Vets' benefits extended to 45 months

Today is Veterans Day, and President Ford has just signed into law the new G.I. Bill, making significant changes in the benefits available to veterans, particularly in the area of education. Bob Laverierre, Director of Veterans' Affairs at Christopher Newport College, makes it his business to cut as much red tape as possible for veterans who need to know what benefits, programs, and opportunities are available to them.

The new G.I. Bill includes, among its most important features, extension of educational benefits from 36 to 45 months for veterans who qualified for 36 months of benefits previously. This extension also applies to veterans enrolled in post-baccalaureate degree programs. The new Bill also includes an 8% cost of living increase for veterans receiving G.I. Bill benefits and veterans involved in the Veterans Administration Vocational Rehabilitation Program. Financial assistance available to veterans under the V.A. Education Loan Program has been increased from $800 to $1500 per year.

The Bill terminates G.I. Bill benefits for people entering the military after Dec. 31, 1976, and establishes a new program for post-Vietnam era veterans. Under this program, military personnel entering the armed forces after January 1, 1977 will be able to save between $50 to $75 per month from their active duty pay for 4-year enlistment maximum. Savings up to a maximum of $2700 would be matched by the government with $2 for every $1 saved by the individual. This total maximum of $8,100 must be used for educational or training programs approved for veterans.

Laverierre reports that there are a number of benefits available to both veterans and military personnel who have been in the armed forces for at least 6 months. For those with no high school diploma, programs can be arranged for the veteran to earn one, or to earn a G.E.D. (high school equivalency) certificate. The CNC Veterans' Affairs Director can refer veterans to apprentice, on-the-job training, or farm cooperative training programs available for veterans. He can arrange for food stamps for the veteran with financial difficulties and, because the Veterans Affairs Office has contact with the Virginia Employment Commission, he can help the veteran find a job.

The Veterans' Affairs Office at Christopher Newport is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, for any veteran who needs assistance in determining what benefits he or she is eligible for. For further information, call 599-7175.

President seeks evaluation

Students, faculty and staff have been invited to participate in an evaluation of the performance of the president of the college. This evaluation, which is initiated by Dr. Windsor, is for the purpose of identifying ways in which the performance of the office of the president can be improved.

The evaluation will take place during the week of October 25-29. Forms may be picked up at the information desk in the administration building or in the office of the Dean of Student Affairs. The completed questionnaire should be returned in a sealed envelope to either of these locations and placed in the box provided for this purpose.

Students who attend during the evening only may pick up forms at the circulation desk in the library and return the completed questionnaire to the same location.

All students are invited to participate.

Ford, Carter meet in Williamsburg for third and final debate prior to November 2 elections

By Bruce Laubach

The third and final debate between Gerald Ford, President of the United States, and Jimmy Carter, Governor of Georgia, took place last Friday evening at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg. Taking only a few moments for introductions, the panelists launched into the questioning for the evening. The questions were alternated between debaters, each had a 2 1/2 minute period to answer; this was followed by a 2 minute rebuttal period. Neither had a list of the questions, nor did they have prepared notes.

Q. - I assume that Americans all know that these are difficult times and that there is no pie in the sky and that they can't get something for nothing. So I would like to ask as a first question, "As you look ahead in the next four years. What sacrifices are you going to call on the American people to make? What price are you going to ask them to pay to realize your objectives?" Let me add Governor Carter, "If you feel it appropriate to answer the question in your comments as to what price would be appropriate for the American people to pay under a Carter Administration? I think that would be proper too. Mr. President!

Ford - Everyone will be called upon to make the necessary sacrifices to preserve the peace we have. To maintain adequate military capability, with a slight increase in the military budget. To show active awareness in world wide problems. Tighten belts domestically and not to start new programs that could add greatly to the federal budget. With trust in peace and a decrease in spending at home -- to promote a long overdue tax decrease for middle income families.

Q. - Could you clarify on the areas of unemployment and the slow growth to meet the needs of our cities in the areas of health, transportation, and so forth.

Ford - Almost 50% of the federal expenditures is spent on human needs. But there is no need to increase the budget so much as to cause inflation. To increase personal tax refund from $750 to $1,000 and to reduce unemployment.

Carter - In the Carter Administration, the sacrifices would be much less. The American people are ready to make these sacrifices if they are included in on the process. To put the people back to work, voluntary price restraints, and a cut back on tax breaks for the rich and big business.

Q. - Governor, by all indications, the voters are so turned off by this campaign so far that only half intend to vote. One major reason for this apathetic electorate seems to be the low level at which this campaign has been conducted. It has digressed frequently from important issues into allegations of blunder, brain-washing and fixation of lust in Playboy. What responsibility do you accept for the low level of this campaign for the nations highest office?

Carter - A major reason for the decrease in political participation is the lack of confidence in public officials. Factors such as unemployment, high inflation, housing, and political scandal. About the interview in Playboy, if I could do it over again, I probably would not consent to such an interview. Within the next ten day, I plan to emphasize the problems of unemployment, inflation, and government organization.

Ford - I believe the American people have been turned off by political scandal and by Viet Nam. But I also see a great new spirit born in Americans. As shown by the celebration of our nation's 200th birthday, this spirit is a greater interest in the future of America.

Q. - You became President because of Watergate, and because of this, don't you owe a special obligation to the American public to explain in detail your role in limiting one of the original investigations of Watergate by the House Banking Committee? Also, to name the persons you talked to; and, would you be willing to open investigations of the White House tapes of that time in question?

Ford - I testified and swore under oath that I did not talk to any of the White House staff. The Republican side of the House Banking

Who would win if the elections were today?

With the November elections fast approaching, activity in the political arena has increased in tempo; and, it is not yet finished as we enter the last full week of campaigning before election day.

