Vandalism Plagues Campus

by Lisa Pieper

In light of the latest episode of vandalism, The Captain's Log would like to review the vandalism/larceny scene on the CNC Campus.

Vandalism is willful and negligent defacing of property, as is the most recent case. The anonymous doer (most likely it's a male) has defaced the marble partitions of the Campus Center men's restrooms. If the obscene remarks, made with magic marker, cannot be chemically removed, the partitions will cost an estimated $10,000 to replace.

An unknown "artist" is also defacing student desktops with a name (perhaps false) and a phone number that has been disturbing a private individual.

The Campus Police suggest that knowing persons please divulge information that could lead to acknowledgement of the "artist." Informers will remain anonymous.

Chief Johnnie L. Capehart, Director of Safety and Security, says that vandalism may be declining somewhat. But since vandalism is not among statistics published yearly by the FBI, this decline is only conjecture.

Since January 1984, nine cases of vandalism have been reported to Campus Police. How many cases go unreported is not known. Even though this school has a relatively low vandalism rate, it is still a costly problem.

Past incidents of vandalism include pulling the bathroom plumbing out of the wall, destruction of a yard lamp, the usual amount of graffiti, the stuffing of toilets with toilet paper, cement dumped into toilets, changing water pressure on bathroom apparatus, and the removal of plants and flowers. Vandalism presents a costly and noticeable nuisance to CNC.

Larceny on campus is a crime that often goes unreported and includes the theft of wallets, purses, calculators, and books. The recovery rate of small items is very low, says Chief Capehart. It is up to the individual to maintain precautions.

The Campus Police force has the same authority as that of city police or state troopers. Currently underway is a mutual-aid agreement with the Newport News City Police Department affording to Campus Police jurisdiction off campus, in places like College Arms and College Court Apartments.

The rape that occurred September 12, 1984, is as yet unsolved, but Chief Capehart feels there are some good leads.

Possibly as a direct result of the rape, numerous calls have been placed recently regarding suspicious persons and cars seen loitering around campus. The police department has had direct confrontations with persons who definitely do not belong on campus. The escort service is still available at all times.

Capehart feels there are several inadequately lit areas on campus. More lights have been ordered, but it is not known at this time which areas will receive the additional lighting.

Crime on campus is apparently seasonal, with spring having the highest number of incidences. Frequent visitors from nearby high schools and individuals from the general public come out when the weather is warmer. More bicycle thefts occur during spring and summer.

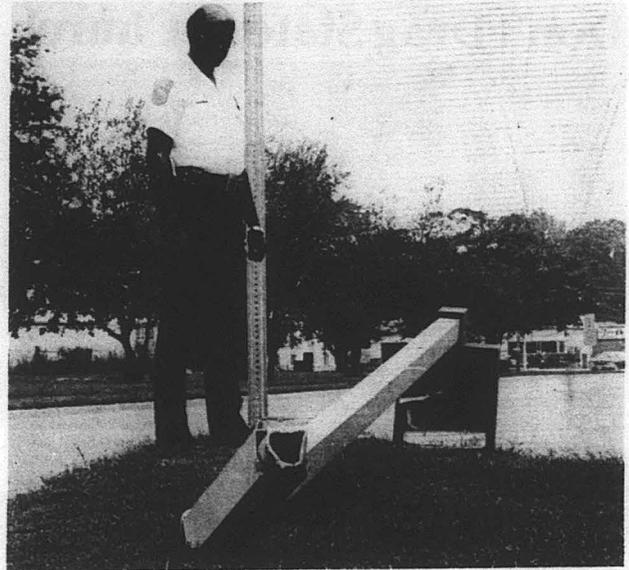

Crime prevention is the responsibility of all students and faculty. In their Crime Prevention pamphlet, Campus Police suggest these precautions:

- Always lock vehicle doors.
- Park in a well-lighted area with car fronts facing out; it is easier to detect potential tamperings.
- Use a bike lock. Don't leave a bike out at night.
- Please register bikes with the Campus Police.
- Mark books with name and driver's license or social security number.
- No companion? Use the escort service.
- Don't prop open outside building doors that are supposed to be locked.
- Report thefts immediately.
- Never leave unattended in a public place any item of value.

It takes only eight seconds for someone to walk into an unlocked room and remove something valuable. Common statements made to the Campus Police officers by victims are "I was only a few feet away," "I was only gone a couple of minutes" or "I didn't think anyone would steal something with so many people around."

