28 Students Inducted into National Honor Society

Twenty-eight students from Christopher Newport College were inducted November 13 into the Virginia Zeta Chapter of Alpha Chi, a national college honor scholarship society.

Alpha Chi is a coeducational society whose purpose is to promote academic excellence and exemplary character among college and university students and to honor those achieving such distinction.

Membership is based on accomplishment rather than just interest or participation. Students from all academic disciplines are admitted, not just from a single area of study.

One of the oldest national honor scholarship societies, Alpha Chi has about 120,000 members in some 220 chapters across the Western Hemisphere.

The Virginia Zeta Chapter was the sixth to be established at a Virginia college or university. It was chartered November 20, 1977.

Alpha Chi began in the second decade of this century when representatives of several Texas colleges and universities met to establish a society for recognizing students who had distinguished themselves through diligent scholarship, leadership, and character. This organization was known as the Scholarship Societies of Texas.

Later chapters were chartered in Arkansas and Louisiana, and the organization became known as the Scholarship Societies of the South. By 1934, it included 31 chapters in Arkansas, Louisiana, and Texas.

That year, the name of the organization was changed to Alpha Chi to reflect the national emphasis, which has brought about much expansion, both numerically and geographically, over the years. The organization now has chapters in 46 states and the District of Columbia.

Alpha Chi sponsors various local, regional, and national activities of scholarly nature. This year, for the first time, Virginia Zeta Chapter will offer two scholarships to two entering students from local high schools.

The national Council also awards a number of scholarships and fellowships each year, for which all members are eligible to compete, and publishes an annual journal containing outstanding student works representing a variety of disciplines.

CNC Petitions State to Support Colleges and Universities More

Students, staff, and faculty interested in petitioning the Governor and the General Assembly of Virginia to provide the needed financial support for higher education can fill out petition forms to be taken to a Virginia conference on education.

A petition has been sent to the Vice Chairman of the Faculty from the President of the Faculty at Radford University, Lewis P. Sheckler. Dr. Jean Pugh forwarded this petition to the Faculty Advisory Committee for its action. At the Faculty Meeting general consensus was reached that the petition would be made available for signature of the faculty. Signatures will be solicited from the student body and staff also, as was suggested by Sheckler.

The signed petitions from CNC will be brought by Pugh to the Commonwealth Conference on Education sponsored by Governor Robb on November 27-29. The dates of the meeting cause a deadline of Monday, November 21 for the gathering of the signatures of all who are interested in lending their support to the cause of increased funding for higher education. Petition forms are available at the following locations: the Circulation Desk in the Library, the Development Office (A433), Wingfield 226, (see Iris Price), the Biology Department Office (see Ann Tiller), and the Student Government Office (Campus Center 232).

The text of the petition is as follows:

Whereas the Commonwealth of Virginia is reducing its real financial support of public colleges and universities from a level that is already very inadequate; and

Whereas the continuing failure of the Commonwealth to support sufficiently its public colleges and universities is causing great harm to public higher education by:

- driving high tuitions and fees ever higher, thus threatening to deny higher education to everyone who does not have considerable financial resources,
- forcing staff reductions where increases in staff are needed,
- causing a deleterious deterioration of student-teacher ratios,
- keeping faculty salaries well below national averages for comparable faculty,
- imposing reductions in needed support services for students,
- worsening serious inadequacies in facilities and in the maintenance of facilities, and
- intensifying serious inadequacies in essential equipment and the maintenance of equipment; therefore

We petition Governor Charles S. Robb and the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Virginia to provide the public colleges and universities of the Commonwealth with the financial support that is necessary for educational excellence and adequate access to higher education.

Thanksgiving Service Offered

by Terry VanDover

An interdenominational Thanksgiving worship service will be held at Christopher Newport College at noon November 21 in A105, the auditorium in the administration building.

According to Carolyn Lawrence, CNC's campus minister, this will be the first Thanksgiving service to be held on campus.

The service will be open to the public as well as to CNC students.

Sponsored by United Campus Ministries and the Baptist Student Union, the service will be led by Rev. William S. "Pete" Parks, director of the Baptist Student Union at CNC.

The Reverend Dr. John R. King, adjunct professor at CNC, will deliver the sermon, titled "One Nation Under God."

Music for the service will be provided by the CNC Music Department.

An offering, to be donated to a local charity, will be collected.

