Work begins on final CNC Theatre production of season

Christopher Newport College Theatre's final production of the 1980-81 season will be Herb Gardner's award-winning comedy A Thousand Clowns. Set in a one-room walk-up apartment in New York, the play explores the antics of an unemployed T.V. writer and his 12-year-old ward as they try to avoid separation by battling the New York City Bureau of Child Welfare.

Kenneth L. Trump will portray the zany, irrepressible Murraby Burns, and Chris Paradise will play Nick Burns, Murray's 12-year-old nephew and ward of seven years.

Kathleen M. Martin, as Dr. Sandra Markowitz, is a social psychologist who contributes to the play's central conflict. She also happens to be part of the love triangle formed by herself, Murray, and Albert Amundson (played by Gary Burgess), a senior social case worker and Sandra's fiancé.

Additional color is provided by the egocentric Leo Herman, better known as the TV personality "Chuckles the Chipmunk." Leo is played by Mike Schenk. David Woodford rounds out the cast in the role of Arnold Burns, Murray's older brother and his one link to the "real world."

The play deals with the attempts of a bachelor uncle to remain free and unrestricted while dealing with the everyday cares of providing and child rearing. Murray's freewheeling lifestyle soon brings him face to face with a concerned Bureau of Child Welfare in the form of Sandra and Albert. Mirth, mayhem, and love complicate this confrontation. Ultimately a ruling for separation of the uncle and nephew sends Murray on a frantic search for gainful employment. This search is accented by Arnold's unwanted though valid advice and Leo's insipid need for approval and praise. The work becomes one of frenetic action and startling revelations inter-persed with a healthy helping of guffaws and belly laughs. As the climax draws near, the only thing we can be sure of is that Murray Burns will always be a delightful non-conformist of the first order.

The New York Daily News described the play as a work that "... would be a stand-out comedy in any season. Filled with laughter and warmth and sweetness and inspired daffiness." "A fine and funny evening," wrote the N.Y. Journal-American.

Mr. Skelly Warren, Assistant Professor of Theatre at CNC, will be directing the production, while Mr. George Righter, theatre student at CNC and a graduate of the University of Virginia, will design the set, lighting, and costumes for the show. Righter will also provide the technical direction for the play.

A Thousand Clowns will be presented in the Campus Center Theatre on May 1, 2, 8 and 9 at 8:00 p.m. Reservations may be made by phone.

Trees relocated to avoid destruction

by Nick Bueter

Have you checked the trees yet? Well, if you haven't, you may find a few surprises. For example, the two trees previously located in front of the Campus Center aren't there anymore. But don't fear, they haven't been destroyed, they've just been relocated.

Because of the future expansion of CNC, Dr. Paul Killam, Chairman of the Buildings and Grounds Committee, says, "By moving the trees we save having to destroy them." Most of the plant materials on campus are gifts to the school, so Killam is proposing to move trees and

Humanistic Studies program added to CNC curriculum

The faculty approved a new degree program at their March 13 meeting. It is to be known as Humanistic Studies.

The purpose of the Humanistic Studies curriculum is to integrate the humanities and humanistic implications of the social, behavioral, and natural sciences into a holistic study of the question, "What is man?" The core of the curriculum will focus on man's quest for meaning and self-knowledge and, emphasizing reflection and self-interrogation, will address questions on the purpose, meaning and value of different areas of knowledge—the objective being to formulate a coherent image of man.

Designed to serve the needs of all—but especially adult—students, the curriculum is founded on a 15-hour core of five interdisciplinary Humanistic Studies courses, which require no other courses as prerequisites. In addition, 36 hours of upper-division courses in the humanities and social, behavioral and natural sciences (i.e., restricted electives) will be chosen by the student major in consultation with faculty members of the Humanistic-Studies Committee who will act as advisers. The Committee will be responsible for direction of the Humanistic-Studies Program and must approve a student's declaration to major in Humanistic Studies before the student may file that declaration with the Registrar.

