World renowned opera star to perform

Metropolitan and LaScala bass, Ezio Flagello will sing at Christopher Newport College on Saturday, November 13 at 8 in the evening. Mr. Flagello is appearing as the second artist in the Nancy A. Ramseur Memorial Artist-in-Concert Series. "Flagello is the first internationally acclaimed opera star to perform in the history of the Series, and the College is most pleased to be able to present him to the Peninsula opera lovers," notes L.B. Wood, Jr., who directs the Series.

Bass Ezio Flagello has become world renowned as one of the finest singing actors of our day not only for his many outstanding interpretations at the Metropolitan Opera but for his appearances in nearly all the world's leading opera houses.

He made his Metropolitan debut in October, 1957, as the Sacristan in "Tosca" and in less than two weeks had replaced a colleague as Leporello in "Don Giovanni", an event which launched the young singer into the sphere of operatic stardom. He has gone on to sing more than thirty major roles at the Metropolitan including Dulcamara in "L'Elisir d'Amore," Rolfe in "La Sonnambula", Timur in "Turandot," Colline in "La Boheme," Ramfis in "Aida," Wurm in "Luisa Miller," King Phillip in "Don Carlo," the title role in "Falstaff" and Silva in "Ernani". In June 1974 he starred in the Metropolitan Opera production of Puccini's "Gianni Schicchi". His affiliation with European companies now include La Scala, where he made his debut in "Lucrezia Borgia" in 1970, the Vienna Staatsoper, where he sang Leporello in the new Franco Zeffirelli production of "Don Giovanni" in 1972, and the Deutsche Oper, Berlin. Flagello has recorded all the leading Bass roles in each major opera. On London, RCA, and Deutsche Grammophon, he has recorded with Lenotyne Price, Anna Moffo, Montserrat Cabelle, and Richard Tucker, among others.

Metropolitan Opera bass, Ezio Flagello, to appear in concert in CC.

Ezio Flagello was born in New York. His musical heritage included a grandfather who studied with Giuseppe Verdi and conducted the town band in Salerno, Italy. Although as a child he studied trumpet, violin and piano, his original ambition was to become a dentist. It was not long, however, before his rich basso voice revealed itself and he was sent to study with the renowned baritone, Friedrich Schorr at the Manhattan School of Music.

His studies were interrupted by military service. After leaving the Army he won a Fulbright Grant and went to Italy to pursue his singing career. After a short time he was engaged by the Teatro dell'Opera in Rome to sing several performances of Dr. Dulcamara in "L'Elisir d'Amore". Since then his career has been meteoric. Following his first Falstaff at the Metropolitan, Harold C. Schonberg headlined his review in the New York Times: "EZIO FLAGELLO GIVES FINE PERFORMANCE AS FALSTAFF AT MET", and went on to shower him with praise. Harold Rosenthal in Opera called his Falstaff the most definitive he had ever seen. He has sung at the San Francisco Opera, the Dallas Civic Opera, the Philadelphia Lyric Opera, Houston Grand Opera, the Connecticut Opera, the Opera Guild of Miami and many others.

Ezio Flagello is as much a favorite on the concert stage as he is in opera having sung with nearly all the leading symphony orchestras, including those in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Minnesota, Los Angeles, Chicago, Atlanta and Indianapolis, and has numerous records on RCA, London and Deutsche Grammophon labels. In February, 1974, he appeared with the National Symphony in the premiere of "Martin", a work by his brother Nicolas dedicated to the memory of Martin Luther King, Jr.

During season 1975-76 Mr. Flagello performed in the production and broadcast of "Gianni Schicchi" and appeared in the new production of "I Puritani" with Sutherland and Pavarotti.

Tickets for the performance are available at the College from the Office of Continuing Studies and Community Services, 599-7045.

Student tickets reduced for Ezio concert

An SGA spokesman announced that student tickets for the Ezio Flagello concert on November 13 in the Campus Center Theatre will be sold for $2.00.

The Concert, one of the Nancy A. Ramseur Concert Series, was partially funded ($5,000) by student activities fees; the other half of the cost must be made up by ticket sales.

The Spokesman said that since the students were already paying a student activity fee, the SGA felt that they should be able to get tickets at half price. Through negotiations with the Series Director, Barry Woods, Associate Dean of Academic Affairs, 100 half price tickets have been acquired for the student body. Tickets may be purchased at the Campus Center Information Desk or from a member of the SGA Executive Council before November 10.

