Dormitory on campus delayed temporarily

by Mark Chambers
staff writer

As a result of the General Assembly's decision on Jan. 18 to have Christopher Newport pursue plans for a scaled-down version of its dormitory design, the proposed plan for the development of a dorm on campus has been temporarily delayed. Questions have been recently raised concerning the costs and funding for the dorm project.

According to Dr. Charles Behymer, Vice President for Student Affairs at CNC and Chairman of the Dorm Committee, "It is not that the General Assembly does not want us to have a dormitory, but rather that we reduce the scope of the project in terms of costs, down to a feasible and realistic amount." As stated by Dr. Behymer, "Most auxiliary run dorm proposals are placed on hold and usually receive no support in terms of funding from the state."

In most cases, the state does not provide money to fund college dorms, yet it must authorize projects. In an effort to alleviate this problem, the committee plans to utilize $5 million in private money revenue, while at the same time, conducting an extensive study on reducing the originally projected cost of $17 million. Meanwhile, Dr. Behymer says that the projected completion date has been "pushed back sometime between 1992-1993."

Although the General Assembly's decision has forced the committee to place its proposal on hold, the process of selecting a design is continuing and arrangements have been made to begin evaluating space requirements. As stated by Dr. Behymer, Registration by telephone: a possibility?

by Kate Williams
contributing writer

Could there be a way to avoid the major headache of college life? The answer is yes. It could be as simple as picking up the phone, calling the registrar's office and stating which classes you want to take. Then you can be sitting using a credit card to buy the books you need. No more rushing to the bookstore to find out which books you need to buy. No more rushing to the bookstore to find out which books you need to buy.

According to the Registrar's Office, this semester it will be offering this type of service to the students that are already enrolled. The registrar's

Lottery money may still come by Jennifer W. Vincent

staff writer

Amid rumors that the General Assembly may rescind the money for CNC's library addition, Wendell Barbour, Library Director and Legislative Liaison to Richmond, assured students "That's just not true" and President Santoro confirmed that there is "no loss of support in the General Assembly or on the part of the governor. We still remain a high priority item."

According to Barbour, "Projects like this don't get stopped, they just get delayed." The funneling of lottery money into the Commonwealth's operating budget this year delayed some of the state's projects. Priorities 1-10, including mental health facilities and prisons, will be funded as planned. Projects 11-37, including the CNC library at number 19, will be delayed.

"Once we're this far with planning, they may delay things but they won't drop it," Barbour said. "It will just be a matter of time." The money for the $3 million addition and renovation to Captain John Smith Library will not be released until late August, delaying the ground breaking about 5 months, from May to October.

Barbour asserts that the new library will be well worth the wait. With an addition of 20,000 square feet and a renovation of 3,500 square feet, Barbour anticipates "a more pleasing environment for students to come use the library."

Some of the more attractive features of the new library will include group study rooms and classrooms secluded from the rest of the library. These areas will produce "a quieter library that is more conducive to studying," said Barbour. Book shelves will be rearranged to decrease the noise levels between study sections. The shelves will also be arranged to eliminate the gap from L-N currently existing upstairs. All books will eventually be shelved consecutively.

"Libraries are changing," Barbour explained. "The library you know will not be the same in a few years." Captain John Smith will move into the computer age with the addition. On-line cataloging, in which computer terminals replace card catalogs, will be one of the improvements. In the future, Barbour hopes that computer terminals will be placed throughout campus so a student can call up the circulation information from the campus center or another building and go to the library later if necessary.

AIDS play sparks fire at home

College Press Service

Opening night of a Southwest Missouri State University production of a play about homosexuals and AIDS was marred by an arson fire that destroyed the home of a vocal student supporter of the drama.

Brad Evans, president of People Acting with Compassion and Tolerance, was attending a candlelight vigil outside the campus theater Nov. 15 shortly before the debut of "The Normal Heart" when the fire was reported. Two cats died.

Someone had forced open the back door of Evans' single-story house, and spread flammable liquid on the floors of two rooms, investigators said.

They believe the fire was related to Evans' involvement in supporting the campus staging of "The Normal Heart," a play that chronicles the deadly spread of AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) through the gay community.

When a campus theater group announced it would stage the work at Southwest Missouri in Springfield in mid-November, local heterosexuals charged the play glorified homosexuality.

