Artist-in-Concert Series to Begin October 10

On October 10, Christopher Newport College will begin its second annual Nancy A. Ramseur Memorial Artist-in-Concert Series. Ms. Ramseur was the College's first dean of admissions and served the college for thirteen years until her accidental death in 1974.

Last year's concert series was acclaimed by its audience as the most significant step in the cultural development of the peninsula to have taken place in the last decade. This year's program promises to be of higher quality than last year's.

On Friday, October 10, one of the world's greatest repertory companies, The Royal Shakespeare Company, will perform Pleasure and Repentance, a look at love devised and directed by Terry Hands with music arranged and composed by Martin Best. This anthology of love brings together the artistry of Shakespeare, Keats, Dickens, Shaw, Lawrence and Auden and combines them with the contemporary lyrics of Lennon and McCartney and the Rolling Stones. Clive Barnes of the New York Times has called this "a royal delight . . . a different kind of theatre."

On Saturday, November 15, William Walker, the leading young baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Association and sometime star of the Johnny Carson "Tonight" show, will present a recital. As a recitalist, he has been unanimously acclaimed not only for his rich baritone voice and artistry, but also for his witty, warm personality. Spokane's The Spokesman said of William Walker's concert style, "Baritone Walker... handsome and Texas born, proved himself a master of the highly personal concert, in which rapport between audience and performer is established early and nurtured throughout the evening. And this rapport was not produced by mere showmanship - Walker's voice has made him the leading young baritone of the Met... the singer was greeted with a standing ovation - for his voice, his humor and his way of communicating a musical experience."

On Friday, February 27, 1976, Oscar Ghiglia, a classical guitarist, will present a concert and hold master classes. Of Ghiglia's playing it has been written, "His technique is superb, his musical instincts sound, his way with contrapuntal textured of the 17th and 18th century lutenist easy, clear and natural. On the 'modern' side, his projection of the coloristic effects - almost electronic in sound, is impressive on any account." Ghiglia records for Angel Records.

On Saturday, April 3, 1976, Joseph Kalichstein, an Israeli pianist, will conclude the concert series. Winner of the First Prize in the Levintritt Competition in 1969, Kalichstein has appeared with America and Europe's leading symphonies, including New York, Cleveland, Boston, Philadelphia, Berlin, London, Vienna and Israel. Munich's Sueddeutsche Zeitung said of Kalichstein, "A new star has appeared ... This young pianist is something special, a wonder of musicianship." He has recorded for RCA and Vanguard Records.

All performances are scheduled for 8:00 p.m. in the Campus Center Theatre. Tickets for the series may be reserved in the Office of Continuing Studies, Room 163 of the Administration Building. Series tickets for students are $8.00; for faculty $12.00; for the general public $16.00. Individual tickets, if available, will be sold at the door at the rate of $3.00 for students; $4.00 for faculty; and $5.00 for general public.

Bill Homewood will Perform with the Royal Shakespeare Company on October 10.

Vagabond Marionettes to Perform in Theatre

"An actor will appear right on stage with the life-like marionettes," says Clara Dunn, co-author of Vagabond Marionettes' Aladdin and His Wonder Lamp, which will be performed on Tuesday, October 14, in the Campus Center Theatre. The performances will be at 9:30 a.m. and 11:00 a.m., admission price will be $1.00 for students and faculty. The program is being sponsored by CNC players. The proceeds from the performance will help pay expenses for the players trip to Poland.

"In the well known Arabian Nights tale, the part of the Genie-of-the-Lamp will be portrayed by a real actor, performing right along with the puppets on our large marionette stage. As a matter of fact, the whole performance will be 'live' in that all of the action will be performed right before the audiences' eyes, which is a rare treat for children now a days.

"We've been able to have some real fun in Vagabond's production of Aladdin," says Mrs. Dunn, who is also a noted Children's Theatre authority, "not only will children and adults get the surprise of their life as a giant Genie performs on stage, but I think they'll get quite a thrill when they meet the charming Genie-of-the-Ring. This is a very special Genie indeed, for not only will he speak in limerick, but he is also one of the few ELECTRONIC puppets in the world. He's completely electrified! I'll say no more about him for he must be seen to be believed! Besides having live actors and electric puppets, there will be flying carpets, appearing palaces, and disappearing caves."

Modern puppetry, inventive scenic techniques, and electrifying lighting combine to make A VAGABOND MARIONETTES performance the MOST unique experience for the whole family. You can see it for yourself, as the famed touring VAGABOND MARIONETTES presents Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp."

Continuing Studies Offer Adult Programs

The Office of Continuing Studies of Christopher Newport College is preparing its Personal and Family Development Curriculum for its fall session which begins this month. A total of fifteen courses, ranging from Old Time Banjo to Parent Effectiveness Training, will be featured.

