SGA Schedules 'Spring Fest,' April 25 - 27

This year's "Spring Fest" will begin at 11:00 am, April 25, and conclude at 6:00 am on April 27.

"Spring Fest 1975" stands to be the most outrageous and exhilarating occurrence ever to take place on these grounds. The Student Government Association, with the collaboration of the college clubs and organizations, has planned a series of festivities that will rival those of the ancient Romans.

The sighting of the "Fox," which will be mysteriously hidden somewhere under a rock, will signal the end of the day's classes.

Beer will flow at eleven from the hands of the AKPsi Brothers, who will also sponsor a .50 raffle for a ten-speed bicycle to help support the CNC Day Care Center. Live music will begin behind Newport Hall at 1 pm. President Windsor will draw the winning ticket at three. At 8 pm, an outdoor concert will take place at the same location.

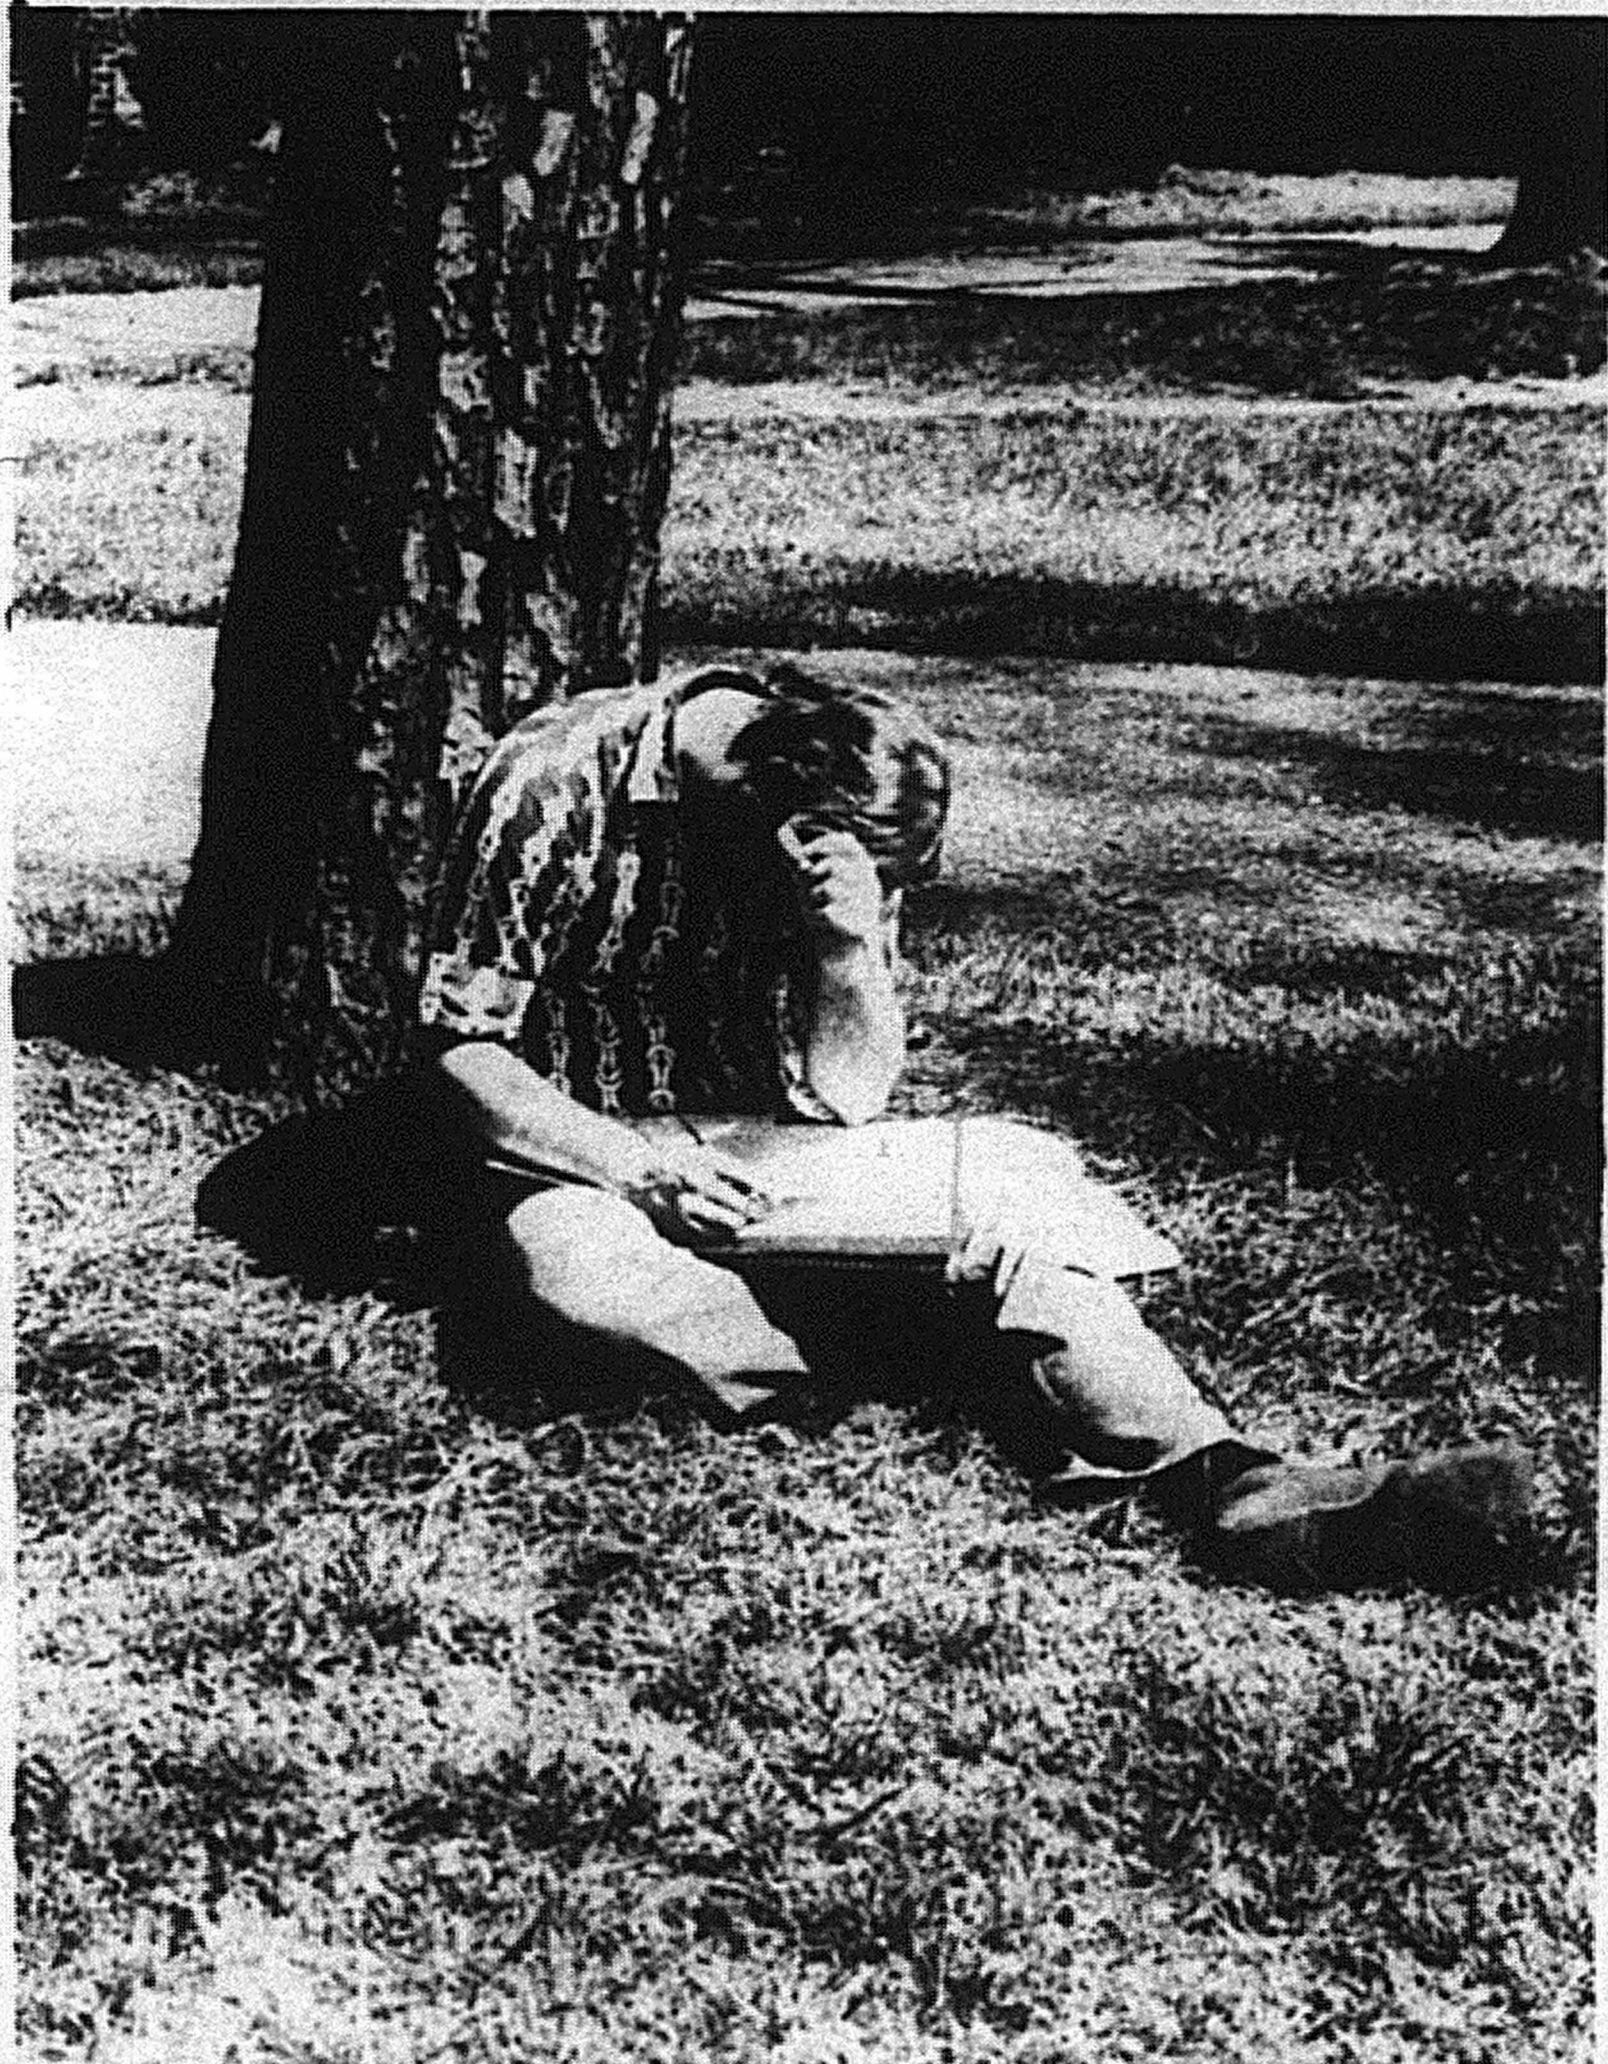

Saturday, AKPsi Fraternity members will, again, tap the kegs at 11:00 am. Inter-club contests will begin at 1:30. College clubs and organizations will compete in the following activities: Stumble Foot Derby, Chi Psi Omega; Beer Guzzling Contest, Alpha Kappa Psi; Tug-of-War, Sailing Club; Egg Tossing Contest, Sophomore & Freshman Classes; A Sensitivity Awareness, Psychology Club; Pie Eating Race, Chi Psi Omega; Slimy Pig, Junior Class; Shopping Cart Race, Alpha Kappa Psi, and Chicken Fights, TBA.

All clubs and organizations interested in sponsoring an event or skit, are asked to leave their name and phone number in the Dean of Students office.

A hideous "Spring Fest" trophy will be awarded to the club or organization receiving the most points: six for winner, four for second place, two for third, and one for entering.

