Christophers Hosts The New Student Showcase

By Diana Dely
staff writer

In the near future, you may find yourself enjoying theatre with your lunch.

Some industrious theatre students are planning to give "Student Showcases," scenes and monologues from various plays, to be performed at Christopher's.

Theatre student Tim Morgan, director of the showcases, said the first is tentatively scheduled for the third or fourth week of September. The showcases will run approximately once a month, and they will probably begin at noon and continue for about an hour.

"We hope to generate more interest in theatre and build up talent in acting and directing," he said. The scenes will be from a variety of works, ranging from comedy to drama, classic to contemporary, and will include works by playwrights Arthur Miller, Oscar Wilde, and Moliere. The showcases will not be very elaborate in scenery and costume, using "basically as much street clothes as possible."

Morgan said some of the scenes may be controversial. "We won't please everybody. We might even anger some."

The first scene they plan to do is from the third play from "Torch Song Trilogy" by Harvey Fierstein. Morgan said it is a "controversial scene, kind of funny, kind of dramatic," about a retired drag Queen.

Morgan first started taking classes at Christopher Newport in 1979, spending a year and a half as an English major until he took a theatre course as an elective, when he says he "was hooked," and became a theatre major. He is also active in the Over The Hill Gang and spent this summer working with the Shakespeare Festival in Williamsburg.

Morgan said the students will perform seven to ten scenes in the corner of the cafeteria; a narrator will introduce and explain each scene.

Morgan has 8-10 students right now, and auditions are open to everyone. He is looking for people to help with scenery and lighting, as well as for actors. If you are interested, contact Tim Morgan by leaving your name and phone number with Dr. Bruno Koch in the CNC Theatre. All parts are cast for the first showcase, but production of the next one will begin the third week of September.

Patrolman Joyce L. Huning, a familiar face around campus, was recently promoted to Sergeant.

Huning Promoted From Patrolman To Sergeant

By Karen Lynn Hastings
staff writer

"I've found a home at CNC," says Sergeant Joyce L. Huning. Huning was recently promoted from patrolman, to become the first lady Sergeant at CNC.

Patrolling the College for the past 39 months, Huning commented, "I'd be stupid if I didn't say I've had a few anxious moments, but I really enjoy helping others." She brings a wealth of experience with her to the rank of Sergeant. Huning attended an accredited police academy in 1976 and was an instructor for three-and-a-half years.

She was a field training officer for five-and-a-half years (three-and-a-half years at the Virginia Port Authority and two years at CNC). As a field training officer she worked with new employees assigned under her supervision. Huning helped train new recruits until they felt comfortable enough to go out on patrol alone. At the Virginia Port Authority, she was a patrolman for six years.

Before starting her career over nine years ago, Huning was an instructor for adult education classes in Norfolk. She said, "When I decided to be a patrolman, it was a challenge to see if the state would hire me - and they did!"

Huning is continuously learning and has taken several courses in Police Science/Public Administration at CNC. This semester however, she is taking an emergency medical technician course through the Police Department. This will enable her to add to her skills and also work as a volunteer for the Fire Department. As for her future, "I want to go as far as I can go in law enforcement."

Continuing Education Fall Classes Scheduled

By Diana Dely
staff writer

The Office of Continuing Education is offering three courses beginning this month. These are part of the fall schedule.

Scheduled to begin September 18 will be Small Business Management, Marketing and Financing. The course focuses on the steps necessary to start or buy your own business. Class meets Wednesdays, 7:45 a.m. in the Campus Center Terrace, and runs for 5 sessions ending October 16. Cost is $65.

The second class offering this month will be Sailing - for beginners and intermediates.

Beginning Sailing includes theory, points of sail and rules of the road. Intermediate is a hands-on course including a review of basics, and more advanced techniques - anchoring, tides and currents, weather, racing rules, starting principles, windward and downwind techniques.

Classes meet Saturdays at The Sailing Shack at Warwick Yacht Club beginning September 21, running 6 sessions ending October 26. Session A of Beginning Sailing meets 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., and Session B meets 12 noon to 2 p.m. Intermediate Sailing is also from 12 noon to 2 p.m. Cost is $85.

Registration and payment should be completed at least one week prior to the first class meeting. To register over the phone or for more information call 599-7158.

Once in a while, the debate over dormitories arises at CNC. In one article in this issue, the lack of domicile facilities is indicated as a possible source for the low participation levels at sporting events.

Whether or not this is a valid claim, it does, however, bring up the issue of whether or not CNC should consider the addition of dormitories to the campus.

Dormitories do provide an atmosphere of community that CNC, like most other commuter colleges, does seem to lack. They are, in effect, an alternative.

Yet this alternative housing facility also arises many questions. Questions such as how will this type of expansion affect other construction projects? Is the number of full-time, four-year students sufficient to warrant such an undertaking?

How does the constant flux of transfer students affect said number of students?

How will the construction of and maintenance of these facilities affect tuition?

What about married couples interested in living on-campus? How will such plans affect future property acquisitions?

