Your safety is our concern

by Officer Lawrence N. Nadeau

While driving across campus, thinking about the great test results you have just received, you notice the flashing red and blue lights of an emergency vehicle. What should your reaction be? First, slow your vehicle down and pull over to the righthand side of the road. Now what? If the emergency vehicle passes you, cautiously return to the normal flow of traffic when it is safe to do so. If the police vehicle stops behind your vehicle, wait until the police officer approaches you.

There could be a number of reasons why a campus police officer might stop you. Perhaps, there appears to be a problem with your vehicle or a safety hazard. Maybe you have committed a traffic violation, which is usually handled with a courteous warning.

Campus police officers are commonly asked the following questions when making traffic stops:

Q: What is the speed limit on campus?

A: Fifteen miles per hour on all campus roads.

Q: How many one way streets are on campus?

A: Eight.

Q: Are the traffic signs on campus enforced in the same manner as the traffic signs off campus?

A: Yes.

Q: If a campus police officer gives you a warning for a traffic infraction, what happens then?

A: A record of the warning issued will be kept on file by campus police for a period of six months. The warning will not go on your driving record maintained by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Q: If a campus police officer gives you a summons for a traffic violation, what happens then?

A: You have the option of paying the fine without appearing in court, if indicated on the summons, or appearing for trial in Newport News General District Court - Traffic Division. (A traffic summons is not to be confused with a parking ticket.)

Q: Do campus police officers have the same authority as other police officers?

A: Yes. All campus police officers are sworn, trained, and certified in accordance with the Code of Virginia. They have the same authority and power of arrest as federal, state, and local police officers. The only difference is that campus police can, and often do, use the college administrative process to handle minor offenses on campus, instead of the harsh realities of the judicial system.

In an effort to promote traffic safety and to reduce traffic violations on campus, your Campus Police Department is attempting to answer some of your questions. If you have other questions, please feel free to stop by the Campus Police Office, located in Room 238 of the Campus Center, or call us at 599-7053, 8 a.m. 5 p.m., Monday-Friday.

Your safety is our concern!

From the Editor:

The 1988-89 school year has begun and I would personally like to welcome all the new students to CNC and welcome back all the returning students. I would also like to welcome all the new and returning professors and staff members. It's going to be a year of great things for CNC and, of course, there will be some bad, but yes, you'll be the first to know about it and we (The Captain's Log) will be the ones to tell you.

The newspaper is under complete new management this year and with new people comes new changes. The biggest change is that the paper is going to do what it was meant to do, and that's to serve you, the CNC community.

If you've got something to say, send me a letter, I'll print it. (Letters to the editor are printed only if signed by the person sending it and also having that person's phone number. If requested, though, the name will not be printed and will be kept confidential to the point of a court order.) If you hear of something happening that we may not have heard about, let us know and we'll investigate and let you know what's really going on.

Tape-a-quarters are back this year so if you want to sell something, send your boyfriend/girlfriend a note, or whatever, just fill out the form, tape a quarter to it, and drop it in The Captain's Log drop-box located in the lounge in front of the theatre by the stairwell. If you have any ideas, suggestions, or criticisms just drop us a note in the drop-box. We'll take everything you have to say into consideration.

Once again, welcome to everyone and I hope you all have a great year.

Sincerely,
Chris Goddin
Editor-in-Chief

Letter to the Editor:

Just a note to welcome the students and a warning, as well. It's been a rough summer folks. Christopher Newport College has a lot of unhappy campers. Happy, loyal employees have turned into grouchy, paranoid sticks-in-the-mud. But, don't blame them. They've had their guts ripped out, turned inside out, chewed up and spit out, and then, had it done all over again. It has been an emotional rollercoaster of a summer.

The thing is, when you talk to people, the uneasiness is due to mainly one person. I think he is enjoying the POWER, too.

Does CNC have a Board of Visitors, or are we now run by a dictatorship? Just wondering.

Signed,
One of the Many

SPORTS

BIO: Craig Reynolds

NAME: Craig Reynolds
POSITION: Head Coach of the soccer and men's tennis teams.

AGE: 35

HOMETOWN: Rochester, New York
BACKGROUND: Reynolds played on the first NCAA III national soccer champion team, Brockport (NY) State, in 1974. He also played five years with the Rochester Lancers of the North American Soccer League, and four years in the Major Indoor Soccer League with New York, Detroit, Chicago, and New Jersey. The New York Arrows won the MISL Championship during his year there.

