Tom Johnson, the energetic President of the SGA, chaired the Hospitality Hotseat last week, and with hesitation, got right down to the matter that plagues and inhibits most student governments today, that of non-involvement.

Non-involvement is not to be confused with apathy, which implies a lack of concern, because the majority of the students at CNC do care about their student government.

Non-involvement is more a result of not knowing who to contact to resolve a problem or not knowing what course to follow to bring about the desired change.

In this respect, the SGA can be viewed as an instrument to be utilized by the student for the student.

With this philosophy in mind, Tom says, "I want the people to accept the SGA as a viable working tool to use to get across their wants, desires, and needs to the faculty and administration."

Moreover, in emphasizing involvement in our government, Tom also said, "You can't challange the system until you know how it works," and only through direct participation can a person truly understand how it works.

Every student, by the mere fact that he or she is a student, is a member of the SGA. If they are satisfied with their situation, then perhaps membership is enough, but for the student who desires knowledge and change, the SGA wants you.

You can serve yourself and your fellow students by joining the assembly. To do this, contact your class president.

All classes need members, however, if your time is limited, The Grievance Committee will serve you and the class presidents are, again, the people to see. Get involved, you might like the change and you might even enjoy the experience.

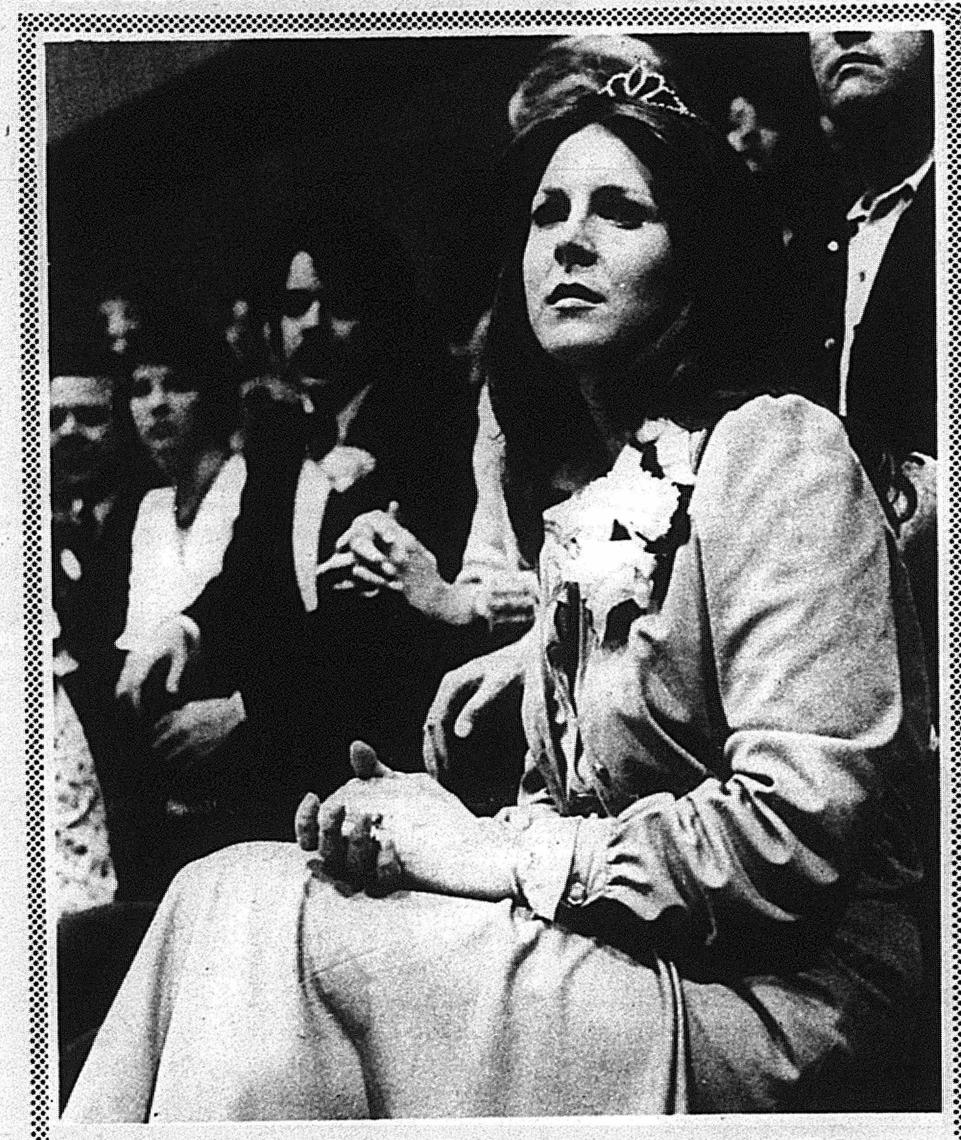

Coming soon, February 24, to the Hotseat: Dean of Student Affairs, William H. Polis.

