Exxon awards grant to CNC, writing program to undergo study

The Council of Writing Program Administrators has selected Christopher Newport College to receive a grant (funded through the Council by the Exxon Education Foundation). The grant covers the cost of the honoraria for consultants who will review and evaluate the writing program of the College and offer advice on its development.

The two members of the consultation-evaluation team are Dr. Mary Jane Schenck of the University of Tampa and Dr. John Trimbur of Boston University.

One member of the team will visit the campus for a day this spring to set in motion the production of a self-study for the writing program. After the completion of the self-study and its submission to the consultants, both Drs. Schenck and Trimbur will make an evaluation visit to our campus. Within six months after receiving this report, the College is required to prepare a written statement assessing the evaluation visit and its impact on the writing program.

This grant comes at a particularly opportune time for the College. The new curriculum will go into effect next year. A committee has been appointed to make recommendations regarding the development and use of a Writing Proficiency requirement for all CNC students. Reports on undergraduate education have, like our own College-wide Self-Study, ushered in a period of self-reflection for higher education.

Details of schedule shall be worked out in the next two-three weeks and shall be reported in the Chronicle.

"Explosive" drama opens Feb. 7

On February 7 CNC's theatre department presents its second show of the season, That's It Folks by Mark O'Donnell. This "explosive" farce, set on the last day on Earth, features the reactions of an eccentric household to the news that their world is about to end; first, their disbelief, then their relief that they will no longer have to refill the ice cube trays. The occupants of the household include: Eden, who is trying to communicate with other planets so that she can exchange recipes; Otis, her satanist boyfriend who aspires to be personal secretary to the antichrist; Penny, a suicidal nymphomaniac; Zed, her narcissistic pick-up; and Billy, a ghost who doesn't quite know that he's dead. Who will be the lone survivor of the apocalypse?

This offbeat comedy is produced and cast in its entirety by CNC students. Tim Morgan, a senior theatre major, is director; set design is by Nick Eilenfield; lighting design is by Leslie Miller; Toby Young is stage manager.

That's It Folks will be the premiere performance of Mitch DuRette as Otis and Gary Cutter as Zed. Margie Thomas plays Eden, Susan Stein plays Penny, and Sam Parker plays Billy. The cast also includes Jimmy Small, Juanilda Dialosa, Ed Chambers, and David Sherley.

That's It Folks opens Friday, Feb. 7 at 8 p.m. Additional shows are Feb. 8, 14 and 15. Tickets are $3.00 for the general public and $2.50 for CNC students, faculty, staff, and senior citizens. For more information call 599-7088.

Bridges scholarship created

By Richard G. Sarnier
contributing writer

The Gloria Bridges Scholarship has been created in honor of a former employee. The scholarship is to be awarded to a needy senior with an average of 2.75 and will be in the amount of $500 yearly.

Mrs. Bridges, who died last November, was a native of Newport News and mother of four children. She started working at CNC in the Business Office eight years ago, and transferred to the book store to be closer to the students. The scholarship was founded by her husband and friends to honor her memory.

Do You Know How To Contact Your Campus Police Department?

By Officer Evonne Dowdell

Where are the police when you need them? Many of us have asked or heard this question. Knowing how to contact the Campus Police Department can solve this problem. Have you ever needed any of the following police services but didn't know how to contact the Campus Police Department?

1. Wanted to report a crime, suspicious activity, traffic accident, or personal injury.
2. Needed assistance after college working hours or during the weekend when the college is closed.

3. Needed a jumpstart or your vehicle unlocked while on campus.
4. Wanted to report a fire or an unsafe condition in the buildings or on the grounds.

One of our goals for 1986 is to improve communication between the Department and the college community. Visit the Campus Police Office and become familiar with Campus Police Officers. We are on campus 24 hours a day, 7 days a week to assist you.

Please cut out and save this schedule:

Students don't agree with name change

By Diana Dely
Opinions Editor

Walking across campus on the first day of the spring semester, a student stopped me and asked, "Where is Newport Hall?"

"This is it," I answered, pointing to the building next to us. "But this is McMurren Hall," he said.

I replied, "Yes, but it's Newport Hall." To me it will always be Newport Hall.

Lewis A. McMurren was a legislator who helped lobby to establish CNC as a four-year state college, and the name of Newport Hall was recently changed to honor him. He was a man who deserved respect; maybe he deserved to be honored. But does Christopher Newport, the eminent historical figure deserve to be pushed aside, to be less honored?

One student commented that other colleges do not have buildings with the same name as the institution. I have one comment to that: so what?

Christopher Newport College was named such in recognition of the man who is part of our local heritage. And Newport Hall was, at least to me, part of the college's heritage. I interviewed several students, asking if they knew who Lewis A. McMurren was. Without exception, the answer was no. Most of the students say they know now and agree that maybe he deserved recognition for his contribution to the college. But every student opposed the name change.