Danforth Foundation increases support for higher education leading to college teaching for minorities

The Danforth Foundation, long active in fellowships for graduate education, recently declared its intention to increase support for the advanced education of able minority persons interested in preparing for careers in college teaching.

After eight months of data gathering and study by Staff, the Board of Trustees adopted the following recommendations:

- that the Danforth, Kent, and Graduate Fellowships for Women be recognized into one program -- the Danforth Graduate Fellowship Program
- that the Danforth Graduate Fellowship Program offer approximately 100 fellowships for graduate education annually, with 25 of these awards designated for American Indians, Blacks, Mexican-Americans, and Puerto Ricans.
- that approximately 60-65 of the 100 annual awards go to persons applying as college seniors and that the remaining 35-40 awards go to postbaccalaureate persons
- that preference be given among the early entry applicants to persons under 30 years of age and that preference be given among the late entry applicants to persons 30 to 40 years of age

That the Danforth Fellowships be given to persons committed to careers in college and university teaching, in subject-matter specializations likely to be taught in undergraduate liberal arts curriculum, and for pursuit of the Ph.D. or other appropriate terminal degree at an accredited university of the Fellow's choice in the United States

- that the Fellowships be for one year, with the possibility of renewal for a total of four years, the actual period of support to be worked out on an individual basis
- that a Fellowship include tuition and fees plus a stipend
- that graduating seniors be nominated by campus liaison officers and that postbaccalaureate persons make application directly to the Foundation
- that the criteria for selection feature, in addition to an appropriate degree program and a commitment to teaching, dedication to a life of service informed by moral or ethical values
- that the Foundation utilize unexpended Fellowship funds in any fiscal year for purposes of identifying, recruiting, and educating minority persons

These recommendations will become effective in the 1976-77 academic year, with the first appointees entering graduate study in the fall of 1977.

More than 50 persons, mainly from the minorities, participated in consultations held at various locations around the nation. Also, data were studied on the status of the minorities in higher education, and there was a review of accomplishment of minority persons in Danforth-funded fellowship programs.

The Foundation's commitment to the needs and interests of persons from racial and ethnic minorities has been shown in the past through various grants and programs. Approximately 20 percent of the resources expended through grants have in one way or another been directed to minorities. In the graduate fellowship programs administered by the Foundation, ten percent of the awards in the last ten years have gone to persons from the minorities. The Southern Fellowships Fund of the Council of Southern Universities has received fellowship grants totaling $6,000,000. There have been grants to various individual

Admissions Office to host college night

College-bound high school juniors and seniors will have an opportunity to shop for colleges located all over Virginia in one convenient location during November college night programs in the local area. College nights will be held Nov. 1 at Paul De Camp Community College for students in the Suffolk, Isle of Wight, Surry, Franklin, Southampton, Smithfield, and Sussex areas; November 8 at Menchville High School for students in the Newport News area; Nov. 9 at Tabb High School for students in the James City, York County, Poquoson, and Tabb areas; and Nov. 10 at Phoebus High School for Hampton students, all beginning at 7:30 p.m. in each evening.

The college nights are designed to be opportunities for high school students and their parents to meet with and talk to admissions representatives from Virginia Colleges all over the state in one place at one time, and they are equally useful for the student who has a good idea of the two or three colleges he definitely interested in and for the student who is not at all sure about where he wants to go and wants to know a little about as many colleges as possible. High school juniors can get an advance look at what various colleges have to offer; seniors can have more in-depth discussions with the admissions officers of the colleges they are particularly interested in.

During the evening programs, each college will give a formal presentation of what it has to offer; the presentations are given in separate rooms every half hour so that a student can sit in on the presentations of three or four schools he or she is particularly interested in during an evening. In addition, throughout the evening, in one large, central location such as a gym or a library, some of the colleges represented will have tables set up with representatives available to talk to students who don't want to hear any particular college's in-depth presentation, but who want to sample a variety.