CNC Growth Continues

Enrollment projections indicate gradual, but constant growth for CNC through 1981.

Statistics indicates that the student body will grow from the present 2,788 to just under 3,500 in 1981.

To meet this anticipated demand for library and parking facilities, the Board of Visitors recently approved Capital Outlay Requests totaling $588,500 for the construction of a 245 car parking lot and expansion of the library.

Editor:

I wish to offer an explanation for the events of last Thursday, Feb. 6, which resulted in two groups being ready to perform in the Captain's Wheelhouse at the same time. The ensueing confusion brought several harsh comi11 ments and aroused some feelings concerning management of the pub, and of the Campus Center in general.

First, all entertainment bookings for the Captain's Wheelhouse are supposed to be recorded in the schedule log kept in the Campus Center Director's Office. This is a new policy, and relatively few people have been informed that the rule even exists. It is therefore understandable that the BSA representatives thought they had taken all necessary steps to confirm a performing group the Wheelhouse speaking with the cafeteria management.

Meanwhile, I scheduled a

Editorial PREPARE TODAY FOR 21ST CENTURY

Apathy and complacency are two of the most over used words in our campus vocabulary. Most of us use one of them in referring to almost everything, the faculty, the administration, our families, and other students.

I feel that the use of these words are, most often, justified. More, and more, students, when asked their opinion about something reply, "I don't know." And of course, there are the situations where you hear complaints about things, but seldom do you hear a bona fide suggestion for its correction.

I don't feel that these people are complacent, nor do I think they're apathetic. We're all busily going about our little cages, taking in only the stimula we want and rejecting the remainder. Therefore, even those of us who say we're not apathetic or complacent, really are by our very nature as human beings.

This means a professor can not wait until the bell rings to begin his/her five minute summation or that a professor who is in the middle of making a point must complete that point even if it takes five or six minutes. CAPTAINS DEFEATED IN HOMECOMING GAME, 87-75

By Doug Ferris

It all happened Saturday in 26 of 38. night; homecoming, the last handed their tenth loss.

The Captains, who now stand 11-10 in regular play stayed in fifth place with their defeat to the Lynchburg Hornets, 88-75.

moments, the Captains went to the locker room with a halftime score of 43-32, Hornets.

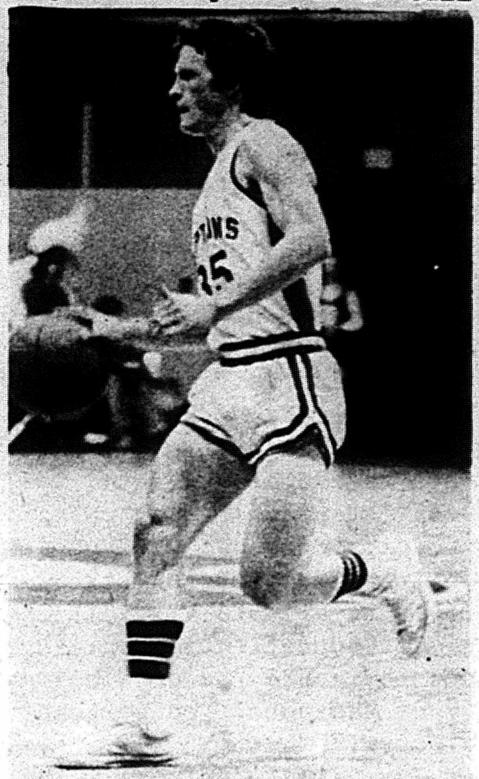

With their return in the second half, the Captains were able to pull within 4, but were never ahead. The largest point spread was 11 until the last minute of the game when the Hornets; precision foul shooting salted the game away: In the final evaluation, it was again CNC's inability to capitalize on the free throw line as they hit for only 19 of 32 while mightiest spot of the whole in Saturday Nights game

Fouling took its toll on game, and the Captains were both teams, with key members of both schools having to sit down early. For CNC, it was Green, Hutcheson, and Kilpatand 7-7 in conference battle, rick; for Lynchburg, it was Carducci and Crawford.

