CNC now provides presidential housing

by Sue Killam

Christopher Newport College now, like all other four-year colleges in Virginia, provides housing for its president.

On December 31, CNC purchased a $219,000 house on Riverside Drive. The Board of Visitors voted unanimously to buy the ten-room brick house after a committee of board members with Patsy Carpenter as chairman reviewed 40 houses.

Mary Passage, rector of the Board of Visitors, said that the 24-year-old house was chosen because it is well-built, in good condition, and was a good price. It was also chosen for its spaciousness, inside and out, and for its location. The house is located at 812 Riverside Drive, approximately six blocks from CNC.

Money for the house is being taken from the Auxillary Enterprises Funds. According to James Eagle, vice president of Financial Affairs for CNC, these funds include "almost all activities not supported by taxpayers;" for example, intercollegiate sports and all activities in the Campus Center. Bookstore income is not included in the funds.

Eagle said that the second week in December there was $750,000 in the funds, $54,000 of which was spent for the downpayment on the house.

The former owner of the house, Dr. Henry D. McCoy, has pledged $50,000 to CNC, Eagle said.

CNC has wanted to buy a house for years. The first presentation of a request for a house was made in May of 1979.

A house was wanted because it would "improve the college's ability to attract" future presidents, serve as a central point for college life, and "assist in development."

Eagle said that most four-year colleges provide homes for their presidents, and future presidents will expect it.

The house is a good investment, according to Eagle. It sits on a 100-by-400-foot lot with tennis courts in the back yard.

Eagle also said that this is a good time to buy, as interest rates are low.

President Anderson is expected to move into the house late in the spring, after the kitchen has been renovated and painting and carpeting taken care of.

Anderson praised the Board of Visitors for finding a "bargain." He said the purchase is of "spectacular value for the college."

Although "the timing is bad" because "everybody is compressing," Anderson said the purchase is in the college's best interest.

Housing for the College's President has been a problem for as long as the college has existed, Anderson said.

Homecoming weekend begins with semi-formal dance

by Kim Fizer

Last-minute plans are now being finalized for this year's Christopher Newport College Homecoming weekend which will be held on February 18 and 19. John McCaughey, director of Student Life is working closely with the Student Association and Campus Program Board to organize the event.

All clubs and organizations wishing to have a Homecoming Queen candidate must submit their entry to Kathy Martin, SA President by February 1. At that time candidates are asked to set up an appointment with The Captain's Log to have their photographs taken. These photographs will be published in the same manner as last year in the February 10 issue of the newspaper. Dead line for the photography session is Friday, February 4.

Voting for Homecoming Queen will take place at special tables located in the lobby of the Campus Center. The times and dates for voting are Wednesday and Thursday, February 16 and 17 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Students will have to present their currently valid CNC I.D. before voting.

The festivities officially begin Friday evening with a semi-formal dance at the Chamberlin Roof Garden. The cash bar opens at 9:30 p.m., and dancing starts at 10 p.m. Fat Ammons will feature his new routine—music across the decades. The Homecoming Queen candidates will be introduced at one point during the evening by Fat Ammons.

On the night of the coronation, February 19, the Lady Captains play their arch-rival, Virginia Wesleyan at 5:30 p.m. This will be the Lady Captains last regular season game. The pub will open at 6:30 p.m.

The men's game, also pitting the Captains against Virginia Wesleyan will begin at 8 p.m. The Ferguson High School Pep Band will perform at this game as well as all remaining home games.

During halftime, the candidates will be introduced to the crowd and the third, second, and first place runner-ups will be announced. Kathy Martin and President John Anderson will then crown the 1983 Homecoming Queen.

Following the game, a jazz group will play in the cafeteria until 2 a.m., and there will be a cash bar.

Seminar for students needing financial aid

There will be a Financial Aid Application Seminar for 1983-84 applicants on Tuesday, February 1, 1983 at noon in the Administration Building, room 105, to be repeated at the same location on Wednesday, February 2, 1983 at 7:30 p.m. All students who think they may need financial assistance in 1983-84 are encouraged to attend one of the sessions. Parents are also invited.

1982-83 recipients will have been mailed application materials and are requested to bring these to the workshops. Application materials will be available to others at the sessions. Students are encouraged to familiarize themselves with these forms and instructions and to ask questions.

Students interested in applying for the Pell Grant (formerly the BEOG) for the current academic year should contact the Financial Aid Office in room 239 of the Administration Building.

No final decision on graduation

by Scott Helm

When the Board of Visitors last met in December, the question of whether or not to continue the policy of having graduations in May and January came up. This has been a long standing issue and will continue to arise as long as the college experiences budget cuts.