This is the first year that the School and College Relations Committee of the Virginia Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers has had the responsibility for coordinating and organizing college night programs all over the state of Virginia. The State has been divided up into regions for the purpose of organization, with one college coordinating its own region. Christopher Newport College is coordinating and organizing the college night programs for Division 2, which includes the Newport News, Hampton, Suffolk, Isle of Wight, Surry, Southampton, Smithfield, Sussex, Franklin, James City, York County, Poquoson, and Tabb areas. GRE services remain level

PRINCETON, N.J. - Despite inflation, costs to college students using the various services offered by the Graduate Record Examinations Board have remained level and in some areas decreased, according to Educational Testing Service (ETS), which administers the programs for the Board.

For the third consecutive year prices for the Graduate Record Examinations (GRE) national administrations, offered nationwide six times per year, will be held at $10.50 each for the Aptitude Test and one of the 19 Advanced Tests.

In addition, costs for three other services offered by the GRE Board have been reduced, largely due to increased use:

- The per-test cost of the GRE Local Administrations has been reduced from $8.00 to $5.50. Local administrations are used only by the school offering the exam for its enrolled graduate students, and the fee is paid by the school.
- The price of the four-volume Graduate Programs and Admissions Manual for the 1976-77 school year will be cut from $3.50 to $3.00 per volume.
- The price for the sample aptitude test has been reduced to $1.00 from last year's cost of $1.25.

Additionally, in order to make the GRE available to as broad a range of students as possible, the GRE Board has enlarged eligibility requirements for the GRE Fee Waiver Program. Students now eligible for fee waivers are those who are currently enrolled as seniors in college, are receiving financial aid, and have an estimated parental contribution of $200 per year or less. The Fee Waiver also now applies to national and other test administrations.

As in the past, the fee waiver will be used only to defray the cost of the test. It will not be used to offset the costs of additional or supplemental fees such as the walk-in fee or the Special Administration surcharge.

The four volume Graduate Programs and Admissions Manual lists pertinent information about graduate institutions throughout the country as well as a sample aptitude test. The four volumes of the manual are divided by study areas: Volume A - Biological Sciences, Health Sciences and related fields; Volume B - Arts and Humanities; Volume C - Physical Sciences, Mathematics and Engineering; Volume D - Social Sciences and Education.

ETS Administers the GRE program for the 17-member GRE Board, which was formed in affiliation with the Council of Graduate Schools and the Association of Graduate Schools.

has been working intensively in the last year to facilitate better communication between college and high school guidance counselors, in order to provide better guidance services to students:

In addition to its organizational responsibilities for the Division 2 college night programs, Christopher Newport's Admissions Officers are hosting a state-wide intensive workshop for local high school guidance counselors and Virginia college admissions personnel, who will be in the area for the college night programs. The workshop was proposed so that high school counselors and college admissions personnel could openly discuss mutual problems and suggest ways that both groups can work more effectively for the good of the student.

During the workshop, a one-hour panel will be presented. The four panelists will represent a two-year college, a four-year state college, a four-year private college, and the high school guidance services. During the second hour of the workshop, four high-school guidance counselors will lead small discussion groups. CNC Admissions officers expect approximately 50-75 workshop participants.

For further information on either the college night programs or the admissions-guidance workshop, contact Mary Hardman, Assistant Dean of Admissions at Christopher Newport College, 599-7015.

History Dept. to hold Campus Day

The History Department and the History Club of CNC will hold their second high school senior Campus Day of the semester on November 9 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. The guests will be 40-50 students from the Exceptional Student Program who will come to the campus from 5 Hampton schools.

The high school students will visit morning classes, and other facilities on campus. The day's program will conclude with a special showing of the Peninsula bicentennial movie, "Where Past is Present" in the Campus Center Theatre at 12:15 p.m. CNC students, and faculty, are invited to attend this showing.

Is there a cure for the common cold?

By Barbara Herondorf

Is there a cure for the common cold? You bet! It's been around for a long-time. It's that inexpensive, easy to get vitamin C (ascorbic Acid). Don't knock it until you've tried it, and if you've tried it and it didn't work, you weren't using it properly, says Dr. Edme Regnier ("There is a Cure for the Common Cold", 1971).

How does vitamin C work against the virus? Our medical world hasn't figured that out yet.

The Journal of the American Medical Association, March 24, 1975, reported that aspirin inhibits the body's defense mechanisms against the invading viruses. The Infectious Diseases Section, University of Illinois, found that not only did aspirin fail to significantly reduce symptoms of the common cold, but that it enhanced the reproduction of viruses. Volunteers treated with aspirin discharged through their coughing, sneezing, and running noses from 17% to 36% more live viruses than the volunteers who took the placebo.

