New building added

by Linda Dozier

For approximately six to seven years the science department has been trying to get a new building, and at last plans have been made for one. The building was originally to be located where the woods presently are, but after a student petition and an investigation which determined that the soil was bad the building was relocated. If the state approves the plans, the new science building will be next to Gosnold Hall.

The building will be two-stories high with open hallways. Thirteen biology labs and five chemistry labs, plus prep rooms for the labs and faculty offices will be located in the building. As Professor Harold Cone states, "It will look like a big Holiday Inn."

The new building will be bright and colorful. All of the labs will be color-coordinated and modernly equipped.

"They will be colorful to help put people in a nice frame of business," says Professor Cone. All of the interior fixings for the building will be selected by the science department.

The new building will make it possible to expand the science program. Only chemistry and biology classes will be held in the new building.

The science department needed two bids for the building. One for the building itself and the other for the furniture. The bid for the furniture is not yet finalized. After the bids are settled, the issue will be sent to Richmond. If it is approved, the building should be in use in 16 to 18 months.

After the new science building is built, Gosnold Hall will be renovated. There will still be two biology labs in Gosnold Hall and a second story glass walkway leading to the new building.

New members inducted into Alpha Chi

by Ann Catherine Braxton

Three candles representing the ideals of Christopher Newport's Honor Society flickered brightly as 11 new members were inducted into the Virginia Zeta Chapter of Alpha Chi last Sunday afternoon in the Administration Building Auditorium. A small audience and a brief and simple ceremony did not undermine the importance of Dr. Gary Hammer's words of praise to the society's new members. According to Dr. Hammer, who presided over the ceremony, the new members were chosen on the basis of "their demonstration of knowledge and character". He reminded them of their duty to uphold the ideals of both Alpha Chi and the college, which the inductees promised to do when they raised their right hands and took the Alpha Chi pledge in unison.

The purpose of the Virginia Zeta

Chapter of Alpha Chi, a general honor society for students of all majors, is to promote academic excellence and exemplary character among college and university students and to honor students who possess these qualities. The Alpha Chi chapter of CNC was chartered on November 20, 1977. There is an induction at the beginning of each semester. To qualify for membership in Alpha Chi, a student must be a junior or senior with 30 credit hours from CNC. The student must be in the upper ten percent of his or her class with a 3.5 grade point average. Dr. Hammer of the Science Department and Dr. Robert Coker of Management and Marketing are the sponsors. The officers are seniors Erin Malone (President), Valerie King (Vice-President), and Marty Young (Secretary-Treasurer).

Congratulations to the new members of

Scholarship Bank

Never before has it become so urgent for students to investigate alternatives to federally funded student aid programs, according to Steve Danz, Director of The Scholarship Bank.

Now that "Reagonomics" is the law of the land, students can expect to see reduced or completely eliminated federal programs. This will make it mandatory to seek out private programs, such as those offered by private foundations, civic groups and trade organizations.

United Way campaign at CNC

by Tina-Marie Hamilton

The United Way has begun its yearly campaign at CNC. This program involves the citizens through their expression of concern for the welfare of the community. It is designed to meet the community's needs through the support of a variety of agencies and services. The campaign provides an efficient, economical, and effective method of raising and distributing money for the community's agencies.

The basic premise of the United Way's fund raising effort is the FAIR SHARE pledge. This allows an employee's contribution to be deducted monthly from his paycheck. The United Way recommends certain amounts in accordance with the employee's yearly income, but the employee may contribute whatever amount he chooses. The FAIR SHARE pledge is a great advantage for the employee because he barely notices the small, monthly deduction from his paycheck. It also helps to keep the cost of collection and fund raising to a minimum for the agency; in fact, the cost of conducting the United Way Campaign is only 3.1 percent of the money raised, while campaigns of individual agencies tend to cost 15 to 25 percent of their budget.

The United Way maintains an "open door" policy for area agencies. The amount of contribution that the United Way makes to an agency depends on how much outside funds the agency is turning over. The most important fact of the United Way is that the money contributed from one area goes back to that area. On the Peninsula, quite a bit of the contributed money is being channeled to youth oriented agencies. For instance, some of the area agencies receiving United Way funds include the Boy's Clubs, Voluntary Action Centers, the Girl Scouts, the Peninsula Literacy Council, the American Red Cross, and the Salvation Army.