After the service, refreshments will be served in the lobby outside the auditorium.

Booker Named First Brauer Prof

Dr. H. Marshall Booker, Jr. has been named the first Brauer Professor.

He will conduct a senior seminar in the Spring semester known as the Brauer Seminar, which will be limited to 12 students of certain academic criteria.

Booker will write and publish a series of articles to be known as the Brauer papers. The papers will focus on areas of business or management of interest to the local community.

He will also present at least one major colloquium, the Brauer colloquium, which will feature some part of his research of interest to both the academic and the business community.

The Brauer Professorship, the first endowed professorship at Christopher Newport College, was established by the first rector of the Board of Visitors, Harrol A. Brauer.

Brauer, who has served on the board since 1983 and became Rector when the College was separated from the College of William and Mary in 1977, established the endowment to benefit both faculty and students.

"The School of Business was chosen because all three of my sons and one daughter-in-law are graduates of the CNC School of Business," he said. "They received so much consideration and help from everyone, from the dean to each of the professors, that we all feel particularly close to this school."

"We wanted to make our endowment a living thing, something that would continue on. After talking our ideas over with Dr. Anderson the criteria for the Brauer Endowment evolved," he added.

Booker's selection as Brauer Professor was made after approval by the president and by the vice president for Academic Affairs upon the recommendation of a faculty committee of five members. One member was the dean of the School of Business, Dr. Algin King; two were professors from the School of Business; and two were from the other two schools within the College.

Brauer is enthusiastic about Booker's selection as the first Brauer Professor.

"I am very pleased. I am delighted with the choice," he said. "I have known Marshall a long time and I think highly of him."

"I am deeply honored to be chosen," said Booker. "I only hope that I can live up to the expectations of the award."

Skiing Class Offered

by Steven Grinstead

The Department of Leisure Studies and Physical Education is sponsoring an inter-session skiing course, LSPE 140. The class will begin December 19 and end January 27.

The course package includes 12 hours of conditioning and classroom instruction, five days of on-site ski instruction, and practices at the Wintergreen Ski Resort. The class will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. December 19 through 23.

Students enrolled in the class will travel to Wintergreen January 9, and stay until January 13. The event includes lodging for four nights, equipment rentals, transportation, and all-day lift tickets.

The tuition for the course is $90; and the Wintergreen expense is $225. The total cost of $315 must be paid by December 9.

Two academic credits will be earned in the class.

There will also be a ski trip to Seven Springs in Champion, Pennsylvania. Students will leave January 16 for Seven Springs and will return January 20.

The price of $220 includes four nights' lodging on slopeside, five day ski-lift tickets, four night ski-lift tickets, four breakfasts and dinners, indoor swimming, and transportation. A $50 deposit will be due by December 9.

If there are any questions concerning the class and Wintergreen trip or the Seven Springs trip, see Dr. Cummings. He can be located in R125, or by phone, 599-7027.

Hammer Appointed to Board

Christopher Newport College Professor Gary Hammer has been appointed to the National Board of Directors of the Association for Retarded Citizens-United States.

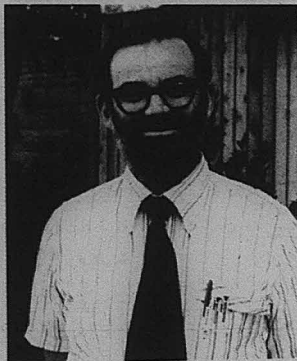

Hammer, now serving his second year as State president of ARC-US, has been active in the Peninsula chapter and was a founding member of the Williamsburg chapter in 1976.

"The organization operates programs on the local level and advocates programs and services for retarded citizens.

"There is no standardization for the functions of different chapters; each meets the needs of its area.

"The local Peninsula Chapter operates the Sarah Bonwell Hudgins Center. The Williamsburg Chapter operates a recreation program sponsoring an event each month such as a dance, a field trip to Yorktown, or Jamestown," Hammer said.

The national headquarters are in Dallas, Texas. Virginia has approximately 40 chapters with 9,000 members throughout the state.

Fair at CNC Gives Newcomers a Look at Peninsula

by Sidney Farley

Christopher Newport College's Office of Continuing Education and the Peninsula Chamber of Commerce sponsored a free community fair, Plug-in-Peninsula, November 5, to provide information for area newcomers.

