First concert to present the Vadalas

The Department of Fine and Performing Arts announced last week that it would expand its concert series this year. Department spokesman, Dr. James R. Hines, said that last year's series was well received and that the seven concerts for this year would feature the best of local and regional professional performers. The purpose of these concerts, he went on, is to provide inexpensive concerts for CNC students, faculty, and friends in the community.

The first concert of this season will feature Christopher and Kathleen Vadala on September 17. Chris, who taught for two years at Hampton Institute, is presently a flutist and saxophonist with the nationally famous Chuck Mangione Quartet. Kathleen has appeared frequently in solo and ensemble performance on the Peninsula and has served as accompanist for several local groups. She is also the piano instructor here at CNC.

Their program will contain traditional as well as contemporary compositions, including

Weber's "Variations for Clarinet and Piano," Op. 33; Berg's "Four Pieces for Clarinet and Piano," Op. 5; and two pieces utilizing pre-recorded tape.

The newly formed CNC Concert Music Club is handling the arrangements and planning for the 1976-77 concerts. Season tickets may be obtained from club members, the Department of Fine and Performing Arts or at the door. Tickets for individual concerts will be available only at the door.

Other concerts to be presented by the department include: David Kim and Bong Hi Kim, violin and piano, October 15; The Thursday Consort, voice and instrumental music of the Renaissance, November 19; F. Gerald Errante and John Lindberg, clarinet and percussion, January 21; Norfolk Chamber Consort, flute, cello and piano, February 18; ODU Faculty Trio, violin, cello, piano, March 18; and on April 15, The Norfolk Camerata, vocal music of the Renaissance.

Nancy A. Ramseur Memorial concert series to present Grammy Award winning artists

Christopher Newport College has announced its third annual Nancy A. Ramseur Memorial concert series. The artists featured in this year's concert have made fifty records and won three Grammy awards. The director of the featured chorale, Mr. Gregg Smith, was selected to arrange and direct the music for the funeral services of the distinguished twentieth century composer, Igor Stravinsky.

On Saturday, October 2, 1976, the New York Brass Quintet will present an evening of traditional and contemporary classical music for brass. The Quintet has made eight records on RCA, Golden Crest, Seraphim, CRI, and Desto labels, and has performed over its nineteen year existence in every major concert hall in the world. The Amsterdam newspaper Algemeen Handelsblad wrote, "What these Americans achieve in technique borders on the incredible."

On Saturday, November 13, 1976, Metropolitan and LaScala bass, Ezio Flagello will present an evening of arias and art songs. Flagello, star at the Met for seventeen seasons, has recorded on London, RCA and Deutsche Grammophon and will appear this season opposite Beverly Sills in the Met's new production of Lucia Di Lammermoor. Harold Rosenthal in Opera declared Flagello's Falstaff "the definitive Falstaff." On Saturday, February 12, 1977, the Gregg Smith Singers, three-time winners of Grammy Awards for the year's best classical records, will present an evening of American music. The London Times wrote of a 1974 performance, "Rarely since its incarnation as a concert hall can the walls of St. John's have rung with so many varied, brilliant and joyful sounds."

On Saturday, April 16, 1977, the promising young pianist Jeffrey Siegel, who just recently completed recording the complete piano works of Gershwin for Vox Records, will present an evening of music from Bach to Dutilleul. After hearing Mr. Siegel play, Artur Schnabel wrote, "I was deeply moved by your performance and enchanted by the beautiful tone you produced. You are a rare musician, not a mere display of technical fireworks. I applaud your success with all my heart."

During fall registration, a number of complaints were received by the members of Alpha Kappa Psi, the College Bookstore, and the SGA concerning the sale of used books.

Following a meeting with CNC President, Dr. James C. Windsor, regarding the subject, Mrs. Jacqueline T. Haskins (Bookstore manager) was asked to clarify the Bookstore's procedures for handling used books. In a memorandum to The Captain's Log, Mrs. Haskins made the following comments:

"College Bookstores around the country are beginning to go into the 'used book sales' as a service to students on a larger scale than ever before. This increase is due in part to the ever increasing cost of textbooks and the overall increase in the cost of everything."

"The Christopher Newport College Bookstore has just begun to try to offer used books to students this fall 1976 Semester. While they seem to be few at this time, we hope that the future semesters will see your College Bookstore offering used books in all areas. Your professors' required textbook adoptions will play a large part in this service, if they repeat the use of texts.

"As a service to students, the CNC Bookstore will hold 'used book buy-backs' at the end of each semester. This will be during the week of exams. To further explain this service, we would like for you to understand the following," she said.

"First, textbooks that are known to be adoptions for the up-coming semester will be purchased by the Bookstore at 50% of the publishers' list price. Even though the student purchased a used textbook for the previous semester, he will still be paid 50% of the list price of the book.

"Second, books that are not being required in the up-coming semester can be purchased from students at the current wholesale price. Prices will be quoted in writing in the future. Students have the option to sell or keep their books, as this is usually a one-fifth or one-fourth retail price buy that the wholesaler offers. It depends on the value the student cares to place on his books. He has the option to sell for cash on the spot, or keep, whichever is desired.

"In the future," she went on, "the bookstore will advertise well in advance of the used book 'buy-back'. This will be done through The Captain's Log, signs, posters, and hand outs.

"All used books acquired by the bookstore will be labeled with an orange and black sticker USED and will be mixed with the new books for that particular course. Very heavily marked books will not be purchased. Light marking or high-lighting is acceptable.

"Your college bookstore wishes to encourage you to take part in this used book service, either selling or buying. Watch for the ads in The Captain's Log," she concluded.