The Board of Visitors has not made a final decision on this issue but support for two graduations has been good. Vice president for Student Affairs, Dr. Charles Behymer, said "... We are going to continue to have two graduations."

He added that if the administration feels the need, for budgetary reasons, to change to one graduation, "... then the Board of Visitors reserves the right to go to one."

The Director of Development, Mr. Barry Wood, also supports two graduations. He said in essence the school will continue to have two graduations as long as they're economically possible. He believes "The College admits new students into the school in January in significant numbers and implicitly commits itself to graduating significant numbers in January."

Mr. Wood also said the subject may come up at the next Board of Visitors meeting in February and that an official decision would be made as soon as possible.

Powell opens spring colloquia

Dr. Jouett Powell's talk "Religions Foreign and Domestic: Can They Be Understood?" will initiate the Spring semester presentation of the Dean William A. Parks Memorial Colloquia.

Dr. Powell, associate professor of Philosophy at Christopher Newport College, will speak at noon on Friday, February 4, in the Campus Center Theatre. Students, faculty, staff, and the general public are invited to attend. There is no charge.

Although Dr. Powell's talk results from extended study, he stressed that he will be speaking to a general audience. He intends to relate religious events from different cultures in order to consider how people have tried to understand such events.

He believes that traditional means of comprehension, such as theology, no longer work in our world of various and interesting cultures. In fact, because of this pluralistic condition, he believes that the effort to develop a comparative philosophy of religion is essential. The talk will conclude with some of the questions that such a philosopher must face.

In the five years since he joined the CNC faculty, Dr. Powell has taught introductory philosophy courses, Great Trials in History (in the Honors Program), The Bible, Introduction to World Religions, Philosophy of Religion, History of Christianity, and Life of Jesus and Images of the Christ.

Campus Closeups

Economics honor society

The Sigma Chapter of Omicron Delta Epsilon, the International Honor Society in Economics, is accepting applications for membership. The requirements are junior standing or higher, 12 semester hours in economics with an A average, and a general average of B or higher.

For more information contact Alan Bagley, membership chairman, at 826-6663 or Dr. Vinod Maniyar at 599-7067.

Intramural basketball

Attention all students, faculty, alumni, and CNC staff! Entries are now being taken for Intramural basketball.

Anyone interested in participating may do so by joining others planning to enter a team representing a fraternity, club, independent group or organization. Individuals not belonging to a team but wanting to participate can turn in their names to the Intramural Office and will be placed on a team randomly.

Entries for entering as a team or as an individual will close January 25. The season starts January 30. To enter a team, just drop off a roster at the Intramural Office. There will be a coaches' and captains' meeting that will be announced at a later date. For more details, contact Mike Hott at the Intramural Office or call at 599-7054.

AKPsi welcome

Welcome back all Alpha Kappa Psi brothers and a special welcome to the new brothers: Mattie Baker, Deborah Cain, Sharon Carter, Annette Cartner, Cheryl Drak, James Dwyer, Rusty Fail, Linda Gowins, Carol Tray, Troy Hill, Robert McGaw, Darla Moen, Danielle Moore, Fred Ratliff, and Mike Strang.

Congratulations to the newly elected officers of Alpha Kappa Psi: Cathy Allen, president; Rick Tunstall, vice president of membership; Ken Hiscock, vice president of performance evaluation; Karen Richardson, treasurer; Linda Gowins, corresponding secretary; Lora Taylor, recording secretary; and Mike Strang, master of rituals.

Carrels

Four of the locking library carrels have been designated by the Library Advisory Committee as research carrels. Faculty and students engaged in research may apply to the committee to reserve a carrel.

Application forms and policies are available in the library at the circulation desk and the Readers' Services office. Application for spring semester must be submitted to the Readers' Services Librarian by Wednesday, February 2, for consideration by the committee.

Coffees

Alpha Kappa Psi professional Business Fraternity will be holding coffees on February 2 at noon and February 8 at 12:15 p.m.

All interested business and information science majors are welcome. Come and find out about Christopher Newport College's national business fraternity.

Spanish Club

Those interested in seeing a good Spanish film may wish to attend one of the showings of Bodas de Sangre (Blood Wedding), directed by Carlos Saura. Showtimes are 7:15 and 9:00 p.m. on Monday, January 31 and Tuesday, February 1. The film is in Spanish with English subtitles. Admission is $3.25. Contact Senora Doris Reppen (599-7107) or Chris Scheiderer (599-7109) for possible car pooling information.

Pre-Law Assoc.

Anyone interested in going on to law school or into law enforcement after graduation is urged to join the Pre-Law Association. The purpose of this organization is to increase student awareness of law school admission requirements as well as give some exposure to the necessity of law enforcement.