Almost one hundred organizations and clubs set up booths in Ratcliffe Gym to distribute pamphlets or give displays. Gayle Henyon, an intern in the Office of Continuing Education, organized the fair, which lasted from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. this past Saturday.

Attendance was lower than last year's, but

Henyon said the visitors were the people that Plug-in-Peninsula was designed for. "I'd say about two-thirds of the people that have come are fairly new to the community."

She was pleased with the rising number of participants and said, "We have to figure out where it goes from here; we can't expand much more." Four booths had to be in the hall between Ratcliffe's main and small gyms.

The fair offered several health-check services. The Diabetes Association took blood sugar screenings; the Professional Chiropractic Society gave free tests for scoliosis; and Planned Parenthood distributed pam-

by Rose M. Ward

Mr. John Sullivan will retire as director of the Campus Center of Christopher Newport College December 31, after ten years of serving in that capacity.

Sullivan is from, as he describes it, "the great state of Nebraska." In 1946 he was ordained as a Catholic priest by the Diocese of Fargo in North Dakota. In 1969, he was assigned as Army chaplain at Fort Monroe, and retired as a colonel from there in 1982.

Sullivan became director of the Campus Center in 1973.

Reflecting on his upcoming retirement, Sullivan said, "I've been here for ten years. On December 20, I will be 62, and eligible for social security. I feel like I am leaving things in good hands.

"The new building looks nice, very functional I believe. I expect it to enhance student life at the college, especially since CNC is a commuter operation.

"There is not too much exchange between students here, and I think the new building will promote communication."

Sullivan talked about his plans for the future.

"There has always been something different to do around here.

"I'm not ready, or don't plan to quit activities as long as I am in such good health."

phlets.

Yorktown Creative Arts, the "On the Hill" collective, gave demonstrations: K. Franklin Spoor did marbling, the bookmaker's art that patterns marbled end-papers; Sandra Dekker assembled a stained glass window.

The Peninsula Community Theatre gave a slide show with recordings from their last production, Sweet Charity.

Fish painting, lifting a print off a fish painted with dye, was the Mariner's Museum's attraction while a handler from Busch Gardens wandered around the booths with his trained monkey.

Plug-in-Peninsula is a major, annual effort for Christopher Newport College's Continuing Education Program. Agnes Braganza, director of Continuing Education, estimated that her staff spent over 1,000 man-hours on planning and publicity for the fair.

Hamlet to be Performed in Dinner Theatre

by Terry VanDover

The National Shakespeare Company's production of Hamlet will be performed at Christopher Newport College Saturday, December 3, in the Campus Program Board's Second Annual Dinner Theatre.

The dinner, to be served in the CNC cafeteria, will be held at 6 p.m., and the play will begin at 8 p.m.

Information about the dinner menu is unavailable at press time, but may be obtained by calling the Office of Student Life at 599-7260.

Tickets for CNC students and their families, faculty, staff, and senior citizens are $12 for dinner and the play, $3 for the play only.

For the general public, tickets are $15 for dinner and the play, $5 for the play only.

The cast includes Mark Waterman as Hamlet, Kathryn Kivana as Ophelia, Margaret Coldiron as Gertrude, Skip Hamra as Polonius, and Michael Perez as Claudius.

The director of the play is Ron Daley.

Founded in New York City in 1963, the National Shakespeare Company consists of 12 highly-trained actors selected from America's leading educational training programs and regional theatres.

Each Spring, the company auditions over 2,500 actors to assemble a company comprised of the best talent from all regions of America.

Once chosen, the actors are cast in many roles, which they perform in repertory across America.

Last year, the National Shakespeare Company performed As You Like It in a dinner theatre at CNC.

For ticket reservations or information call 599-7260.

Cable TV on Campus

by Lisa Hatfield

The Campus Center now has cablevision. CNC became a cablevision subscriber in mid October.

According to John McCaughey, director of Student Life, the programming has been "a long time in coming but we finally got it here."

Unfortunately, cablevision has not drawn a large number of viewers into the upstairs room where the television is located. Seemingly, most students are not aware of its existence.

With cablevision, there is a wider variety of viewing material. Soap operas, once the most-watched shows, have had to make room for MTV (Music Television), CNN (Cable News Network) and ESPN (The Extended Sports Network).