For the past two years, Reynolds was the assistant soccer coach at UVa, and head tennis pro at Greencroft Club near Charlottesville.

OUTLOOK: Reynolds sees the year as a challenge, but remains eager to regain the strength CNC once knew in these sports.

Who's in control? Captains dominate tournament

by Brent Klich

CNC beat Stockton State, 2-1, and Atlantic Christian, 7-0. Jon Schwartzman (left) was named tournament offensive MVP; Junior Carter (right) towers the opponent.

by Yvette Renaud
sports editor

"After a brief talk with Craig Reynolds it was evident that the CNC soccer program had better get ready for renovation. Now I'm not talking about a reconstructed game, but how about a new attitude?"

The winds of change were apparent when Coach Seth Roland left after the 1986 season. Last season was a bit confused, but part-time Coach Alan Lindsay pulled the team through with a 8-8-3 season. This year might be different.

The Captains bring back to their roster the top four scorers from last year, Jon Schwartzman, John Fitzgerald, Junior Carter, and Greg Friant. These four, along with some strong freshmen give the team great scoring potential.

But hidden beneath the blessings of a fantastic offense, youth, and strong coaching, there has to be a catch. The Captains will have to devote some time to the re-strengthening of their defense.

The team lost goalie Mark Morrow, and Defenders Jeff Sahms and Kevin Wagner. Although the replacements are "more than adequate" according to Coach Reynolds, an apparent concern exists.

Technicalities aside, the Captains are in fine shape. In a scrimmage against nationally ranked UVa, CNC held the Cavaliers for 35 minutes without a goal. The final score was 4-0 not in CNC's favor, but not a bad performance for an unbalanced team during the pre-game season.

CAB to sponsor athletic promos

The Campus Activities Board will sponsor a club to promote athletics. No, not a pep club, but an organization to support sporting events.

Only brief outlines have been drawn, but events are to include: post game parties, road trips, sale of game gadgets and an intense campaign to make people aware of events. All monies made through functions will be turned around in the form of tokens of thanks due to the school's four year athletes.

Awareness and support is what it boils down to. There is prime opportunity for all to participate and a definite need also. Members of athletic teams are encouraged to participate.

Anyone with time or ideas to offer, please contact the CAB office.

Santoro to teach class

by Dr. Jay Paul

When President Anthony Santoro begins the semester's first class meeting of Honors 490, "Problems in the Modern World," the moment will be unique - in two ways.

It will mark the first time Dr. Santoro has taught since taking over at Christopher Newport College in the Spring of 1987. An historian, he will spend the first four weeks of the semester leading junior and senior honors students to a fuller understanding of international political struggles. With his firsthand experience in many of these areas, President Santoro will portray, in all their dimensions, issues which may seem abstract on the nightly news.

Honors 490 is also unique because it requires each student to view issues through the lens of his or her academic discipline. A business major, for instance, might study and report on the financial implications of civil war in Central America. Thus, "Problems in the Modern World" is a true capstone course for advanced students.

After Dr. Santoro leads off the course; Dr. Edward Weiss, of the Biology, Chemistry, and Environmental Science Department, will focus on ecological problems. He will introduce basic principles and then will direct student investigations into areas where man's activities and ecology are at odds.

In the final segment, Dr. Marshall Booker, a member of the Department of Economics, will provide a condensed "Introduction to Economics" before students consider such matters as world debt and trade imbalances.

A seminar format, which features short papers and presentations, will make each honors student, as well as each professor, an active participant in Honors 490.

Sharoff resigns

by Matt Bushnell
news editor

Dr. Gwendolyn Sharoff, a three-year theatre professor in the Arts and Communications Department, resigned last Monday, August 29, from Christopher Newport College.

The letter of resignation was submitted at 8 a.m. the 29th to Dean Durel. "The explanation given for Dr. Sharoff's resignation was for health reasons," stated Dr. Durel.

Among the shocked students and faculty was Arts and Communications Department's Chairperson Dr. Rita Hubbard. "It came as a total surprise. I didn't know why she left," Dr. Hubbard said. "She gave no complaints before her resignation."

Dr. Sharoff could not be reached for comment because her number had been changed to an unpublished one.

Her replacement is Mr. David Balthrop who graduated from Cincinnati University with a Masters in Fine Arts. He taught at Millikin College in Illinois for four years before coming to CNC.