There are no club fees, and membership is open to all. If there are any questions, please call Warren at 827-0195, Professor C. Harvey Williams at 599-7264 or come by N117 at noon on February 2.

Intramural volleyball

Intramural volleyball entries opened on December 10. Sign up sheets were in the Campus Center on the Intramural board and outside the Intramural Office. It is open to any club, students, faculty, staff and alumni. If you would like to play but don't have a team, leave your name and number in the Intramural Office.

There will be a meeting on Friday, January 28 at 1 p.m. for those interested in playing.

We hope to have a volleyball clinic going on every Sunday morning while the games are in progress to give tips to anybody who is interested in learning more about the game and who is on an Intramural team.

Booksale

The Alpha Kappa Psi used book sale will be held in CC234 on January 24 and 25, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., 2 to 4 p.m. and 5 to 7 p.m. From January 26 through March 1 the hours will be 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.

Buy your books from us and save money. We are still accepting used books on consignment.

AKA events

The Nu Epsilon Chapter of Alpha Kappa Sorority, Inc. theme this semester is "Destination AKA." Along with giving our time and talent to aid in the betterment of the community, we strive for high scholastic and ethical standards and seek to promote the social stature of the race. Active members include Renee Gray, president; Edna Davis, vice president; Michelle Shaifer, treasurer; Michele Whitlow, secretary; and Arnita Plowe and Marion Stewart.

To begin this semester, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority has planned "Info Hours" on January 26 and 28 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Campus Center for all women interested in finding out more about AKA.

On Saturday, January 29, everyone is invited to join the sophisticated ladies of AKA for a back-to-school dance from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. in the cafeteria. Tickets are $2 in advance and $2.50 at the door. For all those individuals who were inconvenienced at our Christmas Dance at the Blue Hawaii, we apologize. Tickets for you at this dance will be only $1.

Our Spring Rush is Sunday, January 30 at 5 p.m. in the Campus Center. Women interested in making AKA their destination are cordially invited to attend. If you are interested, but cannot attend, please contact Renee Gray at 874-5934 or Michele Whitlow at 850-1306 before February 2.

New director

There will be a new face in the Intramural Department this semester: Nick Spiridigliozzi will be taking over the job of Director of Intramurals, replacing Ron Garner.

Spiridigliozzi is a full time student working towards his degree in L.S.P.E. He is a former Captain's baseball player, and is currently a member of the ROTC program.

If anyone has any questions concerning Intramural sports, he should come by or call the Intramural Office at 599-7054. The office is located in Ratcliffe Gym.

Referees needed

Applications are being accepted for Intramural Volleyball referees. The applications can be picked up at the Intramural Office on Monday through Friday from 1 to 6 p.m.

Qualifications are knowledge of the game of volleyball, a CNC student, and able to work Sundays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. beginning January 30 through March 13.

If you have any questions or would like more information contact Cherie Kautz at 599-7054.

Planning & Placement

The Office of Career Planning and Placement welcomes those returning to Christopher Newport for the Spring semester and those who will be attending for the first time. During this semester, students can look forward to a series of Career Day programs.

These presentations are provided without cost to our students to enable them to explore job opportunities and career possibilities in various major fields. Watch The Captain's Log for announcements, dates, times and subject areas.

For our seniors and any graduates of Christopher Newport who might wish to participate, mock interviews are now being set

by Mike Eubank

There is a small but rapidly growing organization on campus that you really should investigate. The increased membership has been largely due to word-of-mouth advertising. I'm talking about Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

A typical meeting might start off with music to help you forget about that last test. Next, an ice-breaker, such as having everyone name their favorite breakfast cereal, will help you to feel a little more comfortable.

By the way, Bill and Stephanie Black are our staff workers whom we share with the college of William and Mary, and both have been missionaries to Africa.

Another important part of Inter-Varsity is the small group Bible studies which are held in students' homes.

Inter-Varsity also participates in various conferences, week-end retreats, and summer camps at which you can meet I-V members from all over the state and region. Besides all of this, they also have a weekly prayer meeting and a volleyball team.

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship meets every Wednesday at noon in CC233. Come to

If you would like more information on the I-V meetings, home Bible studies, or any of the other I-V functions mentioned, please call our president, Mark Maltby at 596-1433. See you soon!

up by this office. These interviews will be held in the Captain John Smith Library Media Center on closed circuit television. Students will meet with a personnel director of a local business on a one-on-one basis, and together they will then view the playback and critique the interview.

If you think you might like to have one of these mock interviews, come by the Placement Office in CC208 between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. from Monday through Friday to set up your appointment. Appointments are on a first-come-first-served basis.

