Novelist and Storywriter Toni Cade Bambara to Appear on Campus

Novelist and storywriter Toni Cade Bambara will appear at Christopher Newport College on Tuesday, March 29, to conduct a fiction workshop and give a public reading.

The reading--free and open to the entire community--will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Christopher's, the Campus Center cafeteria.

The workshop--for students and other writers of fiction--will be held in the Campus Center Board Room (CC-214) from 4 to 6 p.m.

Ms. Bambara will conclude her visit to Newport News with a special presentation for ninth grade students of the Newport News Public Schools on March 30, in the Gaines Theater at CNC.

Among her award-winning fiction are two novels--IF BLESSING COMES (1987) and THE SALT EATERS (1980)--as well as highly regarded collections of stories--THE SEA BIRDS ARE STILL ALIVE (1977) and GORILLA MY LOVE (1972). (Copies of her work are available at the CNC Bookstore.)

She has edited two important anthologies--TALES AND SHORT STORIES FOR BLACK FOLK (1971) and THE BLACK WOMAN (1970).

A native of New York, Ms. Bambara was educated at Queens College and the City College of New York. She has taught at Spelman College, Duke, Rutgers and other colleges and universities. Her mission as an educator and social leader has led to her doing social work for the New York Department of Health and serving as Humanities Consultant for the New Jersey Department of Corrections.

More recently, Ms. Bambara has written and produced documentaries and television shows. She was production consultant for THE BOMBING OF OSAGE, WHYY's award-winning documentary of the 1985 MOVE tragedy in Philadelphia.

Ms. Bambara's stories are frequently reprinted--in high school textbooks and other anthologies--and have been translated into Swedish, German, Japanese, Norwegian, and Spanish.

Her visit, sponsored by the Department of English and the School of Letters and Natural Science, is the third event in Christopher Newport College's 1988 Writers Series.