Mr. Balthrop is enthusiastic about teaching here and has taken over Intro to Theatre 201(G). He will also be theatre manager at CNC effective immediately.

Vote Notes

by Joe Nusslein

With the November elections only two months away, both Democratic and Republican parties are scrambling to register voters.

Alex D'Agostino, president of College Republicans here at Christopher Newport College, admits he has a slight advantage over his Democratic counterparts due to the lack of any Democratic organization on campus. The college Republicans here on campus have been organized for over a year. They plan to meet weekly in the student center. The club has 80 events planned before the November elections.

Promotional materials are donated to the College Republican Club by the local Republican headquarters. The club board now consists of George Tate as Treasurer, Randy Coffin as Secretary and the Vice-President slot is now open.

On September 4, in a sign of unity, Thomas Nelson Community College, Old Dominion University, The College of William and Mary, and the CNC chapter sent over 300 students to meet Senator Quayle, Republican Vice-President Nominee, at the Richmond Airport. Anyone interested in joining the CNC chapter can call Steve Baily at 898-1988.

Evelyn Irvine, head of the local Democratic party states that she feels great about the upcoming elections. When asked about the differences between the Democratic and the Republican Platforms she says, "The difference is especially felt in education such as grants and student loans. I also feel that women are not going to vote for Sen. Quayle just because he is young and good-looking. I feel they are more in tune with the issues at hand. That is why Dukakis, and Sen. Bentsen are such a good ticket." Anyone interested in joining the Democratic Party can contact Mrs. Irvine at 595-5509.

Don Brantly, head of the local Republican Party, also feels that his party will do well in the upcoming elections. When asked about the media's coverage of Sen. Quayle, he says, "I find it interesting that the same media that is putting him down for joining the National Guard is the same media that praised Jane Fonda for her declaration that we didn't belong in Viet Nam."

Senator Bentsen commented that in the event of a tragedy he does not think that Senator Quayle has enough experience to handle the Presidency. When asked how he feels about the Republican's choice of Vice-President, Don Brantly responded, "I believe he has enough experience - at least as much as President Kennedy did when he entered office. I think that when you fill a position like that it's not so much experience, but good common sense. How could you possibly be experienced in a situation that is constantly changing?"

Anyone interested in joining the Republican Party can contact Jack or Doris Leggett, at 596-4363.

Sister city students visit

by Chris Goddin
editor-in-chief

"School is very different here in the United States, we only get 40 days as our summer break and we have summer homework," said Masaki Sakaguchi, one of the many Japanese students who visited CNC from Newport News's sister city, Neyagawa, on Aug. 24.

The students arrived at CNC around noon, after visiting city hall, and lunch was provided in The Terrace. President Santoro, who was recently appointed to the Newport News Sister Cities Commission, welcomed them and after lunch gave a fine speech in Japanese. Of course, only the Japanese knew what he was saying.

The Americans were then entertained by Do, Re, Me, Fa, So, La, Ti, Do in Japanese where they all introduced themselves and then everyone sang the song in English. The Japanese then did a pictorial play in English and afterwards presented the script and scenery to the city as a gift.

A trip to the bookstore followed and a great time was had by all. Due to the exchange rate, things in the U.S. are cheaper and that was evident by the amount of merchandise purchased. Needless to say, the bookstore was very happy to have the foreign visitors come in.

The students concluded their visit to CNC by touring the campus. The agenda for the rest of their stay in the U.S. included going to the mall, Colonial Williamsburg, and Busch Gardens.

International Art

by Dr. Rita Hubbard

Three CNC art professors have works included in the International Cultural Exchange Art Exhibit in Neyagawa, Japan. Thirty-six works by regional artists were selected from among those submitted by 68 artists. Among those chosen by jury were "Blind Verse III", a painting by Jon Petruchyk; "Small Town USA", a wax resist painting by Betty Anglin; and Ken Bowen's "Still Life."

The collection will be on display at the Neyagawa Cultural Center from October 28 to November 30.

Petruchyk is the Director of Art in the Department of Arts and Communication. His work is part of a series of painting done on large sheets of mylar film using ink, pastels and watercolor.

Bowen's painting in the exhibit was generated on the Amiga 1000 computer and painted on the Xerox inkjet printer 4020. His course in computer art will be offered at CNC in the coming spring semester.