Why deny Christopher Newport the recognition given him by changing the name of the building? There are three unnamed buildings on campus; recognition could have been given to Mr. McMurren through one of these buildings without causing the present rancor caused by changing the name of Newport Hall.

William Scott Simkins, a senior at CNC, said, "McMurren needed to be honored, but not by destroying tradition; I don't think he would have wanted that."

Adrienne Horrell, another CNC senior, said, "Why should they change the name of that building (Newport Hall)? Why didn't they name the New Science Building after him? They should honor Christopher Newport too."

I also spoke with a member of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association. He said, "I was not aware that a name change was being made. I would also generally disapprove of such a change unless it is the consensus opinion of students and alumni that such a change is appropriate. Students who come here in five or ten years hence probably will not know who Mr. McMurren is, nor will they care, nor will they attempt to find out. That is the case with the present students and alumni."

I am not trying to show Mr. McMurren any disrespect. It is distressing that his name should be the subject of such dissatisfaction. I restate that Mr. McMurren may deserve the honor of having one of our buildings dedicated in his name, but not at the cost of disgracing Mr. Newport's.

I can only echo the opinions of Simkins and the alumni member that the students, alumni and staff should have been consulted. As Simkins said, "It's our school too."

It is too late to rectify the name change. To do so would show disrespect to both Mr. McMurren and Mr. Newport. To name another building after Newport now would only be a mere consolation. It is a shame that two honorable men should have such a controversy cast over their names.

Student support needed to prevent CNC's "death spiral"

By Diana Dely
Opinions Editor

By now everyone has heard about the threatening "death spiral" of CNC through former Governor Charles S. Robb's proposed budget cuts. If these cuts go into effect, CNC staff could be cut by 32.5 positions in the next two years. This means that some classes will have to be dropped, which means a loss of 322 students, which in turn means a risk of losing $1.2 million revenue from tuition. In years to follow, more positions will have to be cut, more students will be lost, as will more revenue. This will continue until, well...the future is not bright. This is the death spiral.

It should be recognized that CNC is a commuter college with almost twice the average percenttage of part-time enrollment in state colleges, and almost twice the average percentage of part-time faculty. It should be recognized in the budget guidelines that CNC serves a different mission than other state colleges and universities.

CNC Rector Stephen Halliday offers an alternative to these cuts: he asks that the Baliles administration support "level funding" for the next two years in which appropriations would not grow, but CNC would not suffer the cuts. During this time, the college can concentrate on enrollment and the state's college-financing guidelines can be re-examined by the State Council of Higher Education and the General Assembly.

What can we do about the situation? Well, already petitions have been circulated around campus protesting the cuts. We can sign the petitions. And we can personally write to our state legislators.

It has taken a long time for CNC to rise to the status it now has. We have all been a part of its growth. Are we just going to sit back and watch all that we have worked for slowly disappear? The more letters state legislators receive, the more attention they are likely to give to the problem.

Much has been said about apathy at CNC, but if we do not support our college now, soon there may be nothing left to be concerned about.

Letters.....

Dear students and Editor,
Welcome back to Christopher Newport College. I hope you have noticed how nice the grounds are kept and the work we do to keep them that way. We take pride in our work and feel good knowing we are doing a good job.

However, since school has started again this semester, I have noticed on our morning trash rounds that several students seem to think our parking lots are trash receptacles. To those who believe this terrible lie: you may be excused no longer!

There are numerous trash receptacles located close to the parking lots and on campus. They have been put there for your convenience; please use them. It will make the campus look better, make our job easier, and possibly prevent flat tires from broken bottles. Remember, this campus will only look as good as the people who go here want it to look.

Sexton to Circle Jerks, music alternatives to please all

Since this is the beginning of a new year, many music listeners will once again be frantically looking for the next "big thing." For 1986 there are quite a few contenders already on their way. Some are good, some real good, and some should have tried last year, so we wouldn't have to listen to them this year.

A possible big winner in the last category is the latest in the unending string of pinup/lonely/leather-clad/young bad boys, Charlie Sexton. His first album, Pictures for Pleasure, delivers what it promises, and not much else. The glorious black and white photography of Charlie S., age 17, promises him several years in the poster business. This can only add to an obviously well planned business career in the music world. He's got the face, the look, the videos, and of course, the almost ridiculously long, continuous eighties-style big drums over disco rhythm. Indecipherable "Matt Dillon" mumbles and regular formula production make Pictures for Pleasure the most boring album released so far this year, which means he will probably hit the Top 10 soon. The inside jacket lists Charlie S. as playing nearly every instrument, including "drum tracking." Perhaps this is why each song sounds like a watered-down version of the single "Beat's So Lonely." Corey Hart fans and Rick Springfield fans will love him.

