Theatre Production

The CNC Theatre continues its current run of Moliere's Tartuffe on Friday and Saturday evening (8.00 p.m.) The play opened last Friday and reactions of both audiences and critics have been most positive. John Hoaglund, in The Captain's Log, calls the production a "resounding success," and Tony Gabriele in the Daily Press writes: "It's a play young audiences need to see, too, and they will. As has been done with other CNC productions of stage classics, more than 1,600 high school students will come to see the play. A hearty thank you, on behalf of the community, to all concerned."

Again, the cast and production staff would be delighted to have you come and enjoy another exciting staging of a great classic by the CNC Theatre. The bargain you get can scarcely be in question. Faculty and staff may buy two tickets for the price of one ($5.00). So, why not drop in and celebrate for about two and one half hours, and see what CNC has to offer. It's a safe bet you won't be disappointed!

For reservations call 594-7089. Tickets can also be directly purchased in the departmental office of Arts and Communication.

Payroll Bonds

Payroll bond customers, because legislation to raise the debt limit has not been enacted into law, the issuance of Series EE bonds has been suspended effective November 1, until further notice.

Since we issue bonds for employees of your company who participate in the payroll bond program, we are informing you of a potential delay in issues for the month of November. This temporary delay will not cause loss to purchasers since bonds will earn interest from the first day of the month in which the funds are made available to us.

Companies operating payroll savings plans should continue withholding on a regular basis and continue to submit funds and bond print information to us a normal.

We regret any inconvenience your company and employees may experience as a result of delayed action by Congress to raise the statutory debt limit. (Fiscal Agency Dept., Federal Reserve Bank)