Pediatrics, April, 1975, reported that antibiotics won't stop the virus either. They are ineffective, expensive, and dangerous. Vomiting and diarrhea are among the symptoms which can result from taking antibiotics, also viruses can become desensitized so that they actually thrive on it.

If vitamin C is so effective, why isn't it being prescribed by physicians, and why is there so much controversy about it? Some reasons are, and there are many, that doctors would rather devote their time to the knowledge of more devastating diseases. Grants for research are expensive coupled with the fact that very few animals can catch human-type colds. The only animals worth experimenting with are chimpanzees, who can catch colds, but they are not the ideal lab "guinea pig"; they are expensive and there are many other reasons why they are just not practical. Therefore, experiments are most always carried out on humans. It is very hard to run controls on humans since you can't lock them up in cages to stick them with needles and observe.

Since you can't control an individual's life, as you can with animals, many experiments don't work. For example, the experiments conducted in Arizona on school children 6-15 years old which was published in the New England Medical Journal (you are hearing about this on TV and radio) was one of the most poorly controlled experiments I have read about! Children at two different schools were given pills containing placebos or vitamin C. They were supervised at school, but not on weekends, holidays, or absent days. Children were asked what symptoms they had once every two weeks by a trained clerk. Dosages of 1000 mgs were not increased when a child caught a cold. In addition, no one observed the children to see if symptoms were less in the vitamin C (or placebo) group. Seventy-six children were dropped from the experiment because of absenteeism, because they dropped out of school, or because they were unwilling to take the pills. Records of absenteeism at the other school were inaccurate, therefore, no children were asked to drop out. Children were served lunches containing vitamin C in excess of the RDA, but there was no mention of how much of that food was actually eaten or how much in excess of the RDA the food contained. There was also no mention as to how fresh or in what conditions the vitamin C tablets were kept over the 18-week period (vitamin C loses its potency with age and exposure to the outside world). No mention was made as to the over-all health or diet of these children. One school asked that the experiment be shortened by three weeks.

Because these experiments on groups of humans don't work sometimes and because no one can seem to figure out why vitamin C does work to relieve symptoms of the cold, I can't blame the medical profession for not prescribing it to their patients. I did, however, meet a doctor recently who prescribes vitamin C to his patients for colds. He said, "Vitamin C does nothing to the virus but it does reduce the symptoms of a cold." I tried it on myself and it works!

Dr. Linus Pauling advocates 7 or 8 grams (7000 to 8000 mgs.) per day taken at the onset of a cold; Dr. Edme Regnier advocates 2000 to 3000 mgs. taken three times a day (three times a day because vitamin C is water soluble and is washed out of the system quickly) at gradually reduced dosages.

In spite of all the controversy, many people are trying vitamin C and getting good results. One of the main reasons you may have had no success with vitamin C, says Dr. Regnier, is that you may not know how to use it. Many factors must be taken into consideration, such as, the freshness of the vitamins, how soon you take it when you start to feel ill, and the dosage you take. Massive doses of ascorbic acid taken over extended periods of time are reported to be toxic, but doses that are too small and not taken at the right times will have little or no effect. If you are interested in finding the facts, I suggest you read, "There is a Cure for the Common Cold" by Edme Regnier, M.D.

The Knack by Ann Jellicoe is a farcical romp about that ancient pursuit of the male: how to get a girl.

Nancy, a young girl of seventeen, has just arrived in London. While looking for the Y.W.C.A., she ventures across three young men. Tolen, the classical lady killer, views her as just another trophy soon to be added to his already rather extensive collection. Today's feminists will be pleased to see that Nancy is not about to fall an easy victim to Tolen's amorous advances. It is Colin, a basically very civilized young man but beset by sexual frustrations, who in the end gains favor with Nancy. Tom, a rare combination of eccentricities and common sense, rounds out the male characters in the play.

Tom is preoccupied with redecorating his room in a rather unorthodox fashion, he displays a strange liking for seeing his chairs hung on the wall. Apart from his unusual tastes regarding interior decoration, Tom shows a good deal of composure among the events surrounding Nancy, Tolen and Colin. These events include a feverishly defensive frenzy on the part of Nancy when she is put upon by Tolen's brutish manners. The result is that she faints from apparent over-exertion.