The initial core course in the Program is a three-hour, lower-division Proseminar, "The Nature of Man." The upper-division core courses are four three-hour Seminars: "The Human Scientific-Intellectual Quest," "The Human Religious Quest," "The Human Artistic Quest," and "The Human Social Quest." Each of the five core courses will be a new, interdisciplinary course. Whenever one is scheduled to be taught, the Humanistic-Studies Committee will announce to the faculty that any member interested in teaching the course, either alone or as one of a team, should submit to the Committee a potential reading list and syllabus for the course. For the lower-division Proseminar, at least half of the reading list should consist of excerpts from "The Great Books"—the classic books in which the greatest minds of Western civilization have addressed the basic issues of life. For an upper-division Seminar, at least half of the reading list should consist of major portions or complete texts of "Great Books." The Committee will then assign the course to one (or a team) of interested faculty members if the department chairman of the member (or of each member) will permit the assignment. The final reading list for the course, if different from the potential list, must be approved by the Committee. The Committee will insure that, in successive semesters, each course rotates among interested faculty members, although a member may be assigned to teach the same course more than once and different courses in different semesters.

by Wes Witten

On March 24, 1981, the Senate convened at 12:15 in Gosnold Hall, Room 145. Poster guidelines were discussed and approved. Now it is illegal to place a poster over top of another poster. All posters with an origin other than a school group or organization must be approved by the Attorney-General. For the first poster violation, there will be a warning presented to the president of the organization in question. The group will then have two days to correct the violation. Also, organizations are asked not to use duct tape on painted walls, only on brick. Suspensions of poster privileges will result in 90 consecutive days that the group cannot use posters. The new poster laws will go into effect in the fall.

A new student auditor, Allen Lam-oreaux, was approved by the Senate. Allen has a 4.0 grade point average in accounting and is supposed to be very qualified for the position. He will be replacing the present student auditor, Mary Kochli, who will be graduating.

Students are being sought to help at the annual President's Reception on May 5 from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. The reception is to welcome new students to CNC.

In order to curb the dishonesty which has been on the rise around the campus, it has been recommended that a Conduct Board be assembled. Anyone interested, please contact Lisa Cipriano.

For anyone interested in running for a student office, you will need 100 signatures by Monday, March 30. There will be a $30 limit on campaign expenditures.

Executive Council Notes

There was no Executive Council meeting on Thursday, March 19.

Controversial ships sculpture clarified

by Sue Killam

"The Ships" sculptures are a gift from Forest W. Coile Sr. in memory of his son, Forest Coile, Jr., who was responsible for the master plan of the CNC campus and the designs of all CNC buildings except for the new administration building. The sculptures were designed by Ed Martin, a member of the Coile architectural firm. Globe Ironworks Company constructed and installed them. The cement bases were donated by Jordan Construction Company, which also built the earth up around them after the sculptures were in place, so that the sculptures appear to be sitting on grass-covered hills rather than cement.

According to Dr. Paul Killam, Chairman of the Buildings and Grounds Committee, "The sculpture composition is not finished." He says the plan includes "... brick plazas, benches, shrubs, and flowering trees." By the fall semester, he believes, "... parts of it may be in place."

ENTERTAINMENT

'American Pop' offers new perspective on U.S. history

American Pop is getting a lot of hype. Whether it's justifiable or not is left to each viewer's discretion. There are two opinions circulating—one group says that it "sucks"; another group lavishes so much praise that the movie can be no less than award winning.

I am a temperate member of the latter group; although I enjoyed the movie, I do not feel that it is Oscar material.

American Pop is a saga of American life, from immigrants to drifters. Somewhat like a television mini-series, it follows four generations of one family through their lives. But this one is animated, and excellently so.

Although several animated movies have come out in the past (not Walt Disney), this one far exceeds them in realistic artistry. Recent attempts at making animated characters realistic resulted in disaster. For example, The Lord of the Rings had several frames wherein actual photos were overlaid with cartoon drawings. The effect was hideous.

American Pop suffers no such lousy cartooning. The pen-and-ink images seem so real in their mannerisms and personalities that they are a pleasure to watch.