In our present time of financial cutbacks, the United Way is there to provide the funds for needed services. The people supporting the United Way are the backbone of many area agencies, and without their help, the good that the United Way has accomplished will be lost.

Anyone can contribute to United Way; student, professor, or administrative personnel. At the moment, Christopher Newport College's participation is low. To contribute a person does not necessarily contribute a FAIR SHARE deduction; outright contributions of a fixed amount are happily accepted. The campaign ends November 5, 1981, and anyone interested in contributing to the program please contact Professor David King at 599-7084.

Proposal creates more parking spaces

by W. Scott Simkins

Everyone is tired of the parking problem, tired of experiencing it and of talking about it. The Committee on Traffic Control, (CTC), which was set up to find solutions to the acute shortage of spaces during the busy hours of eight to one on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, recently arrived at a solution. Working with Mr. Robert Hixon, the Director of Capital Outlay, the CTC proposed changing 45 faculty parking spaces (those yellow parking spaces which many students complain are never used) into student-only parking spaces.

Hixon sent this proposal to President John Anderson, along with a survey conducted by the Campus Police, which pointed out the need for new parking spaces. On the morning of October 23, John T. Colson, Assistant to the President, informed Hixon that the proposal had been approved.

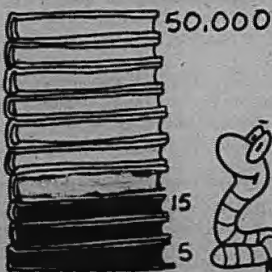

This should ease the parking situation but not alleviate it. Several alternate proposals are also being considered, such as the use of Todd Field for CNC parking during the day. If this were initiated, Pentran buses would have to be hired to shuttle students back and forth between the lot and the campus.

Another proposal is simply to build more parking lots, but state approval would be necessary. The state government will not approve the lot unless CNC can offer evidence that the parking problem exists. A student survey conducted by traffic control would be one means to provide this evidence.

Apparently the main stumbling block in getting state approval is the state's system of evaluating students. Statistically, a full-time student is recorded as one student, but a part-time student is recorded as a fraction of a student, depending upon how many hours of credit they are taking. Therefore, CNC's statistical population would find the parking adequate. The next few weeks could tell whether or not the state government will restructure this system.

Remakes make the movie scene

by Anne Doop

The remake of old movies has run rampant these past few years, as have sequels. Universal Studios is planning the remake of four oldies; Cat People, Creature From The Black Lagoon, The Thing, and Dick Tracy. Studios hit it big with the sequels to Jaws, Superman, Airport, and Godfather films. With the release of Rich And Famous, the remake of an old Bette Davis-Miriam Hopkins flick, Old Acquaintance, (1943) Metro-Goldwin-Mayer has employed this tactic yet again. The combination of a beautiful soundtrack (music by George Delerue) and a great adaptation from the original has given birth to a work which delivers laughs, tears and deep thought. The wittiness of the characters keeps the audience from being caught in the undertow of the screenplay. After leaving the theatre, one realizes how involved the story gets.

Jacqueline Bisset (Liz Hamilton) and Candice Bergen (Merry Noel Blake) do more for the film than one knows. One cannot visualize any other women for these roles. The leads were skillfully backed up by the work of Hart Buchner as Liz's lover Chris Adams, and David Selby as Doug Blake, Merry Noel's husband.

The roles are small, but important and could have ruined the film if not performed well.

The character of Liz Hamilton does nothing to challenge the talent of Ms. Bisset. Since The Deep, her roles have been commensurate with her ability. Ms. Bergen, however, portrays her character extremely well. Her slight hick accent and spastic body movements were rehearsed and developed to perfection.

The original movie, based on the play by John Van Druten, and the remake have much in common. The only real difference is the actors.

The movie gets just to the point of recklessness before the plot begins to gel. A series of seemingly unimportant events finally come together about two-thirds through the film.

Ms. Davis is quoted as saying, "Always felt this would have been a super film if we had only filmed the Van Druten play. The addition of the early of the two characters was definitely contrived and movie-ish."