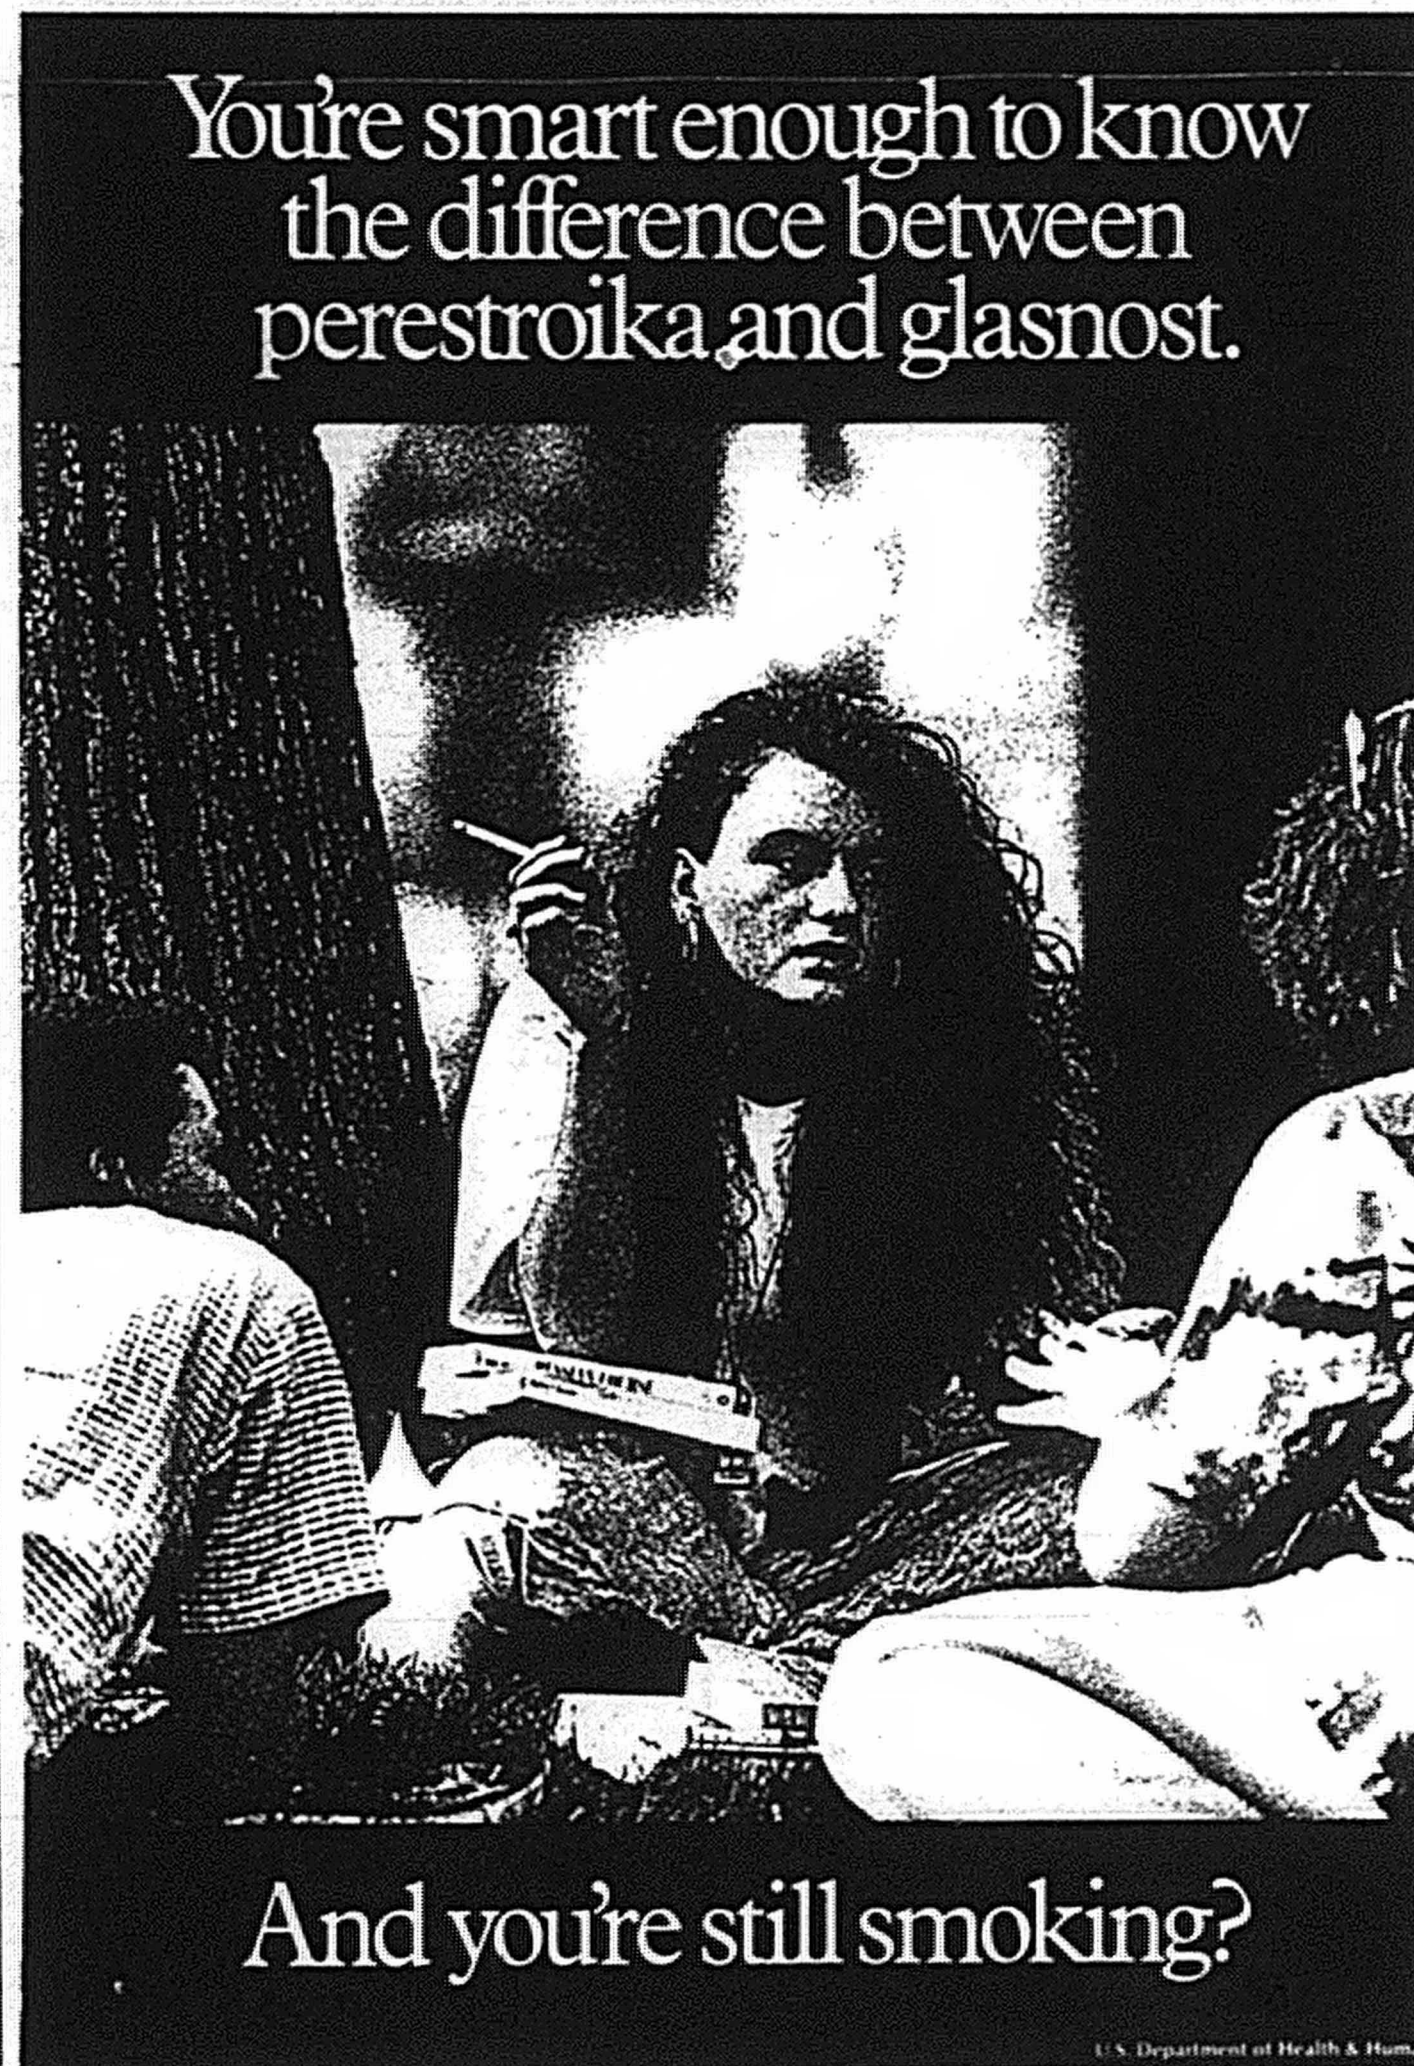

During four weeks of controversy and threats of play opponents, who included state Rep. Jean Dixon and a group called Citizens Demanding Standards, called on SMSU President Marshall Gordon to halt the production.