The story line is terrific; it follows all of the important eras in American history, from the Depression forward. Although some of these eras are shown rather stereotypically, the clues are there. There is even a segment in a coffeehouse, with a poet reading Allen Ginsburg's Howl. The movie does not handle these segments in a saccharine, nationalistic manner, but realistically, truthfully, even somewhat cynically.

This movie does not lay out its entire plot for the viewer, saying "There was this family, a great-grandfather, a grandfather who dies in the war, a father who is a drug addict, and a bastard son who makes good." It lets the viewer pick through America and find the plot.

It's a movie worth seeing. It's worth the money, the time.

'States' returns in top form

by Ana Kimball

Playing before a near-capacity crowd, "States" returned to CNC last Wednesday, March 18.

Opening with "Saturday Night," the band's performance was top-notch. Although the band performed old crowd-pleasers, "Latest Girl," "Lies," and "Angel of the Morning," the performance included more originals and focused primarily on songs featured on their soon to be released album, Preproductions. In keeping with their rock-n-roll style, the band's performance included "Get It," "Murder," "Love on the Line," and "Rich Kid Blues." Venturing into the new wave sound produced the tune "I Can't Stand It" by drummer Morgan Hampton.

The members of the band include Jimmy McDonnell, lead vocal and rhythm guitar; Butch Germano, bass; Steve Chandler, vocals, lead, and rhythm guitar; Barry Scott, vocals and lead guitar; Robert Schindler, keyboards; and Morgan Hampton, vocals and drums. Songwriters in the band are Jimmy McDonnell, Steve Chandler, Barry Scott, and Morgan Hampton.

"I thought they gave a great performance Wednesday night," commented Greg Jackson, Director of the CAC. "But I thought Saturday night to a packed house at Kinghead Inn was a five-star, excellent performance. Their rearranged song list was much more beneficial in keeping the audience's attention. May I suggest that every single student that can, come out to their performance here May 13. It will be a great release before exams."

Indeed, there is nothing left to say about a band that can do no wrong in the minds of the CNC students that were in attendance!

Cosmos defeat Delta Psi to tie standings at 7-2

by Matt Vannice

The game was just like the miracle game people dream of. The score Delta Psi, 50, Cosmos, 50. Randy Walden of the Cosmos was at the line with one shot. He shot and the ball fell off the rim. As Delta Psi's Joe Conway boxed out, Chris Ford leapt up and slapped at the ball. It went in! The game was over! Cosmos 52, Delta Psi 50.

That game was last night as those teams finished with identical 7-2 records. Both Chris Ford and Randy Walden scored 21 each for the Cosmos. Joe Conway contributed 25 points to Delta Psi's efforts and Bill Hassenger added ten.

H-E-H #1 won the final playoff spot as they withstood a strong Sigma Pi with a score of 5346. H-E-H #1 was all Dave Hutcheson as he scored 27 points and controlled both the offensive and defensive boards. Doug Baggett was another plus with 12 points. Sigma Pi was led by Matt Vannice's 20 points and Fred Corbin's 13 points.

In other action, Glen Corey paced H-E-H #2 with 32 points as they outlasted OTHG 73-55. John Ireland and Dave Pard scored 14 and ten respectively. OTHG was paced by Mitch Lewis's 19 points and Gil Groat's 13.

On the other court, the Islanders beat the Hawks 41-36 with a strong 19-point performance by Keith Thomas. The Hawks' leading scorer was Dave Falin with 23 points.

The Blue Devils whipped Sigma Pi #2 70-53 as four players scored in double figures. Mike Grounds scored 21, Ron Howard and Richard Gould each had 11, and Andy Summers put in ten for the Blue Devils. Sigma Pi was paced by Dick Ryther's 20 points, Greg Jackson's 13 points, and Rick Smith's eight points.