Finally, she decides to get even by accusing Tom, Tolen and Colin that she was raped while unconscious. Not only does she threaten to go to the police and report the "crime," she even yells out of the window that she was raped. The hunted suddenly turns huntress and puts, temporarily, God's fear into the lives of Colin and Tolen. Tom does manage to retain a state of calm during the turmoil that ensues from Nancy's charge.

Matters do eventually resolve themselves, of course. Tolen resumes his normal existence by chasing after a girl that passes by the window. Tom is pleased to see his chairs on the wall and Colin appears to be well on the road to get Nancy.

The Knack was written in the early sixties and has been played since on many a college stage. Performances are scheduled December 2, 3, and 4 at eight o'clock in the Campus Center Theatre. There will also be a matinee on Saturday, December 4 at 2:30 p.m. Students will be admitted free upon presenting their I.D., the price per ticket for the general public is two dollars.

KONG, BABY.... THERE'S ABSOLUTELY NO ONE ELSE WHO COULD HANDLE THE LEAD IN 'THE LEGEND OF IDI AMIN'!

It is the responsibility of everyone on campus

Editor,

Mickey Mesic, in his letter published in the November 1 Captain's Log complained about the condition of the Campus Center October 27. I wish to respond to several items he mentioned, and note several he did not mention.

On October 27 the Student Virginia Education Association in cooperation with the Newport News Reading Council of the International Reading Association sponsored a reading conference that was attended by 180 teachers, parents, administrators, students, and other members of the community. (I am the Faculty sponsor for SVEA and am a member of the Board of Directors of the Newport News Reading Association.) It was a community activity, not a faculty activity.

There were exhibits, displays, and refreshments. CNC students, not participating in the conference, viewed the exhibits and displays and partook of the (free) refreshments and we were pleased they did so. The "mixers" Mr. Mesic refers to were mixed into fruit punch.

Just before 3:00 p.m. on October 27, we told the young woman at the desk the trash cans were full and asked what to do about them. She did not tell us that we were supposed to carry the trash out to the dumpster! She said it would be taken care of. We piled the trash neatly next to the trash cans.

Displays and exhibits were removed directly after the conference and the hallways were clean. "The hallways were in a state of oblivion" (Mesic) if oblivion holds to its dictionary meaning: the state of being forgotten, as by the public (all remains of the "show" were gone).

Mr. Mesic phoned me at 11:00 the night of October 27. He complained about (1) the trash by the cans, (2) the grading procedures of the Faculty (of whom I am one; although admittedly he didn't know who I was, what I taught, how old I am, or who my students are), (3) the condition of the Campus Center after the Faculty (of whom I am one, though absent from) Happy Hour. He seemed more concerned with punitive retribution than with remediation.

I accepted responsibility for the neatly piled trash near the cans and offered to do what I could to make thing right, to which end, at 11:30 p.m. - 11:45 p.m., I was at the Campus Center; I put the neatly piled trash into plastic bags; and I carried the plastic bags out to the dumpster. I did it BECAUSE I THOUGHT IT WAS IMPORTANT! Mr. Mesic didn't mention that in his letter.

I agree with Mr. Mesic that we need to be concerned about the appearance of our campus and buildings. And I agree that it is the responsibility of everyone on campus.

Your next photocopy may be illegal

(CPS)—Completing the overhaul job on U.S. copyright laws, Congress has made it possible for writers and publishers to collect royalty fees from college librarians and professors if they copy works deviating from the newly prescribed guidelines.

A new bill has worn down into a workable compromise between publishers, professors, authors and librarians. The line fell between the two extremes of mandatory, across-the-board royalty charges on all materials and unlimited duplicating rights.

There hasn't been a major revision of the copyright laws since 1909. In a recent issue of The Chronicle of Higher Education, a brief outline of what teachers and librarians can now expect was laid out.

Teachers may not make multiple copies of the following:

- a work for classroom use if it has already been copied for another class in the same institution;
- a short poem, article, story, or essay from the same author more than once in a class term, or from the same collective work or periodical issue more than three times a year;
- works more than nine times in the same class term.

Furthermore, a teacher may not make a copy of works to take the place of an anthology, or of consumable materials such as workbooks.