Other events scheduled for Saturday are: 8 pm, CNC Players; 10 pm to 2 am, Dance to the music of "Pungo"; 12 to 5 am, all night movies; 5 am, Bacon and Eggs; and at 7 am, at last, we go home.

Ah...Spring at Last, A Day Last Week

This CNC student took advantage of the one day last week, when the weather was really calm, to catch up on his studies under the trees.

Dr. Windsor Asks $1.7 Million for Biennium

At the April 1 meeting of the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia, Dr. James C. Windsor, President of Christopher Newport

College, addressed the councilmen on behalf of the College.

During his opening statements, he expressed "appreciation for the continuing support of the State Council and its staff which has allowed Christopher Newport to join the ranks of Virginia's senior institutions of higher learning."

In a brief historical presentation on the College, he said, "that the College will continue to grow to an enrollment of approximately 3,500 by 1980." Dr. Windsor noted that approximately 50 percent of the students here are part-time. "to serve the full-and part-time students, the College operates from eight in the morning until ten at night," he said.

He also noted that in addition to the local residents served by the College, there are also approximately 20,000 active military personnel on the Peninsula who are served by the College. He stated that programs, "are designed to serve the unique educational needs of the citizens of the Virginia Peninsula, which is, and will continue to be, one of Virginia's

Dr. Marsland to Speak on SIDS

Director of Pediatrics at Riverside Hospital, Dr. David W. Marsland, will speak at the meeting of the Tidewater Guild for Infant Survival which will be held in the Round Room at Riverside Hospital on Monday, April 14 at 8 pm.

Dr. Marsland will discuss his research on the causes of the Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS), more commonly referred to as crib death.

The meeting is open to all interested persons.

Chess Sets Available

In order to help promote the game of chess at Christopher Newport College, the Chess Club has placed two of its new sets at the information desk in the Campus Center.

These sets may be checked out by the student body for their enjoyment at any time. If there are students who would like to learn the game of chess, the club members will be happy to teach them this exciting game of strategy.

In the near future the club hopes to play tournaments with Hampton Institute, William and Mary, and perhaps another Student-Faculty Tournament.

The next club meeting will be April 10th from 12:15-2:00 in CC-227.

CNC Economic Students to Teach in 'Point Option' Program

Community minded students here have joined together to teach a group of students from the Newport News' Point Option Program the basics of economic theory.

The all volunteer group are part of Dr. Colonna's Economic 304 class and will be conducting the program in classrooms here. No credits are being given for their participation, nor will it have a bearing on the grade received in class.

The purpose of the program, Point Option, is to expose exceptional high school students to intermediate economics. The CNC students in the program will gain valuable teaching experience. Like the CNC students teaching the program, all of the high school students attending will be volunteers. They have all asked for this type of program in economics.

