts appear impeccable."

Her singing partner, William Harness, is a young American tenor in the tradition of Gedda and Pavarotti; he was the recipient of the coveted international singing award for tenors, the Enrico Caruso Centennial Award. Harness made his operatic debut in 1973 with the San Francisco Opera when he sang Rudolph in La Boheme opposite Beverly Sills.

On Saturday, November 11, the second recital will feature the Cuban-American pianist Horacio Gutierrez, who will play the program which he has selected for his Lincoln Center Great Performers appearance later in November.

A silver medal winner at the 1970 Tchaikovsky Competition in Moscow, Gutierrez records exclusively for Angel Records.

Sound Solution

Ricky Dunn

The new Heart album, Dog and Butterfly, has appeared on the scene with an unusually low amount of pre-release publicity. In comparison with Little Queen and Dreamboat Annie, the LP is somewhat of a disappointment.

The album opens with "Cook with Fire," a live number recorded at the Centroplex Coliseum in Memphis, Tennessee. The cut sounds a little too much like "Heartless" from the Magazine LP.

As a matter of fact, I was kind of shocked because this whole side of Dog and Butterfly bears a strong resemblance to the Magazine album which Heart fought so hard to keep from being released.

I figured the album out when I flipped the disc over. The other side is all soft acoustic. Then the wheels in my head began to turn. The label on this side has a picture of a butterfly on it. The first side has a dog. Neither side is labeled in the traditional way (Side A, Side 1, etc.).

Gadzooks! A concept album in the Seventies—a study in contrasts. Butterflies are gentle, colorful creatures who float legends are made," and Stereo Review has named him among the top dozen young pianists in the world.

The third concert is a joint recital by Eugenia Zukerman, flutist, and Carlos Bonell, guitarist, on Saturday, February 10. Ms. Zukerman is among the world's most celebrated young flutists and has performed with the Los Angeles Philharmonic, the Royal Philharmonic, the English Chamber Orchestra, and the Israel Chamber Orchestra. Among her most recent recordings for Columbia are the complete Mozart works for flute and orchestra and a selection of trios by C.P.E. Bach, performed with her husband Pinchas Zukerman, violinist, and Samuel Sanders, pianist.

Bonell is one of Europe's leading classical guitarists. He has recorded with John Williams, Pinchas, and Eugenia Zukerman, and has recorded solo an all-Spanish recital on the British label, Enigma Classics. Bonell is a professor of guitar at Britain's Royal College of Music. He and Ms. Zukerman have had three successful European tours.

The concert year will close on Saturday, April 21, with the appearance of one of America's best loved singers, Beverly Wolff. She has recorded Robert Devereux with Beverly Sills on Westminster; Julius Caesar, also with Sills, on RCA; Carry Nation, with the New York City Opera Company, for Desto; Rorem: Poems of Love and the Rain, for Desto; through the breeze. Dogs, in comparison, can be mean and ferocious and have a penchant for defacing tree trunks and sidewalks. In this aural battle the "Butterfly" comes out the winner. The slower paced numbers are what carry this LP. The title cut and a number called "Nada One," featuring Nancy Wilson on lead vocals, highlight this side of the album.

The "Dog" side of the disc is another story. The playing is good, but the material that Heart uses is really mediocre. No more blistering rockers like "Barracuda." Even after two or three listenings it's still hard to reach back and remember what you've heard. Just simply not enough hooks.

If the album contains an AM radio hit, it'll probably be "Straight On." The cut has a strong rhythm track with a slight disco feel. With a little imagination, you could probably dance to it.

Without the "Dog," Dog and Butterfly would be a good album. The acoustic stuff is among the best the Wilson sisters have ever written. On the other hand, the electric stuff is bland—"Barracuda" fans beware.

and Arias from "Rinaldo," on RCA.

In November of this year she will appear with the New York Philharmonic for performances of Shubert's Fifth Symphony and the Bruckner "Te Deum" under the direction of Zubin Mehta.

From the Hip

by Bill Seals

At last, perhaps, there lies a light at the end of the tunnel towards equality of responsibility under the law.

I speak of the grand jury indictments handed down by the state of Indiana to the Ford Motor Company of Detroit. Ford was found guilty of criminal negligence when their Pinto model was involved in a rear-end collision, and a subsequent explosion and fire killed three teen-aged girls.