Questions concerning the sale or purchase of used books will be welcomed by Dr. Windsor, Mrs. Haskins, and The Captain's Log. Please submit such questions in writing and furnish your name and telephone number.

CNC coed crowned Miss Virginia World

Carolyn J. Curtis, a CNC Sophomore, was crowned "Miss Virginia World" during ceremonies held in Norfolk, Virginia on May 15. Carolyn went on to represent the Commonwealth of Virginia in the Miss World USA Pageant where she was the 2nd runner-up nationwide. When asked how she felt about the pageant, she said, "I feel very privileged to have come so far in a national pageant...especially after viewing the competition."

Carolyn says she gives most of the credit for her entering the state pageant to 1976 CNC graduate, Pat Roof. "Pat put me up to it on a dare," Carolyn said. "We had been teasing a lot about it last spring - then around final exam time she got the CNC Music Club to sponsor me, she and I were both members of the choir. It meant a lot to me that they would raise the money for me like that and I am grateful to all my friends at Christopher Newport who supported me."

While in Norfolk, Carolyn says that "Dr. James Hines, Chairman of the CNC Music Department and director of the choir graciously allowed her to be the guest of he and his daughter, Angie, at their home during the state pageant."

After receiving the Miss Virginia World title, Carolyn returned to her home in Fairfax, Virginia. From there, she was flown to Boston, Massachusetts for the August 23 national competition.

"We had the most terrific week being wined and dined by Boston's best," explained Carolyn. She and the other contestants were the guests of Dr. Richard Adamian, President of Bentley College in Waltham, Massachusetts. "The dorms were beautiful," she exclaimed. I shared a 2-bedroom suite with a full kitchen with Miss New Jersey."

Each girl had to wear a symbolic costume of her state and present a small gift to the Mayor. After considering many different ideas, Carolyn chose to reflect one of her own favorite hobbies and went dressed as a backpacker from the Blue Ridge Mountains. Her gift to the Mayor was a bicentennial collage of Virginia which she made herself.

A few of the judges for the pageant were: Mrs. Del Webb; Jo Jo White, Captain of the Boston Celtics; Mayor Arthur Clarke of Waltham; Gerald Gordon, better known as "Dr. Nick Bellini" of The Doctors, and of course, Hugh O'Brian as Master of Ceremonies. And, of course, Bob Hope was on hand as he is every year for the pageant.

"The thing that impressed me the most would have to be the other girls," remarked Carolyn. "There were very few so-called 'snobs' or 'fleshpots'. Because of tight security at the college, we were kept rather isolated; however, this gave us an opportunity to spend time together and get to know one another, which was a tremendous broadening experience," she said. "To give you some idea of the uniqueness of each girl," Carolyn continued, "a few that stand out in my mind are: Miss Connecticut, a dental hygienist; Miss Kentucky, who had her masters degree in Psychology; and Miss South Dakota, an anchorwoman for a Sioux Falls news station."

Carolyn says that, "There was no formal talent competition the night of the pageant, however, the girls got to show-off at various events during the week." Miss Kansas, an opera major, sang "Summertime" from Porgy and Bess; Miss Rhode Island, a theater major, did a dramatic presentation from "Cabaret," Miss North Carolina, with the thickest southern accent of all, became the brunt of quite a bit of teasing and was urged to "just talk" for her talent. She was eventually voted Miss Congeniality. Miss Massachusetts got choked on a fish bone at dinner one night which Miss Utah talentedly rescued from her

Cummings to be new assistant soccer coach to Sneddon

Christopher Newport College announces the appointment of Robert Cummings as the assistant soccer coach to Head Coach Bill Sneddon. A native of Maryland, Cummings played the position of center forward for Patterson High in Baltimore where he made All-State. During his college years, 1960-63, at the University of Maryland, Cummings contributed to a soccer team that captured the Atlantic Coast Conference championship 1960-62 and made the All South and All Atlantic Coast Conference play-offs.

Dr. Cummings' coaching experience includes freshman coach at the University of Maryland, 1963, assistant coach at West Virginia university, 1964, founded a soccer team (1965-70) at the York College in Pennsylvania, and in 1971-76, acted as the head coach for the Community College of Baltimore with a 43-13-3 record.

Athletic Director Beverly Vaughan said, "We feel very fortunate to have someone like Bob with his talents and background to complement the strengths of Head Coach Bill Sneddon. The addition of Bob to our staff is a plus to the Athletic Dept as well as the upcoming soccer season."

throat with a tiny forceps and flashlight she had in her purse. Appropriately enough, she was a registered nurse.

Carolyn says she got the chance to dance twice during the week. "Although I was unprepared, it was lots of fun," she confessed.

Had Carolyn won the Pageant she would have had to take a years leave of absence from school. "I wouldn't have minded the traveling, but I'm glad to be back at CNC," she admits. "Being 2nd runner-up isn't going to throw that big a dent in my career plans...I feel honored to have just won the state pageant and participated in Boston. I have souvenirs, pictures, autographs, 49 addresses and beautiful memories from a time in my life that I will never forget," she concluded, "and wouldn't trade for anything."

Save your fenders, save a bundle

Invariably, every semester at CNC starts off with almost everyone complaining about various campus conditions. Such complaints have ranged from sanitation conditions in the cafeteria to the price of food, from writings on the restroom walls to the condition of classrooms, from the long lines for late registration to the lack of parking space.

This semester is no different. One of the major complaints this year appears, once again, to be on campus parking.