According to Time Magazine (October 11) Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter are in a dead heat (43% each) for the Presidency. Lester Maddox and Eugene McCarthy have the remainder; however, only McCarthy with 12% in August, had enough to tip the election to Ford.

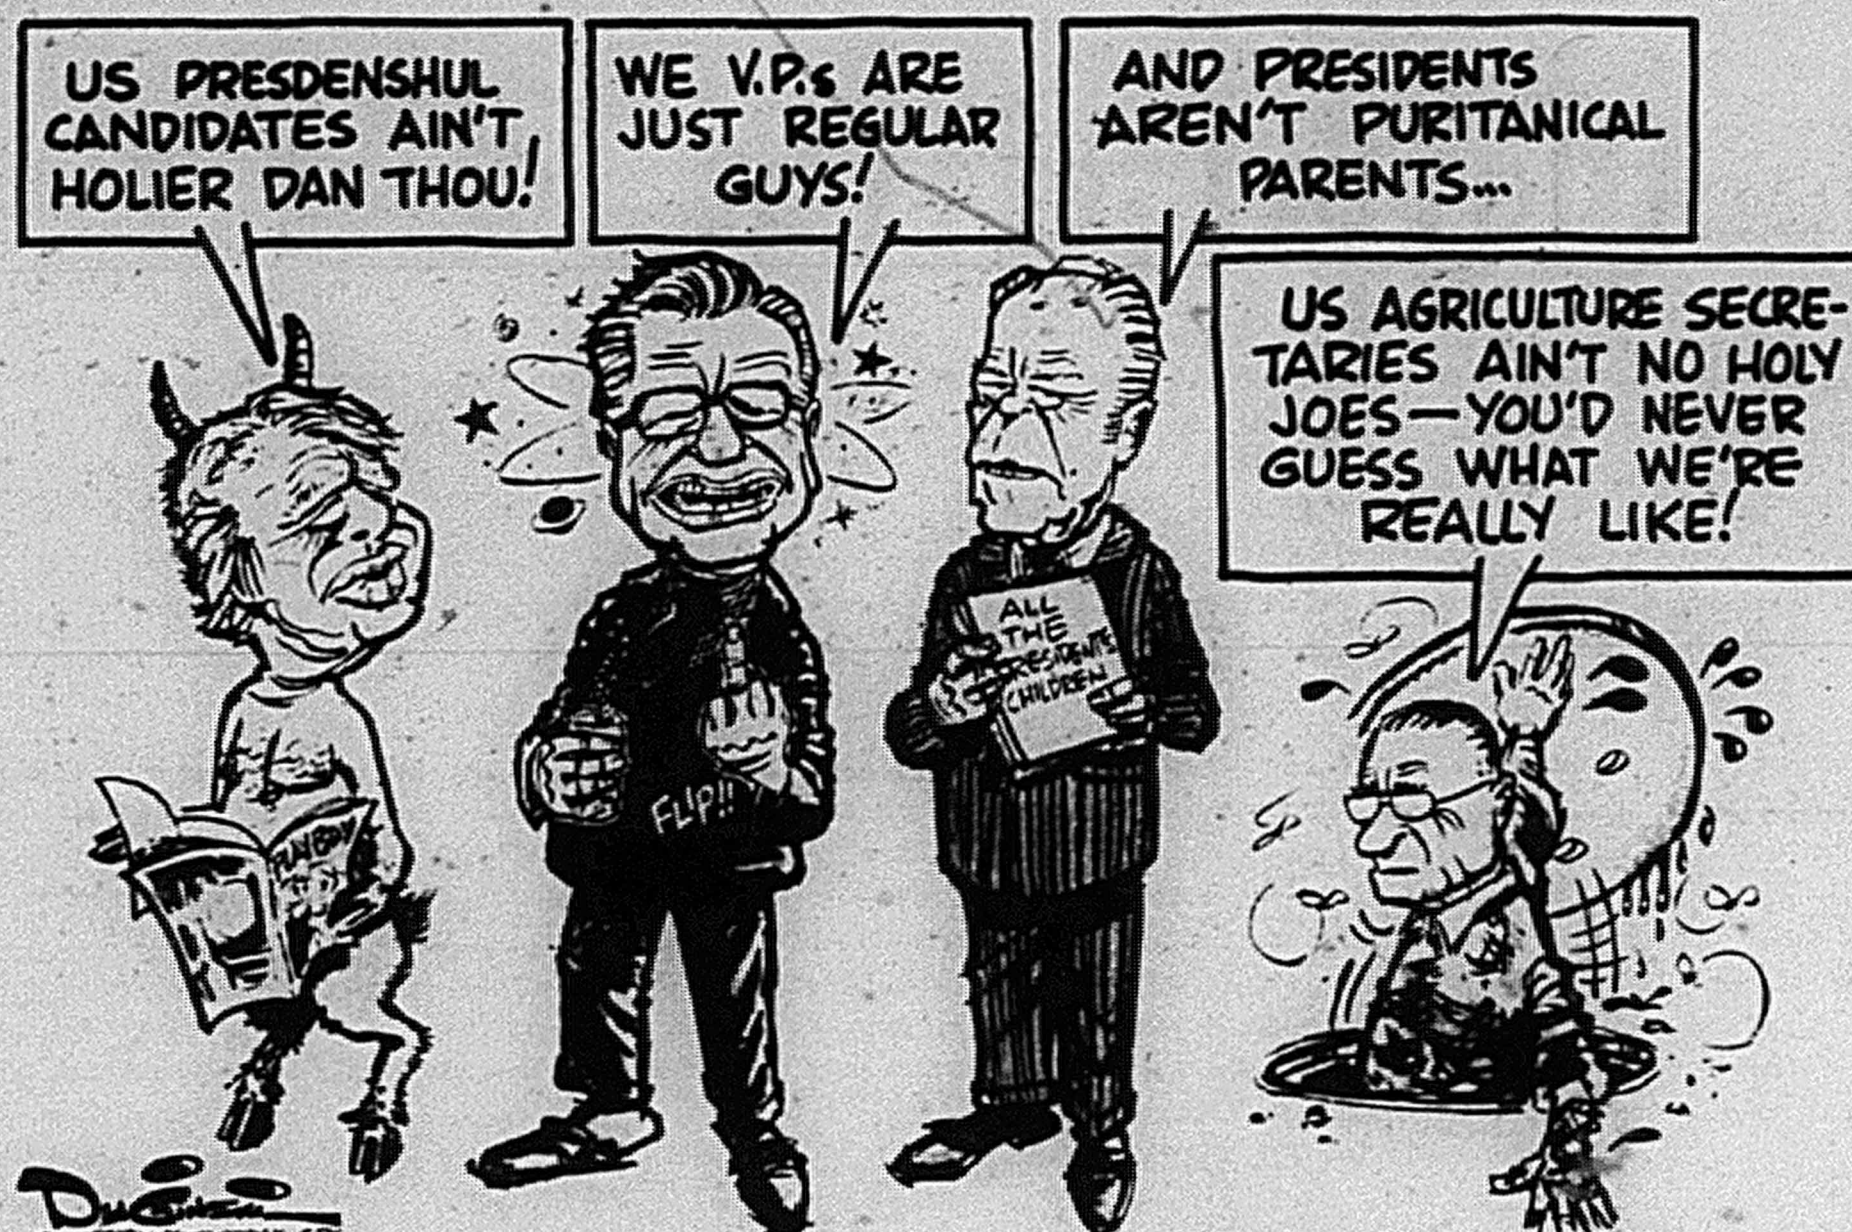

How would you vote if the elections were held this week? Would it be Ford or Carter; Quinn, Tribble, or McClaine; Byrd or Zumwalt?

You have the opportunity to find out this week, October 25-29, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Campus Center. That's right, Alpha Kappa Psi Professional Business Fraternity will conduct elections to determine the College Community's choice in the upcoming elections. You may also vote between 6:00 and 8:00 p.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Offices to be voted on, and the candidates, are: President of the United States - Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter; 1st District Congressman - Bob Quinn, Paul Tribble, and Mary McClaine; for Senator - Harry Byrd and Bud Zumwalt; and for write ins.

Students, faculty, staff and administration are invited to vote - you need not be a registered voter. Results will be in the next issue of The Captain's Log.

CNC Notices

CL Staff Meeting

Members of the Captain's Log staff are requested to attend a short meeting, CC-225, at 12:15 p.m. on October 29, 1976.

In addition to the regular reporters and photographers, interested members of the student body who would like to write for the newspaper are also invited to attend.

History Trip to Washington, D.C.

A Student group is organizing a history trip to Washington, D.C. for December 4, 1976. Any person or group interested may call Ben Landrum, 599-4175.

The bus will leave from TNCC at 6:00 a.m. the cost is $12.50 round-trip. There will be a party one week later if any funds are left over.

History Club Meeting

The first meeting of the CNC History Club will be held on Wednesday, October 27, at noon in CC 214.

There will be a speaker from The Old Dominion University History Department. Dr. Darwin Bostick will deliver a lecture on "Hitler and his Biographers."

All interested students are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served. Bring your own lunch.

French Club Social

There will be a French Club social at the home of Jackie Briggs on Sunday, November 7 at 7:30 p.m. Her address is 112 Schooner Dr. in Hampton, Va.

If you are interested in the French language or French culture you are invited to attend. Directions are available through Mr. Guthrie in W-206.

Thefts in Library