Dick Ryther, Campus Center Director, often hears vandalism complaints. He says, "We all have a negative attitude and think, 'Why waste our time,' which is probably a bad attitude."

The Campus Police would like students to call them anytime they "see someone suspicious on campus who looks like they don't belong here." Campus police are on duty at all times. Numbers to call are as follows: Information Desk Dispatch, 599-7100; Campus Police Office, 599-7053; Emergencies, 599-7253.

SVEA Hosts Point Option Talk

Point Option School principal Charles Miller spoke to the Student Virginia Education Association at its October 10 meeting. Miller was accompanied by three students from Point Option who discussed their views of the school in a question-and-answer session.

Miller personally recruits all students to the school for their education. Point Option's goal is to provide the students with a setting that will meet their needs and that will provide a smaller community in which they can function and improve their self-esteem.

According to Dr. Linda Hornback of the Education Department, the potential for drop-outs is great, so the Point Option program is designed for the individual needs of each student.

Point Option is not a school for "druggies" or "trouble-makers." It is a place where students may learn eventually to become responsible adults in society. The students are responsible for choosing their classes, attending the classes, and turning in assignments. They are also encouraged to give something to their community through volunteer work. The students may receive partial credit for volunteer work they perform.

According to Miller, discipline is not a problem because everyone looks after one another. Miller feels that a continuing emphasis on positive rather than negative behavior has helped to decrease the amount of disciplinary problems.

Through unit groups and peer groups, the students are able to relate experiences or problems which cause frustration in their lives. Other students in the group offer suggestions and try to help resolve their problems. The largest factor in the success of these groups is trust. The students feel that there is a genuine trust between the students and the teachers.

Opinion

Don't Drag State to Church

by Matt Dair

The 1984 presidential election has given a new twist to one of our nation's most fundamental principles, the separation of church and state.

Our founding fathers saw the dangers of high road religious principles playing a major role in governing our nation, so in an effort to avert those dangers, they called for a complete separation of church and state within our Constitution.

In recent years, however, men such as Jerry Falwell and organizations such as the Moral Majority have decided our founding fathers were wrong. They have set out on an unholy crusade to inject their minority, right-wing, reactionary views on the majority of America's population.

These organizations are not small, unorganized church groups; they are large, well-financed political machines capable of spewing propaganda at a rate that even the Soviet Union would envy.

Their areas of interest range from the outlawing of abortion to the raising of the drinking age, and they dogmatically pursue these issues sparing no expense to get their views across.

A common tactic of religious groups is commonly known as "mud-slinging." Hiding behind the stained-glass facade of the church, they tag names like "heathen," "immoral," and (God forbid) "atheist" on their opposition. An image of the Salem witch hunts comes to mind, except today people do not burn their enemies at the stake (at least not literally).

Another preferred modus operandi is the classic scare and/or guilt tactic. In the case of their crusade against abortion, these modern-day purveyors of doom take it upon themselves to show the "unknowing" public just what an aborted fetus looks like. These "Right to Life" interest groups have been known to place on parked cars explicit pamphlets that depict the results of abortion.

This practice is not only vulgar and repulsive to the owners of the automobiles, but can let this adult information into the hands of young children. Any parent, pro- or anti-abortion, dreads the day he must explain human reproduction to his children, let alone the extreme measures by which the process can be halted.

Religion and American politics, in all honesty, cannot be completely separated. Religious morals can, if nothing else, bolster the honesty of our public-office holders. But these morals should by no means prescribe or dictate public policy.

Only a small minority of our population shares the fanatical, right-wing views of political pressure groups such as the Moral Majority. But through eloquent, flamboyant leaders and strong financial backing from their loyal followers, these pressure groups lead politicians to believe that their groups can exert more pressure than they have at their disposal - a deception worthy of the greatest magician.

The American public must awaken to the deceptive practices of these groups. The church should not be the facade which hides a large political machine, nor should Capital Hill dictate religious morals to the American population. Freedom, in the sense that we know it, will not exist under these conditions.

Public policy should never be dictated by whatever religious group happens to be the most vocal or the highest financed; if it is, America will be no more free than Iran is under the Ayatollah Khomeini.

Wilson to Play Powerful Role of 'Medea'

by Lee-Ann Smith

The CNC Theatre Department will present Medea, by the Greek poet Euripides, in November.