Making a single copy from a chapter of a book or an article is permissible if it is used for scholarly research, or in teaching, or in preparation for teaching a class. Multiple copies for classroom work are in another stringent category.

Restrictions for library copying may hamper any interlibrary-loan program a college has set up but spokeswoman for the American Library Association said the restrictions probably will not interfere significantly with library networks. A library will usually buy a book if it is in enough demand to be copied instead of paying for a loan transaction.

Demands for specific guidelines came from education groups because Congress used vague language in its original bill. Sheldon E. Steinbach, of the American Council on Education, said, "The language (of the bill) is quite favorable. It was clear that there was going to be some numerical limit, and the compromise we reached was fair."

But not all agree. Among the education groups calling foul is the Association of American Law Schools. In a letter to the House Judiciary Committee, they said, "The guidelines restrict the doctrine of fair use so substantially as to make it almost useless for classroom teaching purposes... We would prefer that the courts be allowed to delineate... where to draw the line on abuse of the fair use doctrine."

Despite the outcries of detractors, the new legislation leaves a door open for further modifications in the rules if the restrictions prove to be too burdensome. The register of Copyrights will make a report to Congress in five years on the laws' effects.

An amendment which would have enabled government agencies to copyright their publications was dropped. Librarians were pleased that it was dropped, because "it would eventually destroy the Freedom of Information Act by making people pay for any government document."

There are six teams competing in the games which have been underway since the second week in September. When first started, the games were played on the old soccer field; they are now being played at Ferguson High School on Sunday mornings.

In second place, with a record of 5 and 2 are the Raiders. The Over the Hill Gang made it to third place by winning two games in a row. Their record is 3 and 4.

The last three teams, the Independents, EHO's and the Crabbers are tied with a record of 2-5.

For those of you who are early risers, the game start at 9:30 a.m.; come on over to

VA Benefits extended to surviving spouses and children

Some 2.2 million veterans receiving compensation for service-connected disabilities from the Veterans Administration received an 8 percent increase in their monthly payments as a result of legislation signed into law September 30, the VA reports. The increase in monthly rates also was extended to nearly 320,000 surviving spouses and children receiving dependency and indemnity compensation from the VA. These payments go to eligible survivors of veterans who died on active duty or from service-connected causes. Rates range from $260 to $664, based on the veteran's military grade at the time of his death. The increases were effective Oct. 1, and was reflected for the first time in checks received November 1, VA in Roanoke said.

Also expanded were a number of other VA benefits for disabled veterans. An annual clothing allowance for which almost 52,000 service-disabled veterans requiring use of prosthetic or orthopedic appliances are qualified, was increased $15, to $190. The allowance offsets expenses incurred in wear and tear of clothing, the increase was reflected for the first time in benefits paid September 1, 1977, VA said.

Eligibility for the one-time allowance of not more than $3,300 toward purchase of an automobile was extended to certain disabled veterans with military service after September 15, 1940. Previously, eligibility was limited only to those who served after December 6, 1941.

The new law also increased the maximum limit on mortgage protection life insurance from $30,000 to $40,000 for disabled veterans who receive grants for specially adapted housing.

Additional payments of up to $78 monthly was authorized for eligible veterans who receive compensation allowances for a spouse, if the latter requires aid and attendance or is a patient in a nursing home.

Burial benefits were expanded to permit reimbursement for cost of transportation, to the nearest national cemetery, of the remains of veterans who died of service-connected causes.

Women's equality takes step forward, seven accepted for member in AKPsi

The movement for women's equality took a decisive step forward on the evening of November 6th when seven CNC coeds became members of the Alpha Kappa Psi Professional Business Fraternity.

One third of the fall pledge class of twenty-one students for membership in Iota Pi

Chapter were females. During the pledge period, the women worked side by side with to men to accomplish their pledge projects. Some of the women stated that they had wanted to join the fraternity from the very first, but that the restriction against women had prohibited their joining. Another of the coeds said that she felt that it was just and fair for women to belong to the fraternity since they were all preparing for careers in the business world.

Among the older brothers of the fraternity, none could be found who felt that there should be no women in the chapter's membership. A majority of the older members feel that women striving to become members of the business community have an important and positive contribution to make to such an organization, further, they said that their membership would give the men a chance to learn how to work in harmony with their female counterpart in the business world.