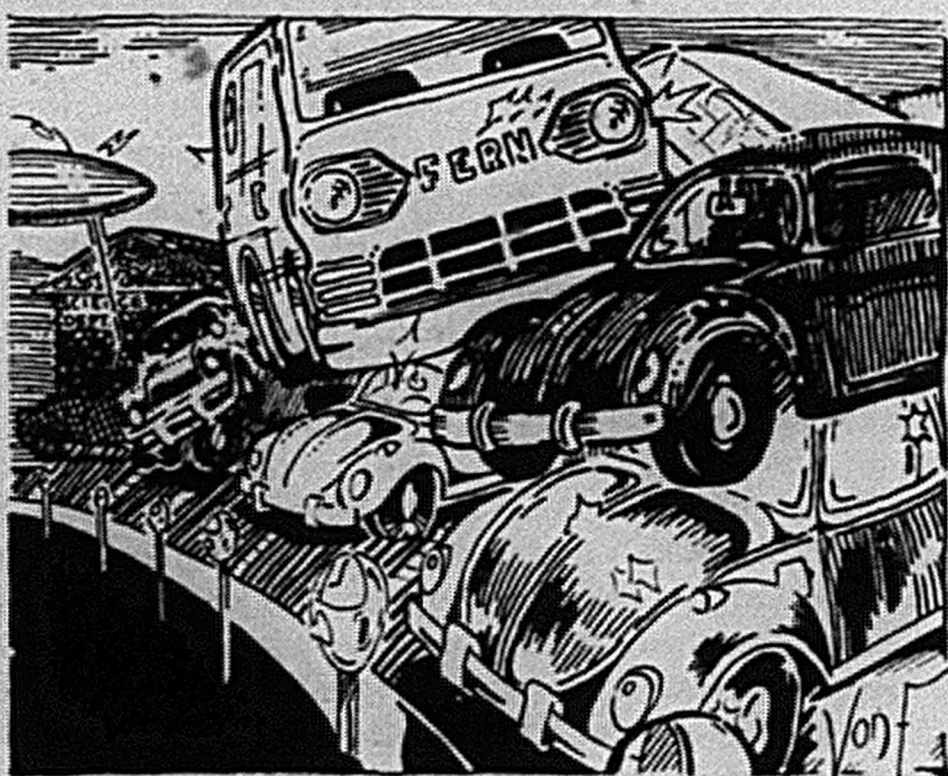

The shortage of parking space is usually most critical during the first two or three weeks of each semester; however, parking violations continue throughout the semester as students try to park as close as possible to the building in which their classes are scheduled. While most such violations are of a minor nature (parking in "No Parking" zones), a number of violations are of such a nature as to prevent the departure of other vehicles (blocking lanes). These violations are especially prevalent in the parking area in front of the Campus Center.

The cost of having a car door or fender repaired has undoubtedly been overlooked by a number of people. This is apparent from the way they park. Two weeks ago, we saw the most serious accident in three years here on campus. No one was injured, but one auto had to be towed away. Damage to this vehicle amounted to several hundreds of dollars.

Even if you don't care about the comings and goings of other students, I would think that you would value your own property. Few of us can afford the costs of having a door or fender repaired at today's prices, even with auto insurance. In addition, illegally parked vehicles are subject to ticketing and fines by the campus police.

The college added an additional 70 parking spaces during the summer, and it is granted that this number is insufficient in view of the continued growth of our enrollment. However, we can not overlook the point that we have a duty to ourselves, and our fellow man, to protect our own interests. Get wise, come to the campus early, park only in designated parking spaces, and allow sufficient time to walk to your classes - it could save you a bundle.

Your help is needed, get into the action

The first week of school went pretty smoothly with the exception of a few rough spots. As the waves of old and new students poured onto the campus they were hit by a barrage of new parking regulations and the controversial parking fee. Other parking problems include both good and bad news. The good news is that there are 100 new parking spaces. The bad news is that there are approximately 600 new students. We are charged $1.00 for a parking sticker but we are not guaranteed a parking space. This seems pretty ironic!

Of course, there was the usual bedlam resulting from the Registrar's office confusing classes and room schedules. Both students and professors had to tango with classroom space because in some instances there were 3 classes scheduled for the same room at the same hour.

To top all this off, the bargain hunting students were disappointed that there was no used book sale. The Business Fraternity Booksale was taken over by the Bookstore mainly because of the competition factor involved. The Business Fraternity would try to sell your books for you while the Bookstore gives you cash on the spot for your used books.

It is up to you to start doing something about any complaints you have. We will eventually lose the little power we do have on this expanding campus if students do not exercise their rights. Do complain and get involved. Every student at CNC is a member of the SGA. So take an interest in what is happening with your student government.

There is also the CAC (Campus Activities Committee) which brings entertainment and other activities to our infamous Campus Center (i.e., movies, Pub entertainment, etc.). If you are interested in this organization you should sign up at the Campus Center Information Desk. Your preferences in different kinds of entertainment will not be known unless you voice an opinion.

Altogether, we have a fantastic campus with great potential for bigger and better things. Be sure and take advantage of what is offered both academically and socially. For example, everyone is entitled to ten free hours of tutoring in any subject. This is a pretty good bargain. There are a variety of social organizations which you can join at your own will.

Go out and take part of the action!

CNC Notices

Students invited to SGA Council meetings

All students are invited to attend the SGA Executive Council meetings. The next meeting will be held in the Board Room (upstairs in the Campus Center) at 2:00 pm on Wednesday, September 15, 1976.

Varsity cheerleading squad to form

All men and women interested in Varsity Cheerleading should sign up in the Director of Athletics office in Ratcliffe Gymnasium before Friday, September 17. There will be a meeting for all those interested on Monday, September 20 at 12 noon in the Women's gym.