"The story is of Medea's passionate love for Jason, and the revenge that she visits on him after she finds that he has taken a young bride," explained Dr. Bruno Koch, Director of the Theatre Program.

As with most Greek plays, Medea has a timeless and universal appeal.

"I think the play, basically, is as modern as any play written today," Koch said. "Euripides' sensitivity toward the basic plight of women shows that he was very empathetic to women's causes . . . a view that denounced the man's role, especially in 400 B.C."

Shawn Bradley plays Jason.

During the course of the play, Medea, a sorceress, falls so in love with Jason that she does all in her power to help him, including helping him find the Golden Fleece. When she finds that he has left her for another, she gains revenge in several ways, including killing their own children.

"Medea is capable of doing just about anything for her love. She's a very extraordinary woman, combining the most intense human passion with supernatural powers," Koch explained.

Gina Fitzhugh Wilson, an actress and resident of Newport News, will play the title role.

"Medea is a very difficult part," Koch said. "It requires an amount of maturity, and Gina brings that to the role."

Koch asked Wilson to come in and read for the part, and she became interested when she learned about the character.

"She is an archetype—there is something in Medea that is in every woman," Wilson said.

"Dr. Koch asked me if I had dreamt of her. . . I hadn't, but there is something universal about her," she continued.

Wilson said that Medea was a woman of pure spirit who never acted or felt halfway about anything—she was an all-or-nothing person.

"The purity of her love for Jason was so intense that she would do anything for him," Wilson said, "and when he betrayed her, she hated him as much as she loved him."

Wilson describes Medea as a strong, passionate woman, and feels that playing this part has helped her to see Medea as a person instead of as a character.

"I like her. She's powerful and in some ways is the consummate woman. She loved her children and husband desperately," she said. "She's human, and in the rehearsal process I've come to understand her much better than when I read the play for the first time."

Medea did not kill her children without any personal, emotional pain, Wilson explained.

"She realized that she will mourn for the rest of her life," Wilson said, "but she knew that it was the one thing that would hurt Jason the most."

Wilson also feels that her previous acting experience had helped her with the part of Medea.

"Everything you do helps you with something new that comes along. Approaching Simone was first done by a troupe in New York, and I was with the troupe at the time. Some of the characters were 'dark,' and playing them has helped me a lot with Medea," she said.

Even a large amount of previous experience, however, cannot erase all apprehension towards a new part.

"I told Dr. Koch that the part scared me to death because it's very difficult," she said with a smile. "He answered, more or less, that I would be a fool if I wasn't afraid."

CNC Fall Fest To Be Held This Weekend

by Ann Catherine Braxton

CNC's Fall Fest, the annual joint effort of the Student Association and the Campus Program Board, will be held this Saturday, October 20, 10 a.m.-4 p.m., behind Ratcliffe Gymnasium.

Fall Fest is being coordinated by Cyndie Cronk, the SA vice president of Student Affairs. Her goal is to create a carnival atmosphere for CNC students and their guests to enjoy.

CNC's various clubs and organizations will set up booths, games, and concession stands. Included will be a bake and book sale by the History Club, a bread sale by the Student Virginia Education Association (SVEA), a cotton candy booth by The Captain's Log, and an evening dance sponsored by the Minority Students Association. Beer, hamburgers, and soft drinks will also be sold.

Cronk has been working closely with Gene Boutin, the Intramurals director, who will oversee such events as mud-wrestling, egg tosses, and three-legged race, and tug-of-war matches between the clubs.

All participating clubs should set up at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Help on Call:

Teach Your Children to Protect Themselves

The checklist below contains information which can help you protect your children. Read it carefully and discuss it with your children.

—All children should know their full name, address (including the city and state), and phone number (including the area code).

—Take photos of your children at least yearly, and keep a copy of their fingerprints and dental records.

—Teach your children to never admit to anyone over the phone that they are home alone, and to call the police or a neighbor if someone tries to get into the house.

—Be sure that your children's school or day care center will not release them to anyone but you or someone designated by you. Set up a code word with your children if you must send an unfamiliar adult to pick them up.

—Teach your children what to do if they get separated from you. If you are shopping and become separated, your children should not look for you but should go immediately to the nearest clerk and ask for assistance. They should never go to the parking lot without you.

—Children should know they have a right to say "No." They do not have to obey strangers.