Anglin, who has taught design and painting classes at CNC for 12 years, had previously received an award for "Small Town USA." It was done in wax resist, a process she derived from work with batik. Hot wax is applied with the brush to the painting and acts as a resist agent to cold washes. The wax and color are applied in stages resulting in a vibrant final product. Her wax resist paintings have been shown in the biennial shows at the Virginia Museum and have received recognition in juried shows throughout the state.

Santoro appointed

Dr. Anthony R. Santoro, President of Christopher Newport College has been appointed to the Newport News Sister Cities Commission, Mayor Jesse M. Rattley announced.

The cities of Newport News and Neyagawa, Osaka, Japan each have a commission which sponsors joint cultural relations between the two municipalities. The Japanese city has two groups who visit Newport News, a group of city officials and a citizens group, the Neyagawa International Exchange and Friendship Association comprised of students and adults.

Dr. Santoro has recently established international initiatives in Japanese Studies at Christopher Newport College. CNC received $300,000 from the Governor's Special Initiatives Program during the last legislative session to fund this program which will include Japanese Business Management courses and Japanese language instruction.

The Neyagawa Friendship group visited Christopher Newport College during their visit to the Peninsula on August 23-25, 1988.

Dr. Santoro was appointed to the commission by the Newport News City Council.

A taste of Japan

by Peggy Hughes

Two enterprising Christopher Newport College Business majors made a summer in Japan an enrichment to their classwork in Newport News, VA.

Miriam Hoggard and Charlene Joseph of Hampton, have just returned from a six-week study program in Tokyo, Japan where they learned the fine points of Japanese business techniques. Both agreed it was one of the most interesting experiences of their lives.

The Oriental adventure actually began on the CNC campus several months ago when Hoggard and Joseph saw an ad in The Captain's Log, the school newspaper, seeking students to study in Japan. Although neither had done anything like that before, they sent their applications and were accepted within two weeks.

Acceptance in the program wasn't the only hurdle to cross; financial arrangements were the responsibility of each individual student. Hoggard and Joseph solicited funds from their churches, friends and families to pay for the trip.

International Internship Program made all travel arrangements and found families to host each student. The host families were volunteers who opened their homes to the students for the six-week period. They fed and cared for each student as if he or she were a member of the family. The students did their part by helping with housework and doing chores.

Communication was the greatest frustration Joseph and Hoggard faced. Although they spoke some Japanese and their host families spoke a little English, they found body language the best way to bridge the gap between the two cultures.

One major difference Hoggard and Joseph noticed in business was the manner in which the Japanese hid their anger. If there were problems on the job, they concealed their feelings until after hours. Then in a relaxed social setting, where everyone was on an equal level, the conflicts were resolved. The Japanese live by the creed that there is a time and place for everything, the students reported.

What impressed the students most about Japan? According to Joseph, "The Japanese believe so much in quality." She explained that they take great pride in their work and are always willing to be of service.

Hoggard agreed and added, "They work twice as hard as we do." The Japanese believe in "long-termness" in business in their relationships and work hard to achieve that goal.

The students' gain from their adventure far exceeded any obstacles they had to overcome. The business knowledge they acquired and the warm relationships they developed with their host families made their summer one to remember.

Changes made in financial aid

Married students and those who are single parents are getting an unexpected break due to recent changes in the financial aid regulations. Many of these students who were previously ineligible for need-based financial aid are finding out that they are now eligible.

During the 1987-88 school year there were two categories of financial aid applicants; dependent and independent students. For the 1988-89 school year there are three categories; dependent, independent, and independent with dependents. Married students and those who are single parents fall into the new category.

The Department of Education established the formula used to determine financial aid eligibility for the new category and it has proven to be very generous. It is used for all need-based programs except the Pell Grant Program. The CNC Financial Aid Office was amazed when it reviewed needs analysis documents and found married couples with incomes of $35,000 to $40,000 and up to $40,000 worth of assets to be eligible for some need-based financial aid. They found parents, who were students themselves, to be eligible for more assistance than their dependent (student) children.

If you are a married student or a single parent, and have not applied for financial aid for the 1988-89 school year, you may want to consider doing so. Although the deadline for most of the need-based financial aid programs has passed, the two largest programs, the Pell Grant and the Guaranteed Student Loan are still available. Although the formula for determining Pell Grant eligibility was not changed, many students in the new category will now find themselves eligible for Guaranteed Student Loans.

Additional information and application forms are available in the Financial Aid Office in Room 239 of the Administration Building.