If you use the library please do not leave your valuables unattended. In the past week there has been a rash of thefts in the library. Particularly vulnerable are women's purses. We regret the occurrence of this thievery and ask your help in bringing it to a halt. Guard your valuables; if you are the victim of a theft, report it to the library circulation desk immediately.

CAC Seeking Talented Musicians

If you have any musical talent you may be interested in trying out for the Campus Activities Committee.

The CAC is looking for student musicians. Auditions will be held every Tuesday from 12:00 p.m. to 1:00 p.m. in the Pub. The purpose of these auditions is to find talented CNC students to play in the Pub on Wednesday and Friday nights. If you are interested, leave your name at the Campus Center Information Desk.

Turn-in Intramural equipment

All equipment checked out from the Intramural office must be returned within two weeks. Students names will be turned in to the Dean's office and the students will be contacted if the equipment is not returned.

Time Sheets for student assistants

The Business manager requests that all department chairmen, or whomever they designate, be responsible for submitting the time sheets for the students employed by their department. These time sheets must be in the Business Office no later than the last working day of the month (October 29, 1976, at 5:00 p.m.)

Prompt submission by one person in each department is necessary to insure timely receipt of payroll checks. Pay checks will be distributed to the students November 15, 1976.

Women's Intercollegiate Basketball now starting

All women interested in playing basketball for CNC for the 76-77 school year please come by the gym any afternoon at 5:30 and see Miss Terry Gooding or see Coach Vaughn in the P.E. Dept. Our first game is December 1, so don't hesitate on coming by.

SGA Executive Council

SGA Executive Council will meet on November 1, 1976, Monday in the Board Room (upstairs in the Campus Center) and November 9, 1976, Tuesday in Room 229 in the Campus Center. All students are welcome to attend.

Editorial

Put out your cigarette, let us breath!

It would appear that each semester, there are some among us who feel that they have the right to violate college rules and the individual rights of other students.

Until recently, there appeared to be little doubt that everyone was abiding by the "Controlled Smoking" policy of the college. However, as one goes into various classrooms, it can be seen that ash trays are slowly reentering each room. I would like to think that these are isolated cases where a student has forgotten the smoking policy instituted by the college a year ago.