Last Friday, November 4, the Campus Center installed a new forty-inch color television set. And there are more changes ahead.

John McCaughey plans to have installed in the Campus Center two more televisions — when the space is available. McCaughey says the televisions will also be hooked up to cablevision.

Pianist to Perform

by Terry VanDover

Alwin Baer, pianist, will perform Friday, November 18, at 8:15 p.m., as part of CNC's Monthly Concert Series.

Baer, born in Ubbergen, Holland, began playing the piano at the age of four, and began to pursue a professional career after graduation from high school.

Among his many teachers have been Edward del Pueyo, Geza Anda, Andor Foldes, and Vlado Perlemuter.

In spite of a promising debut, Baer deliberately withdrew from the musical scene, and spent three years of self-teaching in complete seclusion. He then returned to the concert stage, having perfected his techniques.

Since then, Baer has appeared with many major Dutch orchestras, including the Con-certgebouw, and the Rotterdam Philharmonic.

Baer was the first-prize winner of the International Schoenberg Competition in 1975.

Baer has also appeared in recitals in Belgium, France, Switzerland, Germany, Great Britain, and Spain.

He has recorded works by Mozart, Debussy, Ravel, Schubert, Schumann, and other Romantic composers.

In his CNC program, Baer will perform Brahms' Sonata in C-Major, Schumann's Carnival, and a polonaise by Dutch composer Peter Schat.

CNC students are admitted free to the monthly concerts. Tickets are $4 for the general public and $3 for staff, faculty, senior citizens, and other students.

Men Finished 5th, Women Didn't Place in Regionals

by Steven Grinstead

Christopher Newport's Men's and Women's Cross Country Teams ended their season at the NCAA Division III South-Southeast Regionals. The event was held in Newport News City Park Saturday, November 12.

CNC had outstanding performances from Cindy Smith and Ron Borsheim, but neither runner qualified for the nationals.

Ron Borsheim ran the 8-kilometer race in 25:17, and missed advancing to the nationals by one spot. Borsheim finished second in the regionals last year.

The remaining runners finished. They were Steve Kast (eighteenth place), Steve Fuller (twenty-first), Colin Munsey (forty-third), Wilson Swingle (forty-sixth), Ross Smith (forty-eighth), and Tabb Justis (fifty-fifth).

After the race, Coach Vince Brown stated, "Our fourth and fifth runners were too far back."

Emory University from Atlanta captured the men's title with 64 points. Roanoke College finished second with 79 points. Both teams will advance to the nationals.

Some other scores were: Washington & Lee (81 points), University of the South (82 points), CNC (120 points), Bethany (146 points), Southwestern of Memphis (173 points), and Mary Washington (205 points).

Brown was convinced that the men's team had a chance of advancing to the nationals. But Brown claimed there was no way to compare one team to another.

Brown stated, "We knew Emory had some good runners." He also commented that "Roanoke ran a super race."

CNC had only two individuals competing for the women. Cindy Smith finished the 5-kilometer race in 19:24 (seventh place). Smith missed qualifying by three positions.

Karen Humphrey was the other CNC runner. Humphrey finished in 19:56 (sixteenth place).

Mary Washington, which had the top two finishers, will compete in the nationals. They won the event with 39 points.

Second place Emory University, 50 points, edged Catholic College, 52 points, for second place. Following these teams were: University of the South, 110 points; Southwestern of Memphis, 113 points; and two other teams.

CNC will have no runners in the Division III Nationals, which will be held Saturday, November 19.

Coach Brown has no regrets about either CNC team. Brown commended the men and women by saying, "We've had a successful cross country year."

Women's Basketball Starts

by David M. Bean

The Lady Captains Basketball Team will begin their season this weekend by participating in the Liberty Baptist Tournament.

The Lady Captains have seven returnees from last year's squad and four new members. The returning letter-winners are Darlene Best, Angela Cook, Leanne Eyer, Vicky Gunn, Becky Littreal, Cindy Nice, and Shelley Pidgeon.

The newcomers include Leanne's younger sister, Allisan Eyer, from Norfolk Catholic High School, Alisa Fox from Poquoson High School, and Rory Peets and Karen Stout, both from Charlotte Amalie High School, located in St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

CNC is waiting on a ruling by the NCAA eligibility committee on two transfers from Randolph-Macon. The committee, meeting in January, will decide if a change in the transfer rules will allow Pam Stuart and Karen Joyner to play at CNC for the Spring semester.

