CNC Choir Schedules Christmas Concert

The Christopher Newport Chorus, under the direction of, Dr. James Hines, will present their first concert on Friday, December 12, at 8 p.m., in the theater.

There are several unique points of interest involved with the concert, including the important fact that the choir will be singing to please everyone, as the music is not focused on any particular type, but rather an exciting variation of several types. The choir will sing in four languages: German, Italian, Latin and English, including musical pieces from different eras. Cindy Hardee says "I enjoy singing most of the music because it is different and very melodic."

The musical group, Thursday Consort, from Williamsburg, will accompany the chorus with recorders on the Italian selection Festa. The group will also perform seven other musical selections from the late Middle Ages and Renaissance with the recorders and crumhorns.

Several guest soloists will be performing with the chorus, especially accompanying them with the second part of the concert consisting of the famous Creation by Haydn.

Jim Morrison, a member of the Norfolk Camarata, will sing the part of the bass angel. Mr. Morrison is a retired lawyer and has previously worked for the State Department. He has sung in operas and recitals in the Norfolk area. He also plays the cello.

Paula Huddy will sing the part of the soprano angel. She is an Old Dominion alumna and did masters work in voice at East Carolina University. She is director of a Norfolk church choir and also a member of the Norfolk Camarata.

Tom Forrest, the voice instructor at Christopher Newport, will sing the tenor angel in the Creation. He holds a master degree in music from Appalachian State University in Boone, North Carolina.

Ann Czarnecki, student soloist, will sing

Dr. Millar to Appear on WVEC-TV's "Midday" Show

Dr. Albert E. Millar, Jr., Associate Professor of English at Christopher Newport College, will appear on the "Midday" Show, WVEC (Channel 13) between 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., Tuesday (December 9).

Dr. Millar will discuss the book, The Great Railway Bazaar, by Paul Theroux.

three songs by Steven Foster, including "Willie Has Gone To The War."

Kathleen Vdala, piano instructor at Christopher Newport, will accompany the choir on the harpsicord as well as the piano. Her soprano voice will lend to the acapello selections.

Regarding choral concerts from past years, students and faculty have expressed complaints concerning the short concert programs and the non-varied music. "This year," said Dr. Hines, "when people come to our concert, they will have heard some music before they leave."

Several efforts are being planned to enlarge the choir and involve the members in more activities. In accordance with the plans, next semester Thomas Nelson students will be permitted to sing in the CNC choir and will receive credit.

Dr. Hines (rt) directs the CNC Choir in a practice session.

A Christmas Message from the President

I am increasingly impressed with the sense of community which continues to grow among all those who make up the family of Christopher Newport College. All of us at Christopher Newport have much for which to be thankful. May your season be one of joy and meaning.

Editorial Apathy Attends CNC Sports Programs

Christopher Newport College is unique in so many ways that it would take pages to describe them. However, to clarify later comments, a few of these features should be listed first.

This uniqueness begins with the fact that as a small college, we are one of the fastest growing in the state. Another feature is that we are a community college. Even though out-of-state students are accepted, the entire student body resides in the areas surrounding the college. As a community college, CNC has structured its curriculum to satisfy the needs of the community. While a large percentage of its graduates are employed in the community, and state, still others find employment in other areas of the nation.

The college is unique in still another, and often dissatisfying way. Being a small state-supported institution, we do not boast a football team, as do most larger colleges. However, we do have a basketball team. A strong basketball team; as a matter of fact, one of, if not the, fastest growing team in the Dixie Conference. The unique thing about this is the lack of support the team receives from the student body and faculty.

As pointed out earlier, most of our students do live in the surrounding community. However, there must be some sports-minded people among the more than 3,100 students and faculty on this campus who will take a Friday night off to watch "Our" team play.

The students body should be especially interested for two reasons. First, admission is free with a student identification card. Second, the basketball team derives its financial support from funds supplied by the student body. In other words, the team is student supported.

It is disheartening to sit in the gym, watching the Captains do what they do so well, with so few fans. For their game last Friday evening less than 15% of the college community was in attendance. Now, I grant you that the semester is about over, and that a great many of us are studying for finals; however, I do not feel that this justifies the absence of so many people.

A word often used in the past to describe such attendance and disinterest was "apathy." I have been told by members of the student body, the SGA, and faculty that we do not have that problem here, I don't believe it. Whenever so few people show up at so many activities and functions (plays, free movies, basketball games, etc); to me, it is a clear indication of apathy.