After decades of wanton waste in fuel economy, space, and very poor engineering, perhaps we are witnessing the beginning of the end of corporate non-accountability under the law.

Ford's negligence stemmed, according to the grand jury, from the fact that the recall put out by Ford for their faulty fuel tanks was not being carried far enough. Specifically, less than one-third of the models from the year in question are still under original ownership. Recall notices are sent to original owners, but due to resale, trade-in, etc., the second and successive owners never get the message.

In essence, the grand jury said that notoriety of design by death is not the way to handle a recall.

As to the penalty which Ford will have to pay, it will only be a small one of $300,000; but Ford's lawyers, in all of their corporate wisdom, are appealing the action, and very likely this case will drag on for quite some time.

As for the penalty of the dead girls' families, does it need to be stated?

Although it is much too soon to hail this indictment as indicative of a trend, it is nonetheless a step in the right direction.

Hey, you regular readers, wanna' get a rush? No, not that kind, dummy, that was last week. I mean the Greek kind. The frat scene arrives at Shoe Lane U. in a big way.

Wishing to keep on top of developing national trends and to try out my newly acquired skills gained at a N.N. Rec. Dept Disco Course, I decided to crash the Makka Bigga Money Fraternity Rush dance at the Wheelhouse and cafeteria. So, dressed in my latest neo-forties loose-fitting top, swirled skirt, and Gucci shoes, accompanied by the Admiral's Stump photographer dressed in drag, I went trucking down to the big occasion.

were standing around checking out both the chicks who came (not your usual Ferguson tomatoes, either, I mean honest-to-goodness college stuff). They were tripping over each other.

In the corner there was a "Beautiful puke" contest with the winner selected as having the most colorful vomit. I heard lewd remarks, saw a gross-out scene, and even saw one future captain of Industry doing his zit imitation. I was shocked and ready to leave when this brother wearing an OTHG shirt comes up and asks me to sit with him.

So anyway, this chump asks me to dance. So I'm ready to do my John Travolta number, interest in fraternal organizations, which are now getting a fair slice of the pie for a change."

"Far out," I said, while whispering, "Who the (expletive deleted) cares?" to the Admiral Stump photographer standing next to me sipping his M-D 20 and Coke.

Meantime, Mr. Cool opens his mouth again, this time talking about profit margins, cost plus, wholesale, overhead, and all that sort of crap. And all I know is that as his propensity to consume that "Animal House" brew increases, I start thinking about how much the supply of his ilk has gone up while my demand has remained the same.

The Eighteen Minute Gap

I parked my van in the visitor's section and dashed off to make a noticeable entrance. Well, I want to tell you, I was surprised! I mean, I was ready for some cool dancing, a little boy-girl stuff, and that sort of thing. After all, I did need a story, and who knows, one of these business types may turn out to be o.k. I mean, they are all future accountants and execs—right? And I'm not opposed to the good life in the suburbs. I mean, I can't get by all my life on what a girl reporter for the Admiral's Stump makes.

Well, I wasn't ready for this. What I saw when I entered was straight out of Animal House. The brothers right? And who cares if he has a bit of gut hanging over his belt? So he drags me up to the front of the dance floor and starts his routine. After a few inept twirls, some silly imitations, and four or five suggestive groin pressings down near the erogenous zone, we're on our way back to the bar.

Since I decided that me and this creep got no future, I decided to get some material for my story. So I said, "You know, swell parties like this are a part of a national trend toward revival of fraternities."

"Yes," he said, "fraternities' stock is on the rise, I see a steady increasing volume of

I mean, I'm not going to mortgage my whole night to this turkey. Here I am trying to pump him for facts for my story, and I realize he is the story!

So, captains and captain-ettes, all you corporate buccaneers, if you see a bunch of dorky-lookin' guys getting paddled out in front of the flagpole at the initiation ceremonies, remember that they are a part of a national trend, small consolation that is. So, till next week, price gouge, tax evade, sell high, buy low, double dip, and market those mechanisms.