If CNC gets the nod, only Stuart will play in the Spring, as Joyner and Head Coach Susan Walthall have decided to save her for next year.

Walthall is very excited about the up-coming season, yet a little bewildered concerning the pre-season picks.

"We finished at 18-9 last year and, except for University of North Carolina-Greensboro, we have the next best record in the conference. Yet, we're rated fifth behind UNC-G, Virginia Wesleyan College, St. Andrews, and North Carolina Wesleyan College."

Walthall is pleased with the development of her upperclassmen during the Summer.

"Cindy [Nice] looks real strong; her concentration in practice is the highest it has ever been."

"Vicky [Gunn], despite her injury, looks real good. She has been so motivated throughout practice; Shelley [Pidgeon] the same way. She has had a total turnaround from last year and just works real hard."

"Leanne [Eyer] is just as quick as ever."

Walthall said that Becky Littreal and Darlene Best have also improved. Walthall said Littreal's defense is better as well as Best's ball-handling.

About the four newcomers, Walthall was very positive.

"Allisan [Eyer] is just a little dynamo. She gets the ball and whoosh, she's gone. Yet she needs to learn to have more control so she doesn't lose it all the time."

"Foxy [Alisa Fox] is one of our best ball-handlers, but she needs to work on her shooting."

"Rory [Peets] and Karen [Stout] will really help us. Karen will be a help with the rebounding, and Rory is an excellent passer and has good floor sense."

"We've got more depth than before, and everyone can play."

Ignoring Foreign Languages May Hurt U.S.

by Terry VanDover

America's "shameful foreign language deficiency," which will play an important role in future international economics and efforts for world-peace, portends a national crisis for America.

So writes Gerald Unks in an article from Educational Leadership, which was reprinted recently in the CNC Chronicle, submitted by Doris Reppen.

The article points out some facts which, though language teachers have known them for some time, deserve to be brought to the attention of everyone.

Some day soon America will realize that it is headed for big trouble, because it refuses to learn to communicate with other countries in their own languages.

There is nothing new about the observation, which Unks makes, that America is arrogant about the English language. The American public balks at the very idea of lowering itself by learning to speak any other language than the Queen's.

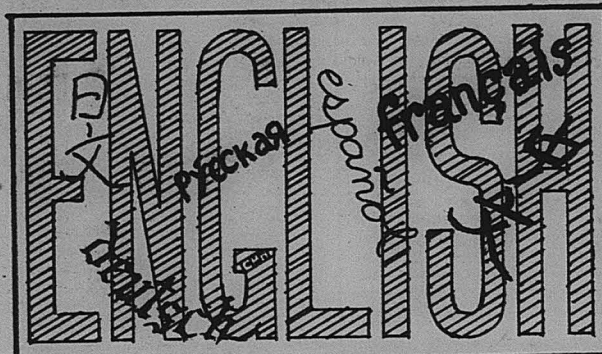

It is also no surprise to hear that only eight per cent of all American colleges require any foreign language at all for admission.

But European and Asian nations are not so blind about the importance of foreign languages; they require students to study English as long as seven years.

The most frightening facts concerning the learning and teaching of foreign languages come from Russia. According to Unks' article, the Soviet Union has more teachers of English than America has students of Russian.

America is downright stupid about the importance of foreign languages, even in the area of international diplomacy. Many American foreign diplomats cannot even speak the language of the countries they are assigned to. What a good impression America must make in those countries!

The U.S. Foreign Service no longer requires any foreign language background of its applicants, according to Unks, because Americans no longer study foreign languages. Doesn't it know about self-fulfilling prophecies?

How can the U.S. ever hope to improve its rapidly-worsening image in other countries, when it refuses to even attempt to communicate with them in their own languages?

Unks points out a few of the costly mistakes America has made in the past. When the U.S. invaded Cambodia, he says, no more than two members of the American diplomatic/military establishment could speak that country's language. "Might this explain our alienation from the people of the country?"

In 1978, during the Iranian revolution, only six of 60 foreign service officers in Iran spoke Farsi. Even fewer, Unks says, could speak the language of their captors when the American embassy was seized.

President Reagan wants to spend more and more money on national defense, yet he has ignored Education Secretary Bell's advice that global education could be our least expensive defense.