Maybe I'm a bit hasty in reaching this conclusion; maybe, just maybe, there wasn't enough advanced advertisement of last Friday's game! But if this is the case, a note to "The Captain's Log" should take care of the problem.

In any case, I say it was not a lack of anything other than INTEREST, and if you think I'm wrong, come to the Captain's next game on December 13 and see for yourself. I know, it's too much to ask, but come and see for yourself just once--you might want to come back for some more of this fine sports action.

...In Your Ear

By Chuck Edwards

Everything is growing at Christopher Newport except the square footage of floor space. That, it seems, is shrinking.

The Campus Center, at its creation, was conceived as a building for the students. In fact, the bond issue which enabled its construction, is being paid off by the students. Rapidly, however, this structure is becoming something other than a center for student activity.

The latest bit of floor space reclamation by the administration occurred this past week as the Placement Office invaded the second floor of the Campus Center. Against the advise of the Placement Office Director, the decision was made by the administration to make this move. It is interesting to note that not until the walls were being knocked out did the Campus Center Director know that his building was being invaded. Secrecy, it would seem, is a key theme in the administration of institutions of higher learning.

While the Campus Center at present is not being fully utilized by the students, as the school's population grows so too will the buildings utilization. If, however, the administration continues to reclaim its floor space, when that time arrives there will be no room.

Since the students of this campus apparently have no power to change such decisions, little can be done by them. One can only hope that as the economy improves the state government will pump more money into campus expansion.

Peninsula Agencies Offer Help in Job Hunt

By Steven Zapinski

Many college students support themselves with part-or-full-time jobs. But what if you aren't fortunate enough to have one, what then? You might want to check with the college's Job Placement Office for some suggestions. But there are other places you can go.

One of the best is the Virginia State Employment Commission (6012 Jefferson Ave., Newport News, 244-7346; 222 East Queen St., Hampton, 723-6537; 8:15 a.m.-5 p.m., Mon.-Fri.). Affiliated with the U.S. Employment Service, its function is to provide placement assistance and employment counseling for anyone seeking work, to help employers fill positions, and to offer public information on labor trends and employment conditions. It also has information on training programs and processes unemployment insurance claims. Any person seeking employment over the age of 16 is eligible for aid free of charge.

The Manpower Planning Staff (2017 Cunningham Dr., Suite 300, Hampton, 838-5206; 8 a.m.-5 p.m., Mon.-Fri.) can help you if you are disadvantaged. This is a program of the Department of Labor of the U.S. Government and operates under the federal legislation of CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973). Its function is to plan and coordinate employment and training programs for economically disadvantaged persons.

It provides on the job training, work experience and classroom training. Any Peninsula citizen aged 16 and over who meets the financial guidelines of the Office of Economic Opportunity is eligible for help at any of the following Intake Centers: Newport News Employment Commission Office, 6012 Jefferson Avenue; Newport News Neighborhood Facility, 25th and Wickham Avenue; Hampton Employment Commission Office, 222 East Queen Street; and Williamsburg Employment Commission Office, 526 Armistead Avenue. No fees are charged.