The wait for the film to come together is worth it, and the acting is not too shabby. This version of the play should take it into immortality along with The French Lieutenant's Woman and Tess. A film not to be missed by any serious moviegoer.

MUSIC SURVEY

Last week, the crew of the Entertainment Page took a survey of a few students to find out their views on the content of our page. They indicated that the cinema reviews were missed and that the local concerts in the area should be covered. We did, however, receive some criticism due to the fact that the sample of students who took the survey was limited only to those of you who happened by the cafeteria hallway on the afternoon in question. So, to better collect your opinions, we have developed a similar survey for you to fill out and to deposit at the Campus Center desk in the Captain's Log box. Thank you for your participation.

The 1981 Lady Captains

Lady Captains eager to start their season

by David M. Bean

The Lady Captains appear eager to improve on last season's dismal record, both in terms of win-loss, and team strength. Six girls are returning from last year's squad; Patty Killihan and Renee Judd are the lone seniors; Nessie Freeman and Mitch Whitmore are juniors, while Benita Cooker and Vicky Gunn are sophomores.

The freshmen include Jenny Nuttycombe and Cindy Nice from Menchville High School; Norine Davis and Sandra Boggs from Cox High School in Va. Beach; Leanne Eyler from Norfolk Catholic; Marinda Hall from West Point, and Stacie Kovac from Tabb High School. According to Susan Walthall, the women's basketball coach, the girls "are the most coachable bunch of girls I've ever had. The addition of the new players has really motivated the entire group." A couple of things have changed since last season. For one, the Lady Captains are now playing in the NCAA division 3, instead of the AIAW which they had been in since their conception. The change means that they will be playing the tough North Carolina schools.

Only two conferences in the entire nation were changed into the NCAA Division three; one was the Captains, and the other was the Mass. State College Athletic Conference. Another item was the appointment of coach Walthall to the Division 3 southern regional advisory committee. One of their duties will be to rank Division 3 schools week by week. Walthall feels positive about her team saying, "We are a well balanced team. Our freshmen will be seeing a lot of playing time because we have much more bench strength than last season."

CNC "comes of age"

by Kelly Howell

A celebration will explode onto campus in honor of CNC's 21st birthday. Plans are being finalized for students and faculty to help celebrate the fact that November 6 marks the time that CNC "comes of age".

The highly acclaimed band Harvest has been booked to enhance the mood of the evening. A member of the Board of Visitors has been invited to make the first cut in CNC's birthday cake. Liquor and wine will be available for guests 21 or older.

Wet buns and t-shirts expose casino night.

by Wes Witten

The good times and excitement of Reno Nevada came to Christopher Newport College last Wednesday night thanks to the Sigma Pi Fraternity. Casino Night was the event, and the cafeteria was transformed into a gambling den for would-be high rollers.

People entering were allotted $40,000 in play money with which to try their luck at blackjack, roulette, and other games of chance. The object was to win more money so that you could purchase items that were on sale.

The floor show began when some Sigma Pi Fraternity brothers performed in their newly created band Strait and the New Virgin Puds. Members of the band were K. C. LaPorts, Vernon Green, Greg Jackson, Chris Tusie, Scott McFerson, Jeff Thomas, and Steve Foretich. They played songs such as Louie, Louie, (the frat's favorite) Wipe Out and Breakdown by Tom Petty.

After the band cleared off the stage, the girls' treat came in the form of a "Wet Buns" contest with the Pledge Class of Sigma Pi strutting their stuff. Denis Porter was the winner of that contest. Next, Gorgeous George, a local male Go-Go dancer, came to the stage to be reviewed by Pi Kappa Sigma, who seemed to have a monopoly on the front row seats.

After the preliminary events, the mostly male crowd was ready for the main event when announcer Billy Humphry started the wet T-shirt competition. This year's selection of contestants numbered eight and were from the school and the local community. Frances Agee, a hair-dresser, was the winner, and she won $100.

Weight room's popularity strengthens

by Kelly Howell

The Ratcliffe Gym's weight room is a place on campus that is steadily increasing in popularity. According to Coach Barry White, who is weight room supervisor and assistant track coach, the weight room is popular, but would be more popular if more people knew about it. However, as compared to last year, business is booming. Sometimes the room is too crowded.