The JPT Associated Press came out this week with the all-intramural squad. The seven-man press is composed of the intramural referees and scorekeepers. The picks are:

Lady Captains softball team makes debut this Saturday

by David Bean

The Saturday, March 28, will be the premiere of the Lady Captains Softball Team. The team, started by the Coordinator of Women's Athletics, Susan Walthall, will open their season on Saturday against the defending state champions of North Carolina, N.C. Wesleyan. The development of the team has been "sort of slow," according to Coach Walthall. "We have had about 12 people at any one practice, but we've got 14 players on the team now and we are going to be very competitive in the state tournament and play."

Some of the players on her squad are from the Lady Captains basketball team. While she has a set infield, the line-up for the outfield remains in doubt. The infield will be composed of Gwynn Drewry, first base; Patty Kellihan, second base; Mitchell Whitmore, shortstop; Dana Truesdale, catcher; and Nessie Freeman, pitcher. Third base is still undecided as of press time.

Practicing for two weeks and having only one week of full practice, Walthall remains confident that her team will do well. After Saturday's game, which will be played at Virginia Wesleyan, the schedule will be as follows:

April 2-CNC vs. Chowan College, home, 3:00 p.m.

April 4, CNC vs. VWC at VWC, 1:00 p.m.

April 12, tournament at Lynchburg College

April 22, CNC vs. VWC at home, 3:00 p.m.

April 24-25 (or 25-26), State Tournament at VWC

April 29, CNC vs. Chowan College, away

All home games will be played at Sedgefield Elementary School at the baseball park. Walthall says that they are still looking for players on the squad. Those who are interested can contact her at 599-7025.

CNC runners start outdoor season

by Hoppie Crowder

Christopher Newport's Dixie Conference championship track team got their outdoor season underway at the Hampton Institute Relays this past weekend. Despite running against a harsh wind, the team was consistent in placing in the top five in most events.

One of the most outstanding performances was turned in by the distance medley team which finished second. The team consisted of John Puckropp, Richard BSA "Spoiler" and WOWI player reach for ball during Tuesday night's benefit game.

BSA 'Spoilers' drop benefit to WOWI basketball team

by Rodney Patron

This past Tuesday night, Christopher Newport's Black Student Association squared off against the WOWI radio station's basketball team from Norfolk. In the first half, the lead changed hands almost as many times as the ball was touched. After the first 15 minutes of play, the BSA "Spoilers" were out in front by seven points, and at the end of the half their lead had been narrowed to five points for a 40-35 half time lead.

The half time activities were very impressive: a dance group from local high schools and junior high schools. The all-male team of dancers created various illusions of movements. One such illusion was a young man holding an umbrella as if he were walking in a rainstorm and a sudden gust of wind blows him away. The crowd applauded the group and thoroughly enjoyed the routine.

When the second half opened, it showed much the same see-saw contest, up and down the court. The game remained that way up until about seven minutes before the game ended. Then the WOWI team piled up a four-point run to put them in the lead, where they stayed until the game's end with a final score of 91-81.

The BSA team played very well throughout the game. When the team did hit a dry spot, a group of Girl Scout cheerleaders encouraged the BSA-partial crowd to spur their team on. Maybe this wasn't the NCAA championship game, but you couldn't tell by the enthusiasm on the court, or in the stands.

Proceeds from the game will benefit Sickle Cell Anemia and local Girl Scout troops.

Spring Fest offers a variety of events to aid the fund drive

by Kim Fizer

At 12:03 p.m. Friday, spring officially returned to the East. Besides being the first sign that spring break is near, the first day of spring signals the near culmination of planning for the Spring Fest.

Spring Fest is a week long (April 27-May 2) series of events sponsored by various campus organizations. The purpose of the events is to raise money to be donated to the College Fund Drive. Planning actually began months ago, but with only 16 days left (excluding Spring Break) until the Fest's opening day, the clubs are finalizing their intentions and putting them into operation.

Scheduled for the week of April 27-May 2, Spring Fest promises to have something that will appeal to everyone. Bands will be enjoyed, pigs will be roasted, slaves will be auctioned, wet T-shirts and wet buns will be judged, and seafood will be devoured.

On the more intellectual side, issues will be debated, minds will be met, art will be displayed, plants will be sold, and the Captain's Players will be previewed. A complete schedule of events along with their description will be printed in the next issue of the Captain's Log.