The program will cover the Nature and Purpose of Economics; the Trade Off-More Capital Goods- Less Consumer Goods; More Consumer Goods- Less Capital Goods; the Circular Flow- Historical Background and Flow Models; How the Market Mechanism Works; the Measurement of Economic Performance; and Employment, Income, and Output Theory.

The four week course, starting April 7 and concluding May 5, will feature one lecturer and an alternate for each segment. Sections one and two will have Ms. Wanda Moen for lecturer, and Mr. Danny Miente as alternate. Sections three and four will have Mr. Sam Fairchild for lecturer, and Mr. Gene Biggs for an alternate. Mr. Rich Puchaty will be lecturer for section five and Mr. Henry Jones will be the alternate. Lecturer for section six is Mr. Jim Mitchell, Mr. Clyde Point will be the alternate.

Dr. Colonna is optimistic about the success of the program. He says, "If this year's program is a success, we can look forward to having it again next year."

Civitan Sponsors Bloodmobile, April 16

The Collegiate Civitan Club of Christopher Newport College is sponsoring a Bloodmobile on April 16, 1975 from 10:00 am-4:00 pm.

The Bloodmobile will be held at Grace Methodist Church which is located at the corner of Shoe Lane and Country Club Road. The Hampton Chapter of the American Red Cross will provide transportation from the Campus Center to the church for students needing it.

Blood is urgently needed and all people in the community and CNC students are urged to give.

HONOR WHERE HONOR DUE

In last week's coverage of the BSA's Honors Banquet, the winner of the award for the "Most Loyal to CNC" was omitted in error.

Profound apologies are in order to the BSA, whose members worked to put the program together, and to the Winner of the Award, Dr. Marshall Booker.

Unemployment and the May Graduate - Happiness?

While the majority of the student body will not be graduating in May and will not have to consider the question of finding a job, a large number of the students reading this article will be departing these 'hollowed halls.' The search for a job after graduation is the most important thing on the minds of a great many of these students, some of whom are already working part-time.

As the economy goes, so goes Black Capitalism, the last to rise and the first to fall. In the case of a number of graduating black students, the collapse of black business could be significant. Needless to say, Black Enterprises are not the only affected.

There are some public service jobs available, but you were not educated, nor trained for this type of work. Besides, there were only 67,000 slots remaining at the end of February, all of which will have no doubt been filled by the time you graduate.

While you are trying to think of someplace to apply for a job, some of our politicians, Senator Goldwater and others, are fighting a bitter word battle to determine the winner of our economic crisis - the Keynesian or Classical Economic Theory. But this doesn't help you at all. What you want to know is 'Where to find a job' and how low you must go on the economic ladder to stay in the work force. Will excessive labor supplies drive your wage rate down and thereby defeat the purposes for which you endured those years in college? We can tell ourselves a lot of things, our friends can tell us a lot more; in the end, it is a decision that each of us must make for ourself. What are we willing to give up in order to get what we want?

The situation is not a bright one; on the national scene, the unemployment rate for March was 8.7 percent, an increase of .5 percent over that of February. For non-whites, the increase was .8 percent for a high of 14.2 percent. Here in the Tidewater area, the unemployment rate for March was 'only' 7.2 percent, high, but still below the national average.

Statistics can be quoted, and re-quoted, but unless their significance is understood, they have little, if any, meaning to the college graduate looking for his or her first job. When you get right down to it, these figures really don't mean a thing. They don't pay the rent, buy clothes, put food on the table, nor pay medical bills. What really matters is having a source of income.

Well ladies and gentlemen, the situation does not look too good at all. You can apply for work through the various companies who 'generally' hire graduates, but you will probably get the same information that is being disseminated here on campus, "There are no vacancies at this time, but you may want to complete the application for experience, we will keep it on file for one year." This, of course, makes you very happy, right? Wrong! It makes you mad as hell.

"I THINK THEY CALL IT 'PEACE WITH HONOR!'"

Here you have knocked yourself out for four, or more, years to get a college education in the hope that you could get a better job, earn more money, and consequently, have a higher standard of living; and now, you not only find that there are no jobs, you also find that you don't qualify for unemployment because you have not worked before, or you have not worked at the right kind of job. Well now, it that doesn't jack your jaws, just wait.

You also find that the few dollars you were able to save during college, only God knows how, have been eroded by inflation. Not only are you unemployed, you can't afford to live either. Even the tax rebate won't help since you won't be getting one - you didn't work, remember.

I am certain that most of us, including you, would like to believe the reassuring words coming from Washington. But 'words' are just that, 'words', they do not pay the house notes, put clothes on the backs of your children nor food on your table. No. prospective graduates, the situation is bleak; and at this writing, there was no help seen in the immediate future.

Whether or not the job market will improve in the near future is a question I would like to have the answer to. Unfortunately, no one seems to have the answer, right or wrong. We dream of the day when we will graduate and get our first job, start our lives with a decent income, get married and raise a couple of kids, and enjoy life like everyother middle-classed American; ah...that dream. That dream is no longer, it has turned out to be a nightmare that we cannot endure for much longer, but you have to face it in May.

Good luck future Alumnus, I for one am glad that I have three semesters remaining in college. Maybe, just maybe, the situation will have improved by that time. Let's hope so, there is little else to do.