Practice will be held Monday through Friday until tryouts on Wednesday, October 6. Practices will be adapted to your class schedules.

BSA organizational meeting planned

The Black Students Association of CNC will hold an organizational meeting on Wednesday, September 22 from 12 to 1 pm in CC-227. All interested parties are invited to attend.

Calculator in library

The Physics Department now has a calculator on reserve at the Captain John Smith Library for use by any student on campus. Students are advised to bring along a 9-volt battery which is available at our Bookstore.

SGA elections announced

Elections for SGA Senators and vacant class offices will be held on September 28 and 29. Petitions for running for office can be picked up at the Dean of Student Affairs office and must be submitted by September 20. Campaigns will begin on September 21.

Students needed to serve on committees

Students interested in serving on the following committees are urged to contact any member of the SGA in their offices on the second floor of the Campus Center.

Traffic Control, Building and Grounds, Placement, Student Activities, Student Responsibility and Academic Work, Intramural and Leisure Time Activities, Financial Aid, Campus Activities, Library, Auxiliary Services Advisory, Grievance, Curriculum, Affirmative Action, and the Athletic Committee.

Office hours are posted in the office windows.

Student organization mail

All mail for student organization representatives is directed to the office of the Dean of Student Affairs. Please therefore regularly check the bulletin board in this office for pertinent information.

At the moment there is mail for: Civitan, Christian Science, Biology, Building and Grounds Committee, Honor Society, and the Horticulture Club.

Help needed for mass immunization program

Students will be needed to assist with the mass immunizations when the swine flu vaccine becomes available in early October. Students who are interested in helping should contact Elsie Meehan at the Voluntary Action Center, 838-9770.

Workshop on test anxiety management training

Test Anxiety Management Training is a five-session group in which students learn the technique of deep muscle relaxation combined with imagery as a way of controlling anxiety and tension. It is appropriate for those who want to learn to control anxiety related to testing situations.

The workshop will be offered by Dr. Frank Babcock. It will be held on five consecutive Tuesdays, starting on September 28 from 3:30 pm to 5:00 pm. To participate in this group, it is necessary to pre-register by September 27. The workshop will be limited to 10 participants.

If you have any questions, call the Counseling Center, 599-7046.

Communication skills workshop

The Counseling Center is offering a four-week workshop in Communication Skills. The workshop will be held on Mondays from 3 to 5 pm in the faculty dining room at the Campus Center beginning September 13. Enrollment will be limited to 10 participants. Students may sign up for the workshop in the Counseling Center, room 116 in Wingfield Hall. The group will be facilitated by Jane Siegel from the Counseling Center.

SVEA to hold meeting

The SVEA will hold a meeting on the second floor of the Campus Center in room 205 on September 25 at 4:30 pm. The topic of the meeting will be "Student Teaching."

Student organization budgets

Student organization representatives should pick up copies of their 1976-77 budgets from the office of the Dean of Student Affairs.

Student organizations and clubs

Please check the office of the Dean of Student Affairs for club mail concerning funds, meetings, etc. Mail for the student auditor, the College newspaper, the Undertow and/or the SGA may be left in this office for pickup by these groups. All student mail received by the College is forwarded to this office for forwarding to students. If you expect mail, check here - room CC-237.

Clark speaks on governmental integrity

This is the conclusion of a two part article on integrity in government by the Honorable Ramsey Clark, former Attorney General of the United States. The Honorable Mr. Clark presented this speech at CNC's May Commencement exercises at the Hampton Coliseum. Part one of this speech appeared in the August 30, 1976 issue of The Captains Log.

Part II of II Parts
Commencement Speech
by

The Honorable Ramsey Clark
Former Attorney General of the United States
May 16, 1976

But even more ominous and what an incredible paradox, that while for all that we suffered through the exposures of Watergate, and perhaps we'll go through the same thing after the conclusion of the work on the CIA and the FBI, no reform legislation. There was coming up all this while the first Federal Criminal Justice code. Let me tell you something; the Criminal Justice Code tells you a whole lot about the values of the people, because it has to make hard choices. We've had a scatteration of laws passed from fear and prejudice and need through the years, laying there, irrelevant and harmful, some absolutely necessary, but they're probably the fewer parts. And suddenly we find but can barely see on the scene, in the Congress of the United States, a Senate Bill 1, 753 pages, a complete federal Criminal Justice Code, reflecting values of violence, reliance on segregation, the authorization of deception in government and absolute obedience to authority as its underlying principle.

Too many illustrations to get into: the use of violence at a time that we desperately need to reverse life would reinstate the death penalty: high crimes for which this society in all its generosity and justice and power and affluence would kill people in its grasp. It would authorize police to use deadly force not under that only circumstance that I have ever been able to see it justifiable: to save life. You can take care of the rest later, but use deadly force, that is a gun or something, shooting a twelve year-old kid who's running away from you, in the back, you cannot do that except to save life, the life of an officer, or the life of another person. Yet S-1 would authorize the use of deadly force or violence in a range of areas including such things as to prevent a fleeing felon from escaping. Observing on this in Illinois a few weeks ago, someone said, "You know, it's a felony to pass a check in amount greater than $10 if you have insufficient funds in the bank. Somebody could have just written that check and be walking out of the bank and that would be legal justification for the use of deadly force."

Segregation is a problem solver we've tried again and again, in spite of our commitment to freedom, as we call it. Look at the original Americans, those who were at the dock to meet John Smith, the Mayflower and the rest. The Indians, segregated into reservations that have made them the most deprived of all of our people. Suddenly, you have a Criminal Justice Code that would come up with a great lengthening of imprisonment sentences at a time when all of our intelligence and all of our experience tells us that the prison as an institution has failed, that it has increased our capacity for antisocial conduct, that it is probably the most effective educational institution in our society, but it teaches the wrong lesson -- violence, and has manufactured crime.