Gordon refused, saying the play would help make audience members more aware of AIDS and how it is spread.

Heated rallies and demonstrations for and against the production were held throughout the week before the play's Nov. 15 debut.

Citizens Demanding Standards leader, Paul Summers, called the play "obscene," a bad use of taxpayers' money and contrary to the moral standards of the Springfield community, which is a center of evangelical

Note: In our Dec. 7 issue an article entitled, "The Saga Continues," quoted Robert Fentress as saying, "George Tatum told me...that the members of the Baptist Student Union were saying that they were going to tear down 'Bu.'" The Director and President of the Baptist Student Union claim that this is incorrect. The Baptist Student Union has no members involved in vandalism of religious relics. In fact, the BSU respects the rights of individuals to worship as they choose.

Creation of a college newspaper--what goes on behind the pages

by Janet Ogden-Day
editor-in-chief

As our staff has now embarked on its last semester this year, we thought we would tell you a little about The Captain's Log. Each spring an Editor-in-Chief is chosen by the Media Board, a committee that oversees the newspaper and yearbook. The newly selected editor then begins taking applications for the other executive positions.

Experience is necessary for these jobs as each one is vital to the outcome of The Captain's Log. Our staff works under a weekly production deadline, so it is essential that everyone maintains their assigned schedule. The editors go over the copy each Friday. The Copy Editor checks for structure and grammar. The Editor-in-Chief reads the stories for content and factual information. The News and Sports Editors assign specific stories and edit as well.

The edited copy is then taken to a typesetter where it is set in newspaper columns, or "galley," usually on Friday afternoon. On Monday afternoon, the galleys are proofread before they go to the Production Manager who is responsible for design and layout of the newspaper as well as getting it done before deadline — which is Wednesday at noon when the printer picks up the finished paper.

All of this is very costly so TCL depends on its advertising revenue to cover some of the costs. Our Advertising Manager works closely with the Business Manager to keep the newspaper lucrative.

One of the best means of becoming involved with the newspaper is to become a staff writer. TCL always needs good writers — particularly investigative and feature writers. Dr. Madeline Smith of the English Department teaches two excellent classes in journalism for those who are interested in learning more about newspaper writing.

If you want to write for TCL, please come to our next staff writer's meeting which will be held Feb. 1 at noon in TCL office, CC-223.

Play: "Speed the Plow" runs through month

Courtesy of Virginia Stage Company.

Virginia Stage Company Artistic Director Charles Towers announced today that Jon Klein's T Bone N Weasel will be the third production of the season and J. P. Donleavy's Fairy Tales of New York will be the sixth production of the season. David Mamet's Speed-the-Plow and August Wilson's Fences have been rescheduled to the fourth and fifth productions and Hedda Gabler has been postponed until next season.

"T Bone N Weasel and Fairy Tales of New York are two plays that we have had our eyes on for some time," Towers continued. "The rights to T Bone had been held up by an off Broadway producer but have just been released — we will be one of the first regional companies to produce it. And, because of our strong relationship with J. P. Donleavy, he has given us the exclusive American rights to Fairy Tales of New York. Both these plays represent great opportunities for our company."

T Bone N Weasel, written by Jon Klein, shows the misadventures of two ex-cons trying to go straight traveling the backroads of South Carolina. It is a wild and offbeat comedy by a distinctive new writer.

T Bone N Weasel will be directed by VSC Associate Artistic Director Christopher Hanna and will run January 2-20, 1990.

Speed-the-Plow is David Mamet's most recent Broadway triumph. It is a stylish, chilling, fast-paced and hilarious look at contemporary Hollywood; a natural successor to Glengarry Glen Ross. Originally scheduled for the final production of the season, Speed-the-Plow will now run February 6-24, 1990 with Towers directing.

Fences, August Wilson's Pulitzer prize winning drama, powerfully portrays a black American family in 1957 beginning to feel the winds of change. Fences will be directed by Tazewell Thompson and run March 13-31, 1990.

Fairy Tales of New York, by J. P. Donleavy (the author of The Beastly Beatitudes of Balthazar B), is the irreverently funny yet bittersweet tale of one Cornelius Christian trying to make it in a New York City that even in 1960 may have existed only in fairy tales. Charles Towers will direct this final production of Season 11 running April 10-28, 1990.

The Virginia Stage Company is located at The Wells Theatre on Monticello and Tazewell Street in Norfolk. Call 627-6988 for more information.