Letters from our readers on matters of general interest are welcome. However, they are subject to editing and must be signed. Please include full address and, for verification only, telephone numbers. Anonymous letters will not be published.

Where to Buy Cigarettes?

Dear Editor:

I don't know where my problem should properly be directed so I write to you in hopes that your circulation will hit the persons concerned.

For the third time in two weeks I finished my 11 am Class and found to my dismay that I was out of cigarettes. Knowing the new smoking ban that is about to be imposed upon I, I naturally wanted to make the best of my lunch break. I ambled down to the Campus Center Book Store (Novelty Shop?) pulled out my .50, but couldn't get through the door.

Now I wanted to give my business to the Campus Center Shop on the impression that the little profit would help send someone to college. Naturally, I was dismayed to find that at the noon hour when just about everyone is free, to eat, browse or buy cigarettes, to help send worthy students through the college of their choice, that same store would be closed.

The personnel at the main desk of the Campus Center informed me for the third time in two weeks that it was the lunch hour, and that the store would naturally be closed at this hour, because it was the hour when peak business was to be expected.

Now, I'm certainly not against anyone eating lunch, particularly worthy students trying to work their way through college. But could we ask our Bus Ad Department to make a study of the situation and suggest some way that reprobates like myself who insist on smoking can buy cigarettes on our lunch hour and not have to run down to 7-11 and make the Dixieland Company stock go up?

Dr. Bronfenbrenner, Child Psychologist, to Speak April 8

Dr. Urie Bronfenbrenner, world known child psychologist, will give a public lecture at the Campus Center Theatre of Christopher Newport College at 12:00 April 8.

Professor Bronfenbrenner's topic will be "Children and Families in America: A Critical Analysis." His talk is the fourth in a series of the Visiting Scholars Program.

Dr. Bronfenbrenner is perhaps best known for his book "Two Worlds of Childhood: U.S. and U.S.S.R." which was written as the result of visits to the Soviet Union as a member of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. Scientific Exchange Program and again as a member of the U.S. Public Health Service Medical Ecology Mission to the U.S.S.R.

He is presently Professor of Human Development and Family Studies, and of Psychology, at Cornell University. Dr.

Bronfenbrenner serves on a number of important National Committees and Boards dealing with Early Childhood, including the Office of Economic Opportunity Research Council for Head Start the Advisory Committee on Child Development of the National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences, the Presidential Task Force on Early Education, and as a Consultant to the Office of Child Development, Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Interested Faculty and students from the area, professionals working in child related fields, and the general public are invited to attend Dr. Bronfenbrenner's lecture.

For further information contact Mrs. Ruth Kernodle, Associate Professor of Sociology at CNC, 596-7611, extensions 227 and 314.

So.....It's Spring Again

By Lisa Halachis

So...it's spring again- a little late, maybe, but finally the trees and flowers are starting to bloom, and around the campus things are looking brighter. Students are crawling out of the winter slump just in time to appreciate an early tan and summer plans.

Last Wednesday the Campus Center was almost empty. No, the Groovy Juke Box wasn't out of order and the kegs weren't empty, but a phenomenal occurrence was taking place right here in Newport News...the sun was out. Naturally, with the sun, came the people; kites attempted to fly, and students found a relaxing spot on the ground. Classroom attendance suddenly dropped and those trapped inside fixed their eyes beyond the dusty windows.

Some biology labs with scheduled oral reports were replaced by campus nature walks which consisted of real brain work like pulling weeds and smelling flowers.

Anyway, the week was pretty fair to us until It Happened. Thursday came! It came with cold winds, cloudy skies and disappointed people. The sluggish attitude was shared by many as one girl complained, "I can't believe it, yesterday was so beautiful," but one optimistic prophet added, "I knew the weather wouldn't stay warm, I knew it yesterday; it was too good to last."

Still, whenever the sky is filled with sun that heats the air, most people take advantage of it anyway they can, while they can. The richer kids drag out the polished sailboats or daddy's yacht (around here???), while most students seem to be satisfied rolling up their jeans and sleeping on the warm grass of CNC hoping that when they wake up they won't be in the middle of a puddle.

Norfolk Theater Center's 'Butley,' Superb

By Pat Roof

The Norfolk Theatre Center's performance of 'Butley' was superb! The play, directed by Stan Fedyszyn, was presented Friday and Saturday in the Campus Center Theatre as a part of the Educatre at CNC.

Written by Simon Gray, 'Butley' is a play that carefully constructs the character of the homosexual, a topic rarely faced by playwrights.

Dean Burgess's performance of Ben Butley as the homosexual professor was 'brilliantly despicable.' Mr. Burgess's character posed an acerbic, contemptuous, yet witty and intelligent spectacle, who taunts his young teacher-friend, Joseph Keyston, played by Greg Bernet. Keyston is also a homosexual, and the conflict centers around "Joey's" relationship with his friend Reg Nuttal, played by Peter Dixon.

In addition to losing Joey, Butley also loses his wife to another friend. Marty McGraw's devilish performance as Mrs. Anne Butley complimented her part. The play's final not concentrates on Butley's frustration and his realization that he is getting too old for the games he has been playing with his life and these people.