Sergei Edelmann performs at CNC

by Terry VanDover

Sergei Edelmann, a 21-year-old pianist from the Soviet Union, performed at Christopher Newport College Saturday, January 15, in the season's second presentation of the Nancy A. Ramseur Memorial Artists-in-Concert Series.

Edelmann's program of music from the Baroque and Romantic periods was standard enough to be easy on the audience, yet demanding enough for the pianist to be impressive to his audience. Included were works of Bach, Beethoven, Scarlatti and Chopin. Surprisingly, however, music by Russian composers was noticeably absent from the program.

Choosing a program of familiar music has potential dangers for a musician. Mistakes are more obvious, comparison is invited, and audiences are easily bored. Edelmann successfully faced this challenge, however, by coupling precise technical ability with original artistic expression: "distinctive musical personality," says Albert Goldberg of the Los Angeles Times. By achieving this balance, Edelmann could impress his audience even with well-known pieces.

The near-capacity audience in the 390-seat Campus Center Theatre was apparently undisturbed by the fact that the concert started 20 minutes late. The audience was still applauding enthusiastically after two encores.

The Ramseur Series, named in memory of CNC's first Director of Admissions after she was killed in a car accident, entered its ninth year in 1982-83. Also included in this series was the popular Deller Consort, which performed in October, and still to appear are the Musica Reservata in March and Jerome Hines in April.

Queen of Scots. Tenor Paul Spencer Adkins portrays Macduff, who delivers Macbeth's death blow, and John Seabury appears as Banquo, another victim of the Macbeth's ambition.

The tenth of Verdi's 26 operas, Macbeth is the first of the composer's three works based on Shakespeare. Verdi added a new dimension to opera by rejecting mere vocal virtuosity and turning to a more natural dramatic style. Macbeth, with its dramatic and psychological emphasis, provides the perfect vehicle for Verdi's combination of the vocal and the dramatic.

The VOA performs at the Center Theatre in Norfolk. Ticket prices range from $10.50 to $23. Reservations can be made by calling the VOA box office at 623-1223.

Virginia Opera presents Macbeth

by Terry VanDover

The winter highlight of the Virginia Opera Association's 1982-83 "Season of Revelry and Passion" is Verdi's grand opera Macbeth, sung in Italian. The opera opened Friday, January 21, and continues through January 30, with performances at 8 p.m. and Sunday matinees at 2:30.

Soprano Marianna Ciraulo sings the role of Lady Macbeth, the pivotal character whose blind ambition and greed propel the plot to its inevitable conclusion. The title role of Macbeth is sung by Carlos Serrano, familiar to VOA audiences for his appearance in Mary.

AAUW sponsors children's ballet

The Sleeping Beauty, an adaptation by the Newport News Ballet, will be performed on February 6 at 2:30 p.m. at the Warwick High School Auditorium.

This is a performance for children by children. The ballet is sponsored by the Newport News Branch of the American Association of University Women to benefit the AAUW Educational Foundation Program.

Tickets are $2 per person, and are available at the door. Tickets can be reserved by phoning 244-6031. For further information call Kathy Wilson at 877-0023.

Lady Captains on a hot streak

by David M. Bean

The Christmas break has been "beddi-beddi" good to the Lady Captains. The last time one read this column, the Lady Captains were 1-2 and faced the task of playing Division II Hampton Institute. Unless you've been out of the area for the entire break, you know that the Lady Captains have been on a hot streak. Between November 30 until last Saturday, January 22, the Lady Captains have posted nine wins against four losses. They are 5-2 at home with a 4-2 record on the road.

It all began on November 30, when Christopher Newport College played host for the first time this season to Longwood. The game was only close in the opening 10 minutes as CNC jumped out to an early lead and never surrendered it. The gap kept widening until the halftime horn sounded with CNC up 29-15.

The second half saw CNC continue to work towards putting away Longwood. Running the score from 35-19 to 45-26 with 10:52 left, this would prove to be the largest margin of the night. CNC finally evened its record at 2-2 by defeating Longwood, 58-41.

Three days later, the Lady Captains hosted Averette College. With two minutes gone, CNC was up 10-0, and the score was an indication of the play. By the time the five Lady Captains starters caught their breath, they were all on the bench, and the score was 23-5. At the half, Averette had managed to break into double figures, but it wasn't enough as CNC led 39-17.

At the start of the second half, CNC's starting five came back in and promptly ran up the score to 59-19. The final score of 76-28 says it all. Leading the Lady Captains in the scoring department was Benitta Coker, who had 24 points. Leanne Eyler and Cindy Nice both scored 11 points.

