Handicap Awareness Week

CNC has established the week of April 2-6 as Handicap Awareness Week. Several activities are scheduled during this week to heighten the college community's awareness and sensitivity to the needs of people with learning disabilities and physical handicaps. The schedule of events are included in this week's CHRONICLE. Please review the schedule of activities and participate in as many activities as possible.

Topics will be:

"Learning Disabilities and Reasonable Accommodations for Handicapped Students" by Dr. Ruth Mullikin, W&M

"The Disabled Student in Your Classroom" by Mr. Robert Hixon, CNC's Director of Personnel

"Personal Experiences and Observations in Higher Education" by Mr. Jerry Flowers, Ph.D. Candidate, ODU (Wed. only)

Instructional
Evaluation

Consistent with the recommendation of the Faculty Senate, Instruction Evaluation Surveys (IES) will be administered this semester during the 11th and 12th week of classes. Accordingly, instructors are alerted to look for the IES materials (memorandum and labelled envelopes with proctors' instructions) to be distributed on the afternoon of Friday, March 30. Evaluations should be conducted during the weeks beginning on April 2 and April 9. Exceptions to this schedule should be discussed with the appropriate dean well in advance.

When you receive the memorandum and envelopes please verify that you have all the envelopes you expected to receive. With relatively few exceptions, every class that is being taught is scheduled to be evaluated. Any questions that you have relative to your classes to be evaluated should be brought to the attention of the Assistant to the VPAA. In his absence, all questions of logistics, receipt of materials, etc., can be referred to Mr. Tom Madigan, Computer Center.

HOMES NEEDED FOR FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENTS

Before I make my pitch, let me give you an update on our CNC exchange with IUT (Institut Universitaire de Technologie) in Montpellier. To date, six French students have attended CNC, and I feel that their presence on our campus has been a huge success. They have returned home extremely pleased with their course work, impressed with the competence and understanding of our faculty, and raving about the warmth of our hospitality. Truly, our CNC community has gone out of its way to make the French students feel welcome. On the other side of the ledger, we have been able to get five CNC students to France, four for a period of one semester, and one student for an academic year. Of these five students, three are language majors, and two are majoring in business. I am convinced that these are students who might never have been able to study abroad due to the prohibitive costs of most programs. Next fall semester, we will be sending three more CNC students to Montpellier, two French majors and one ICC student.

And next fall, we have two female students from the IUT who wish to study with us. So, since it has been several months since I have begged, whined, and pleaded, I am raising the issue of housing for these girls. As in the past, the arrangement is that a CNC family agree to host a student for one semester, providing room and board in exchange for such services as French lessons, help with household or yard work, babysitting, housesitting, etc. At the end of the one semester, the French student is in a position to locate his/her own housing, unless the family wishes to extend the arrangement (some have and some haven't). The reason I make this appeal is because of the cost differential for the French and CNC students. Our students pay only about $2,000 for room, board, and tuition, whereas the French students must pay over $3,000 just for tuition. It's your generosity that makes our program a true exchange and that enables more of our own students to study in France.

So, there's the pitch. Anyone who is interested in exploring the possibility of hosting a French girl for next fall, should contact me at 4-7083 or at 253-5681. I will be happy to answer your questions and provide further information.

RE: CNC'S RELATIONSHIP TO THE NCAA

Christopher Newport College is a Division III member of the NCAA. I am the appointed Faculty Athletics Representative (FAR) who serves as the liaison between the College and the Association. As the FAR I chair the College Athletics Advisory committee and usually attend the NCAA national conventions in January of each year as the College's voting delegate. Below I have appended the NCAA Division III's philosophy of athletic participation for student-athletes. Along with that statement is included a statement about financial aid limitations consistent with the Division's philosophy. If you have any questions, please call me at 7225.

20-3 DIVISION III PHILOSOPHY STATEMENT

Colleges and universities in Division III place highest priority on the overall quality of the educational experience. In so doing, they seek to strengthen the integration of objectives and programs in athletics with academic and developmental objectives and to assure the integration of athletes with other students.