Suddenly, you would have the authorization of the use of techniques of entrapment, deceiving people to cause them to commit crime so they can be arrested. After all we've been through, don't we know better than that? Don't we understand what you do to society when you take a person like Boyd Douglas and put him in a prison with Father Phillip Berigan, and suddenly he says to Father Phillip Berrigan whom he has come up to, this FBI informer and agent provocateur, this man revealed, "an experienced and effective confidence man," "Yes, Father Phil, I was an altar boy; and by the way, I was in the army, and I learned about explosives. I'd like to get some primer cord for you; I'd like to show you how to use explosives." "No, Boyd, I don't care about explosives." "What about a gun, don't you need a gun, 'cause I know where I can get a gun. Don't you want a gun?" "No, Boyd, I don't want a gun."

And then we read about FBI agents firing guns at federal buildings in San Diego, trying to induce someone else to do the same. We hear about a paid FBI agent provocateur leading people into the Camden, New Jersey draft board. And here we are, the people of the United States through S-1 putting our imprimatur on that sort of conduct.

Let me talk about our commitments to freedom, to equality, to democracy. Let's look at education and equality, for a moment. Tomorrow, it will have been twenty-two years since one of the most important blows for liberty ever struck in this land resounded: Brown v. Board of Education, opening up for all our people the chance to know the truth and to be set free. Somehow or other we have finally learned what Frederick Douglass was trying to tell us in Chapter 7 of his great autobiography. He had worked in the fields on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, right up to the Peninsula here, as a slave. He was a bright, attractive youngster. And the Auld family decided to take him into the home in Baltimore, where he could take care of their youngest child, Tommy. Mrs. Auld was a very religious woman and every day she would read the Bible to Tommy. Frederick Douglass was very bright, very inquisitive, and he listened. And soon, he would sit beside her and she followed under the words with her fingers as she read. And Frederick Douglass learned to read. It was a crime in Maryland then, as it was a crime in Virginia then, as it was a crime in Texas from where I come, for reasons that I assume are obvious. One evening, Tommy and Frederick Douglass was reading from the Bible and Mr. Auld walked in and saw this slave reading and flew into a rage and sent Frederick Douglass immediately back to the plantation. And from this we learn a number of things.

First, Douglass said that life was never quite the same. Sure, some of the joy was taken out of it. But from then on, his future was determined. Soon, he was trying to teach other slaves how to read, and he was caught in the basement of a church, brutally beaten at age 16, and that's when he ran away.

He grew to become the great man, the free man, the enormous force that he was and remains in our society. The Auld family was never the same. We're told in a note that she wrote many years later that the relationships in the family were just never the same after that moment. And though Frederick Douglass believed that she loved him always, she wrote many years later, "But how perfectly stupid it was of me to have ever permitted a slave to read. Why couldn't I have seen that cannot be? Because the power that comes with that capacity to read and the knowledge that flows from it is absolutely incompatible with the condition of servitude."

Yesterday, in the New York Times, and hopefully in your papers too, there was a story. It said that the Attorney General of the United States, Edward H. Levy, a very old friend of mine (He was a professor at the University of Chicago, and I studied under him. As chance would have it, he was the first person to inform my wife and I that my father had been appointed to the Supreme Court of the United States. We'd just left class and had gotten back to our little apartment, a fourth-floor walk-up in the 5700 block of South Blackstone. We were fixing lunch and we could hear somebody thundering up the stairs and it was Professor Levy and he said, "Have you heard the news?" and we hadn't because we'd been out all morning. He'd gone home and turned on his radio and my father'd been appointed to the Supreme Court.) This news story said the Attorney General of the United States is considering whether to file a brief of amicus curiae in the United States Supreme Court, which he has to do tomorrow, the 22nd anniversary of Brown v. Board (22 happens to be the median age of college graduates this year) seeking to reverse the Boston school desegregation case.

A life without principle: I have to tell you I find that unthinkable. Do we believe in Constitutional government? Does it have any connection with the fact that there may be a primary in Michigan Tuesday, as has been suggested in the papers today? Is it possible that with something so fundamental and profound as the right to equal education in our society that we can tinker? Are we reacting to a little bit of violence, to mob rule? Do we have no commitment to principle that says we'll go on? Don't we understand the loneliness and hardship of men like Skelly Wright and Frank Johnson and Arthur Garrity, judges in their own towns, who have stood for principle over local prejudice? And why is this possible, that this would be considered? Heaven knows I hope when its considered that Attorney General Levy will say that we will intercede in that case, but in support of Judge Arthur Garrity's desegregation order because this nation was founded on principles: freedom, equality, democracy, and this office can never turn from them.

I think we saw a politicalization of the Department of Justice during this business called Watergate. I think that place has to be a house of law. I don't think it will be a house of law unless the nation as a whole learn to live by principle.

If we're not concerned about Watergate, so that we demand to representative government that we have law to prevent its occurrence, if we sit back in ignorance and unconcern while Senate Bill 1 approaches becoming the law of the land, if we can sit happily by and see it contemplated in the Department of Justice that a brief would be filed that is contrary to the unanimous opinions of the Supreme Court on this subject since 1954, then perhaps we are approaching the time that Benjamin Franklin was talking about: "when the people have become so corrupted that they are incapable of any other form of government but despotism."