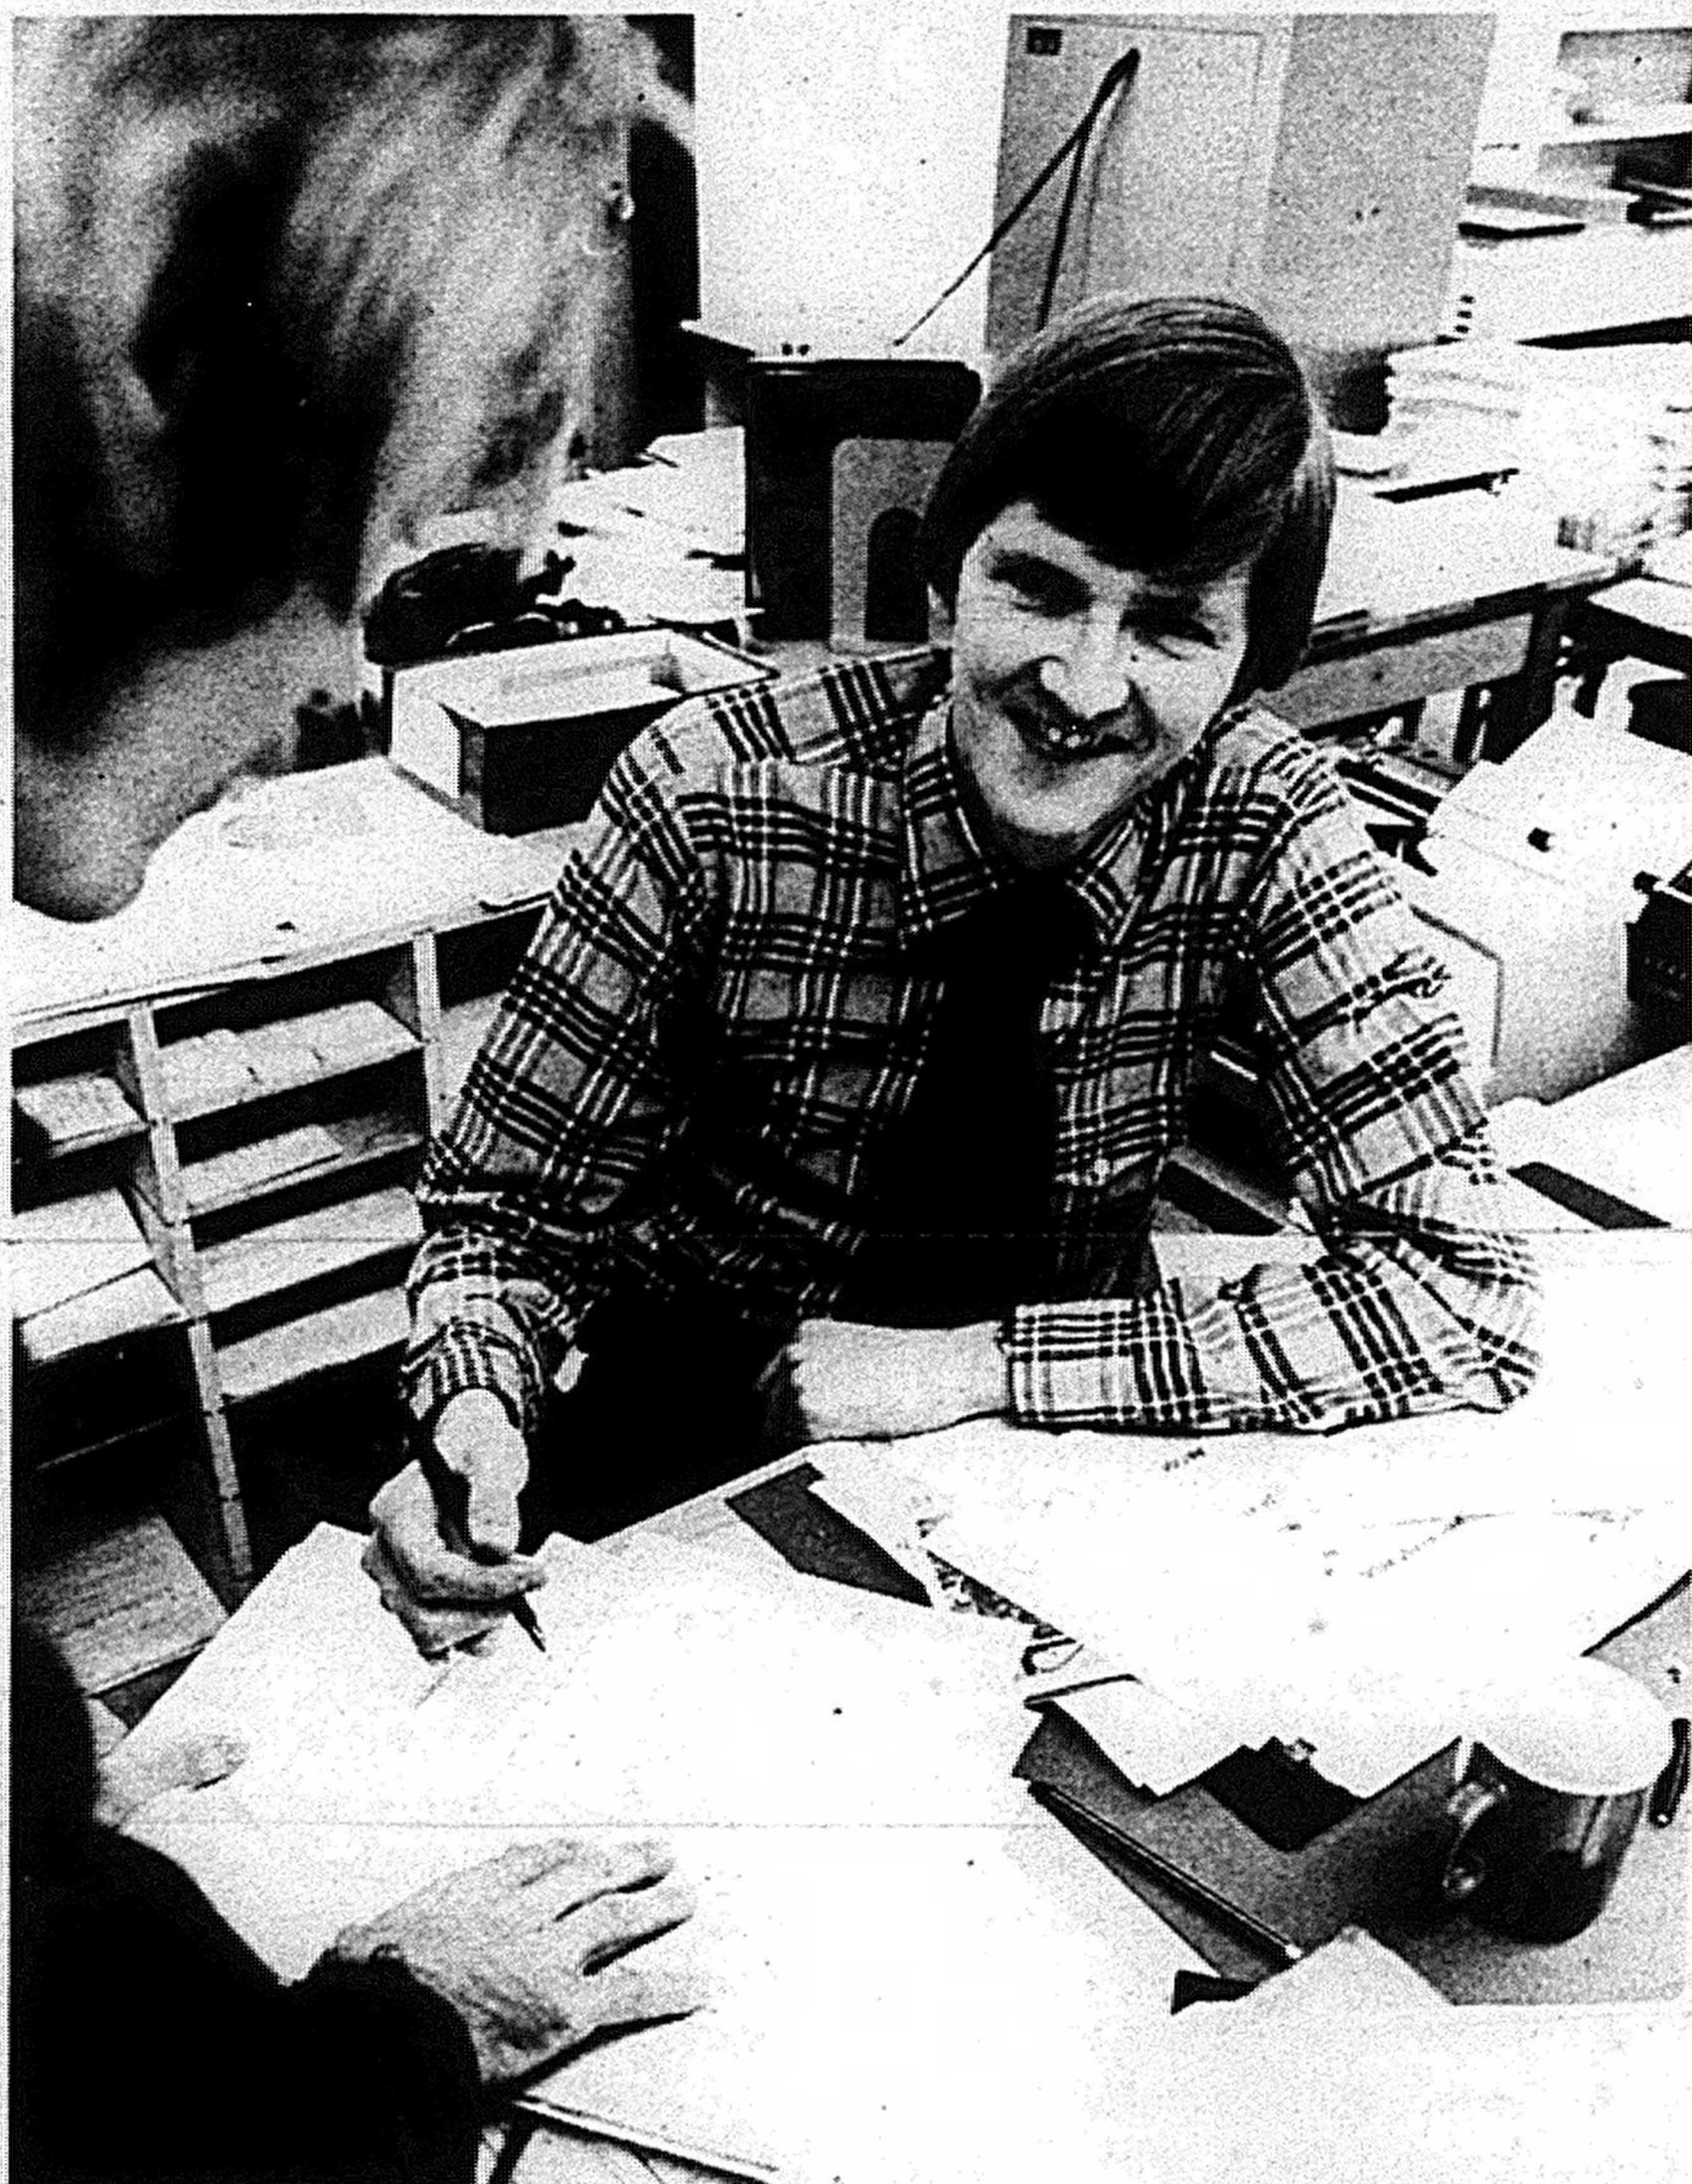

The Office of Human Affairs (621 25th St., Newport News, 245-3271; 8 a.m.-5 p.m., Mon.-Fri.) offers much the same services, including public service employment, but all applicants must meet the poverty guidelines. All services are free.

If you happen to be handicapped, the Virginia State Vocational Rehabilitation Service can help you in finding a job. It assists handicapped persons by providing comprehensive services and equipment in order to enable them to become employable. It offers vocational counseling and guidance, diagnostic examinations, specialized training, hospitalization, surgical treatment, prosthetic appliances, tools and other equipment used in an occupation. The Hampton office (222 East Queen St., 722-7469) serves Hampton residents and the Newport News office (642 79th St., 245-3238) serves Newport News, York County and Williamsburg residents. Any resident over sixteen with a physical or mental handicap that substantially interferes with employment and for whom there is a reasonable chance that with service he can become employable is eligible.

No fees are charged.