It wasn't only from the line that the Captains were Ahead during the opening beaten, but from the inside as the forwards used the zone as if it were empty and the guards drove, almost effortlessly, behind their defenders to razzle and dazzle and score.

> For CNC, the right spots came in the second half as Malcolm Scott was called for offensive goal tending, but it still looked good. Another spot was the sight of Sherwin Green breaking down court on a steal to score, or possibly and probably the Baggett dribbles down court the Lynchburg shooters dumped evening was Doug Baggett's regular response to a call as he laid flat on his back.

To make matters worse, the scheduled events of the evening, the crowning of the court and the judging of the "Love Bugs," were either dropped or disrupted. For the fault of a word, the "Love Bug" competition was cancelled, and due to a lack of coordination, the candidates were introduced as Lynchburg warmed up for the second half. Through all of it, the court was finally names; Martha Fulcher was crowned Queen by President Windsor and Jim Strange was a traditional handshake for his role. But, to me, something was amiss, I had wanted to see the crowning of the new queen by the appointed queen of last year, Dan Kooi.

Well, unlike last year, the controversy wasn't there but then again, last year we won our homecoming game.

Captains Defeat N.C. Wesleyan, 83-56 to Break Losing Streak

By Robert Duncan

It was pretty obvious after the first five minutes of Wednesday night's game that the Captains were on their way to ending a four game losing streak, crushing the Bishops of N.C.Wesleyan, 83-56.

The game was never out of hand as the Captains jumped out to an early 9-0 lead and turned it into a 35-18 halftime advantage.

The Captain's own Sherwin Green shot a devistating 56% from the floor, hitting on 10 of 18 attempts, pacing the scoring attack with 26 points. Jumping jack Steve Brown poured in 10 points while senior - players Doug Baggett and Tom Kilpatrick added 8 points each.

> Q: Is there now an establisted program for challenging a course.

A: There is no collegewide program established for challenging a course. All departments are authorized to establish such a program, and several have permitted students to challenge a course the content of which the student believes himself to be very knowledgeable: This has usually taken the form of an examination or other testing methods such as a physical proficiency test administered by the Physical Education Department to satisfy the P. E. activities requirement.

Q: Are credits allowed for satisfactory completion of the college level General Education Development tests?

A: Up to 6 semester hours successful completion (35th A: Students who are in percentile or better) of each of the five areas covered in the CLEP General Exams (Englist Composition, Natural Sciences, Humanities, Mathe-Continued on page 8.

matics, History-Social Sciences).

Q: What credits can a veteran get, on an individual basis, for military service?

A: The determination for awarding academic credit for military service per se must be made on an individual basis. As a general statement, I believe it is safe to say that academic credit could not be given simply because a person had been in military service.

Q: Should there not be an age cut-off for PE for older veterans and other degree seeking students?

A: Two hours of physical activities is one of the distribution requirements for a degree, and, except for candidates for the bachelor's degree in Business, may be waived, the student must ful- for unrelated courses comfill all of the other distri- pleted at another college? bution requirements.

requirements for some time, courses offered at CNC. and it is possible that changes in these requirements might be recommended to the faculty by the committee after it has completed its work.

A student may, of course, petition the Degrees Committee on any matter relative to the fulfillment of specific requirements for a degree.

Q: Can credits be given for job proficiency while in service?

A: Once again, this is a matter that can not be given a blanket answer, but rather, involves consideration on an individual basis. Such matters are exactly what kind of proficiency is being evaluated, and whether the appropriate department would recommend academic credit are involved.

Q: Cán you get any credits

A: Yes. Credit is given The Curriculum Commit- for courses taken at other whole matter of distribution not comparable to specific Q: How can veterans get on committees to research and present their point of view on academic matters?

A: The Curriculum Committee has on its membership three students as voting members. These students are designated by the Student Body as determined by the SGA. Individual students or a group of students withthe same concerns always have the right to petition any appropriate committee in order to present their problems or recommendations relative to academic matters.

Dean Edwards states that any matter relative to credit for non-traditional learning experiences or other academic policies with any interested student.
