Music Club sponsors Consort

By Vennie Simpson

The CNC Music Club will present The Thursday Consort, performing in the campus theater on Friday evening, November 19, 1976.

The Thursday Consort was founded in 1970 by three recorder players interested in performing the literature for that instrument, both past and present. Since that time, the Consort has grown to five members, John Barrows, David Brooks, Jane Harrison, Pamela Peebles, and Herb Watson. Their most recent concerts have been of popular Medieval and Renaissance music. Their instrumentation has also grown to include voices, flutes, viols, Krumm horns, harps, psaltery, guitar, sackbut, rebec, and various percussion instruments.

The Thursday Consort perform regularly at the Wren Chapel, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg. Last year, special concerts were given for the Project Plus Study of Medieval Man and an Ars Nova art lecture at the College of William and Mary. Also, a joint program with the Norfolk Camerata was presented on last year's CNC concert series.

As there is no director of The Thursday Consort, the members work together collectively to plan and rehearse each of their programs. Selections for their concert at CNC will include works by Thomas Morley, John Dunstable, Anthony Holborne, and others.

Dr. James Hines of CNC's Music Department feels this group is, "one of the best performing popular Renaissance music in the South." Tickets will be on sale at the door. Concert time is 8:15 p.m. CNC students will be admitted free.

The Thursday Consort will appear here on November 19, 1976. Pictured are Consort members, Jane Harrison and Herbert Watson (in tree), David Brooks (lf), Pamela Peebles, and John Barrows on ground.

Basic Studies Dept. conducts survey to learn student reaction

In recent study of students taking basic study writing or reading classes, it was learned that two-thirds of them were 18 or 19 years old, and seven-tenths of them live with their parents. While these are not startling statistics, they do give valuable information which may help their instructors adjust the curriculum to better suit the students' needs. This is particularly significant in view of the average age of the student population of CNC, which is at least four years older.

The study of the students in basic studies classes was a "Trial run" for some of the items being given on a broader scale to some 200 students chosen at random. This research project is currently underway, with the objectives of learning student reaction to various instructional styles and administrative and counseling services available. The selected students are given an opportunity to give anonymous feedback to college officials which will be considered in adjusting programs to student needs and characteristics.

Each student who received a letter indicating he or she was chosen should be sure to complete the questionnaire. For further information, contact Bonnie Hansen at the Counseling Center.

Something which has never before been attempted here at Christopher Newport will be tried this year. The Campus Center is completing arrangements for a New Year's Eve Party which will boast the finest food and entertainment for the least expense to money-strapped students.

Already signed for the evening is "Hungar" one of the area's most popular dance groups.

Sociology Club revitalizes, Seeks new members

By Mary Kane

The Sociology Club has reorganized and is encouraging all interested students to join. Membership is open to the entire student body.

The club will be concentrating on the sociological aspects of the world around us in programs and discussion groups. We have a number of ideas on possible future programs, such as: "Minority on Campus Forum," and a "Look at Chinese Culture From Various Perspectives." The discussion group meetings will present any papers or books read dealing with various sociological topics.

The club has set up a coffee table in the Sociology building. While getting your morning coffee be sure to read the bulletin board above with sociology news, minutes of our meetings and information pertaining to future programs.

Again we urge all interested students to join the Sociology Club. Our meetings are scheduled for the first and the third Tuesdays of the month and are held in Christopher Newport Hall, Room, N115.

CC completing arrangements for New Year's Party

They will perform from 9:00 p.m. until 2:00 a.m. Prior to the dance, between 7:00 and 9:00 p.m., students will enjoy an all-you-can-eat buffet dinner. Movies will show in the theater from 10:00 p.m. until 2:00 a.m., including among others, the famous Beatles film Magical Mystery Tour.

Of course, hats and noise-makers will be provided for ringing out 1976 and ringing in 1977. The game room will be available free of charge; and to top it all off, a breakfast of coffee or juice and rolls will be provided from 1:00 to 2:30 a.m.

The Captain's Log will carry ads in the coming weeks with information about tickets to what promises to be the year's biggest party.

What really is in junk food?

By Barbara Herondorf

Did you stop in the cafeteria this morning and eat one of those fat, plump, sugared doughnuts?

Do you know what you ate? You ate a blob of softened cardboard with refined, white sugar, containing no vitamins or proteins, that goes up your intestines. Why waste 35c on a glob of goo? If you persist in eating this way, save money, at least, by collecting boxes from food products, newspapers, and rolls from paper towels; chop it all up in a bowl and add some sugar and milk. Then take all that money you've saved and buy a large box of Ex-Lax.

Skipping meals and snacking is something we all do and there's nothing wrong with an occasional skip or snack! But be sensible! Twinkies, Ho Ho's, Doritos, Cheetos, and Coca-Cola all provide chemicals, fats, sugar, salt, and starches, but no vitamins or minerals. An occasional Ho Ho or chocolate doughnut won't harm anyone, but snacking becomes dangerous when you skip meals and fill up on junk food day after day. How often do you stop by McDonalds for the big meal of the day and buy a Big Mac, french fries, and a coke? Keep it up and you'll have a good case of malnutrition pretty soon.