The weight room has been in use for quite a few years and no one can really explain this sudden surge in popularity. One of the reasons might be the new Nautilus equipment that was purchased this past summer. This equipment is as good as any other type of equipment and is used by many professional football teams. It is also used by hospitals for therapeutic reasons. The old equipment was obsolete and needed to be updated. Coach White states, "A college like CNC should have had better equipment than what had been provided."

Illustrating that weight lifting is a growing sport, is the fact that for the first time, weight lifting is now included in the intramural sports.

The weight lifting program is simple to start. First, one has to make an appointment with Coach White. He gives a brief lecture on how to use each piece of equipment and a short tour of the facilities. Then, a card is filled out with the person's name on it, indicating that the person knows the proper use of the equipment. Coach White says that he has noticed more students than athletes using the equipment. Most of them have never done any type of weight lifting before, but they keep coming back. The weight training program is very individualized, and a program can be worked out for just about anyone.

So far this year, about 200 people are listed to use the weight room. Periodic checks are made by Coach White, Coach Bert Jones and someone from the Intramurals office to make sure that anyone using the room is on the list and that the equipment is not being abused. There have not been any major problems this year, and everyone seems to be using the equipment as instructed.

With the increase in popularity, the future of the weight room looks very is to promote interest in the Spanish language and in the Hispanic community. The members gather to speak in Spanish and to bring anything related to the Spanish culture to each other's interests. Recently the club went to see folk dancer Jose Greco perform in Norfolk. The members plan to sell candy later this year and possibly raffie off a trip to Spain or Mexico. They are also hoping to bring a Spanish film to the campus.

The next meeting of the Spanish Club will be announced in The Captain's Log. If your love for Spanish extends beyond an evening at Chi-Chi's, you are invited.

The deciding factor of the match was the doubles matches. Nebinger and Shal-land (CNC) beat Cathey and Fisher (LC) 4-6, 6-2, 6-1. Biddle and Laurie Ledbetter beat their Longwood opponents Casper and Conley 7-6, 7-2, 7-5.

The record of the women's team is now 1-4.

75 (Youth Grants) awards this year. Please note that Youthgrants does not offer scholarships, tuition aid, support for thesis-related work, field semester projects, or foreign travel projects."

The Youthgrants provides the "college and university students" independent out-of-the-classroom projects in the humanities. "Completed applications must be received in the Office of Youth Programs of the National Endowment for the Humanities on or before November 16, 1981 (Funded projects can begin the following May 1st or after)."

A recent letter was received by the Office of Career Planning and Placement by Joseph A. McMaster, Jr., Regional Recruitment Manager of the Office of Personnel Management.

"Dear College Official:

In a recent letter about PACE, I provided you with information about those positions that will no longer be covered by PACE. One of the positions listed was Economist.

It has come to our attention that there are a few economist positions available in southeastern Pennsylvania. To meet these limited needs, the Philadelphia Area Office has issued the attached announcement, PH-1-01 for Economist. Though the opportunities are limited, the announcement will be open continuously until further notice. Please remind students that this announcement covers positions in southeastern Pennsylvania only.

I also want to advise you of a special hiring need within the Internal Revenue Service. We have been advised by I.R.S. that they have a need for a significant number of Internal Revenue Officers to begin work around January 1982. To help I.R.S. meet this immediate need, we are going to notify all persons that apply for PACE by 10/13/81 that an early PACE test will be conducted on October 24, 1981, at selected locations within the region. Each PACE applicant will be advised of the specific test locations.

Those PACE applicants who are not interested in employment with I.R.S. and do not opt to take the early test, will be scheduled during the regular testing cycle (1/2/82 to 2/17/82)."

Have an outdoor fling

Briskly, the sharp autumn wind rustles the trees. Each morning, red, gold, and brown leaves are plastered onto your car. At night, you can faintly smell logs burning in someone's fireplace. Autumn has definitely arrived signaling the close return of winter.

The cold weather marks the end of outdoor activities. Very few people will be throwing frisbees. Sailors find it too cold on the water. Students cannot study outside when leaves fall on their notebooks and the wind blows through their bodies.