I will be the first to admit that smokers have been deprived of their right to smoke, however, I would point out also that the learning atmosphere is a much healthier one. In addition, the classrooms, while not the cleanest in the world, are a far sight cleaner than they were when everyone who wanted to smoked in the rooms.

The problem of cigarette receptacles has improved, there are now two or more stands on each floor of all the buildings. It requires little effort to take a smoke before classes begin; thus leaving your smoke in the hallway.

We all have our rights, but in deciding who is rightest, it is often necessary to consider other factors as well. In this case, the health factor. If you and I want to contaminate our lungs by smoking, that is our business, but when we attempt to force others to do the same, that constitutes an invasion of their rights.

Give it some thought smokers, let the non-smokers have a little air; and help keep our classrooms clean at the same time.

Student lobbying - Facts and Tact

By Steve Lemken

(CPS) - Expressing their viewpoints with increasing credibility, student lobbying groups are working for legislation which would improve tenant landlord laws, increased state appropriations for higher education, building renovations and tuition stabilization.

Pat Pomeroy, vice-president of the Associated Students of the University of Montana (ASUM) and a co-director of the Montana Student Lobby (MSL) says that the outlook for a successful passage of a tenant landlord act is good. Last year a similar bill was defeated in the legislature by only one vote, due to a strong effort by realtors. Pomeroy explained that a compromise version has been worked out this year with the strong points of the original bill intact.

With the selection of a new chief legislative lobbyist for MSL, Pomeroy feels the year will be successful. In the past the MSL placed a student voting member on the Board of Regents, won the right for students to sit in on collective bargaining discussions as an independent third party and gained private resident status for dorm students.

The New Jersey Student Association (NJSA) is acting on tuition, financial aid and student rights issues. The organization gave testimony to the Booher Commission, which is taking a long-term view at the financing of post-secondary education in New Jersey.

Keep the potato, cut out junk foods

By Barbara Herondorf

So, you are on a diet and you have given up potatoes because they contain too much carbohydrates. I can't argue the fact that potatoes do contain much carbohydrates, but along with the carbohydrates you are giving up, you are also giving up calcium, iron, magnesium, phosphorus, potassium, sodium, copper, vitamin B1, B2, B6, niacin, vitamin D, E, and K. Get the message? All this in one medium sized baked potato.

Ah hah!! But how many calories are you eating? Many people don't realize that one medium sized baked potato with the skin has about 100 calories, just about 20-30 more calories than a piece of whole wheat bread. Potatoes are fattening only when you plop five tablespoons of butter on them or a huge glob of sour cream (which, incidentally, has almost 1000 calories per cup), or if you fry or cook them with thick gravies and sauces.

What is the solution? You do not want to eat that baked potato plain, with nothing on it. Have you ever tried catsup? Catsup has less calories than butter or sour cream and you probably won't use nearly as much. You eat catsup on french fries, don't you? Then why not on a baked potato?

So, you say, "but there are still too many carbohydrates." If you are really concerned, instead of giving up a wholesome food like potatoes, cut down on some of those junk foods you eat, or all those rich gravies, sauces and dressings, or drink two less cans of beer at that party tonight (two cans of beer contain the same amount of carbohydrates as one medium potato) and eat that potato instead. You will be a lot better off for it.

"As I grow older, I understand life less and less, and love it more and more." - Jacques Renard.

With the departure of the chancellor of higher education in that state, the NJSA is seeking a voice in the selection of his successor. The NJSA also employs a full-time coordinator to do research, organize committees and talk to legislatures.

In a hectic election year, an important form of student representation materializes at the polls. A representative of the Student Association of State Universities (SASU) in New York said a successful voter registration drive has been completed. There are 165,000 students in the State University system, and 50,000 have registered to vote. The SASU intends to follow this up by sending questionnaires to those people running for office. These forms will determine candidates' stands on student issues.

Despite the large turnout for voter registration, SASU is drawing plans to tackle the state's archaic election laws. These laws, similar to those in Virginia, North and South Carolina and Hawaii, prevent most students from voting where they go to college. The group will also re-introduce legislation to the assembly which seeks third party status for students in the collective bargaining process.

Drinking and activity funding broaden the arena of student interests. In New Mexico, a state wide effort is being made by the Associated Students of New Mexico (ASNM) to force the governor to keep his campaign promise of lowering the drinking age to 18. Students at the University of New Mexico are lobbying the legislature in Santa Fe for better funding for the school. Dorothy Davidson, student body vice-president, said "there is an increased sense of student government credibility with the state legislatures" and feels a successful lobby effort will be made this year.

While student groups across the country are trying to make headway against bureaucratic obstacles, Montana students feel they are leading the nation in obtaining student rights. With a working budget of about $93,000 this year, MSL co-director Pomeroy feels MSL will gain new programs, raise faculty salaries and renovate existing space and buildings.

Counting credibility with state representatives a major asset, Pomeroy indicated that tactful avoidance of some "touchy" issues, where they may not have the expertise in fact presentation, has helped in getting their programs through.

Extracurricular homework, facts and figures, appear to be the stuff from which successful student representation is made.

Tennis, most popular American sport

By Kim Brady

In the past five years, the game of tennis has grown to become one of the most popular sports in America. The growth hasn't been confined to the national level, but can be seen in junior and senior high schools, institutions of higher education, and the community. With the recent completion of the CNC courts, this growth can be seen especially well at all levels here on the campus.

Mr. Jack Armistead, the Men's Varsity Tennis coach at CNC, has an elaborate background in tennis, and has watched the sport grow in the Peninsula area as well as at CNC. He is presently the president of the Peninsula Tennis Patron's Association, the treasurer of the Virginia Tennis Association, and a past voting delegate to the Mid Atlantic Tennis Association. The coach has also acted as umpire at the Annual Coliseum Mall International Tournament.