Vocational training is available to college students through the Vocational-Technical Education Center of the Virginia Peninsula (50th & E. St., Hampton, 838-8115), which offers vocational or technical training in auto mechanics, electronics, welding, practical nursing, auto body work, air conditioner repair, carpentry, electricity, drafting and design, machining, sheet metal, masonry, small engine repair, health assistant and horticulture. All courses are two year programs and classes are five days a week for three hours. The cost for a high school graduate is $60.00 per semester.

Dr. Healy received his Christmas present early. Mrs. Healy gave birth to Christopher December 3. CONGRATULATIONS!

ODU where he was employed by Admissions, Records/Registrar, Registration and the Office of Veterans' Affairs at ODU, while attending the university as a full-time student. He graduated in 1974 with a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science.

Laverriere was born and raised in southern Maine and entered the Navy in 1968, for a four year period. In 1972, he and his wife moved to the Tidewater area, which they find very appealing with its many cultural and entertainment facilities, and a climate very conducive to their hobby, which is camping and backpacking.

Presently enrolled veterans are urged to stop in at the new Office of Veterans' Affairs after the beginning of the spring semester and any questions they may have will be answered by office personnel.

Captains Defeat Hornets , 74-65 in Third Game

The Captains trounced the Greensboro Hornets in Basketball on December 5 by a score of 74-65.

The Greensboro Hornets, with a much more aggressive team than the Captains, proved it when they quickly took the lead during the first half of the game. The first half was filled with fouls and court travelling throughout, it ended 38-39.

The second half started with more of the same lackluster style game. Yet, when Steve Brown returned to the court, it seemed as though the Captains' confidence returned quickly. To the screams of wildly cheering fans, the score was soon tied at 57 all.

The score climbed to 67-64, thanks to the team efforts of Dale Travis, Steve Brown, and Dave Hutcheson. The court tensed late in the second half when Hutcheson fouled out, and again in the last 5 seconds when Dale Travis, shooting two foul shots, missed the first and another player tipped it in for two points to end the game, 74-65.

The Captains' next scheduled game is against Virginia Wesleyan College in Ratcliffe Gym at 8:00 p.m. on December 13.