The Portrait in America
Alice and Sol B. Frank Photography
Gallery and Norfolk Foundation
Small Changing Gallery
Jan. 26-Apr. 8, 1990

This exhibition, drawn primarily from The Chrysler Museum's collection, surveys the photographic portrait in America. Among the artists included are Southworth and Hawes, the studio of Mathew Brady, Edward Steichen, Doris Ulmann, George Tice and Robert Mapplethorpe.

Prophets and Translators
Norfolk Southern Foundation Large
Changing Gallery
Feb. 9-Apr. 8, 1990

Faith Ringgold, Houston Conwill, Howardena Pindell and Robert Colescott, four black artists working with various media, demonstrate a wide range of styles that reflect their contemporary viewpoints and African-American roots. A documentary video produced in cooperation with Academic Television Services, Old Dominion University, accompanies the exhibition.

Life's Lessons by Bea Nettles
Alice and Sol B. Frank Photography
Gallery

April 21-June 24, 1990

Nettles' photographs have documented her role as a mother, through the happiness of birth and birthday parties to the movement into a world where life has a darker side. Life's Lessons deals with the struggles of parenting — sibling rivalry, gender identification and discipline — combined with a parent's fears for her children. Using a Polaroid 20" X 24" camera, Nettles creates an installation that is a continuing autobiography.

"Fool for Love" at CNC

CNC Theatre Department

The CNC Theatre Department presents the student production of Sam Shepard's Fool For Love, to be presented at the Gaines Theatre Feb. 2, 3, 9 and 10 at 8 p.m.

The play is about Eddie, a rodeo cowboy, who has just returned to his long-time love, May, after a long absence. Shepard explores the complexities of their love/hate relationship and the unbreakable bond between them.

The cast includes Tina Terrell, David Balthrop, Jay Hutchins and Richard G. Sarnier. For reservations, please call 594-7089. Limited seating will be available.

There is a $2 admission charge. Since the play deals with mature subject matter, audiences should be of at least college age.

CNC graduate to be Chief of Campus Police

by Elizabeth Creamer
staff writer

Gerald Bright, a 1982 graduate of CNC, has been appointed Chief of Campus Police, effective Feb. 1. Bright, a 16-year law enforcement veteran, served as Deputy Director of Public Safety at Old Dominion University from 1987 to 1990. In his post at CNC, Bright manages 11 officers.

According to their new chief, CNC's police do far more than issuing parking tickets. "Campus Police do the same job as city or county police," Bright said. Their duties include investigating crimes, making arrests, and directing traffic. Officers also assist faculty and students by jump starting automobiles and unlocking car doors. In his first weeks as chief, Bright said, "I'll be looking at what other services we can provide."

In the eight years since Bright was a

CNC student, the college and the role of its police have changed. "My goal is to work, not just with my officers, but with student groups and department heads," Bright said. "I plan to meet with faculty and students to find out what their concerns are, and how we can assist them."

One issue Bright hopes to discuss with students is drug education on campus. "Drugs are always an issue," he said. "The police need to be involved, whether it's setting up informational displays, or passing out pamphlets. If such programs don't exist now, I'll be implementing them." Rape prevention and awareness is another issue of concern to campus police. Although CNC has been a predominantly "safe" campus in the past, Bright stated that there is increasing interest in a campus escort service. If CNC becomes a residential college, he explained, the need for such a program will certainly increase.

"Obviously, with dorms, our role will expand," Bright said of his department. "Manpower needs will escalate and our focus will expand to 24 hours a day." Although police currently patrol the campus at night: "Our main concern now after classes is the physical safety of the buildings." With students living on campus, that will change.

CNC's burgeoning population poses other challenges for the campus police. "Parking seems to be a bigger problem than when I was here," Bright noted. Although police are available to help drivers find parking spaces during heavy traffic times, as Bright admitted: "We just need more space."

As Chief of Police, Bright will address departmental, as well as campus, concerns. A major internal issue is the number of unclassified patrolmen employed at CNC. Unclassified state employees receive fewer benefits than their classified counterparts, even when, as in the police department, they perform the same jobs. Unclassified employees can also only work 1500 hours in a calendar year; Bright stated this may factor in high employee turnover in his department. Currently, more than one-third of CNC's police force is comprised of non-classified employees.

One of Bright's goals is to computerize departmental records, linking CNC with other law enforcement agencies. The chief also hopes to facilitate good public relations, by "having an open door policy, and taking the time to explain what we do."

Bright holds a bachelor's degree from CNC, and a master's from Radford University. He is State President of the Fraternal Order of Police, and is a member of the Virginia Association of Campus Police and the CNC Alumni Board.