I think we're the luckiest people that ever lived. I think our question is whether we can see the truth in time. Because it's obvious that we have abundantly and manifestly the capacity to solve all of our problems. The need is for us as individuals to begin to live by principle, to understand that the true joy of life is being deeply involved in a cause you yourself deem mighty, in being thoroughly worn out before you're thrown on the scrap heap, in being a force of nature instead of a feverish, selfish little clod of ailments and grievances, complaining that the world won't devote itself to making you happy. I think we have to understand what Pablo Casals was trying to tell his students, as has been related to us. They had been fiddling for months now, and finally it was the end of the last class and their fingers were so tired they couldn't mash the strings down anymore. That grand old man, up into his eighties, would motion to them and all three or four of his students would come toward him, dragging their cellos behind them, and he would say, "I want you always to be young, to be young all your life, and to say things to the world that are true."

We know things that are true. We may be 200 but we can be young in spirit, for each age is a dream that is dying or one that is coming to birth. And your generation will determine whether the American dream is still coming to birth--the fulfillment of people through freedom, equality and justice--and that will depend on our ability to believe Abraham Lincoln's last sentence in his Cooper Union speech when he said, "Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith, let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it."

Thank you, and good luck to you.

New director looks forward to increased drama interest

Dr. Bruno Koch, the new director of theatre at CNC, views with conspicuous enthusiasm the facility as a vital asset for building a strong drama program. In a recent interview, he said, "Many a New York director would turn green with envy if he saw CNC's theatre in the Campus Center. It has without a question one of the most charming atmospheres I have experienced in this part of the country, or anywhere else for that matter."

Koch is a native of Germany. He was trained as an actor and director at the Academy of Stage, Film and Radio in Wiesbaden, and he acted professionally for three years before coming to this country in 1957. Since then he attended Baylor University, The University of Houston and the University of Michigan. He has taught at Eastern Michigan University, St. Louis University, the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and at Chapel Hill. Last year, Koch directed two productions in New York on off Broadway.

"Christopher Newport is an exciting place to be," said Koch, maintaining that there are "two very good reasons for looking optimistically into the future. First, CNC is perhaps the only type of institution in higher education today with a promise of rapid growth. Second, it is situated in a location well suited for a college theatre."

"I have been impressed by the number of inquisitive students I have so far met," Dr. Koch went on to say. "But," he continued, "may I hasten to add that I would like to see more of them; in fact, many more. I urge everyone who has any interest in theatre either to see me personally in my office (Campus Center) or attend the first meeting of the CNC Players on September 15 at 12 pm in the CNC theatre. That meeting, among other matters, will help determine the choice of play to be produced this semester under my direction. I am looking forward very much to both the meeting and the production."

Koch's specialties in recent years have been the teaching of acting and the directing of plays. In 1971 his production of Georg Buechner's Woyzeck (in his own translation) was performed at the Ford Theatre in Washington, D.C. at the American College Theatre Festival. "My responsibilities," Dr. Koch explained, "are naturally much broader because of the limited scope of the current program. You will understand that one of my first tasks is to increase enrollment in the drama classes so that more faculty can be added. Theatre is a very complex undertaking and requires a great variety of professional competencies in order to be first-rate, in terms of instruction and production. That, of course, is the goal toward which I intend to work."

The move to find work for all is exceeded by those who are not all for work. - Don Major.

While Dr. Koch approaches the future with visible enthusiasm and confidence, he is far from suggesting that the months and years ahead will be easy ones. The peculiarities of a non-residential institution, in his opinion, pose formidable challenges to an effective theatre operation which demands a great amount of time, dedication and systematic work. "Yet,"

Koch concluded, "I do not foresee any obstacle that sustained and committed effort cannot overcome or might prevent the CNC drama program from becoming eventually a significant element in the cultural affairs of this region."

Pub overflows

By Faith Ann Gibson

People were overflowing from the Pub on Wednesday night when the official grand opening brought singer Sherri Brennen of Norfolk to entertain the clientele. Sherri, who has a fantastic voice and plays the guitar well, was forced to compete with the noise of the crowd. However, the crowd must have been listening, the applause was pretty strong.

One student commented, "Excellent, excellent," when asked his opinion of the Pub; while a harried, new waitress replied, "No Comment!" "Too crowded and too noisy," was the opinion of a third student. Everybody seemed to be happy drinking and talking among new and old friends. People were ordering sandwiches (something new in the Pub) and drinking either canned or draft beer. There was enough variety to make everyone happy.

Your Elpee's Worth

Bee Gees - Children of the World, 1976, RSO Records Inc., Produced by The Bee Gees.

Get out your hustle shoes, you'll need them. The Bee Gees are bouncing back on the AM waves with their new disco sound. After many years of doing ballads, The Bee Gees have metamorphosed into a R & B and disco band.

Unusual to an already established band, the single "You Should Be Dancing" was released before this album was available. This single, which is currently on the top 40, incorporates the disco sound. Disco is mainly minimum lyrics, maximum rhythm, and extensive orchestration.

Rhythm and blues are an important part of the new Bee Gees style. Many of the tunes on this album could have appeared on Motown and gone undetected, "Love is Right" gives a glimpse of the Motown sound. One big complaint in this area is the over use of Robin Gibbs falsetto. His warbling falsetto, characteristic to the Bee Gees, becomes an annoyance in the R&B arrangement.

On the plus side is a number called "Boogie Child." This funky blend of wah-wah guitar, synthesizer, and horns sounds much like Stevie Wonder. To go ever further, the vocal sounds imitate Wonder.

Stephen Stills appears on this album, yet is given no credit for "Children of the World." This sounds like Crosby, Stills, Nash, & Young to the letter. A very tight vocal harmony makes it a winner.