The following statement is not binding on member institutions but shall serve as a guide for the preparation of legislation by the division and for planning and implementation of programs by institutions and conferences. B 10-1-(b)

Division III member institutions place special importance on the impact of athletics on the participants rather than on spectators and place greater emphasis on the internal constituency (students, alumni and special friends) than on the general public and its entertainment needs. To achieve this end, the athletics program in Division III: P DIV III

- (a) Encourages participation by maximizing the number and variety of athletics opportunities in varsity, club and intramural sports; P DIV III-1
- (b) Ensures that participants receive the same treatment as other students. They have no unique privileges in admissions, academic advising, course selection, grading, living accommodations or financial aid. Similarly, athletes are not denied rights and opportunities that would be available to them as nonathletes; P DIV III-2
- (c) Is controlled, financed and staffed through the same general procedures as other departments of the college; P DIV III-3
- (d) Gives equal emphasis to men's and women's sports, and the desired quality of competition is similar in all sports. Participant interests will be one factor considered in the determination of the level of support provided by the college to each sport; P DIV III-

- (e) Supports students in their efforts to reach high levels of performance by providing them with adequate facilities, competent coaching and appropriate competitive opportunities with students from similar institutions, and P DIV III-5

- (f) Gives primary emphasis to in-season competition, but exceptional teams and individuals may be encouraged through postseason championships. P DIV III-6

The purpose of the NCAA is to assist its members to develop this approach as the basis for consistent, equitable competition and to do so in ways that minimize infringement on the freedom of individual institutions to determine their own special objectives and programs. P DIV III

20.11.2 Financial Aid Limitations. A member of Division III shall not award financial aid to any student-athlete except upon a showing of financial need by the recipient (see 15.4). B 11-3-(a)

1990 CENSUS - HOW AN ACCURATE COUNT INVOLVES

THE NATION, VIRGINIA, AND YOU!!

It's easy. It's important. It's confidential, and it's coming to your home. Sunday, April 1, 1990, is national "Census Day". The 1990 Census will be the 21st in the nation's history and the largest and most complex ever undertaken. The Census Bureau expects to count 250 million people and 106 million housing units.

The success of the Census depends on you, in fact, on everyone. In 1990, questionnaires will be delivered to more than 106 million housing units and living quarters across the country and an estimated 2.3 million housing units in Virginia. How well you cooperate, which means completing and returning your questionnaire, will determine how accurate the census will be.

Nationally, most households will receive a questionnaire by mail. Others, depending on location, will have forms delivered by census takers. In Virginia, households in all or part of the State's 43 most urban localities will receive the questionnaire by mail. Households in the remaining 93 mostly rural localities across Virginia will have forms delivered by census takers. Roughly five out of six households will receive a short form. About one out of six households will be asked to fill out a longer form. The longer form asks additional questions on ancestry, employment, education, income, type of housing, utilities, and so on.

The questionnaires are basic. The short form asks questions about race, Hispanic origin, age, marital status, whether you rent or own your residence, the number of rooms, etc.

Once the Census Bureau receives your questionnaire, a key part of the work begins. If the questionnaire is incomplete, a census employee must contact you to obtain information. Then the answers on your questionnaire are combined with those from other questionnaires to produce statistical totals for various geographical areas. It is these combined numbers, not your personal answers, that are published and put to thousands of uses.

For example, the population count for your area is used to determine how many seats Virginia will have in the U.S. House of Representatives. States use the numbers to allocate seats in their legislatures. In Virginia, both state and local legislative district boundaries will be redrawn to reflect the 1990 Census count. Billions of dollars in federal funds are returned to states, local governments, and American Indian reservations and Alaska native villages. State funds are returned to cities and counties. Amounts are based in part on population and housing data. In Virginia, it is estimated that nearly $700 million in federal funds are distributed to the state and local governments each year based on census numbers. In addition, planners use census facts to determine where to locate such facilities as hospitals, schools, and day care and senior citizen centers. Various social programs receive funds based on census information. Businesses use the data for decisions involving expansion and jobs.

So, why not stand up and count yourself. Please take the time to answer the questions and return the form. Your support will help ensure the accurate census count vital to the future of both the nation and Virginia. Remember the slogan adopted for the state's census promotional effort: "We're counting on You Virginia" Census '90."