Captains, Strongest Ever, New Style Game

Three weeks ago, the Christopher Newport College basketball team, playing in the fourth annual Blue-White game, showed-off some very impressive personnel. Utilizing possibly the quickest and strongest team ever, Coach Vaughan surprisingly, has instituted a fast break style of offense, replacing the somewhat obsolete patterned style of play seen in previous years.

The Captain's suffered a severe setback, with the loss of senior star Sherwin Green, as he was injured in the game and will be out for the season. Late in the game, after trying to block a shot, Green tumbled to the floor badly damaging his knee. He will be sorely missed.

The team's youth and experience, along with a new style of play promises to provide the fans, as well as the players, with a new kind of excitement.

*David Hutcheson - Big and strong, with plenty of finesse. This man is the key. The season will be dependent upon his play. He can do it all.

*Bob West - Great around the boards and provides plenty of needed intimidation.

*Steve "C.C." Brown - His experience, coupled with his tremendous ability should put him among the top scorers.

*Jimmy Swinton - So fast that the referees often think that CNC has only four men on the court. His quickness will control the tempo on offense and defense.

*John Ireland - Hustle is his middle name. His ballhawking should provide his opponents with plenty of headaches.

*Dale Travis - Jr. College transfer with fantastic shooting ability. His scoring is needed.

*Bill Hopke - Forty pounds lighter and one year wiser. His level head and cool attitude could prove to be valuable to the Captains.

*Eddie "Tiger" McSweeney - Defensive wizard. He is an excellent shooter from 20 feet, all the way to Sears. Should provide plenty of enthusiasm.

*Steve Williams - The Magician. The impossible is a routine affair. Will be eligible second semester, and will add plenty of scoring and excitement.

Golf Team Reverses Langley Defeat

The Golf team reversed a previous defeat by the LAFB team. Playing on it's home course CNC's top three golfers had a total of 248 to Langley's 269 points.

The top three scores for CNC were Bill Campbell (78), Pat Fallon (85) and Terry Slonecker (85) Bob Dely who played for Langley had an 87. Pat Fallon showed improvement in his overall game, but three bad holes (two triple bogies and one quadruple) prevented him from scoring in the 70's. The top team averages after four matches are Bill Campbell (82); Terry Slonecker (84); Pat Fallon (90); Bob Dely (90).

There will be a very important meeting of the golf team and those still interested in participating on December 10th at 12:15 in R 109. A winter schedule and team roster will be set up for play from Dec. 12th until the start of second semester. Participation and practice during this time will determine the spring squad.

Another little Fedyszyn will arrive in time for Valentine's Day. The doctor says a boy is due February 5.

Storrs, Conn.-(I.P.)-The notion that politically left-wing professors are made to suffer professionally for their opinion is disputed by a new book by Everette Carl Ladd Jr., University of Connecticut professor of political science, along with Dr. Seymour Martin Lipset, who is George D. Markham Professor of Government at Harvard.

The 407-page study of the sometimes contradictory attitudes of American college teachers towards politics is titled "The Divided Academy: Professors and Politics." The book delves into why this is so, and also presents a paradox: American professors of high scholarly attainment who are more liberal than their less-highly-achieving colleagues on broad off-campus issues may still take positions considered "anti-liberal" on internal campus disputes.

For example, while strongly supporting organized labor both practically and intellectually, they tend to resist the idea of faculty unions and collective bargaining. They tend to support the idea of "affirmative action," or preference in favor of previously-oppressed minorities in the outside world. But they tend strongly to oppose on their own campus faculty hiring, promotion, or student selection on any basis other than strict merit.

Your Elpee's Worth

Rock of the Westies. Elton John. Produced by Gus Dudgeon. 1975. This Record Company Limited.

Prior to 1971, who would have expected the non-descript English musician with the alias Elton John to become the flashy showman of the 70's? Since his explosion into stardom, he has consistently produced hit after hit, while his LP material has suffered no lack of quality of novelty.

Elton John's latest release Rock of the Westies exemplifies an array of his group's musical styles. The majority of Elton's regulars are featured: Caleb Quaye, Roger Pope, Kenny Passarelli, Ray Cooper, and Davey Johnstone. Most of the songs were written as a team by Elton John and his Lyricist Bernie Taupin.

Side one of Elton's extravaganza features one of the best cuts, "Yell Help." La Belle provides background vocals for this country rock tune which is enhanced by fine guitar playing. James Newton Howard's clavenet is outstanding, proving his addition to be a tremendous asset.