As homage to Autumn and to say goodbye to summer, have that final outdoor fling at the Fall Fest. When was the last time that you attended a fair? Our event may not rival the State Fair, but with participation this year's Fall Fest could be a huge success.

All money raised by Fall Fest events will be used by various clubs in emergencies. This takes a load off the college because these clubs are funded through the college. Any money that they can raise throughout the year means less money they will have to ask from the college.

Meeting new people, gaining new information, that's what Fall Fest can also mean. Don't stay at home throughout your four years at CNC. Get involved with campus activities. By being involved, the four years might pass quickly or at least seem more interesting.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

Considering my out of state standing and high fees, which I am told are likely to increase by 15 percent next fall, it is not unreasonable to expect adequate parking to be provided for students attending C.N.C. I do understand that there is a parking problem at certain hours on certain days of the week particularly, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 9 and 11 a.m. However, this still does not console or aid me in appreciating the situation when I have to attend a class for which I have paid.

This situation was forcefully brought to my attention on Wednesday October 14th when I arrived at C.N.C. at approximately 8:55 a.m. with the intention of parking my car and attending a 9 a.m. lecture. After approximately 15 mins. spent scouring the various parking lots and not finding a vacant space I parked alongside a yellow curb in preference to occupying one of the many vacant faculty parking spaces. At the end of class, being the socially conscious student that I am, I risked life and limb in an attempt to move my car before my 10 a.m. class began. However, when I reached my car I found a citation on my windshield. At this point, both myself and another student, who found herself in the same situation, went immediately to the chief of campus police to dispute the issue.

Being of the mind that necessity had provoked my course of action, I was highly incensed when told by that self-same officer that, based on a "survey" he had conducted on Wednesday October 7th 1981 at 10 a.m. there were approximately 30 vacant spaces on campus and I therefore had no excuse for parking where I had. I do not dispute that there are vacant spaces at 10 a.m. however, the situation at 9 a.m. is totally different. How many people attend an 8 a.m. class and leave by 9 a.m.!

I realize that there is no easy solution to the problem and that much has already been written and said concerning this issue.

However if the school recognizes this problem then the campus police should not ticket those students who feel obligated to attend those classes they have paid good money for. We are paying customers who would be provided with adequate parking facilities in any other situation and this should be the case at C.N.C. particularly as there are many vacant faculty spaces to be found at all times of the day but which are not made available for student use.

I strongly advocate therefore, first that some of the faculty parking spaces be given up for student use and second, that during peak hours the campus police should show greater understanding of the students plight and be more lenient.

Dear Editor,

I have a question I wish to put to the faculty, staff, and students who enter the left side of Gosnold's: who has been taking down the posters put up to advertise the All Night Halloween Party? The posters were put up in compliance to the Poster Guidelines set up by the Student Association. I could understand if all posters were banned, but the advertisement for college rings is still on the wall next to where the Halloween poster once was. I find this act to be totally unfair to both the sorority and ourselves. I want something done about or we shall be forced to take individual action.

Dear Editor:

The upcoming Halloween Dance, sponsored by the Black Students Association, is one of the many major projects to be undertaken by this Association for the fall semester. The events and activities are scheduled with the thought in mind, "... would this event be an activity such that it would stimulate, motivate, and challenge the black population () at CNC???"

As Committee Chairperson for this event, I would like to say this: In accepting the responsibility of chairing the Halloween Dance Committee, I did so with the naivete of hoping that more BSA members would want to take an active part in THEIR functions. In regarding participation within the Association, many words have advice have been rendered: two of which I will refer to. 1) It is felt that there has been a lack of student input into the activities. It was suggested that the Committees should solicit more student input. It is believed that the Committees are formulating micro-oligarchies (rule by few). However,

On Life

by Freeman Rattliff

In the midst of congressional confusion, congressmen stand flanked by reporters with a steady murmur of chatter; everyone seems to be in a hurry. This sets the atmosphere for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee meeting to debate the proposed Airborne Warning and Control Systems' (AWACS) sale to Saudia Arabia. The Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker, Jr. (R-Tenn) along with President Reagan, who strongly defends the sale of AWACS, is trying to drum-up support against the resolution to scratch the AWACS plans.