Finally, on Feb. 10 there will be a semi-formal dance at 9 p.m. in Christopher's featuring BODY DOUBLE.

First Amnesty meeting a success

by Marty Fernandez
contributing writer

If you didn't make it to Amnesty International's first campus meeting held last week, you missed quite an exciting forum. Some of CNC's most conscientious folks came together, and what started as a recital of information turned into a rally of ideas being bounced back and forth. The end result was a group quite anxious to get underway.

The first item mentioned was the Joe Giarratanocase. You may have heard about this case already, as it was covered on Channel 13's 20/20, and Portfolio magazine recently reported it as their cover story. Joe Giarratano still needs our help. He has been on Virginia's death row for 10 years and although a staggering amount of evidence has been uncovered that could prove him innocent, he has repeatedly been denied an appeal.

If you would like more information on this case Dr. Mazzarella of the History Department would be happy to supply it. He can be found in McMurrin Hall, room 217. We urge anybody concerned to write the governor. The address is: The Honorable L.

Douglas Wilder, 101 North Street, Supreme Court Bldg. 104, Richmond, Va. 23219. If you don't have time to write, petitions are being circulated around campus and one can be found in Dr. Mazzarella's office.

Farm Fresh Stores has a program whereby you can take your grocery receipts and they will give your non-profit organization 2% of the sales. This is a great way to earn free money. Amnesty asks that you keep your receipts, your parent's, your neighbor's, or anybody else who buys food at Farm Fresh, and drop them off at Dr. Mazzarella's office. Our goal is to bury him in his office until at least Spring Break.

As a final note we would like to extend thanks to Sigma Tau and Sigma Pi for allowing us to have a table at their dance for gathering signatures and exchanging information. Thanks a lot, guys!

If you would like to get involved in Amnesty-International, we have lots of exciting plans in the works. Keep your eyes open for flyers on the date our next meeting will be held, or contact the campus coordinator, John O'Shea, at 595-1241. We would love to have you, and there is a lot of important work to be done.

Teams enter last month with title hopes

by James Heath
sports editor

With three-fourths of the basketball season over, both of our teams are deeply involved in the championship hunt. The women are 11-8 overall, and 5-0 in the conference (number one); the men are 13-6 overall, and 3-2 in the conference (number three).

The women won two tough games this week, and firmly established themselves as the team to beat in the conference race. Last Tuesday, they defeated St. Paul's College 77-53 in a game that was more lopsided than expected. Cathy Skinner paced three double figure scorers with 23 points, and she also had 11 rebounds. April Macario had 18 points, and Allison Murray scored 11. Crystal Richardson and Tia Johnson each hauled down 10 rebounds in that game. The defense held St. Paul's to a 28% shooting night from the field, and forced 23 turnovers which lead to many fastbreak opportunities for the Lady Captains.

Last Saturday they faced the number two team in the conference, NC Wesleyan. In a game that had all the tension of a tournament championship, the Lady Captains held on and pulled out a 74-71 victory. After being down by nine points in the first half, strong three-point shooting by April Macario and Allison Murray put CNC ahead 40-32 at the half. A foul shot by Amy Kolly with three seconds left gave the victory to CNC. Macario paced the scoring with 18 points, followed by Crystal Richardson with 15 points, and Murray with 11. Richardson pulled down 12 rebounds to lead the team, with Tia Johnson getting 11 boards. That win put the ladies two games ahead of their nearest competition, with five conference games left. Keep it up ladies!

For the men, they had a golden opportunity to not only jump back into national prominence, but tighten up the conference race. Now they need a little luck, and a good streak to capture their first regular season title. This past Wednesday the men put on an unbelievable offensive display against the Apprentice School, and won 125-79. James Boykins paced four double figure scorers with 21 points and 15 rebounds. Steve Artis scored 20 points, Lamont Strothers hit for 19, and Jamie Chappell scored 15. They hit their first eight shots, with four three-pointers in that stretch and the game was over after that. Shooting 64% in the first half and 58% for the game, allowed for everybody to get some playing time in the rout. The 125 points broke a 20-year old school record for most points in a game.