Although the plot was slow, the play, through excellent direction and physical performance, maintained a consistent running pace. Burgess, especially, displayed a remarkable and impressive talent in his two-hour, practically solitary fast-talk, which he claims took only three weeks to learn.

His flare with a truly convincing British accent exposed his past experience with professional theater. He has also worked with the Norfolk theater group in five other plays in the past seven years. Saturday night was the final performance of 'Butley.'

VETERANS' HOT LINE:

Questions and Answers on Education Benefits and Problems

Q: Have there been any recent changes in the law for a GI loan for buying a house?

A: The Veterans Housing Act of 1974 increased the maximum home loan guaranty from $12,500 to $17,500. No change was made in the maximum permissible percentage of guaranty not to exceed 60 percent of the amount of the loan, or $17,500 whichever is less. The current maximum interest rate on GI home loans is now 8 percent.

Q: Why are there overpayments or underpayments of educational benefits?

A: Remember that checks for educational benefits are prepaid, that is, the check you received on the first of April is for the month of April. If there are any changes in your status during that month, adjustments will be made in future checks.

Soccer Team Wins Naval Invitational

By Doug Ferris

The CNC Soccer Club Team seems to have put all the marbled together after their losing season to win the Portsmouth Naval Invitational Tournament this past weekend, March 29-30. Surprising themselves, as well as the tournament officials, and favored Virginia Beach Soccer Club and Naval Base Teams, the team scored three straight victories including one in overtime.

On Saturday CNC defeated the Tri-City Soccer Club 3-2 in the first round of play. With the second round of play on Sunday, CNC first defeated Old Dominion 3-0 and later went on to beat the heavily favored Virginia Beach team in overtime, 4-3.

Graduating senior Charlie Tudor, past captain of the infant team attributed the team's victories to the coaching and overall depth of the team. With some of their starter unable to play due to injury, members came off the bench to play spectacular ball in the final overtime game. According to Tudor, the team has never played as well or felt so good as they did for this tournament.

Scoring goals for the team were, Charlie Tudor, 3, Rollin Reeves, 4, Alex Granger, 1, Jack Zamora, 1, and Harry Colbert, 1.

This tournament win comes on the heels of another surprising victory for CNC in the Azalea Tournament two weeks ago to place in the second round match to be held at CNC. In that tournament it was the Captains over the Apprentice School, 4-0, on the Shipman's home field. The Captains now wait to see who will win the other first round match between William and Mary and the Langley Soccer Club. Regardless of who wins, the game will be played behind Ratcliffe Gym but the date has not yet been set.

It should be remembered that this is the first year for this club-team which, after a few coaching problems were straightened out, began to play on an intercollegiate basis. With any young team, it is expected that they shall lose more than they win, and the CNC team did just that last season. But, with these two tournament victories, we can be assured that the team will be bringing home a lot more trophies for the school and Coach Sneddon.

GOLF TEAM LOSS TWO MATCHES

CNC's golf team dropped two consecutive matches to two powerful opponents, Virginia Commonwealth University, one of the better college golf teams in the state, and Glassboro State College, defending New Jersey State champion.

VCU defeated CNC at a match held at Stonehenge Country Club in Richmond. Jim Trask and Randy Heath both shot in the mid 80's to pace CNC.

The second loss was to Glassboro State, 407-439. The first home match of the spring was held at the Fort Eustis Golf Course. Five CNC golfers shot in the 80's as Jim Trask and Teri Slonecker posted respective scores of 84 and 85.

.....in your ear

By Chuck Edwards

The state government has been talking about doing away with the tenure rules for its educators. The sacred cow may finally fall. What a boon to those being educated and a blow to those educating this would be. Seniority can not possibly show quality.

In a time when teachers are being cut from our faculty, it is too bad that tenure has not already been abolished.

We have some of the best professors in the state at this college, some with and some without tenure. At the same time there are those who, although they may have a good command of their discipline, cannot teach. Unfortunately, it is this group for the most part that has tenure.

Tenure is just another word for seniority. Seniority has long been an accepted means for determining promotion and who remains on the job. An absolute equality between length of service and quality of service has been accepted. It is long past the stage where this should have been changed. A more effective and efficient means of evaluation must be developed.

There is something that can be done about those professors that may be dismissed. The only reason that this institute exists is to educate its students. It is therefore in the student body that the true power of this institution lies. The student body can have the final say in the dismissal of a professor. All it takes is unified action.

Volunteers Needed at NN Library

The Newport News Public Library System needs volunteers to work with our "Talking Books" program.

Volunteers are needed to read to the visually and physically handicapped, to help with the recording of books, to assist the handicapped in ordering books and caring for their sound equipment.

Interested? Please call Beth Ramsey Kirby at the Main Street Library, Newport News, 596-5723. We can use you, no matter how much or little time you have to give. Thanks.

Match Point

By

JIM EYRE

The CNC Tennis Team had a rough weekend, but "weathered" it exceptionally well. On March 28, CNC received its first loss of the season. Old Dominion University showed excellent poise at all positions in defeating CNC, 9-0. This non-conference match gave the young CNC team some good experience early in the season.