The opposition is mainly Democrats; although, Republican Rudy Boschwitz of Minnesota voted for the resolution to scratch the AWACS deal. The solving of this problem seems to be between the Democrats, who control the House, and the Republicans who control the Senate.

The Democratic-controlled House voted for the resolution to prevent the sale of AWACS by an overwhelming victory of 301-111 votes. There are several reasons for this victory. The greatest reason stems from the vagueness of the details of the sale. A number of congressmen are uncertain as to the specifics of the proposed sale. Many congressmen fear that the AWACS will be used against Saudia Arabia's neighbor Israel or that it may fall into enemy hands.

There is also the question of the stability of Saudia Arabia. First District Congressman Paul Trible who voted against the sale, commented that the U.S. should not entrust our most sophisticated early warning system to a country as unstable as Saudia Arabia.

I agree with Congressman Paul Trible; the United States could jeopardize the security of Israel with the AWACS' sale to Saudia Arabia. Also the instability of the Middle East creates the possibility that the AWACS may fall in enemy hands. This possibility should be cause enough to forget the sale. Our most sophisticated early warning and control system should not be entrusted to any country. The resolution to prevent the sale of AWACS seems to be the most logical choice.

The White House staffers along with a majority of Republicans are in favor of the sale of AWACS because it will strengthen Pres. Reagan's foreign policy. To dissipate the anxieties about the specifics, the administration is drafting a letter about the control of the equipment that will address security, maintenance, and control of the AWACS planes. This may not be enough for opponents to change their votes. These opponents reiterated their concern about the lack of control over equipment and of the dangers to Israel.

Supporters of AWACS contend that the sale is vital to U.S.-Mideast interests; although, they failed to state why it is so vital. They expect to persuade an overwhelming majority to vote in favor of the sale of the AWACS.

The Senate that will vote on the AWACS issue Wednesday October 28 will probably vote against the sale being that the opposition is the majority at the time. This decision will of course be in the best interest of the United States.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee after evaluating both sides of the AWACS issue voted nine to eight in favor the same students revealing these most important matters, are never seen or heard from when it's time to work and their input solicited: — INSTIGATORS — : they can be damaging than a lit match and a can of gasoline. 2) I have heard it also said, by some of our more intelligent, in-active members, that they are here "just to get an education". It might surprise some of you to know that dealings and contacts with people is a very common (availability) and most adequate mode of education (learning): "... some one must have a theory some where for that statement ... Don't they????".

This event is and will be a stimulating experience. Motivation?? "Put some pep in your step and some pride in yo' stide; YOU have got to be motivated." Motivation comes from within.

This is an encouragement for those who care that they exist at CNC. The Association wants you to get an education, and is only as strong as its members; we have many weak links in the chain. Join in and strengthen the bond. Envolv yourself whenever and wherever you can.

Dear Editor,

November 3rd, Virginia will be electing a new Governor and the consequences of the outcome will effect the opportunity for, and quality of, higher education throughout the state for years to come.

As you may know, the Federal Government voted to group Federally Funded Educational Programs into Block Grants with other Federally funded programs. The Reagan administration then cut these Block Grants 25 percent. The purpose behind this procedure is to allow State Governments to have greater autonomy and discretion in determining which programs are worthy of continued support and which are not. With a 25 percent cut in Federal funding, it is imperative that we work hard to support a candidate that will place Virginia's Educational needs high on his first of priorities for future funding and support.

The Department of Education has estimated that as a result of the cut in student loan and grant programs, fewer students across the country will return to college this year. With the Reagan administration projecting deeper cuts over the next 3 years, it is vitally important that we elect a Governor that will be sensitive to state education at all levels.

There is less than two weeks remaining until election day, Tuesday, November 3rd. During this period, the Robb for Governor Campaign will be actively recruiting volunteers who will be willing to donate a few days and/or evenings to canvass targeted precincts, work the polls on election day, phone canvass, stuff envelopes, or just help out in the general campaign office work.