Charlie Sexton and the other pretty-pretty bad boys may not be the next "big thing," but some real bad boys from Boston and Minneapolis certainly have a change. The Del Fuegos second LP, Boston, Mass., is the energy-loaded follow-up to their 1984 debut, Longest Day. From the electric pluckings of "Don't Run Wild," to "Hand in Hand" and "It's Alright," and the hungry pleas of "I Still Want You" and "Coupe de Ville," the double guitar lineup of brothers Dan and Warren Zanes, delivers without taking time to make the promises. This album will please anyone who likes good Tom Pettyish rock and roll. The Del Fuegos will open ears in 1986.

Another ear-opener this year will be the Replacements, led by young Paul Westerberg. Many of their fans worried at the news of their signing to Sire Records, but all fears were washed away by the sweat, tears, and blood pouring off the 'Mats new album, Tim. The album is a landmark on the rock and roll horizon. It has everything that the 'Mats do the best, which is party, fight, drink, cry, laugh, and then vomit all over themselves. Their music is raw and played straight from the guts. It is dirty and unclear when dealing with the power of rock and roll, and shining above the music are the incredibly wise observations of Paul Westerberg. His retrospective good-old-boy alcoholic in "Here Comes a Regular" opens up the listener to what might have been missed in Springsteen's often misinterpreted "Glory Days." Those with a taste for hard, fast rock will gladly receive "Dose of Thunder,"

"Bastards of Young," and "Lay it Down Clown." Some good tongue-in-cheek numbers include "I'll Buy" and "Waitress in the Sky." This album will never disappoint the listener.

Some other good albums recently release are the Dead Kennedys' Frankenchrist, and the Circle Jerks' Wonderful. Look out for the Circle Jerks' single "Makin' the Bombs" as well.

Do you like to dance? The new 12" singles by the Cult, Siouxsie and The Banshees, and New Order are dominating the dance clubs in New York and all are worth the $4 they cost.

The next "big thing" here at home is the release of Waxing Poetics' first single, "Hermitage" is a great song, and the single comes with a lyric sheet so listeners can sing along. It's available at Tracks for about two bucks. Pick it up, give it a listen, and track out to Norfolk and see them live.

Hot handed Jerome Nicholson had a hot hand Saturday night and continued to hit for a big win over Averett Monday.

Captains win 76-75 in final minute of game

By Chris Goddin
staff writer

The CNC Captains hosted Virginia Wesleyan Saturday night in a game that proved to be very close and exciting. The Captains were victorious by a score of 76-75.

With 20 seconds left in the game, Jerome Nicholson was found wide open and sank a perfect swisher from above the key. These weren't the winning points but they gave CNC a spread that they could work with. Nicholson had 15 points and ten assists in Saturday night's game.

Buck Moore, CNC's all time leading scorer.

Buck Moore had 32 points in the game. This was Moore's third 30-point effort this season and the fifth of his career. Both are CNC records.

The last time the Captains and the Blue Marlins met CNC was victorious by a score of 88-61. This made Saturday night's game quite a bit different since the competition was so close.

The Captains played at Averett College Monday night and their next game will be against St. Andrews on Friday night at St. Andrews.

Lady Captains lose tough one to VA Wesleyan

By Chris Goddin

The CNC Lady Captains' overall record goes to 13-3 as they suffered a loss Saturday night to Virginia Wesleyan, 61-57. CNC gave the 20th ranked Lady Marlins all they could handle but they just could not pull it off.

The Lady Captains had a three minute scoring drought late in the game which caused them to lose the game.

The Lady Captains played at Averett College on Monday night. They will play again Friday night at St. Andrews.

Sailing club faces tough schedule against top schools

By Mel DeLaGarza

Imagine yourself riding above the waves, the Atlantic ocean spraying in your face, while you eye your competition who might be from Harvard, M.I.T., or even Villanova. And just when you think you're in the lead, you find yourself and the trusty crew sandwiched between Old Dominion and Georgetown.

If you think you'd like to be in that kind of company then maybe the sailing club is for you. The sailing team is a team which operates from within the sailing club. Currently the club has between 20-25 members and invites all interested persons to join.

The team races Lasers, FJ's or Flying Juniors and 420's. The coach of the team is Mark Gibbons and acting Commodore or president is Robert Lehman. Team member Betsy Freeman will be the sailing club's homecoming candidate.

For a very small fee the club will give sailing lessons to interested persons every Friday at the Warwick Yacht Club. These lessons will be given by Coach Gibbons and members of the club.

Being mostly self supportive, the club will raffle away a boat to raise money for repairs. Tickets can be bought for $2.00 from any club member. Hooded sweatshirts and golf shirts with logos can also be obtained.

Several pilgrimages to Annapolis, Maryland as well as other east coast trips are planned. M.A.I.S.A. (Mid-Atlantic Intercollegiate Sailing Association) is responsible for organization of these gatherings and is also responsible for a school's invitation which is done on a point basis. Interested students should contact the sailing club.