The dormitory question is one in which The Captain's Log is extremely interested. The Editorial Board seeks the opinions of the Administration, the faculty, and the student body on this issue. Please send your responses to The Captain's Log.

Vaughan Reflects On Career At CNC

By Hector Gonzalez
staff writer

In the beginning, CNC's Athletic Department consisted of two persons and offered two to three sports teams. Now it has a staff of 25 and sponsors 16 sports teams.

As he enters his 18th year as CNC Athletic Department Director, Bev Vaughan reflects on the many changes he has seen. In addition to the changes in the athletic program's size, the college has changed from a rating of no affiliation to NCAA Division III affiliation, says Vaughan.

Vaughan also recalls that in the early years CNC athletes were not recruited. Nonetheless, teams were competitive. Today the College recruits both in-state and out-of-state students, Vaughan said.

When asked why college scholarships were not offered to these student athletes, Vaughan pointed out that NCAA regulations forbid Division III schools from offering financial assistance to athletes unless they qualify as needy. Vaughan says this policy could change if CNC goes from Division III affiliation to either NCAA Division II or I. Before any scholarship program could be initiated, Vaughan believes several athletic facilities would need to be improved and full-time coaches hired.

Vaughan feels the athletic programs are heading in the right direction. As evidence Vaughan points to the President's Cup Trophy the College has received the last two years. This award is given annually to the college with the best athletic program in the conference.

Vaughan thinks the lack of student support at athletic events may be attributable to the absence of dormitories on campus. However, since 80 percent of the students' comprehensive fees goes to finance the athletic budget, Vaughan encourages students to support the programs.

In assessing some of the achievements over the past years Vaughan gives most of the credit to his talented associates. "I'm only an instrument of theirs to get the job done," Vaughan said.

Mrs. Ellison Presents Gift To CNC

Mrs. Mary C. Ellison of Hampton has donated three fruit trees to the CNC Campus Center. Richard H. Ryther, director of the Campus Center, intends to place the trees outside the front entrance during warm weather, moving them inside during the winter.

The trees — one lime, one orange, and one tangelo — are fifteen years old and fruit-bearing, but small enough to be moved indoors. Ryther plans to have the redwood pots repainted, rather than buying new pots, which he estimated could cost $200 each.

Robb Appoints Alan A. Witt To The Board

By Sarah Wiggins

In Search Of

By David Becker

Making one last check of my billfold, I found that I was well prepared. My weighty wallet, which was stuffed with singles, would be much lighter by the end of the evening. Then I checked for that all-important I.D. I took one final deep breath to clear my head and headed for the best of college handouts — the "Hot Spots!"

Because many people are weight-conscious, it is not surprising that wine coolers and light beer are the current best sellers at many area establishments. At Berret's in Williamsburg, bartender Rich Benet, a CNC student, says "We go through literally keg after keg of Michelob Light!"

For the tops in college handouts, look to the following establishments and keep in mind they are not listed in any order.

Das Waldcafe (Warwick Boulevard) attracts many age groups. Your best chance of running into CNC students is on Sunday evenings from 9 p.m. until closing.

To unwind after a hectic daily schedule, take a leisurely ride to Colonial Williamsburg, where, situated on the Duke of Gloucester Street, you will find Berret's. There is no loud band here, so you can enjoy the ambiance with a special added attraction — an outdoor raw bar, served during the 4-7 p.m. Happy Hour.

If you are looking for a lively evening, look no further than Mercury Boulevard, where, nestled among the fast food restaurants, you will find the Continental Room. For loud music and dancing, this is the place to go.

On Jamestown Road in Williamsburg, close to the 199 intersection is The Blue Rose — currently one of the "places to be seen". Tuesday evenings the ladies can enjoy all-night Happy Hour. With its videos, loud top-40 music, and small yet elegant hardwood dance floor, The Rose is a popular favorite of the CNC crowd.

Peoples on Warwick Boulevard, featuring the popular Wednesday evening Taco Bar (beginning at 7 p.m.), caters to the twenty-one and over crowd.

Minutes from any point in Tidewater is the beautiful Mercury Boulevard — overflowing with taverns. You're best chances of finding a CNC student are at Bannigan's (great drinks!) or at the incredible Chi-Chi's, where free munchies are provided during its Cantina Happy Hour.

Beach lovers, weary after spending a hot day in the sun, can cool off before the drive home at Rogue's, where you can go dancing. For the less energetic, try one of the quaint side pubs on the strip. The Noisy Oyster Restaurant and Raw Bar (1806 Atlantic Ave.) serves appetizing fried vegetables. From 4-7 p.m. the drinks (with a capital D) are two for one. I recommend the whiskey sour. To sober up, chow down on the broiled crab cakes, a real crowd pleaser.

Should you succumb to the lure of too much alcohol, you can sober up on free non-alcoholic beverages which most of these establishments serve to a "designated drinker."

Join me soon as I once again travel over land and sea in search of . . . Summer's Final Flings!

