Fax

Because of new budgetary constraints placed on the Office of College Relations, our stock of fax paper is nearly depleted and we will not be able to replenish the stock once it is gone. Each roll of fax paper costs $25 and provides less than 100 sheets of receivable material. Since fax machines were developed to handle time-sensitive material, we are asking you to discourage people from sending you a fax unless it is something you absolutely must have that day. Your cooperation is sincerely appreciated!

Mon., Tues, Wed., Fri.	8:30 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.

The Smith Library is now accepting applications for the locking study carrels on the 2nd floor. These carrels are available for faculty or senior students involved in research projects which will make extensive use of library resources. Applications may be obtained at the Circulation Desk. The deadline for applications is Feb. 6th.

FYI

The Information Technology Advisory Group, serving as an ad hoc task group of the Information Systems Planning Comm., has placed several draft copies of the CNC information technology planning document on reserve in the library. Once completed, this document will outline the development of information technology at CNC for the next five years. Since these plans will affect all, it is important that you take time to read it and respond with questions, comments or suggestions as you deem appropriate. The document will be placed on reserve on 2/7/91 and remain on reserve until 2/15/91. Please direct your comments to Rich Butchko or Kathryn McCubbin.

The ITAG group wishes this to be a shared college community enterprise and seeks your ideas, plans, dreams, etc. of how you would like CNC's information technology to take shape in the future.