There will be two all night events. Alpha Kappa Psi is sponsoring a Pool-a-thon that will actually run from Wednesday day until 6:00 Saturday morning. The pool-a-thon will employ the pool tables in the Campus Center game room. The CAC has ordered films to show on Friday night. Those who would like to come should bring a sleeping bag. The films will be projected onto the outside wall of Ratcliffe Gymnasium. Greg Jackson of the CAC revealed that two of the movies to be shown under the stars are The Return of the Pink Panther and Humanoids from the Deep. A third movie has not been selected. The title of the fourth movie is a secret and is to be a surprise.

Each club or organization has agreed to consign a variable percentage of their profits to the Fund Drive. The percentage is decided upon by the club. Sherri Heezen, student coordinator for the Spring Fest, explains that the club can donate the money in any way: faculty development, student financial aid, Captain's Crew, permissible restriction, or the endowment fund, just to name a few.

Art will be auctioned off in Campus Center next week

Studio A will hold a "Silent Auction" of art objects in the halls of the Campus Center on April 1 from 9:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. to raise money for the CNC Fund Drive.

A "silent auction" requires that buyers submit sealed bids for the objects of their choice. Each item will initially be marked with an indication of the lowest acceptable bid. As bidding progresses, the current high bid will be reflected by a tag on the object.

At the close of the auction, the person bidding the highest will be able to claim the object.

Studio A will require a payment of 25 percent of bid for its contribution to the Fund Drive.

The silent auction is open to all students whether or not they are members of Studio A.

Art objects for the auction will consist of ceramics, sculpture, watercolors, oils, acrylics, pastels, pen, ink and line drawings.

Items for participation should be turned into representatives of the Art Department or Studio A in Gosnold Hall, Room plants to save them from being cut down. The soon to be expanded Campus Center, a "new" traffic system, and "new" buildings are all part of the "new" college. The new expansion is not due to be completed for several years, but utilizing the time before actual construction, by moving the plant life now, the College not only says "Thank you for all these gifts," but it gives the CNC community an opportunity to beautify certain barren parts of the Campus.

Equipment was rented from Tidewater Nurseries. While bulldozers moved shrubs around campus, another massive machine was picking up entire trees and replanting them on other designated areas.

If your favorite tree is not where you last left it, don't despair, it's bound to sprout up somewhere.

Holiday in question

O.K., so now a lot of people are angry about Governor John Dalton's recent vetoes. He has said that Martin Luther King, Jr.'s January 15 birthday should not be designated a state holiday. He feels that this holiday, if it were indeed to be a reality, should be dedicated to a Virginian. After all, this would be a state holiday and it should be dedicated to someone from Virginia. That's a reasonable demand.

But what about Martin Luther King, Jr.? Should the supporters just forget about it? No. They should work together to get his birthday recognized as a federal holiday.

After all, which businesses close on state holidays? Very few of them do, except for government offices. And if this holiday is limited to a few isolated states and a few isolated people, how can it be effectively celebrated? The interested groups should aim for the federal government; the state is not the place.

Mentioning Dalton's other veto is like opening a can of worms. Abortion is one of those issues where you must stand on one side or the other. But at the risk of receiving an onslaught of letters from everyone who ever thought about life, we are going to say a few things.

1. It is lamentable that the Governor vetoed this bill. The bill did not condone irresponsible sexuality by allowing both parties an escape. It was designed to help women who were victims of a man's desires. These women should not be forced to bear the cost of a child that they did not want, expect, or even consider before they were attacked. Furthermore, in the case of incest, the ensuing child would be affected. That's a terrible curse to put on a newborn.

2. We can see Dalton's point. If the Medicaid program allowed abortions to be financed, a lot of graft and corruption would follow.

Wherever we are, here at CNC or elsewhere in Virginia, these bills affect us, whether we realize it or not.

Letters to the Editor

We must be doing something right!

Crow's Nest

by David Byrn

Last month I was subjected to the company of persons I would consider most zealous and steadfast in their beliefs, but I must question their reasoning. You have seen them on television, and now they bring their racial hatred to this area. Everyone has heard of them, they are the knights of the Invisible Empire, or the Ku Klux Klan.