Sailing Becomes Newest Varsity Sport At CNC

By Hector Gonzalez
staff writer

The latest addition to the CNC Athletic Department is varsity sailing. The sailing team, formerly a club sport, received its varsity status this past summer, thanks to faculty coordinator Dr. George Webb, who has headed the CNC club since its inception six years ago.

The new coach is Mark Gibbons, who said last week in an interview with the Daily Press that he intends to develop the varsity program second to none in the state. Gibbons, who comes to CNC by the way of the University of Virginia, has a long history of sailing experience.

Gibbons would eventually like to qualify for the National Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Association Championship. The association is the governing body for collegiate sailing.

Before the sailing team can reach this level of competitiveness, Gibbons said he needs to build a strong nucleus of young sailors. For this reason coach Gibbons encourages students interested in sailing to contact him in Room 119 of the gym or call 599-7052.

In the meantime Gibbons would like to increase the awareness of the sport by conducting weekly instructional meetings Fridays, in Room 119 of Newport Hall, at noon. Those interested in learning how to sail are invited to attend.

In late June, Stanley competed in Cologne, Germany. Sponsored by the International Sports Exchange, she was one of only two lady shot putters chosen for the American squad composed of 45 Division III athletes.

Soccer Team Begins Season With Win

By Rob Jozwiak
staff writer

The CNC Captains opened their soccer season Saturday with a decisive 5-0 victory over the Newport News Apprentice School. In temperatures of over 90 degrees, the Captains breezed to an opening win as they shut out Apprentice School.

Junior Carter scored the first goal two minutes into the game; then B.B. Carter added two goals and an assist. Lubos Sivulka added a goal and an assist, and Herbie Stewart added the final goal with only five minutes left to play on an assist from Wolfgang Tichy.

"We played very well as a team and finished off enough of our scoring opportunities to easily win the game," replied goalie Rick Longobardi. "I think the key to the win was our overall team hustle. We hustled a lot to keep them on the defensive side of the ball and created a lot of scoring opportunities. The shutout goes in my name, but it's really a team shutout. Everybody has to do his part; it was a team victory."

Coach Seth Roland was very pleased with the way his team played, but had reservations.

"You can't tell too much about the defense of the team from a game like this. We weren't really tested defensively," Roland said. "I'm pleased that we totally dominated the game, and I'm proud of the way the guys held up considering the heat. This kind of game brings a team closer together and builds confidence for the season."

Roland said he was pleased by the way the Captain's kept constant pressure on the Apprentice School, even when it was evident that the game was in hand.

The next game for the Captain's is an away game at Hampden-Sydney Wednesday at 3:30 p.m., and the next home game is Saturday at 2:00 p.m.

Danny Pittman Adds Spark To Cross Country

By Hector Gonzalez

It has been said that big things come in small packages. This description surely fits The Captain's Log athlete profile Dan Pittman, who at 5'6", 118 lbs., packs a lot of heart and stamina.

Since his arrival on campus a year ago, Dan has helped Coach Vince Brown's cross-country program achieve conference as well as National recognition.

Last year Dan won his regional meet in his specialty event, the cross-country run, a grueling five-mile race run on hilly surfaces.

Dan also took fourth place at the state meet and got as far as nationals, where Dan placed an impressive 19th out of 183 runners from 21 schools, with a time of 25 minutes for the five-plus miles.

Dan's goals this year include placing in the top five at the national meet and assisting Brown in developing the younger runners.

Dan's training schedule includes running 10 to 13 miles a day, and working out with the nautilus weight equipment to increase his strength and endurance.

This senior physical education major finds the school's quiet atmosphere to his liking. The quality of education is also excellent, says Pittman, who believes that CNC has some outstanding professors.

During the off season Dan counsels and coaches young athletes. A devoted movie buff, Pittman goes to the movies at least two to three times a week.

As for future plans Pittman would like to eventually coach and teach cross-country at the high school level and possibly compete in marathons.

season. The team has been getting ready for over a month now. They feel confident that with the combined experience of the team they are ready to repeat as Dixie Conference champs.

Coach Brown has high hopes for Kast who is running in the number two slot right now. Says Brown, "I think he's the most improved runner on the team. I'm looking for big things from him."

With Pittman and Kast leading the way on the men's team the Captain's should be contenders in every meet.

According to Coach Vince Brown, both the men's and women's team have depth and should do well if they can stay healthy. The men's team consists of Dan Pittman, Steve Kast, Keith

The women's team is equally impressive and should be more than contenders in their meets. Coming back for more this year are Karen Humphrey and Cindy Smith. Humphrey is nursing an injury but is expected to return in

With Kim Angebine, Valerie Bramlet, and Leah Guthrie, all seasoned and experienced, Coach Brown believes that this year's Lady Captains are probably one of the top women's teams in the state and, hopefully, in the South.

The first meet this year will be Saturday September 14 at the Old Dominion Invitational, which will be run at Mount Trashmore. Looking ahead to September 28, the Cross Country team will host the CNC Invitational.