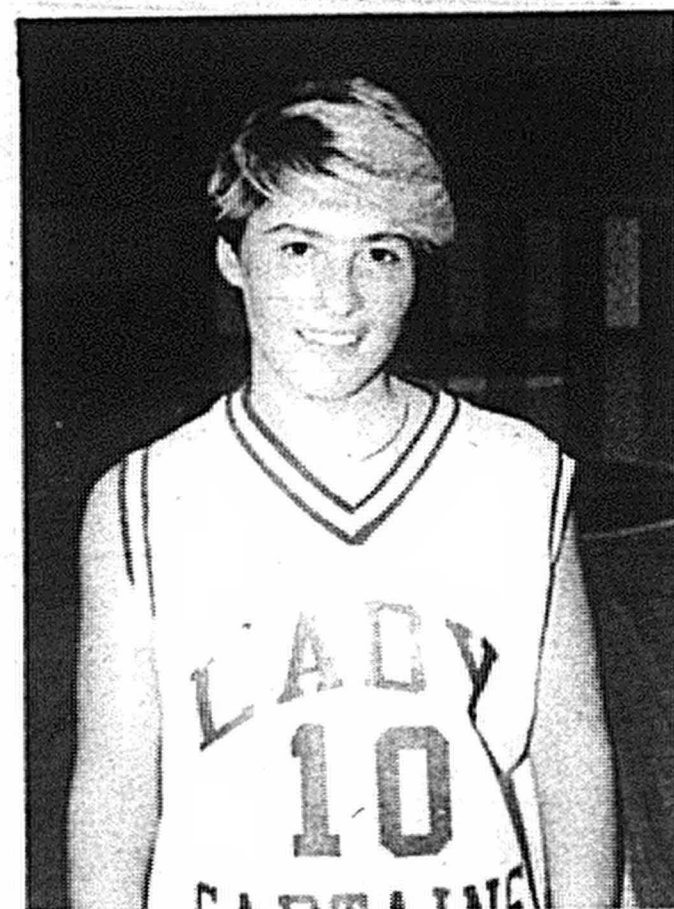

On Saturday, they had a battle with nationally ranked NC Wesleyan in a game that was pressure-filled from the start. A 12-2 run paced by Steve Artis' 10 points, put the men ahead 42-34 at the half. After getting a 13-point lead in the second half, the men just seemed to die. Wesleyan hit key free throws down the stretch, and won a 71-65 heart-breaking game. Boykins lead the team again with 17 points and 14 rebounds. Artis scored 16 points, and Lamont Strothers scored 10. Now the men are in third place behind Averett and NC Wesleyan. With some strong playing in the second half of the conference slate, they can still pull themselves back into shape heading into the tourney later this month. The men still have a home game with Averett, and end the regular season at NC Wesleyan. All right guys, "let's get busy."

Both teams are on the road this weekend playing against Methodist on Friday, and against Greensboro on Saturday. Their next home games are on Friday, Feb. 9, against Averett. With that night being homecoming, another big crowd should be in Ratcliffe. Both teams appreciated the attendance last weekend, and hope the crowds keep on coming. After that night, the men will only have two more home games, and the women will only have one. The women's game with Ferrum on Feb. 16 will conclude the lucky number contest that has been going on since the soccer season, so your chances of winning the grand prize are shrinking. SEE YOU THERE!

Editor's Note: Both our teams are now ranked in the South Region. The men dropped a notch to sixth. Dixie foes NC Wesleyan (third) and Averett (fourth) are still ahead of them. The women have jumped into seventh place in their rankings. They are ahead of NC Wesleyan (8th).

Amy Kolly's foul shot was the clincher in the women's game against NCWC. CNC won 74-71.

Director of Intra-Rec Sports

Intra-Rec Sports kicks off the Spring semester with five on five basketball and six on six volleyball. These exciting tournaments last for five fun-filled weeks with games held on every Sunday starting on Feb. 4th. The championship games are played on Mar. 4th.

Both basketball and volleyball will be separated into two leagues each: a novice league and an advanced league. These leagues will be decided upon at the discretion of the Intramural department.

Sign-ups will last until Feb. 2nd. The captains' meetings will be held in the afternoon of the 2nd. An information table will be set up in the Campus Center breezeway all this week to accept registration.

Students, faculty, staff, and alumni are welcome to participate in all our programs, so come on out and have a terrific time. Intra-Rec Sports is a great opportunity to meet new people, improve your athletic skills, and have a blast all at the same time!

For more information call Intra-Rec Sports at 594-7054 or come by our office in Ratcliffe Gym located next to the men's locker room.

Some steps have already been taken to get the library ready for the changes. Under the supervision of Molly Hand, Ann Dando, and Nina Bates, students and staff bar-coded books over the Christmas break. The project went so well that CNC's work may be used as a model for other institutions to automate.

With everyone involved in the library expansion project at CNC anxious to start construction, the new library should be completed in the middle of 1992. According to President Santoro, "We'll be ready to go as soon as they release the money."