I am from the South and have seen these men (who for the most part wisely remain anonymous) instigate racial and religious hatred in every region that would support their presence. How does their doctrine survive? The Klan has two forces working for them: the inherent prejudice of many Americans and the U.S. legal system.

Everyone of any race has felt an unexplainable prejudice at one time, and most unfortunately they choose to ignore these feelings instead of rooting them out and destroying them. The Klan is living proof of such self-deceitful ignorance. Make no mistake, they are sincere in their beliefs, and to hear them rationalize their behavior is tragic-comedy. Uneducated or disillusioned whites, who use the different races and religions as scapegoats for their own failures, comprise the rank and file of the Invisible Empire, with several intelligent people leading the way. Why do these intelligent (I use this term loosely) people associate themselves with such hate groups? No one knows.

Evidence of member ignorance is found in Klan literature. Whether or not the people who compile this garbage believe it is unimportant, the rank and file are glibly taking it all in. One example from a Klan pamphlet explains that a negroid skull is sloped at the forehead and only has a brain capacity of 70 percent, in comparison to the caucasian skull. Therefore, they reason, the negro has to be inferior because, "He hasn't got as much brains."

Wallowing in their own stupidity is bad enough, but they are now corrupting their own offspring and soliciting the participation of many youth in their "summer camps." The wholesome camp activity includes racial hatred seminars and paramilitary training with weapons for the race war that the Klan feels is inevitable.

Through all of this the U.S. judicial branch defends their right to exist as an organization. It is not beyond any intelligent man's reasoning to realize that making exceptions to constitutional law is counterproductive. I wish to point out that this is not necessary; a vast discrepancy exists in statutory law and the avowed discriminatory practice of the average Klansman. How is it that people who are proponents of this type of multi-discrimination are allowed to permeate our workforce and hold jobs that require relations with subordinates and then, it is suggested foolishly, that we believe they won't allow their personal beliefs to reflect their hiring and treatment practices of lower echelons?

It should be noted by our esteemed judicial system that such hate groups, by their very nature, espouse inequality and discrimination if they hold a job and admit such inclinations. There is no reason to exempt these Klansmen, or any parallel group, from constitutional protection. We have the power to destroy such groups by legislative powers. Let us waste no time in doing so, for each person lost to the fold of such groups is an unspeakable tragedy.

Humanistic Studies program approved Outdoor track season opens will be required to write a senior thesis and submit it to the Humanistic-Studies Committee. For the Committee to accept it, the thesis must be humanistic, multi-disciplinary, integrative, and addressed to a question about the nature of man; it must show that its author has achieved the first four of the following seven purposes of the Program:

1. To formulate a coherent image of man
2. To liberate the student from the limitations of experience and from the intellectual narrowness of occupation
3. To foster proficiency in the analysis and synthesis of multi-disciplinary ideas
4. To improve the capacity for critical thought
5. To enhance potential for productive effort in a variety of human endeavors
6. To promote appreciation of a variety of cultures
7. To increase self-confidence in discussions with individuals and groups of varied backgrounds and orientations

The Program will complement existing degree programs, in which questions about the nature of being human are subordinated to the study of traditional disciplinary knowledge. As indicated above, most of the coursework consists of courses presently offered, whereas the five core courses and the senior thesis provide the student with an integrative framework.

The Program is especially suitable for adult students who, having achieved occupational security, desire to enrich their lives and careers through an interdisciplinary, humanistic-studies approach. The core courses will be scheduled in the late afternoon and at night to make the Program available to non-traditional students.

Gould, Rudy Mendoza, and Mark Chase. Another fine performance was turned in by Ronnie Garner in the discus. Each of the members of each relay team did his best to represent the school.

The team will be traveling next weekend to Baltimore, Maryland, at Tausand University for some good hard competition. The teams involved in this invitation should be right on the level for the team. It should be a good match up, in which Christopher Newport has a good chance to pull some upsets.