The Soviet Union has more teachers of English than America has students of Russian.

And while Reagan wants to cut spending for international education programs, the Russians actively recruit foreign students to study in Russia, all expenses paid.

The Russians are not stupid about international education. In fact, as Unks explains, there are over 1,000 Latin American students studying under scholarship in Russia now, compared to less than 50 in the U.S.

"In the long run," Unks asks, "who will win in Latin America?"

Reagan wants very badly to keep up with the Russians, but only so far as nuclear weapons are concerned.

But countries cannot communicate with bombs, no matter how strongly Reagan believes they can. It seems to me that the Russians, unlike the Americans, have learned to see beyond the bombs, and have realized that language speaks more loudly than brute force.

Education and communication are more important to Third World countries than huge displays of might – and only potential might at that.

If America does ever wake up to the fact that other languages are important, I believe the awakening will only come when America is hit where it really hurts – in the pocket-book. Americans barely bat an eye anymore when its citizens are killed in foreign countries. But when they start to lose money, certainly then they will stand up and take notice.

America no longer has a monopoly on the business world, and has already been forced to drop some of its arrogance by admitting that the Japanese are becoming more successful. American business has already had to humble itself to copy Japanese techniques. Perhaps America needs to go even further in its imitation of the Japanese.

One reason for Japan's success in America is that Japanese businessmen speak English. As Unks points out, there are 10,000 Japanese businessmen in the U.S., and almost all of them speak English. Of the 1,000 American businessmen in Japan, however, very few of them can speak Japanese.

Unks asks, "When two American salesmen, each selling the same product, approach a foreign client, who has the advantage – the one who speaks the client's language, or the one who presumes the client must speak English or takes along an interpreter?"

Our businesspeople are sent out into the worldwide market with the severe handicap of not being able to speak their prospective clients' languages.

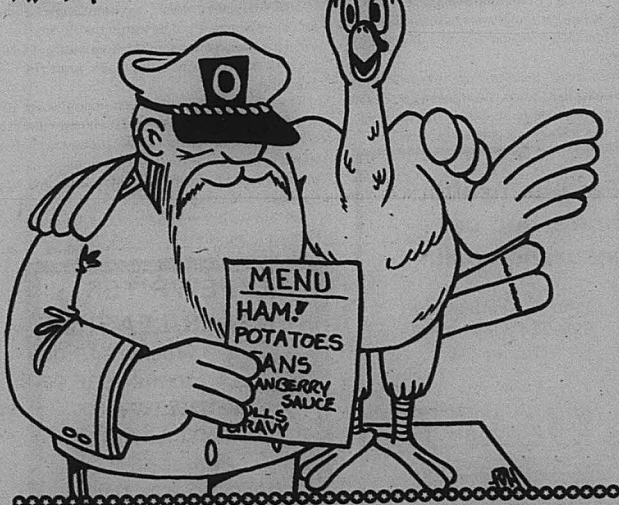

American business is no longer in the position to demand that other countries' representatives speak English. More and more countries are becoming powerful enough to say, "You speak our language, or we will take our business to someone who does."

The same is true in the areas of diplomacy and defense, except that when a country takes its business elsewhere, that "elsewhere" will be Russia.

America is no longer so powerful that it can afford to be arrogant. Unks ends his article with this warning:

"When we find our business executives and diplomats coming back from foreign countries empty-handed, when we find our balance of payments an impossible burden, and when we find ourselves bungling into war to protect one people whose language we do not speak from another country whose language we also do not speak, we will have only ourselves to blame."

Intramural Soccer Champion Crowned

The first intramural soccer season officially ended Saturday, November 5.

The championship featured In Control with a record of 4-1 slate.

Oliver Dubure's goal in the first minute of the play gave Out of Control an early lead; after that they never looked back. Out of Control scored five more times in the first half to make the score 6-1 at the intermission.

As the second half started, In Control desperately tried to fight back. John Ward, Dave Foster, and John Shaughnessy each scored consecutive goals to cut the margin to 5-4 in favor of Out of Control.

However, Out of Control's Jo Swofford quickly scored two goals in the span of a minute to insure his team's victory. Swofford had a game high of 4 goals on the day.

Leading the defense for Out of Control was the steady play of Jack Pang and Eric Burton.