Soccer receives help from Spain

by Aline M. Baker
contributing writer

The Captain's soccer team has had a very special visitor during the soccer season. Jose Martin Rodriguez, a 23-year old student of Economics and native of Spain, came from his country to help coach CNC's soccer team and to visit the State of Virginia. When I spoke to Jose, I realized that he not only had a charming accent but also a very interesting background.

Jose is a professional soccer trainer who graduated from the National College of Coaches in Spain. He worked closely with Mr. Craig Reynolds, CNC's soccer coach, from August 17 through November 1, 1989. Mr. Reynolds said: "Jose's knowledge and experience in soccer was very helpful. We even think along the same lines. I wish he could come back next year."

What is special about this story is that Jose volunteered his time to help the Captain's team. Our Spanish friend returned to Madrid in November to finish his degree in Economics.

We at CNC hope to see Jose again!

Financial aid workshop planned

Financial Aid Office

There will be a Financial Aid Workshop for 1990-91 financial aid applicants on Thursday, Feb. 8, 1990 at 7 p.m. in the Administration Building, Room 105. All students who think they may need financial assistance in 1990-91 are encouraged to attend. Parents are also invited.

1989-90 financial aid recipients have been mailed application materials and are requested to bring these to the workshop. Application materials will be available to others in the Financial Aid Office and at the workshop. Students are encouraged to familiarize themselves with the forms and instructions and to ask questions.

Students interested in applying for Pell Grant or Guaranteed Student Loan for the spring 1990 semester should contact the Financial Aid Office in room 239 of the Administration Building.

Hair and skin workshop

Alpha Kappa Psi

Alpha Kappa Psi, Professional Business Fraternity starts their Professional Program on Sunday, Feb. 4. The topic is "Your Professional Image in the 90's". It is a workshop held at Victoria's Looking Glass, 10201 Warwick Blvd. (Hilton Village) at 2 p.m.

A consultant will be present to give tips on hair-styling and skin care. A representative from Casual Corner will be present to show wardrobe selection and coordination for men and women.

Those interested need to sign up at the Alpha Kappa Psi Rush table or talk to one of the brothers by Friday, Feb. 2. The Rush table is located in the CC breezeway, so make sure to stop by and consider pledging.

Dorms

"The committee is currently investigating alternatives which call for the development of a dorm housing from 400 to 600 students in order to meet the cost and overcrowding problems." It was originally intended that the dorm would be able to accommodate 1,000 students by the year 2000; however, changes in plans have forced the indefinite postponement of this phase.

Dr. Behymer also stated that "The current designs call for a technologically advanced building with a Campus Center-type space located on the ground floor." The ground floor will have a lounge area, laundry facilities, meeting rooms, and a small dispensary that will be "hopefully" staffed by a nurse. The actual dorm rooms will be of a double-occupancy variety. According to CNC President Anthony R. Santoro, the college must also be able to cut costs if an independent contractor, a local restaurateur or fast-food chain built a dining area to serve the dorm students.

The committee, advised by the architectural firm of Guernsey/Tingle, has decided to construct the dorm in the wooded area behind Gosnold Hall extending toward Ratcliffe Gym, an area of about 6.7 acres. Guernsey/Tingle has sub-contracted the efforts for educational design and construction to VMDO. Plans are also being made to move buildings, including the Administration Building, in order to accommodate the dormitory and the addition of an expanded parking lot.

Christian groups and activities.

Summers drew about 1,200 people to a public rally to sing gospel songs and listen to fiery speeches denouncing the production.

Summers' group first tried to get the production canceled. When that didn't work, it lobbied for a "wholesome AIDS play. Finally, three days before the play's debut, the group appointed itself watchdog, promising to try to uphold community morals when future questions arise.

"I've never, never seen anything like this," said Bob Bradley, head of SMSU's theater department, of the controversy.

The day before opening night, actress Tess Harper, a SMSU grad who starred in the drama, joined faculty members to blast opponents of the play. She accused them of lying and using smear tactics like those the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy used against his opponents in the early 1950s.

"If you don't know about that era of American history, you'd better become acquainted with it fast, because it's coming back and it's coming to your school," she told about 300 people, mostly students, at a student-sponsored forum.

Tensions were so high that SMSU placed several dozen security officers around the theater opening night Nov. 15, and forced patrons to pass through metal detectors and have their bags searched.

The tight security, Bradley said, "deterred anyone from trying to disrupt the play."

As the play's sold-out, eight-performance run at SMSU ended, however, the destruction of Evans' home and cats were the only recorded "disruptions."

Awareness "has never been close to what it is now," said campus health center Director Burnie Snodgrass. "There can't be a single student who doesn't know about AIDS."

"The awareness we wanted to create on this campus we know was created," Bradley said.