In a recent interview he expressed his feelings about the growth and development of Tennis at CNC and the surrounding community. "Tennis has been the fastest growing participant sport in the last five to ten years," Coach Armistead said. "This number of participants have tripled since 1965 from 10 million to some 35 million in the United States alone. This growth has put a tremendous strain on existing facilities, and has put pressure on communities, schools, and private clubs to provide three times the facilities."

Newport News in 1965 had four public park courts and a few high school courts to offer the public for use; while in the last five years eight more courts have been built at Huntington Park, an eight court facility has been put up in Hidenwood, most private clubs have increased their facilities, and Christopher Newport has just finished its six courts. As a whole, the tennis facilities found in the Newport News area alone have doubled and perhaps tripled in the last five years."

Why does tennis have such an overwhelming appeal? According to Coach Armistead, there are a number of advantages found in tennis that are not found in most sports. "First of all, the sport is one that can be actively participated in all of your life. A child can learn to play at seven, eight, or nine years; and can often continue to play into his sixties or seventies.

The game can be played by almost anyone, there are no specific athletic or physical attributes necessary, yet it is excellent exercise for the whole body.

One game can be played in a relatively short time; during lunch hours, before work in the morning, or after work in the late afternoon or evening. The game can also be played by a relatively few number of people, and there is no division of the sexes - men and women can be mixed, unlike the contact sports. Perhaps one of the most important reasons today is that the game is inexpensive, especially for the beginner, as compared to other sports, which makes starting out in tennis much easier," he says.

Coach Armistead feels that the Peninsula is especially good for tennis. "The participation is excellent at the junior and senior high school levels, recreational, and the college levels. High schools on the Peninsula have fine teams, good coaching, and the skill is high. At one time we had few players here at CNC who had been active in high school teams, but now every player at CNC has played at the high school level and most were in the top three standings on their teams. We no longer have to do any recruiting of players off of the Peninsula," he stated.

The coach is enthusiastic about our new facilities and the impact they will have both at the school and in the community. "In my first years at CNC, the team had to go all over the area trying to find a place to play. Now that we have our own courts, interest has already begun to increase among the faculty, students and community. The minimal charge for the use of the courts is necessary to keep the area in good shape and to pay someone to watch over the courts, though it doesn't seem to bother the players very much because the fee is so low."

A girl's tennis team has begun this fall for the first time. They have played matches already against William and Mary, Randolph Macon, and ODU. The team played better each time, though they haven't won a game yet. The Coach says, "I expect the team to grow in the coming years; the coach, Dr. Doane, is very good and the team is working hard. We are also seeing an increase in interest on the intramural level now that the courts are finished; and the three beginning classes we teach each semester will benefit greatly."

The coach concluded, "What I foresee for the future is that tennis is going to emerge as a very strong cohesive sport in the school and community. I hope to see this school as a center around which the sport can grow even more. People from the community come to our courts and can always get a game going, and they know they can get good competition to match their own skills. We hope to see this trend continue and expand."

Gooding to coach women's basketball team

Christopher Newport College announces the appointment of Terry Gooding as coach of The Women's Basketball team. Ms. Gooding was a member of ODU's basketball team when they took State Championship in 1973.

Ms. Gooding's coaching experience includes softball, field hockey, and gymnastics at Warwick High School for two years. She now has a gymnastics coaching position at Ferguson High School for the upcoming year.

Coach Vaughn, director of Athletics, states "The Department of Athletics feels very fortunate to have Ms. Gooding as an addition to the staff. I feel her playing experience in both high school and college basketball will be a great asset to the team. Her coaching ability will provide leadership and expertise in the area of women's basketball."

The team's first games are with the College of William and Mary on December 1st at 7:00 p.m. at William and Mary and with Virginia Wesleyan College on December 4th here at CNC at 2:30 p.m.

National teachers exams announced

Students completing teacher preparation may take the National Teacher Examinations on any of the three different test dates announced today by Educational Testing Service, a nonprofit, educational organization which prepares and administers this testing program.

Dates for the testing of prospective teachers are: November 13, 1976, February 19, 1977, and July 16, 1977. The tests will be given at nearly 400 locations through the United States, ETS said.

Results of the National Teacher Examinations are used by many large school districts as one of several factors in the selection of new teachers and by several states for certification or licensing of teachers. Some colleges also require all seniors preparing to teach to take the examinations.

On each full day of testing, prospective teachers may take the Common Examinations which measure their professional preparation and general educational background and an Area Examination which measures their mastery of the subject they expect to teach.

Prospective candidates should contact the school systems in which they seek employment, or their colleges, for specific advice on which examinations to take and on which dates they should be taken.

The Bulletin of Information for Candidates contains a list of test centers, and general information about the examinations, as well as a Registration Form. Copies may be obtained from the Education Department at Christopher Newport College. Call 599-7020.

Viginity rises for men

(CPS) - Women college students are more sexually active than they were six years ago and there is an increase in the number of male virgins, according to a study reported in the October issue of Playboy magazine.

The study found that 49 percent of the college women polled in 1970 said they graduated with their virginity unviolated. That figure decreased to 26 percent this year.

Male virgins increased from 18 percent in 1970 to 26 percent in 1976.

"This magical equality of percentages means that students have arrived at that promised land - a sexual utopia where the women are just as active sexually as the men," Playboy said.

CNC students win karate events

CNC students Cindy Howell and Jim Martin won first place in their events at the Fall Inter-DoJo Karate Championships held at the College of William and Mary on October 16, 1976.

Cindy Howell won the Women's Kata (Form) event, and Jim Martin was first in the Men's Kumite (Sparring) competition. Both were entered in the beginners' class of the championship between contestants from William and Mary, Old Dominion University, and Christopher Newport College.

Student opinion - Steelers, biorhythm

By Adrienne London

Student opinion about their interest in various subjects took a lighter attitude this past week. The main interests on the CNC campus were the Pittsburgh Steelers, the oncoming debate between Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford at William and Mary, biorhythm, transcendental meditation, the Chicago concert and what should be printed in The Captain's Log.

