International Studies Colloquium Islamic Culture and American Foreign Policy is the topic of the next International Studies Colloquium to be held Mon., Feb. 11 at 2 p.m. in A105.

Fax Because of new budgetary constraints placed on the Office of College Relations, our stock of fax paper is nearly depleted and we will not be able to replenish the stock once it is gone. Each roll of fax paper costs $25 and provides less than 100 sheets of receivable material. Since fax machines were developed to handle time-sensitive material, we are asking you to discourage people from sending you a fax unless it is something you absolutely must have that day. Your cooperation is sincerely appreciated!

College Handbook Vice Presidents Summerville, Etkin, Behymer and Holcomb are now preparing their proposed changes to the 1991-1992 College Handbook. If you have proposed changes to suggest, submit them in writing by Thurs., Feb. 14 to the vice president for your area, or to Mr. Wendell Barbour, Handbook Comm. Chair, for referral to the respective vice president. The Handbook Comm. reviews all proposed changes to the Handbook and makes recommendations to the President.

FACULTY, STAFF, STUDENT NEWS

Faculty

The Feb. issue of The Journal of Luminescence contains an article by Guzin Armagon and Martin Buoncristiani in the Physics Dept. on "Energy Transfer and Thermalization in YAG:TM.Ho." This article reports, for the first time, evidence of a process-long thought to occur in such materials.

Drs. Sang O. Park and Charles Hurst co-authored a paper entitled "Comparative Analysis of Direct Investment and Critical Trade Variables in Improving U.S.-Japan Economic Relationships" and presented it at the 1991 Annual Meeting of Southeast Conference of the Association for Asian Studies, Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S.C., Jan. 17-19, 1991. The paper will be published in Annals of the Association for Asian Studies, Vol. XIII.

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It is essential for the company to have a clear and concise record of all income and expenses. This will allow the company to track its financial performance over time and identify any areas where it may be overspending or underperforming.

The second part of the paper discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all assets and liabilities. This will allow the company to track its net worth over time and identify any areas where it may be over-invested or under-invested.

The third part of the paper discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all debts and obligations. This will allow the company to track its financial obligations over time and identify any areas where it may be over-indebted or under-indebted.

The fourth part of the paper discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all taxes and other legal obligations. This will allow the company to track its financial obligations over time and identify any areas where it may be over-paying or under-paying.

The fifth part of the paper discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all other financial information. This will allow the company to track its financial performance over time and identify any areas where it may be over-invested or under-invested.

In conclusion, the importance of maintaining accurate records of all financial information cannot be overstated. It is essential for the company to have a clear and concise record of all income and expenses, assets and liabilities, debts and obligations, taxes and other legal obligations, and other financial information. This will allow the company to track its financial performance over time and identify any areas where it may be over-invested or under-invested.