Students of CNC,

On September 20th, 21st and 22nd, you will have the unique privilege of voting in the CNC Student Association elections. I wish to present to you, for those who have not yet met her, and to reintroduce her to those who have been here for several years, Mrs. Sharon Lantz. Sharon has taken the challenge to offer herself for the office of Vice President of the Student Association. Her qualifications and active support for the students are depicted as being a Senator from the Communications division. In the past year she was your President of the Senate. At the present she still holds down that position and also she acts as the President of the Communications division until the new election.

She was also one of the prime movers in initiating the Housing Project for the Student Government Association's Operation Self-Help. Her major is in Government Administration with a minor in Biology. She has indicated to me that she will work for everyone and is willing to listen to your problems and work to expedite constructive, relative solutions.

Bruce M. Pierce

Dear Editor,

The recent "From the Hip" article on voting left me somewhat confused. Is the fear of any sort of American military involvement the only criteria for choosing a candidate? Recklessness is never wise, but how much wisdom is there in pushing for some sort of prohibition on any U.S. military intervention under all but imminent threats to our security?

Is not this attitude likely to encourage a continuation of Soviet adventures in Africa and the Middle East. Will Castro ("hit-man" of the Soviets) be discouraged by such an attitude and cease his interventionist policy, or will our nation be perceived as weak and indifferent by him and other world leaders as well. What consequences would follow an image of our nation as one unwilling to act against aggression in all of its forms? Clearly, we must give serious thought to our future in choosing from the candidates of today.

Endowments and college publications, such as brochures and newsletters to alumni, totaled $4,000 each.

One unusual donation the school received was a yacht which CNC has the option of selling. Board members are planning to do just that and purchase a solid fiberglass Boston Whaler for maritime study purposes. Bids for the yacht will be opened September 22. The Boston Whaler with motor and trailer included will cost approximately $9000.

Harrol Brauer, Rector of the Board of Visitors, reported that from now on, the school will be seeking contributions such as real estate which can be turned into money. The Board would like to establish an endowment fund which would reach $4 million over the next few years.

In addition to the funds received last year, the Board discussed CNC's capital outlay program. Four million dollars have been appropriated for construction at the college during the next two years, a figure which, as President Windsor pointed out, is only $132,000 less than the total cost of the buildings already completed on campus. "We feel we're entering a new stage of construction on our campus," Windsor said. One of the school's first projects will be the construction of a four-story office building, already drafted, which will be underway in January. The new building will replace the trailers now housing chief faculty offices.

The Board also approved revisions on an affirmative action plan that brings CNC into conformity with Governor Dalton's plan submitted to HEW. The main thrust of the revisions was to reach numerical objectives for minority members in the faculty, staff, and student body. At present, CNC is second only to Virginia Commonwealth University among 4-year institutions in percentage of black students enrolled.

Reportedly, CNC's biggest problem in this area is recruiting black professors because of the school's inability to meet salary demands. "We find typically," Windsor said, "that when we interview a black applicant, they are able to get two to three thousand dollars more elsewhere." Brauer stated that it is "virtually impossible to enlist black teachers who can fulfill other needs and who can work with what we have to offer." The only black instructor CNC employed resigned last year.

Brauer went on to say that the school has done everything possible to get black teachers to apply, such as placing periodic ads in national publications; but despite these efforts, "almost zero percent people have shown interest." In the meantime, the school is holding the position that it will not be willing to pay one person more than any other in order to fulfill minority numerical objectives unless, as Brauer says, "certain extreme circumstances arise--and I cannot think of any."

Board members also approved the Tidewater Report (part of the HEW report) at the Thursday meeting. The paper dealt with a study of duplication of programs in five Tidewater institutions. As a result of the approval, the 2-year Associate Arts degree that CNC offers will be phased out over the next two years because of its counterpart program at Thomas Nelson Community College. The reason given was that the number of students graduating with that degree has been on the decline. Only three people received the Associate Arts degree at last May's graduation.

Brauer reported a bylaws change in which the Governor has appointed three additional Board members--one of whom will replace William Walker, whose tenure ended last year. An old bylaw has been changed to allow the Rector of the Board to appoint three or more members to separate committees. In the past, the maximum number of members on any committee has been three.

In addition, the appointment of Dr. Charles Behymer as the new Dean of Student Affairs. Behymer was previously Associate Dean of Students at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh.