As stated earlier, the main interest at CNC seems to be the Pittsburgh Steelers. For weeks the super bowl champs from Pittsburgh have been in the pits. The teams they have played, and were expected to defeat, have surprised, terrorized, and pulverized them until they have taken their rightful place at the bottom of their division (listed next to other great division teams such as Tampa Bay and the Seattle Seahawks). Many CNC students expressed dismay, disbelief, a quick alliance with the Washington Redskins and lots of grief. Some feel that the Steel Curtain will make it back to the super bowl - the powerful force that created the Pennsylvania dynasty shall rise again. Other students felt that Tampa Bay also has a shot.

The debates have been debated, and debated. First, it was debated if the debate was to be held, how it was to be handled, how to decorate the dressing rooms, lobbies, bathrooms and so on. The opinions of the students about the debate couldn't be printed (too controversial). However, there were a few that were very interesting. One student felt that the debates should be held when everyone was sure to pay attention, which would be no time, and no where. One suggested that Ford and Carter should have some kind of gimmick other than that honky southern accent and the acrobatic trick Ford does. Many students wish the best for the debaters as well as the debates which is the end of it all.

Biorhythm is a not often talked about controversy, basically because its not all that well understood.

Some information was found on this theory stating that there are three biological rhythm cycles (physical, emotional and mental) that start in your body at birth and continue through life. When trying to find the critical day (which is accompanied by a code number) the number of days between your birth date and any day chosen is computed. On the day in question, the height of each bio-cycle is used according to its importance to each of ten attributes shown as potential. Biocycles are critical on the day they pass through zero. The body is in a "state of change", caution in that area is advisable. An upper classman confessed that biorhythm was easy for everyday use if one was a computer. Others felt that everyday was a critical day when you had certain professors.

The crowds at CNC are into spiritual and mental awakening. Transcendental meditation seems to be the rage this semester. It was stated by an enthusiast as releasing the mind and body from all anxieties and fears, tension and worries and not to mention the release of the $125 it takes to acquire the technique. One classman felt that he was floating in a sea of tranquility. His girl friend retorted he was 'just floating.'

The Chicago concert was highly regarded as the best concert of the year (so was every other concert held at the Scope). Between, "You didn't see the concert - gasp, sigh, frown," and, "Boy, were they ever built - pant, scream, drool;" one found out that the concert was a sell out. Chicago sang new songs and old songs and some more new songs and some more old songs. The pattern became apparent around the end of the concert. The female populous of CNC would love for them to make a return appearance within the next week.

The idea behind this article was to find out what the students wanted in their newspaper. What types of articles needed to be printed and what features they wanted printed. The majority of the students couldn't think of anything they wanted printed this week. They did feel that more campus activity should be printed along with interviews with the speakers and performers who visit Christopher Newport. One student stated that he would appreciate this type of information since he never made it to campus functions or to guest speakers and performers that come to CNC.

CNC SVEA co-sponsors "Reading and Writing Creatively"

The Newport News Council of the International Reading Association and the Christopher Newport College Student Virginia Education Association are sponsoring "Reading and Writing Creatively" mini-workshops, geared especially for teachers from the elementary to the high school levels. The workshops will be given on Wednesday, October 27, from 2:30 to 5:00 p.m. in the Christopher Newport College Campus Center.

The first session, from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m., will be of interest primarily to elementary school teachers, and the second session, from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m., for high school, intermediate, and upper elementary school teachers. Each session will feature five different mini-presentations. Registration starts at 2:30 p.m. Participants do not have to be members of the Newport News Reading Council.

The Council has grown from a low of five members in 1972, to 140 members in 1976. Before 1972, the Council in Newport News had all black members and the Hampton Reading Council had all white members. Dr. Concetta Wilson helped to integrate the Councils in 1972. In 1974-75, the Council had 40 members and gained over twice that number from 1975-76. The Council last year won a citation from the Virginia State Reading Association for one of the three councils in the State having the largest percentage gain in membership in the 1976-77 school year.

The Council has instituted a Newsletter to keep members informed. It also tries to have programs of interest to all teachers-regardless of subjects or levels taught. Through workshops such as the one at Ferguson High School last year (which was attended by nearly 400 people) and this year's workshops, the Council hopes to help informed teachers work more creatively with students. A workshop which was held in February 1976 at three school centers was attended by more than 300 people.

Both parents and educators are members of the Council.

CNC Players to produce "The Knack"

The cast of the upcoming CNC Players' production of The Knack by Ann Jellicoe has been announced. Deborah McAbee plays Nancy, a girl of seventeen just arriving in London. John Wynne portrays Tom, a rather eccentric young man, Matt Riebe appears as Colin, a sexually frustrated teacher and Chip Wiken plays Tolen, whose "way with girls" and sexual prowess is much admired by Colin.

The production is directed by Dr. Bruno Koch, and the set design is in the hands of John Wynne. The performance dates of The Knack are December 2, 3 and 4.

Anyone interested in participating in such areas as scene construction, lighting, publicity, box office or properties, please contact Dr. Koch in CC 155 or call 599-7088.

Grad committee undecided on speaker

The graduation Committee met last Tuesday afternoon, to discuss plans for the upcoming graduation and the issue of the Graduation Committee report to be submitted to President Windsor.

A vote was taken to decide the ranking of the speaker's list for graduation to be submitted to President Windsor. The results were a combination of choices from both the Senior Class members and the Graduation Committee itself. The two top names on the list were Senator Edward Kennedy and Barbara Jordan, Democratic Congresswoman from Texas. The decision was also made to move the graduation date back to December 19th in the afternoon. Ceremonies will be held in the Ratcliff Gym.

Discussion of the Graduation Committee report also took place, and plans are being made to conduct a poll at the next registration concerning what the students think the committee should report to President Windsor. More information on this issue will appear in a later edition of The Captain's Log.

