Reminder #2

It is not too late to be listed in the 1990-91 edition of the CNC media source book and speaker's bureau. This information guide puts the media and local organizations in touch with those who are experts on specific subjects and provides favorable publicity for the College as well as faculty and administrators. If you wish to be included, please send your name, title, phone number, and a list of three or four of your areas of expertise to Peggy Hughes, Office of Public Relations. For more information, please call 4-7039.

Demo

Mr. Willy Donaldson of nVIEW Corporation has scheduled a demonstration of the Viewframe II+2 panel. When placed on an overhead projector, the panel acts as an electronic transparency and allows projection of computer output onto a large screen. The distinguishing feature of this product is that the keyboard or "Toteboard" is a wireless design that allows remote control of a personal computer. The demonstration is scheduled for Thursday, May 3, 1990 at 2:30 p.m. in the Preview Room of Smith Library's Media Center. All interested members of the CNC community are invited to attend. Please call me at extension 4-7415 if you have questions.

Photographer

A big thank you to all professors who kindly let Shirley Whitenack, a local professional photographer, interrupt their classes to take classroom pictures. A another big thank you is extended to those professors and students who took the time to work with Shirley and staged various photo shoots without prior notice.

These pictures will be used in future publications, and kept on file to be used by outside agencies. I expect contact sheets to be ready before graduation. If you are interested in viewing these pictures, or perhaps obtaining some, please contact the Public Relations Office.