Much of Rock of the Westies relies on hard rock, which Elton manipulates with a flair. "Grow Some Funk of Your Own" and "Billy Bone and the White Bird" fit into this scheme. "Billy Bone" contains the familiar "Hand Jive" rhythm that breaks into straight rock. Howard makes it worth while with electric piano and synthesizer.

The "Funk" tune is all straight Rock with lots of high powered guitar. Caleb Quaye adds the structured portion while Davey Johnstone produces the more haphazard acid style.

"I Feel Like a Bullet (In the Gun of Robert Ford)" is typical of the older Elton John style. It is a soft, but full tune, that relies on Elton's vocals. Few, like Elton, can put this type of song across properly.

The AM hit "Island Girl" is the least representative cut of the album. The melody is acceptable but terribly forced when structured around the lyrics. Howard's synthesizer is the only redeeming component.

Rock of the Westies should be a treat for Elton John fans and (if "Island Girl" is disregarded) for anyone else as well. Few artists nowadays can match Elton's talent for producing music that in no respect sacrifices quality. In his mode of AM/FM quality, Elton John is a veritable superstar.

Our thanks to The Record Shop located at Newmarket South Shopping Center for contributing this album. Come on by and do your Christmas shopping anytime between 10 and 9 during the week and 10 and 6 on Saturdays.

College Enrollments to Increase Through 1980

Springfield, Ill.-(I.P.)-A staff report from the Board of Higher Education recently projected enrollment for Illinois higher education to 1990 in the degree program categories of 1) baccalaureate and occupational, 2) general studies, and 3) graduate studies.

In each area, head-count enrollment projections were made utilizing different assumption about the college-going rate -- a low, median, and high series. Within this context, baccalaureate and occupational enrollment is expected to peak by 1980 and decline thereafter through 1990 to a level comparable with enrollment in the early 1970s.

Enrollment in general studies programs, regardless of the rate of attendance, is expected to increase through 1990. Depending upon the assumption, graduate program enrollment will either peak in the mid-1980's and decline to a level near current enrollment, or remain relatively stabilized throughout the 1980's.

The development of a "most likely series" from these assumptions indicates the following: Baccalaureate enrollment peaks in 1980 and decreases to 1990 when enrollment is projected to be approximately 28,000 below current levels; graduate peaks in 1984, but by 1990 is still approximately 16,000 above current enrollment; general studies enrollment increases through the period but only gradually after 1980.

In sum, total head-count enrollment by 1990 is projected to be approximately 50,000 more than current enrollment levels. However, of this increase only 4000 would be in terms of full-time equivalent enrollment.

Return Survey Questionnaires to SGA

The Student Government Association recently mailed out several hundred questionnaires concerning the Financial Aid Office. One study will be used to evaluate the ability of the Financial Aid Office to reach and assist those students who are in a state of financial need.

The purpose of the other study is to gather information concerning the cost of living of a student enrolled at CNC. This data will be used to establish guidelines for providing students receiving financial aid with an adequate budget for the 1976-77 year.

The S.G.A. greatly appreciates the good response received on these studies and would be even more enthused of those students who have not returned their questionnaires would do so.

Vacation Approaches, Think Safety and Return for Spring

By Pat Roof

The holiday season is upon us and as the last day of exams creep up, so does the beginning of a much needed vacation for all of us.

Some people will be leaving the area to spend the holidays with relatives and friends elsewhere, and others will be dividing their time between work, grandma's house, Santa Claus, and catching up on a little reading.

Whatever your plans, remember to be careful. The National Safety Council reminds us that each year thousands of lives are carelessly lost during the holiday times of the year.

Fortunately, during the Christmas season, many families have more time to visit and are not rushed as on the three-day weekends, which cause the most tragedies.

There are several important points to remember, especially concerning drinking and driving. Probably, most people know their limits when it comes to drinking, but it is an easy slip of the mind (and bottle) to over-indulge during this merry-making season, especially New Years.

The law considers that 1/10 of 1% of alcohol in the system makes a person legally drunk. This means four or five beers for the average person, or four or five ounces of alcohol. When a person has consumed 2/10 of 1%, he may become incapacitated both physically and emotionally. When the amount is increased to 3/10 of 1%, the person may lapse into a coma and 6/10 of 1% affects breathing and can cause death.

Another problem with over-drinking is that although liquor is high in caloric value, it lacks all other nutrients (except wine, which contains 13 essential vitamins and minerals- no wonder the Italians are healthy!) This factor tends to decrease appetites and energy. If you drink, don't on an empty stomach, because food helps to absorb the alcohol, decreasing the level of alcohol in the blood.