The CNC Tennis Team earned a boosting win over Chowan College on March 29, defeating them, 7-2.

With a loss at the No. 1 position, freshmen Mike Youngblood (No. 2) and John Roberts (No. 3) came away with needed wins to set the pace for the rest of the team.

The CNC Tennis Team started the week off with a confident 9-0 win over Virginia Wesleyan College, on April 2.

This puts CNC's record at 4 wins-1 loss with a conference record of 2 wins-0 losses.

For the second time this season, the match between North Carolina Wesleyan and CNC was cancelled due to rain. N.C. Wesleyan, last year's conference champions, is undefeated in conference play this year.

On April 4 CNC plays Roanoke College and then on April 5 the CNC team faces one of the conference's top teams, Lynchburg College. The results from the matches were not available at press time.

Birthright Volunteers in conference.

Hello. This is Birthright

By Pat Roof

"Hello - this is Birthright. If you are pregnant and distressed, please let us help you." This is the beginning of a tape that is played around the clock and refers a caller to a volunteer for assistance.

Birthright is a non-profit organization that was founded in Toronto in 1968. The Peninsula Chapter at 809 Main Street, was organized in November 1973.

The purpose of the volunteer group is to aid distressed pregnant women in any way she needs. "We are not here to question or judge morals," says Pat Luippold, Director of the Peninsula Chapter. "We will understand your problems and take a personal interest in your well-being and needs."

Although they will not recommend abortion, Birthright is not to be confused with anti-abortion groups. Their intention is to point out to a woman the other avenues that are open to her should she not want an abortion.

Ms. Luippold says, "So many times, a teenage girl is pressured into an abortion by family and friends, even though she may want the child." She stated that today, more women are keeping their child born out of wedlock, or she may prefer to place the child for adoption.

Another typical problem is the married woman who becomes unexpectedly pregnant.

She wants the child, but her husband prefers an abortion. "Some men do not realize what an abortion really is - it is just a word that means easy-out." "We have men counselors, and often times, after counseling, the husband decides to accept the baby."

Birthright does not show the gross medical pictures that are available on abortion. They only try to share their belief that life begins at conception, and that abortion destroys that life, not just a "blob."

There are 60 volunteers in the Peninsula Chapter, plus several doctors and social workers who work with them. According to Ms. Luippold, a girl may call or come in simply for a pregnancy test, which they can perform at the Main Street location. Sometimes a girl has been abandoned by her parents, in which case Birthright may find her a place to live. Often a girl may need maternity or baby clothes, or maybe only a crib, or a doctor referral. But whatever the circumstance or problem, there is always a volunteer who can help - at no charge whatsoever.

Birthright likes to follow through with a girl's pregnancy, but usually parents are more reasonable than expected and there is no need for other assistance. But when someone does need help, there is a 24-hour service they can call for advice.

Dr. Windsor Asks State Council for $1.7 Million for 1976-78 Biennium

most rapidly developing metropolitan area."

Among the problems presented before the Council was that of the degree program in Physical Education at CNC. The President said that other institutions in the area offering such programs were often inaccessible to the CNC student and expensive for others.

Duplication of certain basic offerings is essential if the citizens of this area are to be served, Dr. Windsor said.

Capital requests were also listed as a problem. The 1976-78 Biennium capital request totaled $1,742,427, which includes requests for a service building, faculty-administrative office building, library addition, West parking lot, site and building improvements, and an addition to the greenhouse.

Dr. Windsor said the projects will provide the college with a comprehensive physical plant which will accommodate the "peak period" demands of an urban population.

He asked the council when it considers future requests for new programs at CNC not to view the Tidewater area as a comprehensive whole.

It was noted that CNC received the lowest amount ($819) per Full-Time Equivalent (FTE) student of any college in the state for the 1974-76 biennium.

Dr. Windsor said that the current FTE formulas do not take into consideration the unique characteristics of the urban college in the area of administration and classified personnel.

He concluded his presentation, stating, "that this problem of inadequate funding is of long standing." He said that during the 1971-72 period, "when the college was in its second year as a four-year college and needed substantial support to upgrade the entire program, it received the lowest percentage of General Fund support of any of the senior institutions (45.1 percent). "It was only through special revenues from increased enrollment that the College was able to sustain itself during this period," he said.

In closing, Dr. Windsor said, "We understand that someone must be on the bottom, and we don't mind that position if the bottom is high enough to meet minimal requirements."

Interdisciplinary Major Program

The following was released by the Degrees Committee last week. Proposal for Interdisciplinary Major Program: "To allow maximum flexibility in the College program, a student may be permitted to pursue an Interdisciplinary Major program consisting of courses selected from two or more disciplines.

Each student interested in this major must propose a program in consultation with two or more advisors representing the various disciplines in the student's program. The selection of courses designed to achieve this degree must be specified and submitted for approval, prior to the completion of 75 semester hours, to a committee composed of chairpersons or their designate in the chosen disciplines. The program must include a minimum of thirty credits in 300-400 level courses in the selected disciplines and must meet that set of distribution requirements for each of the chosen disciplines.