—Teach your children that a stranger is someone you and they don't know. A "bad" stranger asks children to go with them, offers them candy or presents, or asks them to take his photograph.

—If children are followed by someone in a car or on foot, they should run to the nearest public place and yell "Help!" Never run to a deserted place.

—Your children should know that adults rarely ask children for directions, and it is best to ignore strangers who do. If a stranger calls them to a car, they should never go near it.

—Teach your children to tell you about strangers they meet, or anyone who asks them to keep a "secret."

—Tell your children that no one has the right to touch them or to make them feel uncomfortable.

—Know your children's friends.

—Never leave your children alone or in an unattended car.

—Make sure your children know how to reach the operator and how to call long distance.

—Listen when your children tell you they do not want to be with someone: there may be a reason.

Soccer Team Wins on 'Tomahawk's' Goal

by David M. Bean

Once again, the Christopher Newport College Captains have continued to go 1-1 in another week of soccer action. The last two participants in this strange tale were Hampden-Sydney College and North Carolina Wesleyan College.

The Captains played host to Hampden-Sydney last Wednesday afternoon and found themselves in a very frustrating situation: a match where the Captains dominated the aspect of the game, yet were continually plagued by the inability to score.

This tale did have a happy ending for CNC. Thanks to the intensive play of junior Tom Hammond, CNC walked out with a 1-0 win. "Tomahawk's" consistent aggressiveness kept the Hampden-Sydney offense off step in the Captains' zone, while providing the CNC offense with backup in the opponent's end of the field.

Despite the pressure CNC put on, the Captains did not score until the 87:30 mark of the game.

On Saturday, the Captains travelled down to Rocky Mount, North Carolina, to play tenth-ranked NC-Wesleyan. The Battling Bishops have been a surprise all year long. They even led at one point in their match earlier this year with UNC-G.

The Captains were looking for the upset against them and came close. CNC's downfall came when Wesleyan's Doug Nesbitt took a pass from teammate Tom Mitchell and put the Bishops up 1-0 at the 65:40 mark of the game.

Runners Perfect in Dual Meets

by Steven Grinstead

On October 6, the Christopher Newport men's cross country team competed and was victorious in their last dual meet of the season. The meet was held at St. Andrews.

The opponents were no match for the CNC runners. CNC won the event easily. CNC finished with 16 points, Methodist was second with 43, and St. Andrews followed with 77. (lowest score wins).

CNC's Danny Pittman was the front runner in the meet. He and four other CNC runners broke the course record of 28:10. This was only the second time the course had been run.

Pittman completed the five mile course in 25:49. This was the second straight meet that Pittman finished first for CNC in front of Ron Borsheim. Coach Vince Brown said, "He (Pittman) has taken over as the number-one runner."

Borsheim placed second and finished the course in 26:18. Borsheim, a junior, will be trying to capture his third consecutive All-State honor in the state meet.

Steve Kast crossed the finish line in the third spot. He ran the course in 27:04. Phillip Harris was the fourth finisher at 27:18. Keith Marshall rounded up the field of CNC runners who earned points. Marshall finished sixth at 28:05.

The Captains finished the dual meet portion on the schedule with a perfect 4-0 record. Next on the schedule is the state meet, which will be held at Hampden-Sydney.

For the past two years CNC has been the top Division III school in the state. CNC's state title will be on the line.

Brown said, "The battle will be for second place." Brown is convinced that Liberty Baptist will win their third consecutive state championship. Liberty Baptist is a Division II school and is able to give scholarships.

Brown believes that three CNC runners must have strong runs in order for CNC to place first. "Our three, four, and five men have to run really well," he stated. Steve Kast must finish in the top 12, while Harris and Marshall finish in the top 25.

Pittman's achievement in last week's meet at St. Andrews earned him "Athlete of the Week" honors.

Women's Volleyball Record Falls to 6-8 with Losses

by Steven Grinstead

Christopher Newport's women's volleyball team has been struggling lately. The Lady Captains dropped their last three intra-conference matches.

All three matches were away. The first loss came at the hands of Greensboro. CNC was defeated in three straight games, 7-15, 5-15, and 7-15.

The second loss came the next day. CNC went into this match as a heavy underdog. They were playing UNC-Greensboro, ranked 7 in the nation in Division III and undefeated. Though CNC lost the match, all three games were fairly close. CNC was downed 14-16, 8-15, and 11-15.