VA benefits not available in some foreign countries

Former servicemen and women may do themselves a favor by checking with the Veterans Administration before making a trip or establishing a residence abroad, VA said today.

The reason, the Roanoke VA Regional Office explained, is that certain VA benefits cannot be provided in foreign countries and veterans who are aware of these will be able to plan more wisely. For example, a veteran with a service-connected disability should obtain a statement to that effect from the VA office which maintains his medical records. This statement will entitle the veteran to emergency hospitalization, paid for by VA, when it and a proper application for medical benefits is presented to the United States Embassy or consular office in the foreign country. The application should be made within 72 hours of need, VA explained.

Only at Veterans Memorial Hospital in Manila is VA-paid care available overseas for veterans with nonservice-connected disabilities. As is the case in the United States, those veterans will be admitted to the hospital only on a space available basis and only if they are unable to afford other hospitalization, VA said. Only veterans who are retired from military service are eligible for medical benefits from military hospitals and clinics overseas.

Certain VA education benefits are available overseas to eligible veterans, their spouses and children. The type and availability of these benefits should be ascertained before traveling or moving abroad.

While compensation and pension checks will be mailed to most overseas locations, veterans cannot obtain GI home loans for overseas residences, VA said.

Full information may be obtained at the nearest VA office or by checking with a representative of one of the national veterans service organizations.

A once-a-year Veterans Administration payment totaling more than $9 million was mailed recently to disabled veterans who wear prostheses.

Annual clothing allowance checks for $175 have been mailed to almost 52,000 service-disabled veterans, the VA Regional Office in Roanoke reported today.

Veterans compensated by the VA for service-connected disabilities, requiring use of prosthetic or orthopedic appliances, receive the allowance to offset expenses incurred in wear and tear on clothing. Appliances considered include artificial limbs, braces, and wheelchairs.

VA explained that after initial application, veterans on VA compensation rolls receive the annual allowance automatically.

Military retirees with disabilities requiring use of prosthetic devices, but who are not receiving VA compensation, must make application each year for the clothing allowance. Retirees are not required to waive any portion of their retirement pay to receive the allowance, VA noted.

Sexuality workshop, mainly women, audience asked few questions

By Stephanie Priester

Last week, Human Sexuality workshops were held in the Campus Center Theatre. Workshops were held each day at noon, and one workshop on Monday evening, covering a total of five human sexuality topics. The workshops covered such topics as "Sociological aspects of Human Sexuality," "Psychological Effects of Human Sexuality," "Sexuality Physiology," "Birth Control Facts & Myths," and, "Dealing with your Sexuality."

Dr. Kernodle conducted a workshop on the "Sociological Aspects of Human Sexuality." It has an interesting presentation. Dr. Kernodle spoke for approximately one hour, uninterrupted. The audience was quite small and consisted mainly of women (an indicator of a sociological aspect of human sexuality?).

The audience showed no noticeable reaction to what was being presented and did not ask any questions at the end of the workshop which seemed to be more of a classroom lecture.

Suspicion is as great an enemy to wisdom as too much credulity. - Fuller.

CNC students form queue on Commons for ten cent hamburgers.

CAC provides lunch for reasonable price, ten cents per serving

How would you like a hamburger for only 10 cents? Or maybe you are a vegetarian, then you would certainly like to have a scoop of potato salad or cole slaw for only a dime.

That was the sight which greeted a large number of the CNC student body last Friday at noon. The CAC, for reasons known only to itself, provided all the food (and beer on the side for an additional price) necessary to satisfy the hardest appetite at only a dime a serving.

You might call this an unadvertised special since most of the student body was not aware of what was going to take place, but for those who did not hesitate to stop by, there was a very welcomed lunch for a very small portion of what it would have cost elsewhere.

Give us more cheap food CAC, we need it.

All in the family...Candidates' Sons hit the campaign trail

By Russ Smith

(CPS) - "I want to see a job for those who want to work...a bedpan for those who want to sleep...and Southern accents we can all understand..." joked Chip Carter, 23 year old son of Jimmy Carter, at an appearance in Seattle, Washington, last month.

At the other end of the country, President Ford's son Jack was winding up another sixteen-hour session of pumping hands, making economic statements and humoring small-time politicians, only to face the same grueling schedule the next day.

In an election year that has focused on personalities rather than gut issues, it's no surprise that the families of the respective candidates are playing such a prominent role in the quadrennial political circus.

Quite a heady spot for a young adult to be in, but it's not all a lark for these campaign-weary VIP's.

"I just moved into the White House because I had to have a place to live," Jack Ford explained to a Baltimore Sun reporter recently. "The White House is worth doing once, but it gets like seeing the same movie over and over."

Ford, 24, has mixed feelings about being thrown into the political whirlwind. He enjoyed squiring Bianca Jagger and entertaining George Harrison at the White House but complained of distorted media coverage.

While indifferent to living in the White House, Ford would miss his father's presidency, "because I like the confidence of knowing where this country is going to be."

And Steve Ford, 20, who has consistently shunned the spotlight by retreating to Western ranches and rodeos, said that even if his father lost the election, the family would win, since his father would have more free time.

Still, the Ford brothers are hitting the hustings hard, jetting from rural town to city campus, greeting thousands of admirers and hecklers daily, and relinquishing any privacy they might have had.

Why are they working so hard to help their father win the election?

"I'm campaigning to help repay all the things Dad has done for the family," commented Steve, "and also because he's the experienced leader the country needs right now."

The President's youngest son is often met with tough questions from college audiences. When asked about amnesty at the University of Texas, Ford quickly replied, "I would hope that, if I were drafted, I would be a strong enough person to fight for my country." And

Committee had so advised me. Both investigating committees found me to be free of any charge. Special investigators and the Attorney General have found no evidence for prosecution. All of the White House tapes are under the control of the court.