The 80's cannot be a decade of apathy, the stakes are too high for the welfare of all of us. Please call Carol Sharpe, at 874-3066 or 874-3044 in the Denbigh office of the Democratic Headquarters. We also encourage you just to stop by our location is 13537 Warwick Blvd., Newport News. Your help will make the difference and will be greatly appreciated.

of the resolutions to prevent the AWACS sale. From the information presented, there seems to be more reasons why there should not be a sale than why the sale should take place. The administration left many questions unanswered such as the security of Israel and the stability of Saudi Arabia. It seems that if the sale is so vital to President Reagan's foreign policy he should have some reasons for it.

bright. Coach White says that he would like to see more equipment and a larger weight room. He particularly wants a free bar, which is used for competition lifting. The only hold back is that the free bar requires more supervision than they can manage at this time.

The weight room is open for use by all students, faculty, and staff members. The hours are from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Remember, anyone that is interested in using the weight lifting equipment must check with Coach White first.

dents in need of financial aid a questionnaire in which the student answers a number of questions concerning interests, major, occupational goals, and financial need. The Scholarship Bank then sends the student a print-out of all available aid sources. According to the director, the average student is receiving over 45 different aid sources. The information is up-dated daily and currently has in excess of 25,000 funding sources, making it the only service in which to find all available aid, including grants, loans, scholarships and work opportunities, for high school, undergrad and graduate students.

Students wishing to use the service (there is a modest fee) should send a stamped, self addressed envelope to The Scholarship Bank, 10100 Santa Monica Blvd., #750, Los Angeles, CA 90067.

UN Day observance

by Tina-Marie Hamilton

It was well worth the effort to attend the United Nations Day celebration that was held at Christopher Newport College on October 24. The turnout for the program was enthusiastic, and the administration building's new auditorium was almost filled to its capacity. Dr. James Moore, the Peninsula Chapter's President for the U.N. Association, noted the representation of students from three area high schools, Denbigh, Bethel, and Ferguson. The only disappointing note to the evening was the lack of representation by CNC students.

The program's speaker, Mr. Richard McCall, spoke on past history, present work, and future goals of the U.N. He approached the U.N. as a multilateral institution that must be utilized in today's world. In 1945, the U.S. shaped the U.N. in the image of democracy, and the U.S. contributed its economic resources to insure the stability and success of the program.

The U.N.'s work is widespread in the areas of defensive measures and peace-keeping abilities. The U.N. strives to keep disagreements to the level where they can be settled with negotiations and without bloodshed. It provided the tools for a peaceful resolution to the challenge of majority rule in Zimbabwe. In 1973, the U.N. helped to lay the foundations of the Middle East peace talks, and even today, it is still maintaining a peacekeeping force in the Middle East disputes. Even when direct, military conflict prevails (for example, the Soviets' attacks on Afghanistan and Kampuchea), the U.N. provides opposition to the use of such warfare tactics. Mr. McCall surmised "the emphasis on the Soviet attacks on Afghanistan and Capuchino have restrained them from invading Poland."

The area of natural resources is also a major concern for the U.N. Right at the moment, over 42 percent of raw materials come from developed countries. This percentage must shift or else the depletion of resources in developed countries is in the not too distant future. By discovering over 30 billion dollars of resources in countries that private companies would not go into, the U.N. Development Program is working to alleviate the drain of resources in developed countries.

Although the U.N. cannot solve all the problems of the world, it certainly is making an effort to reduce some of the problems. The U.N. needs help to achieve the goals of worldwide peace and reduction of hunger, and the U.S. cannot be apathetic to this need. As Mr. McCall noted, "There is no way for this nation [the U.S.] to be an island in the sea of poverty."

U.N. Day was a way of recognizing the needs and accomplishments of the U.N. Their widespread work in caring for the sick, feeding the poor, and making peace in times of war can only be looked upon as a tremendous benefit to the world.

Over the weekend, Keith Thomas, Malkemes, Jones, Orzechowski, and Mooring worked in the display booth that ROTC manned near the battlegrounds. The booth provided information on ROTC's military history, the qualifications for entering ROTC, and the requirements for completing the ROTC program. Behind the glass display at the booth, the Nobel Peace Prize presented to General Marshall, a VMI graduate, was displayed. General Marshall was awarded the Peace Prize for his cold war efforts in forming the NATO forces after World War II.