The next day, Mary Washington College came to town, and CNC soon found themselves in a game. The opening 20 minutes was very closely played, perhaps closer than it should have been. CNC, on several occasions, was not making the good clean passes they needed. A lot of it seemed to be poor concentration.

The second twenty minutes was a reversal of the first as CNC started playing their game: controlling the ball and the offensive boards and using a full-court press while on the defensive. Halfway through the second, Vicky Gunn tied it up at 46 all, but MWC continued to work up a lead. Down the stretch, however, MWC's Trish Long made up the difference as her 26 points led MWC to a 70-64 win.

The following game found the Lady Captains taking on Division II Hampton Institute in Hampton. It was a game in which CNC showed what they can do when they control the game. Hitting better than 50 percent of their shots (17 of 32) in the first half as well as controlling the boards, the Lady Captains had a commanding halftime lead, 37-19.

Darlene Harmon was 5-7 in the first half and had nine rebounds. As for the last 20 minutes, CNC kept their poise and continued to stave off the Lady Pirates attack as they upset HI by 13 points, 69-56. Both sides had 46 rebounds, but HI led in the foul department, 31-14. Leading scorers for CNC were Cindy Nice with 16, Benitta Coker - 15, Vicky Gunn - 14 and Harmon with 12. Dixon from HI led all scorers with 18 points.

From here, CNC travelled to Salisbury State, MD to take part in the She-gull Classic. In their first game, CNC overcame a very stubborn Delaware State team to win 50-45 in overtime. Cindy Nice got four of her six points in the overtime as CNC pulled out to win. Vicky Gunn had 14, and Benitta Coker had 11.

The win put the Lady Captains in the finals against Salisbury State, who had defeated Bloomsburg State 72-62. Although the game was close, CNC had lots of problems containing Josie Harper. Her 29 points paced SS who won the game, 69-61. Both Coker and Gunn had 13, but Cindy Nice led CNC with 14 points. Both Leanne Eyler and Vicky Gunn were named to the all-tournament team. CNC was now 5-4.

After a three week layoff, CNC traveled to Clinch Valley and showed no signs of losing that important competitive edge. Despite being down by one at the half 22-21, CNC soon found the opening in the Clinch Valley defense. Coker, who only had four points in the first 20 minutes, pumped in 12 more in the second half for a game high of 16. CNC also beat CV on the boards 65-35, and it showed as the Lady Captains packed in their sixth win of the season, 66-46.

CNC's next match found them playing at Emory and Henry. Playing in their closest game, the Lady Captains found themselves down by 10 at the half 35-25. CNC turned the game around in the second half, hitting eight straight points. Paced by Benitta Coker's 13 points and 13 rebounds, CNC narrowly defeated E&H 58-56.

A week later, CNC played host to St. Andrews and gave them a rather warm welcome. Vicky Gunn hit four straight shots, including a couple of long "downtown" balls to give the Lady Captains an early lead. St. Andrews was not about to roll over and play dead as they used the shooting of Eva Pittman and Elaine Kelly to lead the Captains 13-10.

CNC used their play to turn around the game, and both Pidgeon and Darlene Harmon hit jumpers within the two-minute mark as CNC led at the half, 24-20. The second half was opened in style similar to the first as Cindy Nice and Vicky Gunn pumped in buckets, and CNC was up by ten, 32-22. Both Leanne Eyler and Vicky Gunn hit buckets under the 60-second mark as CNC defeated St. Andrews 61-53.

The next day, Saturday, January 15, CNC hosted Methodist College, and the infectious disease called winning had taken a hold on the Lady Captains. Darlene opened the scoring with a three point play at 19:04, and it was all downhill for Methodist. Before the end of the first half, all CNC starters were resting on the bench. Both Shelly Pidgeon and Jenny Nuttycombe hustled well on the court - Shelly was tough up front and Jenny controlled the offense. There were times in the second half when the best word to describe CNC's shooting was BAD! There were also moments when the Lady Captains were simply not concentrating. CNC overcame their own mistakes to win by 28, 53-35.

On January 18, the Lady Captains traveled down to Rocky Mount, NC to take on North Carolina Wesleyan's Battling Bishops. CNC used points from Eyler, Ascari, and Nice to give them their biggest lead of the night 16-10.

Jenny Nuttycombe and Leanne Eyler each pumped in two to give CNC a bit more room, but NCWC's Sheri Webb hit three free throws at the end of the first half to put them ahead 26-25. CNC's biggest problem in the first half was missing the outside shot and committing the little mental errors which proved to be costly.

The second half found CNC taking the lead 27-26 on an Eyler jump shot. NCWC's Rose Edmonds sunk two free throws, and the Bishops used buckets from Denise Jordan and Sheri Webb to cut CNC off and win 60-55. It was the Captains' first conference loss.