Carter - No response.

Q. - The next crises spot in the world may be Yugoslavia because of their ailing Head of State. Its pretty certain that Russia will do everything it can do keep Yugoslavia under Soviet control. But last Saturday, you said, "I would not go to war in Yugoslavia, even if the Soviet Union sent in troops." Doesn't this invite the Russians to invade Yugoslavia? And doesn't this discourage Yugoslavia - U.S. relations? And, isn't it better to keep Russia in the dark as to your plans?

Carter - From informed sources, I have been told that there is no prospect of the Soviet Union invading Yugoslavia. I have stated from the beginning of my campaign that I would not go to war over the internal affairs of another country unless our National Security was threatened.

Ford - I think it unwise for a President to signal his options in advance when an international crises arose. Such a statement invited North Korea to invade South Korea, and in fact North Korea did so.

Q. - Administrative performance - General George Brown delivered his views on several sensitive subjects. Since General Brown's comments have caused embarrassment in the past, why is he still this country's leading military officer?

Ford - I have told General Brown that what he said was ill advised and he has given his apology. General Brown has a good military record and he is a good leader. The fact that he apologized and has an outstanding military record is the reason I have let him remain at his post, and because of his importance to many matters concerning our defense.

Carter - A statement from the President is in order to correct the situation.

Q. - Many Americans feel uneasy about you Governor Carter. They feel they don't know you or the people around you. One problem seems to be that you haven't reached out and brought a wide range of people into your campaign. Most of the people around you are young and inexperienced. Doesn't this raise a serious question as to whether you would bring into your administration enough experienced people to run the Federal Government?

Carter - I don't believe it does because I got this far with what I have. By talking with the people, I have learned what they want out of government. That's why I chose Senator Mondale for Vice President. I feel he is best suited to be President if something should happen to me.

Ford - I feel that Senator Bob Dole is highly qualified to be President in my place.

Q. - Federal policy in this country since WWII has tended to favor the development of suburbs at the great expense of central cities. Does not the Federal Government now have an affirmative obligation to the rebitalization of the American City? We have heard little in this campaign suggesting that you have a urban reconstruction plan. Could you please outline your urban intentions for us now?

Carter - This administration has no urban policy because it's impossible for mayors and Governors to cooperate unless they have 6 months to 2 years to plan. It's important to know that the cities have a partner in the Federal Government.

Ford - I have quite a comprehensive revenue sharing program to help the large cities. This would give "federal backing for such things as transportation, housing, and health care," plans.

Q. - How are you getting the job done for Blacks and other minorities, and what are your plans for the next four years?

Ford - We are giving full recognition to individuals of quality in the Ford Administration and positions of great responsibility. The Department of Justice is fully enforcing and enforcing effectively, the Voting Rights Act, the legislation that involves jobs, housing for minorities, not only Blacks, but all others.

The Department of HUD is enforcing the new legislation that takes care of 'redlining' - What we're doing is saying that there are opportunities - business opportunities, educational opportunities - responsibilities where people with talent, Black or any other minority, can fully qualify. The Office of Minority Business in the Department of Commerce has made available more money in trying to help Black businessmen and other minority businessmen than any other administration since the office was established. I believe that this administration has been responsive and has carried out the law to the letter, and I am proud of the record.

Carter - Mr. Ford only voted for the Voting Rights Act only when he saw that it was going to pass. We have a 30% to 40% unemployment rate among Black and minority youths.

Q. - Do you think that is appropriate to the dignity of the Constitution to tack on amendments in a wholesale fashion, and which of the ones I listed, balanced budget, school bussing, school prayer, abortion, gun control, which of those would you really work hard to support if you were President?

Carter - I would not work hard to support any of those. We've always had a lot of Constitutional amendments proposed, but the passage of them has been fairly slow, and far and far between. I'm strongly against abortion, I think abortion is wrong. I don't favor a Constitutional amendment on it. I honor the right of people to seek Constitutional amendments on these subjects.

Ford - I support the Republican platform which calls for the Constitutional amendment that would outlaw abortion, I favor the particular Constitutional amendment that would turn over to the states, the individual rights of the voters in the states to make a decision, public referendum. I call that 'The People's Amendment'. I think this is a responsible way to proceed.

Editor's Note: While this article does give the reader a general idea of what this third debate was all about, it does not cover all that was said. For those CNC classes interested in hearing the complete debate, the tapes may be borrowed from The Captain's Log. In such cases, the tapes must be returned the following day. If your class is so interested, you may contact the Editor in CC-225.

Sons hit campaign trail

to the inevitable query about pot, Ford answered, "I'm not for the legalization of marijuana, but I don't think people should be heavily penalized for trying it."

Faced with the election of Jimmy Carter, Steve said he would "saddle up my horse and ride off into the sunset I guess."

The three adult Carter children, Jack, Jeff and Chip, have been working for four years on the Carter bandwagon, enlisting wives, relatives and friends for the crusade to the White House.

Jack, 29, is the most active of Carter's sons, repeating a serious and professional speech at colleges from C.W. Post in Long Island to the University of Missouri. He promises spectators that his father will provide the spiritual leadership of Kennedy while keeping in touch with the masses. Speaking to a young audience, Carter will play up his father's vow of decriminalizing marijuana.

When a student in New York City offered Carter a hit off a joint, a campaign official quickly pointed out, "he only exhales."

Chip Carter adds a bit more spark to the trail, snappily remarking that as a "young farmer" he wanted Earl Butz fired, and that his father never said one bad word about Lyndon Johnson. Young Carter holds mock debates in bars, lets loose the secret that his father brushes with Crest, and amuses audiences with lines like, "I want all Americans to be able to walk down the street showing their teeth."

Carter's classic closer to a whipped up crowd is "We can win with work, and we'll work to win."