The Lady Captains then travelled, three days later, to North Carolina Wesleyan. This match went the distance but turned out to be a heart-breaker for CNC.

CNC was losing two games to one then fought back to tie the score at two games apiece. The Lady Captains lost the fifth and decisive game 4-15.

CNC's record stands at 6-8 overall and 3-3 in Dixie Conference action.

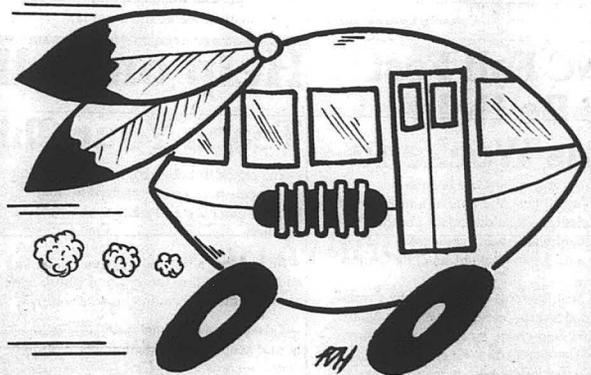

The women will go at it once again with highly ranked UNC-Greensboro on Friday, October 19. The match will be played in Rattliffe Gym at 6:30 p.m.

The Captains are now 5-6-1 overall and 3-2 in the conference. They will be hosting Liberty Baptist on Saturday, October 20, and then they will play at Averett on Wednesday, October 24.

PJ O'Rourke's Lecture Mocks College Life

by Shawn Bradley

P. J. O'Rourke, former editor of the National Lampoon Magazine and writer of the screenplay for Easy Money, gave an informative and amusing lecture to the Christopher's audience last Wednesday night.

His topic, "Proper Etiquette and Modern Manners," covered the usefulness of manners and the proper etiquette of drug taking.

I found O'Rourke's lecture to be entertaining and a good change of pace from the usual Wednesday-night functions at Christopher's.

However, at times the crowd became louder with their own private conversations than O'Rourke was with his.

O'Rourke may have humorous material, but I felt his poor delivery did not bring the jokes to full potential. He also appeared to rush through some of his material and gave little if any eye contact with the audience.

O'Rourke began giving comedy lectures in 1973 while employed as editor of the National Lampoon Magazine. His hilarious lecture is a mockery of what college students have to sit through in everyday classes.

After leaving Lampoon, O'Rourke wrote a book, Modern Manners - Etiquette for Very Rude People.

In 1982, he began lecturing to college students again. In fact, his lecture is an excerpt from his book, Modern Manners.

O'Rourke lectures part-time, giving three to four lectures a week. This year, after performing at 35 colleges, he will take his "modern manners" home to New Hampshire.

Biomedical Ethics Talk

The Peninsula Area Chapter of the National Conference of Christians and Jews has developed a series of programs designed to help our community come to grips with a number of critical issues in Biomedical Ethics.

The first program, entitled "Genetics, Pregnancy and Abortion: The Ethical Issues," will be Thursday, October 18, at 7:30 p.m. in A-105.

Featured speakers are Dr. Stanton Hoegerman, a professor of genetics at William & Mary, and Dr. Margaret Smith, a local physician specializing in Rheumatology.

The response panel includes Dr. F. W. "Ted" Gray, a retired physician; the Rev. J. W. Johnson, pastor of Mt. Nebo Baptist Church in Surry; and Ms. Janet I. Ferquharson, an associate with the firm of Patten, Womam, and Watkins.

A question-and-answer session will conclude the program. CNC faculty, staff, and students are welcome to attend.

LSPE Costume Party

The Social Recreation Class 300 invites all Leisure Studies and Physical Education majors to a sports-related costume party on Monday, October 29, 8-10 p.m., in R-109 A & B. Guests may bring a friend.

Activities will include games and a costume contest. Participants must dress up as a favorite sports personality or object, i.e., a tennis ball.

Prizes will be awarded, and refreshments will be provided.

Please RSVP by October 18 by calling 599-7027.

Fall Fest

CNC Intramural Department is sponsoring a day of Fall Fest events, such as relays, an obstacle course and a suit case shuffle. Everyone is invited to enter, either individually or as a team.

For more information, call the Intramural Office at 599-7054.

IVCF

As students, we tend to spend more and more of our time on personal pursuits and growth. This isolation is both condoned and promoted by society in general, in the belief that such time spent now leads to the greater composite good for the future.