Another important safety note to remember not just for the holidays, but for all driving times, is WEAR THAT SEATBELT. Believe it or not, seatbelts do save lives. They are useless hooked behind the seat, and it takes only twelve seconds (I timed it) or less to fasten the belt properly.

On December 1, in Hampton, two Christopher Newport students collided in a nasty accident. One student was wearing a seatbelt and suffered only sprained neck muscles. The driver of the other vehicle, which was less seriously damaged, suffered a broken leg and internal injuries. Her reason for not wearing the seatbelt, which was neatly lying behind the seat, was that she was pregnant. Could there be a better reason for wearing one?

Gary Farrar, a paramedic with the Newport News Fire Department says "I would never go a block without a seatbelt - not after witnessing what I pull from accidents." There is a difference, and if you do not consider your own life or that of your passenger, think of the persons who have to clean up the mess after an accident. Don't make them work overtime.

Be careful, don't let the Christmas tree lights get too hot, go easy on the punch, and the holidays will be merrier.

Outing Club to Present Proceeds from Bicycle Raffle to Charity

By Pat Dorsey

The Outing Club Raffle ended as quickly as it began with President Windsor drawing the winning ticket which belonged to Patty Goswick of Williamsburg.

To celebrate the end of the Raffle, Dave Gooding entertained in the cafeteria. He played a variety of mellow music beginning with "I've Got a Name", by Jim Croce and ending, quite appropriately, with a song by Graham Nash entitled "Right Between the Eyes."

The Outing Club raised $200.00 during the Raffle which ended last Monday. The Club will give the money to a charity but it has not yet decided upon any particular one.

The Raffle was the first major fund-raising activity of the newly formed Outing Club. The Vice-President of the Club, Kirk Melville, said, "I feel that The Outing Club is energetic and will benefit the community as well as Christopher Newport."

OPUS Offered at Liberal Arts College

Des Moines, Ia. - (I.P.) Drake University's College of Liberal Arts has a new program for freshmen, called OPUS, that is designed to help them make their educational choices as they progress toward a degree. OPUS stands for ordering values, perceiving self, utilizing leisure, and selecting careers.

Dr. Leland P. Johnson, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, said freshmen enrolling at Drake under this program will receive a broad background in humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences. "They will learn to identify skills, interests, and abilities and how to adapt these assets to the constantly changing world," he said.

By the end of the sophomore year, students in OPUS should be ready to declare a major in one of Drake's six undergraduate colleges. There will be no "big hassle" if students decide to switch majors later, he added. To help students establish their educational goals, this was developed:

1. Students complete an unhurried self-analysis of their academic strengths;
2. Students participate in small group discussions and large lectures where they study a variety of topics, including academic specialization as opposed to diversity, depth vs. breadth in education, and the options available in their vocational interests;
3. An OPUS faculty adviser maintains close contact with them and helps them design and focus their academic goals;
4. Students enroll in a year-long OPUS course where they will analyze themselves and plan an academic program; and
5. They enroll in a variety of subject courses where they develop critical skills and sample and test abilities and interests in specific areas of study.

Honors Seminar, Part of Teacher Growth Program

Rock Island, Ill.-(I.P.)-The new teaching growth program at Augustana College will begin next spring with an honors seminar, involving a small group of faculty, explained President J. Thomas Tredway. Support of the program will come from Lilly Endowment, payable over three-year period.

It eventually will include all faculty through participation in a creative teaching institute. The honors seminar, to be held annually, will center on a selected academic topic, and will continue for an entire quarter of the school year. Faculty participants will be released from all other teaching responsibilities for that quarter.

Each will bring with him into the seminar four or five junior or senior students from his own department. These students, totaling about 25, will devote the entire term to the seminar and will receive a full quarter's credit for the work.

The seminar is intended to form the basis of a college-wide emphasis on good teaching as a vital ingredient in faculty development. The second phase of the teaching growth program will be a creative teaching institute.

The institute will be staffed each academic year by the faculty from the prior year's honors seminar, plus other faculty working on teaching growth projects, selected student participants in the previous honors seminar, and the dean of the college.

Each year five faculty members will be released from teaching one of their courses to give special attention to the teaching-learning process in one of their remaining courses. This will be called the individual course projects program. The institute will also sponsor four or five teaching workshops annually. The workshops will be concerned with analysis of the teaching-learning environment at Augustana and with its improvement.