Children of the World is an AM stations' delight. All of the cuts are under the magic 5 minute mark, so each one is a potential hit. This fact coupled with the disco sound, almost guarantees a block-buster of an album.

This album was contributed by Wide World of Music, where CNC students are offered a 40% off list price on albums. Located in Newmarket North Shopping Mall, they're open Monday thru Saturday from 10 am to 9:30 pm. Take along your ID and cash in on a bargain.

Behind Chivalry: Why men treat women the way they do

The Hampton-Newport News League of Women Voters is sponsoring a day-long workshop entitled: "Behind Chivalry: Why Men Treat Women the Way They Do." The workshop will be held Saturday, September 18 at the Christopher Newport College Campus Center. Registration begins at 9:00 am and is open to the public.

Sara Watters, President of the Hampton-Newport News League of Women Voters, will introduce the program, which will be set up to deal with questions such as: What is it like to be a man? What was it like growing up in the 30s, the 40s, the 50s. What are the social stresses and pressures on men today? Why do men vote the way they do - especially in state legislatures?

Participants will be addressed by Agnes L. Braganza, a graduate student at William and Mary, who will give a demographic overview of state legislators; William Henry Chafe, Associate Professor of History at Duke University, will speak on "Who is This New Man? - Historic Assumptions;" Elaine Showalter, Associate Professor of English at Rutgers University, will talk about literary perspectives on male-female relations; Elise Heinz, an attorney in Arlington, will talk about legal structures and social change, and Dr. Teodoro J. Braganza, M.D., psychiatrist and teacher at Medical College of Eastern Virginia, will discuss the psychiatric implications of social change. Small discussion groups will also be formed to give everyone a chance to voice opinions and to ask questions.

The conference is being partially funded by the Virginia Foundation for the Humanities and Public Policy. For further information and registration, contact Linda Beebe, 850-0961.

Women, blacks, youths, and elderly have lowest voter turnout

We have repeatedly criticized Soviet Russia because little more than 5% of the people control the workings of the government and in effect constitute a ruling elite. However, here in the United States, we have little room to talk, less than half of the eligible voters in this country are registered and less than half of them actually vote. This indicates that only 25% of the people control the decision-making process in our "democracy." In addition, the people who need and demand representation the most make up those segments of the populous that have the lowest voter turnout (women, blacks, youths, and the elderly).

The banners of the cry for change are flying again and the forces supporting the status quo are ready to do battle. Your best weapons for or against change; for or against a certain political attitude, is the vote. To vote, you must be registered to vote at least 30 days prior to an election. If you are registered, get out and vote on November 2, 1976. If not, you must register before October 2, 1976 in order to vote in the national, state, and local elections.

To register, just go to the voter registrar in the city in which you reside at one of the times and places given below - give your name, address, date of birth, place of birth, social security number, marital status, and occupation. That's it!

Voter registration locations and times in Hampton (723-6011) are at the Courthouse, Monday thru Friday, 9 to 12 and 1 to 5 pm. On Friday, September 10, 17, and 24, and October 1 from 9 to 9, and on Saturday, September 18 and 25 from 8:30 to 5 pm. At Hampton Fair Day in Gosnold Hope Park on Saturday, September 11 from Noon to 5 pm. At the Phoebus, Buckroe and Foxhill Fire Stations on Wednesday, September 1 from 6 to 9 pm; at the Wythe, North Hampton, and Briarfield Fire stations on Thursday, September 2 from 9 to 9 pm; and at the Royal Oakes and Pembroke Fire stations on Friday, September 3 from 6 to 9 pm.

In Newport News (247-8631) you can register to vote at the City Hall from 8 am to 5 pm, Monday thru Friday; from 8 am to 9 pm on Tuesday and Thursdays; and on Saturday, October 2 from 9 am to 5 pm. At the Denbigh library on Old Courthouse Way, you can register on Tuesdays from 1 to 9 pm; at the Hilton library from 1 to 9 pm on Thursdays.

In York County (887-5811), you may register at the Courthouse from 9 am to 5 pm, Monday thru Friday; 7 to 9 pm on Wednesday, September 15 and 22; and on Saturday, September 25 and October 2, from 9 am to 5 pm. Also at Magruder Elementary School on Tuesday, September 14 and 28 from Noon to 4 pm and on Saturday, October 2, from 9 am to 5 pm.

The Courthouse is the place to go in James City County. You can register from 9 am to Noon and 1 to 5 pm, Monday thru Friday; 9 to 9 on Monday, September 20 and 27, and 9 am to 5 pm on Saturday, September 25 and October 2.

In Williamsburg (220-0077), you can register at 1005 Richmond Rd, Monday thru Friday, from 7:30 am to Noon and from 1 to 4:30 pm. Also on Saturday, October 2 from 9 am to 5 pm.

Editor's Note: According to the latest census figures for the city of Newport News, there should be 89,000 registered voters, 18 years of age and over. This figure represents 65% of the city's total population of 138,000. According to the Office of Voter Registration, only 52,000 citizens were actually registered as of 4:45 pm on September 7, 1976.

Test date for National Teacher Examinations announced

Students completing teacher preparation programs may take the National Teacher Examinations on any of the three different test dates announced by Educational Testing Service, a non-profit, educational organization which prepares and administers this testing program.

Dates for the testing of prospective teachers are: November 13, 1976, February 19 and July 16, 1977. The tests will be given at nearly 400 locations throughout the United States.

Results of the National Teacher Examinations are used by many large school districts as one of several factors in the selection of new teachers and by several states for certification or licensing of teachers. Some colleges also require all seniors preparing to teach to take the examinations.