The Lady Captains waited three days to take out their anger, and the victim happened to be Greensboro College. They were a bit sluggish at first, waiting until the 16:00 mark to break into double figures. Once going, Nuttycombe, Harmon, Gunn, and Eyler churned up the offense - stealing the ball here, layup there, and going after the offensive rebound.

Captains 4th in Dixie Conference

by Lauri VanNewkirk

This season has not been kind to the Captains. Coach Glenn Russell is quoted as saying early in the season, "We're gambling (mostly to make up for a lack of height), and everyone must do his job or we get killed."

Well, it certainly has still proved to be the case. Before the long Christmas holidays, the Captains had a disappointing record of 1-6, their only victory was defeating Shenandoah College by a wide margin of 78-49.

The next opponent for the Captains was Averett College on January 7 in which they had a sound defeat of 75-40. Bobby Griffin scored 28 points, and Jimmy Deans tacked on another 16 to help the Captains dominate the second half by outscoring the opponent 41-15.

St. Andrews was the next foe but defeated the Captains by a close score of 69-60. Coach Russell said, "We thought more of their reputation than actually playing."

The Captains kept a close tab on the defending Dixie Conference champions only to have the Knights pull away at some spots by 12 and 14 points. The closest that CNC came was 61-54 only to have 1:41 remaining.

The Captains went on to defeat Methodist College and then only to lose to North Carolina Wesleyan and Randolph-Macon. CNC, however, bounced right back to defeat Greensboro College by the score of 83-81.

It was center Pete Strayhorn, who hit a one-and-one with 16 seconds left, and forward Vince Eure, who accomplished the same thing with only 4 seconds left, to push the Captains over the top. Jimmy Deans hit 12 of 17 fieldgoal attempts to lead all scorers with 25 points. This fine player, who was here last semester but had to sit out the season, is a transfer from Roanoke College.

The men then lost to University of North Carolina-Greensboro. This puts the Captains record to 4-10 overall and 3-3 in the Dixie Conference.

"We will teach the children" is the motto of the Student Virginia Education Association, and Christopher Newport College's chapter of the SVEA simply glows with the loving concern and dedication that every good teacher should have. Late last semester the SVEA presented its first annual scholarship award to two of its most active members and plans to highlight the spring semester with a faculty-varsity basketball game to benefit the young patients of Eastern State Hospital in Williamsburg.

At a special SVEA meeting held last November in N121, President Julie Thomas awarded education majors Temple Moorehead and Anne Carroll with an evenly divided $100 scholarship in appreciation of their invaluable contributions to the SVEA.

The two young women were selected by an anonymous committee which was composed of neither education students nor education professors and thus knew nothing about the ten applicants for the scholarship. To apply for the scholarship, an education major had to be a junior or senior, an active member of the SVEA, and have a grade point average of at least 2.3.

Both young women are seniors with very high GPAs and according to Julie Thomas

"have attended all the meetings, been there for all the special speakers, baked for bake sales, and helped out with fund-raisers." Ms. Carroll, who is geared toward a career as a kindergarten through fourth grade teacher, and Ms. Moorehead, who would like to instruct fifth through eighth graders, will both serve as student teachers this semester.

A much anticipated future project of the SVEA is a benefit faculty-varsity basketball game to support educational and recreational activities for the 65 exceptional children, ages 2 through 21, at Eastern State Hospital, a project which the organization hopes will receive much coverage by the media.

"Campus Center revitalized"

by Scott Helm

While most of the school's population was away during the winter break, a few dedicated people worked to make the Campus Center look a little better. This group of people calls itself "the Cave Crew."

The Campus Center maintenance crew gets its name from their office and storage room on the first floor of the Campus Center, which is known to them as the cave.

During the break the Campus Center's appearance was revitalized with new paint and new wax. Nearly every bit of exposed floor space was stripped and waxed over again. New paint was also added in the back stairwell, the elevator, the women's restroom, and to the cave walls.

During the semester these dedicated workers are seen cleaning offices, the cafeteria, restrooms, and meeting rooms.

"The Cave Crew" is supervised by David Murray. The other members are Chris Davidson, Quintin Daniels, Ann Earls, Alex Fung, Scott Helm, Koske Imamura, Cindy Leffel, Aristomenis "Manny" Panagakos, Darry Patterson, Gordon Price, Dan Sullivan, Rich Ulrich, and Darius Young.

Spend Spring break diving into scuba course in the Bahama Islands

Warm sun, the rolling waves, and beautiful fish all await the divers going on the Spring Break scuba trip. Just think, a whole week of warmth and scuba diving.

Don't dive? LSPE 178/194-98 Basic/Openwater Scuba Course will correct that and you can do your openwater experience dives on the trip.