The bright spot for In Control was Shaughnessy, who scored a late trick by dulling 3 scores. The most valuable player of the league, picked by the Intramural Department, was Out of Control's Eric Burton, whose quality play and sportsmanship inspired his teammates.

The final score of the championship game was Out of Control 10 and In Control 6.

Media and the Arts

People interested in writing songs, radio broadcasting, poetry, art, video, or photography — contact Wilnette Edwards at 247-0278.

Turkey Trot

The annual Turkey Trot is just around the corner. The trot will be a two-mile run around the campus Tuesday November 21 at 2 p.m.

There are three age categories for men and women. The categories are 25 and under, 26-39, and 40 and over. All winners will receive a turkey.

Anyone interested can sign up outside the Intramural Office across from the Campus Center Information Desk. Sign-ups can also be made 20 minutes before the start of the trot.

For more information, contact Shelley Pidgeon at 599-7054.

Government Club

The Government Club meets every Wednesday at 1 p.m. in A305, the conference room in the Political Science Department. For information, contact Wilnette Edwards at 247-0278.

Christian Fellowship

Obedience to Christ is extremely important; therefore, people are to serve the Lord with all their hearts, souls, and minds. The best example to follow is Jesus Christ, who showed the greatest act of obedience by giving up His life for us on the cross.

If you have the desire to learn more about Christ's obedience and how it relates to your life then come to N-125 across from the bookstore on Wednesday at noon.

Intramural Bowling

The fourth week of bowling has come to a close, and two teams are deadlocked for the top position.

OTHG #1 and OTHG #2 are both tied for first place with a 13-3 record. The tie came by virtue of a four-game sweep by OTHG #2, and OTHG #1 taking three out of four games from a tough Bogart team.

Tom Moore led OTHG #2, bowling a consistent 428 series. Meanwhile the Bogarts held onto third place four games behind leaders with a 9-7 ledger.

Lora Taylor, the anchor person on OTHG #1, again had another fine week of bowling. Taylor led the women with a 422 series, and has the top total average of all women in the league with a 146.

Jeff Podrasky of the Beer Busters led the men with a solid 475 series, and has the top average in the league, a 150. The Bogarts' Steve Cook and Taylor, topped all bowlers for the high game of the week; each had games of 180.

Government Jobs Brochure at CNC

The Counseling and Career Services Office has recently received the Handbook X-118 from the United States Office of Personnel Management.

The handbook is designed to provide current qualification standards for a variety of positions in governmental agencies.

Positions are listed alphabetically. Students or graduates may review this material by requesting it from Judy Bryant or Rita Murphy in CC205 between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Library Research Class Offered

by Lisa Hatfield

Library research entails more than fishing through the card catalog and stumbling over book stacks to find information. Research methods will be taught next Spring in English 395, the library research and bibliography course.

Hugh Treacy, reference/instruction librarian at Captain John Smith Library, says the course is designed to give students "hands-on experience with library materials."

Intramural Tennis Tournament

The finals of the intramural tennis tournament were finished November 4. Joe Boggs defeated Dr. Robert Cummings 5-7, 6-1, and 6-1.

Cummings reached the finals by defeating John St. George, 6-3, 6-4, and Philip Sauls 6-4, 6-3.

Boggs defeated Mike Grounds 6-3, 6-0, and John Hoaglund 6-4, 6-0.

The finals proved to be very exciting. The first set was extremely close. Dr. Cummings' experience and consistency paid off. However, in the second and third sets, Boggs took control. Dr. Cummings won one game in each set.

Congratulations goes to the new Intramural Tennis Champion, Joe Boggs!

CNC Auditions For 'Godspell'

The CNC Theatre will hold auditions for Godspell Tuesday, November 29, and Wednesday, November 30, in the Campus Center Theatre at 7:30 p.m.

Call-backs are scheduled for Thursday, December 1. Five females and five males are needed.

Auditionees should be prepared to give two short auditions (two or three minutes - contemporary drama) and to demonstrate both singing and dancing ability.

The musical selection (either with or without accompaniment) need not be from Godspell.

Dance and vocal rehearsals start during the first week of January, and ensemble rehearsals start January 23.

Rehearsals will be scheduled Mondays through Fridays 7:30 to 11 p.m.

Members of the cast must be available for weekend rehearsals two weeks prior to opening (March 24, 25 and 31, and April 1).

The production is directed by Bruno Koch.