Coeds initiated into the fraternity included: Barbara Cottingham, Susan Myer, Jan Mangum, Janet Wilfong, Ann Scott, Katherine Louis, and Stella Lee. Other pledges accepted for membership and initiated were Mike Guida, Pete Stonlton, Sam Fairchild, Chick Long, Robert Saunders, Jim Moore, Allen May, David Smith, Jon Taylor, Kenneth Smith, Jerry Peters, Ben Bollinger, Don Moore, and Bill Edwards.

Iota Pi Chapter President, Bob Lawrence, feels that the initiation of one of the largest pledges classes in the history of the Chapter was due to the large number of coeds who came out. He says that the Chapter is now in a position to pursue its projects in a more orderly fashion than has been the case during the past semester. Due to attrition (graduations), and previously small pledge classes, the chapter's membership had dropped to nine members. While they had attempted to continue the projects of college and community interest to which they were committed, it was often difficult to get the manpower to bring them off in the fashion desired. Bob, along with Martin L. Green (Vice-President), Bill Brauer (Secretary), Joe Hoare (Treasurer), Steve Bost (Master of Rituals), Vince West (Chmn, Entertainment), Mickey Mesic, Craig Rose, and George Seward are happy and anxious to put the new members to work.

Jimmy Roberts, Coach Armistead, and Petey West (lf to rt) following presentation of DCIAA Championship Placques on the CNC courts.

West, Roberts awarded DCIAA Championship Placques

Johnny Roberts and Petey West recently received their championship plaques from CNC tennis coach Jack Armistead. Robert and West won the No. 1 Doubles title in the Dixie Conference Tournament held in April '76 in Greensboro, N.C.

Armistead said West and Roberts were "the strongest doubles team" he had seen in 7 years at CNC. They were undefeated for the entire season.

West, who graduated in '76, was No. 1 singles player, undefeated in season matches, but he lost the singles at the Tournament. Roberts was No. 2 (8-4) singles player in season matches. He has won the doubles crown 2 years in a row. Last year, his partner was Jim Jordan.

universities for minority fellowships. Now, in addition to continuing support for some of these activities, the Foundation will emphasize fellowships for persons from selected minorities through the Danforth Graduation Fellowship Program.

Recruitment activities have already started, coordinated by Dr. John Ervin, Dean of Continuing Education, Washington University, St. Louis, who has been appointed Advisor to the Foundation. Several other persons representing minority groups will work with Dean Ervin and the Foundation Staff.

The Danforth Foundation, established by the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Danforth in 1927, is a national, educational, philanthropic organization, dedicated to enhancing the humane dimensions of life. Activities of the Foundation emphasize the theme of improving the quality of teaching and learning. The Foundation serves the following areas: higher education nationally through sponsorship of Staff-administered programs; precollegiate education nationally through grant-making and program activities; and urban affairs in St. Louis through grant-making and program activities.

ETS changes to triple number of minority graduate students

Princeton, N.J. - Changes in registration procedures for the Minority Graduate Student Locator Service are expected to substantially increase, perhaps triple, the number of students in the program, according to Educational Testing Service (ETS).

At the same time another change, a price reduction to graduate schools, is expected to increase the number of schools participating in the program.

The Locator Service was developed by ETS five years ago for the Graduate Record Examinations Board to help minority students call themselves to the attention of graduate schools and to help graduate school identify minority applicants. There is no cost to the students.

Since that time the program has, with students' permission, annually distributed information about the educational goals and backgrounds of over 9,000 students. ETS hopes to increase that figure by allowing students to register for the service on the same form used for the Graduate Record Examinations (GRE). A separate form used only for the Locator Service will continue to be available for students who do not take the GRE.

The Locator Service is primarily for members of racial and ethnic minorities in the United States. They include American Indians, Blacks, Hispanics, Orientals, and other minority students who are second-term college juniors, seniors or college graduates. Applicants need not be enrolled in college at the present time to take part in the program.

Student registration forms and instructions are inside the centerfold registration envelope in the 1976-77 Information Bulletin for the Graduate Record Examinations and Minority Graduate Student Locator Service. Copies may be obtained from most college undergraduate minority affairs office, the student affairs office or any office involved with student concerns or graduate placement.

ETS hopes to have more graduate schools participating in the program as a result of a price reduction in the fee for schools. The fee, formerly $340, has been dropped to $200.