If you already dive, intermediate scuba is the ticket. Many of the dives can be done on the trip. Also, there are several specialties that can be learned: Night Diver, Deep Diver, and Underwater Photographer, to name a few.

The trip is on the Impossible Dream a 75-foot motor yacht. It will depart from Ft. Lauderdale on Sunday, March 20, at 8 p.m.

By morning you will be in Bimini, one of the northern-most islands of the Bahama Islands. The Impossible Dream will make a circular route down to Nassau, the capital of the Bahama Islands and back to Ft. Lauderdale, Friday, March 25, in the morning.

During the week you can make two, three, four, even five dives a day, if you can handle it. Diving will be among many fish: the regal Queen Angel, the feisty Dusty Damsel and many others in warm, 100-foot visibility.

The cost of the trip is $400. That includes three meals, accommodations aboard the boat, and the diving. What is not included is transportation to Ft. Lauderdale and back, drinks and souvenirs.

Join the scuba class, then join the sun, fun, and diving during spring break.

Series probes military's role

Probing discussions of the roles of the military during the present decade will open the second TV series of Crossroads: Decisions for the Eighties.

The TV series, co-sponsored by Christopher Newport College and the Center for Excellence, Inc. of Williamsburg, will be seen each Wednesday evening at 8:30 and each Thursday morning at 9:30 over cable channel 14 or 25 on the Peninsula and on cable channel 25 in the Norfolk metropolitan area.

Host for Crossroads is Dr. James M. Morris, Professor of History at CNC. Dr. Morris, who also produces and hosts the popular Faculty Forum radio series on WGH-FM, is heading the TV series for a second time.

The opening program on January 19 and 20 will feature Brigadier General Donald R. Morelli, special assistant to the Commander, TRADOC, and former deputy chief of Staff for Doctrine for the Army.

February 1 and 2 will feature Brigadier General Thomas L. Craig, deputy chief of Staff for Requisitions TAC, Langley, AFB, speaking with Dr. Morris on the subject "The Air Force in the Trial of American Power" and emphasizing the historical circumstances that have impelled the Air Force to national defense prominence in the last half century.

Subsequent weekly guests will be Dr. Heinz K. Meier, professor of History and dean of the College of Arts and Letters at Old Dominion University, discussing Europe's choices in the 1980s and Dr. Judy Ewell, associate professor of History at the College of William and Mary, viewing "The Forced Emergence of Latin America."

Through the facilities of CenTeX, the programs will be offered for national syndication at the conclusion of their presentation in Virginia.

Keeping up with the Joneses

The status symbol (as referred to in the January 8 issue of The Times Herald) in question is the house that the College recently purchased for President John Anderson. But for whom will that house be a status symbol? For the student body? We don't see how it could possibly lure any undecided students to Christopher Newport College. What do students care if the President has an "official" house?

Could the President be trying to impress state officials? He is quoted in The Times Herald as saying that he intends to do more entertaining because his former residence lacked the space, but is that really such a good idea? If those politicians who create the state budget see that CNC can afford to spend $219,000 on a house, a non-necessity, then they might think that maybe CNC is not in financial straits after all. Instead of giving us money, they may take away even more than they already have.

We are sure that it is probably a very nice house, one in which any college president would be honored to live. We don't begrudge the President a house, but we are itched off about the price—$219,000. We students have a right to be angry because by eating in the cafeteria, drinking in the Pub and by playing games in the Game Room we paid for that mansion. (What else could it be for such a lofty sum?) But the house does not measure up to its cost for it is a tiny house, relative to the price. Subconsciously, we thought that the dollars we spent in the Campus Center would somehow be recirculated to benefit us, but how does a palatial, presidential manor help us? If not to the students, probably the faculty would appreciate having a little of that money since Governor Charles Robb is contemplating a salary freeze for college faculty.

In one respect, we are, to use a cliché, "keeping up with the Joneses." CNC was the only four-year public college without a presidential house, which was a factor in the selection of a college president four years ago. But why buy one now? Interest rates are beginning to fall and will surely get lower than they are now. Surely President Anderson plans to stay at CNC for a long time.

Thinking about the whole idea, we can see the rationale behind the purchase. Generally, churches provide parsonages for their preachers; however, that is to spare the cleric from spending a hefty chunk of his meager salary on a house payment. Well, the College has done the same thing only the President has received a tidy pay raise at the beginning of the Fall semester to make his paycheck comparable to those of other presidents at four-year public colleges. Presumably by not forking over that monthly mortgage payment, President Anderson will have plenty of money for his envisioned entertaining.