In our Christian walks, however, we should always be mindful to give ourselves and our time to others. The thoughts, gifts, and love of others help to draw an important balance in our lives that no textbook could ever provide.

Regional IV director Joe Moore speaks on this "selfless love" Wednesday at large group. We will be returning to CC-233.

Radio Club

Everyone interested in forming a radio club should meet Thursday, October 18, 4 p.m., outside on the grass in front of the Terrace. In case of rain, please meet in the Student Lounge.

International Students

Anyone interested in forming an International Students Organization chapter at CNC should contact Dr. Vinod Maniyar, A-354, 599-7067, or the Office of Student Life, CC-189.

All campus organizations are invited to submit material for Campus Closeups.

The copy must be typed and double-spaced on one side of the paper.

A name and phone number are to be written on the page in case more information is needed.

Deadline for Closeups is Friday at noon. Closeups can be mailed to The Captain's Log, 50 Shoe Lane, Newport News, VA 23606, or submitted to the editor in CC223.

Flag Football Teams Roll Along

by Shelley Pidgeon

Intramural Flag Football play began on a bad note on Sunday, October 7. Due to injuries from the previous week, Sigma Tau Gamma had to forfeit to ROTC. Both Matt Neely and Terry Gemilere broke a finger.

The Good Ol' Boys beat the No Names, 8-6. Devon Nese scored the Good Ol' Boys' touchdown, and Todd Repass ran in the extra point.

The No Names scored late in the fourth quarter. David Knowles' touchdown pass to David Price gave the No Names a chance to tie the score. But the No Names extra-point attempt missed as the clock ran out.

In the next game, ITK beat OTHG, 30-0. Touchdowns were made by Leigh Smith, Ricky Comer, William Gordin, and Gill Groat. Extra points were scored by William Gordin and Ricky Comer.

In the last game, Sigma Pi lost to Alumni, 33-6. Sigma Tau Gamma's only touchdown was scored by Mike Krank late in the fourth quarter. The Alumni's experience showed against the unorganized Sigma Pi team.

Alumni touchdowns were scored by Carl Borst, Marty Martin, Glen Corey, and Randy Lint. Extra points were picked up by Mike Harrell and Marty Martin.

Flag Football Standings:

Alumni 3-0
ITK 3-1

CNC's Racing Sail Team Wins Second Regatta of Fall Season

Christopher Newport College's Euclid Hanbury Racing Team won its second regatta of the 1984 Fall season this past weekend.

In the competition at perennial power at St. Mary's College in Maryland, CNC took first place in all but two of the races.

The winds were at 20 knots, gusting to thirty, as the hurricane hovered off shore, and there was a little chop on the race course. St. Mary's took second and Georgetown was third.

The regatta was a warmup for this weekend's important Middle Atlantic Qualifiers, and Middle Atlantic Women's Championships, the former at the Naval Academy and the latter at ODU.

Sixteen teams will compete in the Qualifiers and six to eight will move up to the East Coast Championships from the Qualifiers.

Coach Pete Wallio and Assistant Coach Mark Spicknall, who sailed for the University of Michigan, have assembled a strong team of men and women. Charlie Brewer and David Hanna are the skippers who will lead the team in the Qualifiers.

Kelly Rourke and Catherine Isner will lead the women's team in the competition at ODU. Excellent crew work and relief skipping has been contributed by Tim Kelly, Robert Lehman, George Tatum, Karen Sotack, and Jeff Herrick.

The team practices Tuesdays and Thursdays on Deep Creek in Lasers and Albacores. Coach Wallio will continue practice until the middle of November when the Fall Season is complete.

Winters, soon to complete his doctorate in piano performance from Northwestern University, holds bachelor and master of music degrees from Indiana University. He is a former student of noted pianist Jorge Bolet, as well as of Hans Graf and Donald Isaak.

Since moving to this area in 1979, Mr. Winters has given numerous performances. He has appeared twice as guest artist with the Norfolk Chamber Consort and most recently on the Gellman Room Concert Series at the Richmond Public Library.

Winters gave the first faculty recital ever presented at CNC in 1979 and has since performed on several occasions with programs including works by Liszt, Brahms, and Rachmaninoff among others. In addition, he has appeared in chamber music and solo recitals throughout the Midwest and has been awarded honors and prizes in numerous competitions.

The recital is free and open to the public.