Before applying for an Interdisciplinary Major, a student should make certain that his purposes cannot be fulfilled by a departmental major supported by a minor or a careful selection of electives."

'Every Bastard A King' to Play

"Every Bastard A King," the fourth film showing of The Film Classics Club, is being sponsored by Christopher Newport College and the Jewish Community Center. This film will be seen at 8:00 pm, April 12 in Gosnold Hall Auditorium. A coffee hour will follow the film.

"Every Bastard A King" tells the story of Roy Hemmings, a disillusioned and cynical American journalist, who is sent to Israel to cover the 1967 six day Israeli-Egyptian War. His Israeli born wife attempts, without success, to help him comprehend the spirit of the Israelis. Pier Angeli is outstanding as Hemmings' wife.

When this brilliant Israeli film was shown at the San Francisco Film Festival, John L.

Wasserman, writing in the San Francisco Chronicle, called it "A powerful Israeli epic" and said, "All elements are interwoven masterfully into gripping honest film. Brilliant." The Jerusalem Post said, "There is genuine Israeli flavor about the whole picture....conveys the pulsating atmosphere of Israel....Outstanding reconstruction of the fight between Israel and Egyptian ranks near Kaffar...Beautifully done.

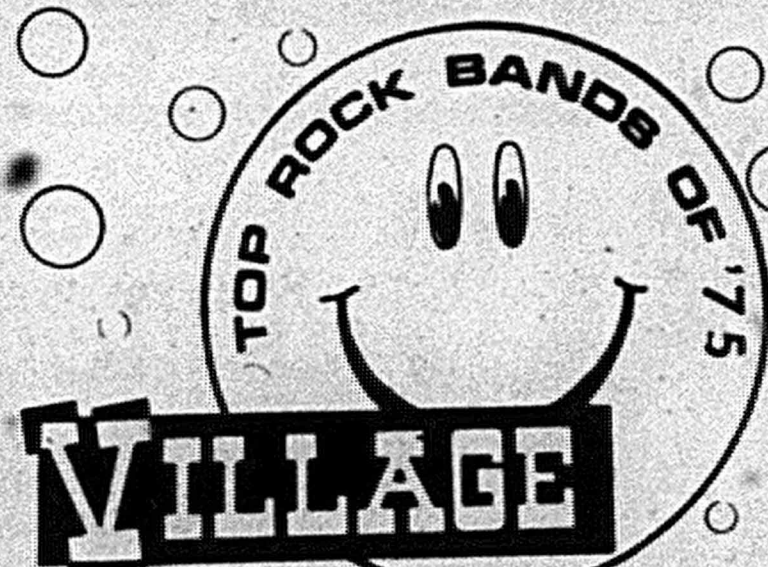

Further information about this series can be obtained by contacting the Jewish Community Center, 2700 Spring Road, Newport News, 595-5544, or the Office of Community Services at Christopher Newport College, 596-7611, extension 312.

CNC Students Tour Newport News Police Department

By Pat Roof

Cadette Andrew Holloway of the Newport News police force lead Dean Olson's Journalism 261 class through police operations at the downtown facility last Thursday evening.

Olson has stressed to his class the importance of police reporting. "Most cub reporters get their first assignment at the police station," said Olson. "And it is important to be familiar with the facility."

The one and one half hour tour started at the indoor firing range, located in the headquarters basement. Holloway described the use of the range, including simulated technique demonstrations. He showed the students the wire-cutter bullets used in target practice and also the 150 mm bullets used on duty.

Holloway said there are 260 officers and 4 cadettes presently on the police force and each year every man must qualify on the shooting range. A policeman must score over 70 with hands. They must shoot using the broad and shoulder stands at seven, 10, 15, and 25 yard distances with a 38 special handgun. Holloway stated that since a Newport News police officer, Wallace Nesbitt, was killed two years ago, all Newport News policemen carry two guns, one of them concealed.

Holloway stressed the point that a policeman is never to use his gun except when necessary for defense. He cannot use it for a warning or to scare someone. "When we pull a gun," he said, "we shoot to kill."

After a look at some confiscated weapons and pictures of crime scenes, the students were lead to the desk sergeant for a briefing on procedures there. Officer Kasey, the Desk Sergeant on Duty, explained what happens to someone when they are brought in. He showed the students fact sheets that they record for each suspect, and also the complaint book, with date on every call-in.

The last stop on the tour was the new communications center located in the new City Hall. The $400,000 facility has been operating for about two years. A television camera scans each person entering the building. Inside, several computerized machines are operating 24 hours daily. A police worker can obtain information on any citizen with a social security number in a matter of seconds. Information is relayed from the DMV, and possibly the FBI. Also obtainable is information on stolen vehicles.

A machine that has helped immensely in area crime detection is the electronic alarm system.

Any business operation or private home owner can be monitored on the sound activated system. Immediately after the alarm is sounded, a police vehicle is dispatched to the location.

Cadette Holloway informed the class of a great deal concerning operations. He said he is excited with the cadette training program, which is open to ages 18 through 21. He likes the responsibility of his job in identification, and feels the training will benefit him when he is designated an officer when he is 21.