If you're rushed in the morning and don't have time to eat breakfast, take 30 seconds and grab a hunk of cheese and an apple or spread some peanut butter over some wheat bread to eat.

If you've got the munchies while you're watching TV or studying, snack on fresh fruit, raw vegetables, sunflower seeds, raisins (source of iron), yogurt (rich in B vitamins), peanuts, popcorn, bananas, carrots (source of vitamin A), celery with cheese, sesame seeds (high in calcium), or some of the natural cereals (and I don't mean Coco Krispies or Fruity Pebbles). Sunflower seeds contain calcium, phosphorous, iron, vitamin A, nitrogen, thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, and vitamin E. Surprisingly, popcorn contains some minerals, B vitamins, protein, vitamin E, and bran from the hull, an important substance needed in the intestines which is taken out of refined carbohydrates and processed foods. Popcorn can be eaten with Parmesan cheese sprinkled on it or it can be shaped into a ball with molasses or honey and mixed with pumpkin seeds, raisins, and nuts. There are plenty of nutritious and delicious foods to snack on, but Sunshine, Betty Crocker, and Charles Chips have you brainwashed!

When you have friends over, try offering them unsweetened fruit juices such as pineapple, orange, grapefruit, and tomato and be sure to keep a supply for yourself. Do you realize that drinking Coca-Cola is like drinking liquid sugar?

The results of good eating habits are something that won't show up right away. You probably won't feel any different after eating that raisin than you did when you ate that glob of goo. But your body knows the difference. It's only over long periods of time that those good eating habits will pay off in good health. If you're one of those people who live from day to day, you'll be sorry tomorrow.

So, next time you're studying for exams or watching a Sunday football game, don't cram a bag of Prontos into your gut; don't eat nonsense! Think about what you're forcing your body to metabolize. Treat your body good and remember Shakespeare who said, "Our bodies are our gardens to which our wills are gardeners."

CNC students were caught unprepared for the sudden snow flurry which occurred last Monday, however, many were still able to get some fun out of the tiny white flakes.

Threats - not the way to get things done

By Andre Ashcraft, Sr.

Lately I've seen quite a few anonymous signs about the Campus complaining about the lack of pictures of black students in The Captain's Log. Supposedly, these signs are "signed" by a "Black" and a "white" student. Reference has been made about possible "troubles" that could be made by these students if there is no change concerning the pictures of Blacks in The Captain's Log.

I'm quite concerned about this activity about the campus in that there is much ado about nuthin'. It takes all kinds of people to make this world, and frankly a few disturbed ones, too. How on earth does anybody expect us (new papers) to be objective in our reporting if we selected our subjects according to racial composition. We can't go out and just take pictures to meet some quota to suit some people. We do take pictures of mood, creativity, awareness, the light side and the like. We can't just substitute if a particular group of people want us to photograph their choice of subjects. It's hard enough to find subjects to photograph for the moment and mood and not having to provide some racial balance. This paper is funded by the SCA, and it follows established guidelines in printing and reporting objectively. We represent the entire school in printing and if we didn't the paper would automatically cease to exist. There are procedures to follow and since they are quite workable and responsive, the paper is not in jeopardy because of a small group of uninformed students.

My suggestion is, if in fact there is biased photography, then prove it. Our society has prided itself in "righting" the "wrongs" and this would be no lesser case to look into.

Sam Fairchild, SGA Attorney General, Rm. 230 Campus Center chairs the Student Grievance Committee and invites any and all complaints.

If we spent as much time bridging the gaps we sometimes create, then we would have our hands full and running over. I can't understand someone complaining on an issue and not helping to bring it to an end. I would think that if something hurt you, then you would try to remove it.

It's time for us to realize that this is 1976 and not the past. True, there are ugly things we must forget, but why build on these very incidents and allow them to continue to be ammunition for a mud slinging escapade? Why not pull ourselves up by the bootstraps and get on with making this a beautiful place to live?

Help us to help you! We're trying, how about you?

Harpist Judy Kernell and her Golden Harp to appear with CNC Choir.

Harpist joins CNC Choir for concert

Judith Kernell, harpist with the Norfolk Symphony and the Virginia Opera Association, will be the guest of the CNC choir for their concert on December 10, in the Campus Center Theatre.

The featured work on the program is Benjamin Britten's "Ceremony of Carols" one of the monuments of 20th century vocal literature. Accompanied only by solo harp, "Ceremony of Carols" is a setting of nine medieval and renaissance carols.

$5 simple marriage

(CPS)--A recent advertisement in the classifieds of a Vermont college newspaper offered simple marriage ceremonies for just $5. However, the ad offers a special feature. If the Justice of the Peace's wife makes chicken soup, the ceremony costs $10. for richer or poorer, in sickness and in health, well-fed or undernourished....

Winston Churchill once said: "If you will not fight for right when... your victory will be sure and not too costly; you may come to the moment when you will have to fight with all the odds against you and only a precarious chance of survival."

Other works on the upcoming program include three Spanish carols from the Renaissance, and a German Baroque cantata, Vincent Leubeck's "Willkommen süsser Brautigam."