One would think with such a price tag that the house was bought for the President of James Madison University or of the University of Virginia or of Virginia Tech. We guess that it is just that the College wants to play in the same league as the "big boys." Fine, but can we afford it? How many of our students come from such an affluent background? The College officials must keep in mind that CNC is not a rich college like UVA or Tech, just a small, modest institution concerned with giving its students the best possible education for as little money as possible.

Compass:

Penny wise?

by Vince Emmons

Hmmm... says here in the paper that the college has bought the President a little fixer-upper on Riverside Drive for $219,000. I just can't resist a cheap shot... whip out the old Texas Instruments... let's see... $219,000 divided by... equals... that works out to be full four-year scholarships for 41½ underprivileged students at CNC... or... one year's full-time scholarships for 214.7 deserving individuals who couldn't swing a loan this year.

Also says here that Jack plans to do a little entertaining. I'm proud to be the bearer of good news; he's invited all 4,000 of us to his place for a house warming party this weekend... we bring the keg. Just kidding guys, drinks are on him. (Don't be embarrassed if we catch him in his overalls. I understand that, among other things, the kitchen needs renovating.) Be sure and bring your rackets 'cuz he's got a couple of nice courts out back. Aw, what the hell, bring a few friends who couldn't afford to go to college and show'em what they're missing!

I don't know, maybe I am being just a little unfair. After all, we are the only four-year college in the state that hasn't purchased a president's house... how undignified! The shame... the incredible self-loathing I was forced to endure when friends from other colleges visited and I had no stately white elephant for them to gawk at! We'll show them! (Noses up on cue.)

You know, this might not be so bad after all... he'll need two or three unemployed college students working at minimum wage to keep up the yard during the summer. That's the trickle-down theory at work. (Golly, aren't those Republicans clever!)

All this crap has me casting furtive glances at my rather dog-eared Commie Manifesto.

In all seriousness, I don't think this could have come at a more inappropriate time (assuming that there may be an appropriate time for such an obscenely flagrant expense); the economy is the worst it's been since the depression, there have been at least four tuition hikes in as many years, and the college has taken recklessly severe steps in order to curb expenses (i.e., allowing thousands of dollars worth of computer and video equipment in Wingfield Hall to be damaged by the intermittent shutting down of air conditioning systems over the past year). Being penny-wise and pound-foolish is no way to economize, and incidentally, it isn't a smart PR move either.

With all due respect and lack thereof, I wish the Ivory Tower would get it's act together.

It's showtime, folks.

New house adds prestige to CNC

by Sue Killam

As long as the taxpayers are not paying for it, CNC's purchase of a president's house is fine, said Kathy Martin, president of the Student Association.

"I think it's something we need," said Martin. "It will give us a little bit of prestige, add a bit of class." Martin said this is necessary "if we want to be like other universities" such as William and Mary, the University of Virginia, and Virginia Tech.

She said that perhaps this step will lessen the number of people who mistakenly believe that CNC is a community college.

Lady captains

Benitta Coker made her first appearance in three games. She injured her knee in the game against Emory & Henry, and her ten points helped the effort. By halftime, CNC led 38-19. The rest of the game was all CNC as they coasted to a 76-39 win. Jenny Nuttycombe played a good bit of the game and has shown more confidence and poise now than in several of her previous games. Leading CNC scorers were Darlene Harmon, 14 points; and Jenny Nuttycombe, Benitta Coker, and Cindy Nice, all having 10 points each.

The final game of the stretch was last Satur-

Deadline changed

The Captain's Log will be returning this semester to a Thursday publication date. As a result, deadline for all copy has changed. Please have typed and double-spaced articles in our office by noon Friday. This also applies to campus closeups and classifieds.

There is probably no optimum publication date that will give ample coverage to and notification of events. We hope that this change will not cause any major inconveniences.

day, January 22, as CNC played host to University of North Carolina—Greensboro (UNC-G). The Lady Spartans took advantage of CNC's cold shooting and quickly put the Lady Captains in a very deep hole.

Vicky Gunn finally got her "downtown" shot going and pumped in four points. Leanne Eyer, Cindy Nice and Norine Davis all started getting points, but UNC-G still kept scoring. The first half ended with UNC-G up by 17, 45-28. Vicky Gunn pumped in 10 points and Cindy Nice had 6. From there, the lead was never less than 16 points as CNC could not get themselves out of that earlier hole, and UNC-G came away the victor 78-60. Vicky Gunn led all scorers with 18 points.

The Lady Captains are now 10-6 overall, 3-2 in the conference. They will be at Virginia Wesleyan College tomorrow. Tip-off is at 5:30 p.m. They will be home on Wednesday, February 2, hosting Norfolk State. Tip-off time will be 7:30 p.m.