On each full day of testing, prospective teachers may take the Common Examinations which measure their professional preparation and general educational background and an Area Examination which measures their mastery of the subject they expect to teach.

Prospective candidates should contact the school systems in which they seek employment, or their colleges, for specific advice on which examinations to take and on which dates they should be taken.

The Bulletin of Information for Candidates contains a list of test centers, and general information about the examinations, as well as a Registration Form. Copies may be obtained from college placement officers, school personnel departments, or directly from National Teacher Examinations, Box 911, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

White House Conference on Handicapped Individuals to hold regional meeting in Norfolk

The regional meeting of the White House Conference on Handicapped Individuals will be held Wednesday, September 22, 1976, at SCOPE Convention Center in Norfolk to review problems, increase public awareness and recommend legislation which will benefit all persons with mental and physical handicaps.

The federally-funded regional conference includes the Eastern Shore, the Peninsula and Southeastern Virginia and is one of five forums in the state. The handicapped, their parents or guardians and service providers will meet throughout the day in workshop sessions to discuss health concerns, housing, civil rights, services, elimination of barriers in transportation, communication and architecture, as well as other social, economic and educational considerations. City of Hampton Mayor Ann Kilgore is serving as General Chairperson.

All citizens concerned with the needs and problems of the disabled are welcome, without charge, to attend the conference, according to Steering Committee Co-chairpersons Margaret Keister, Mobility on Wheels, and Constance Laws, Health-Welfare-Recreation Planning Council. Registration begins at 8:30 am. For more information, phone Mrs. Keister at 428-7742 or Mrs. Laws at 622-1236, or write the Planning Council, 500 E. Plume Street, Norfolk, Virginia 23510.

History course to use PBS television series as central source of study

Last spring, Christopher Newport College offered a three-credit history course which used as its central source of study the prize-winning television show The Adams Chronicles. This course will be repeated this fall, beginning on September 18.

The course will be coordinated with the 13-part series The Adams Chronicles, produced by WNET of New York, and fed nationally by the Public Broadcasting Service, beginning September 20, over WHRO-TV, Channel 15. In addition to this Monday showing there will be repeat showings on Thursdays and Saturdays. The largest and most significant original drama series to be produced completely by non-commercial broadcasting in America, The Adams Chronicles had a total budget of more than 5 million dollars.

To support the television series, a team of American history scholars and teachers have prepared educational materials that illuminate and expand The Adams Chronicles' major characters and themes. The supporting materials include a textbook, The Adams Chronicles: Four Generations of Greatness, authored by Dr. Jack Shepherd; a reader The World of the Adams Chronicles: Forging our Nation, edited by David J. Rothman; and a home study guide, The Adams Chronicles: A Student Guide, authored by Regina Janes.

The television program and the course presents American history through a study of how a family who helped design, preserve and expand a nation actually saw themselves and the world which surrounded them. The offices that John Adams held parallel the history of the nation: a delegate to the First and Second Continental Congresses, Commissioner to France during the Revolutionary War, first American minister to Great Britain, first vice-president, second president, minister to Prussia and Russia, secretary of state, sixth president, member of the House of Representatives, minister to Great Britain during the Civil War, officers in the Union Army, financiers, and historians. The historic personalities with whom the Adams family members came in contact will also be central to the series, personalities such as Benjamin Franklin, John Hancock, Thomas Jefferson, and Alexander Hamilton.

The College has arranged six Saturday morning classes - September 18, October 9, October 30, November 20, December 11, and December 18. Each class begins at 9:00 am and concludes at 12 noon. Each class will be conducted by Dr. Tim Morgan, assistant professor of history at the College.

Registration for the course is currently in progress and will conclude on September 24. Registration information can be obtained from Keith McLoughland, Dean of Admissions (599-7015) or Lawrence B. Wood, Jr., Assistant Dean of Academic Affairs (599-7045).

Thousands receive vocational rehabilitation from VA

Veterans with service-connected disabilities of 10 percent or more may be entitled to training under the Veterans Administration's vocational rehabilitation program, the agency reminded today. The Roanoke VA Regional Office said that nearly 25,000 disabled veterans received training under the program in fiscal year 1975 and a total of 800,000 veterans have participated since World War II.

The 93rd Congress liberalized the availability of vocational rehabilitation for veterans rated 10 percent or 20 percent disabled by eliminating the requirement that such veterans must be found to have a "pronounced employment handicap" as a result of service-connected disability.

Currently, VA said, veterans with as little as 10 percent disability who are determined to require rehabilitation can receive up to four years of training provided their eligibility date - usually nine years after discharge - has not passed.

Vocational rehabilitation training may be taken at colleges or universities, vocational or technical schools or by means of on-the-job or on-farm training programs. If necessary, training may be taken in special rehabilitation facilities or in the veteran's own home.

Disabled veterans applying for vocational rehabilitation training will receive counseling from a VA vocational counselor who will not only determine the need for such training, but will discuss the veteran's desires, abilities, and goals in identifying the most advantageous course to be pursued.

VA pays tuition and the cost of books and fees, and trainees receive a monthly subsistence allowance, in addition to compensation for their disabilities. Under current rates, single veterans training full time in school or college receive $209 monthly as subsistence allowances. Veterans with one dependent receive $259 per month and those with two dependents draw $304 monthly. Trainees are paid an additional $22 a month for each dependent over two.

Veterans participating in VA's work-study program may work a maximum of 250 hours per semester (or other enrollment period) and earn a maximum of $625. Payment is at the rate of $2.50 per hour.

Full details of the vocational rehabilitation training program can be obtained at the nearest Veterans Administration office or at any veterans service organization office.