Because of continued popularity among adults, several courses are being repeated from last years' schedule of courses. Among these are "Drawing", "Painting", "Parent Effectiveness Training", "Plants and Gardens", "Self Defense" and "Transactional Analysis".

As a result of requests from participants in last year's program and from people in the community, several new courses have been developed. In cooperation with Peninsula Family Services - Travellers Aid, the College will institute a program in family life education. The first course in this program will consider the book Peoplemaking by Virginia Satir, a nationally acclaimed family therapist. Mr. Christian Moseman will lead the discussions which will begin on Thursday evening, October 9, and conclude on November 20.

To assist adults in understanding the basics of personal finance, the College is distributing a correspondence course "Financial Planning." This is a six-part course which introduces participants to the terminology of finance and to basic decisions to be made among the alternate routes to good financial balance. In addition, the course concludes with an analysis of the participant's financial situation.

"Life Planning and Career Assessment" is a course for adults asking the question "Where do I go from here?" Designed by Mrs. Bonnie Hansen of the College's counselling department, the course will provide means for each participant to assess where he is, how he got there, where he would like to go and how he might get there.

SGA Declares Election Run-off Invalid, New Election Scheduled

The election run-off for Senior Class Vice-President between Pat Treece and Mike Bingham has been declared invalid by the SGA Elections Committee, it was learned last Thursday.

The determination was made by the committee after receiving several legitimate challenges from Mike Bingham.

Committee Chairperson, Barbara Anderson says that a new election will be held on Wednesday and Thursday, October 15 and 16, from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. and from 6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.

All seniors are urged to come to the voting table in the Campus Center during the above hours and vote for the candidate of their choice.

Letters to The Editor:

Don't Prostitute Your Knowledge, Know Your Typists

Editor,

Dante had a special place in Hell for pimps. Since in life they rushed about selling women for money, so after death they were prodded by demons to race aimlessly about for eternity.

If Dante were writing today he might devise a similar fate for those who "pimp" term papers to students. Just last week an ad for a firm selling

Manager's Firing Unjustified!

Letter to the Editor

I would like to bring up a point that pertains to the management of the Captain's Wheelhouse.

It is my understanding that Rick Sullivan was fired from his job as manager. It is also my understanding that he was fired because he was supposedly drinking beer on "company" time; however, I found out that Rick was off duty that night.

It is my belief that a manager of a bar (who was a former student and is presently enrolled for the spring semester) has the prerogative to enter his own bar on his night off and drink a beer.

I can't see any justification for firing Rick; he has done a good job of these papers appeared in the Captain's Log (the ad has since been withdrawn). Students who may be tempted to use such a firm should be warned of two things: (1) their work is usually atrocious; (2) turning in such a paper as one's own is an especially flagrant violation of CNC's "Code for Academic Work." (See the Student Handbook).

Then there's the free-lancer (at least one of whom has been spotted on campus) who will offer to sell you a term paper-- or type yours for free if he may keep a copy to sell to someone else. The latter "trick" turns the student into a prostitute. Naturally, this is also disallowed by the Code. Students who have papers typed running the bar and for this he gets fired.

I always thought that when a person is fired there must be grounds for firing the individual. Rick was never given a reason. If there is some personal bias against him, that would not be substantial grounds for firing him; and in firing him, he should have been given the proper two weeks notice or his due pay; to this date he has received neither. He was just canned.

I think the personnel who brought about this action should reconsider. Even though this is a school orientated job; it is still an Employer-employee relationship and the employer was unjustified in his action.

should try to at least know a little about their typist (even second-hand) to prevent their work from being stolen.

Students convicted of violating the Code for Academic Work are subject to severe penalties if convicted. But, more important, intellectual "pimps" like those described above insult one's dignity and honor. No self-respecting person should have anything to do with any of them.

...In Your Ear

By Chuck Edwards

There are many things that disturb the average human being, loud, obnoxious noises are among these. Man, however, in his never ending search for the good life, is continually creating devices that are capable of producing these loud, obnoxious noises.

The juke box is such a device. There are, among members of the human race, those who at times enjoy listening to these noises. Indeed, there seems to be a proper time and place for them. The question being when are these times and where are the places that are proper. Possibly more important is the question of whether or not those of the human race who do not appreciate these noises should be subjected to them at a time and place that they consider improper.

The Campus Center cafeteria and pub area are both popular gathering areas in the morning and during the lunch hour. Conversations among the students, when possible, range from political and economic theory to remarks on the guy or girl who just walked by. These areas are also widely used for studying. Both of these activities are difficult to pursue when loud, obnoxious noises are emitted from the juke box.

Several courses of action are available to remedy this situation. One prospect is to completely eliminate the juke box. This would certainly solve the problem. These students wishing to listen to noises could satisfy these needs by going to the stereo listening rooms. Since the cafeteria and pub areas are both wired for the stereo system located at the information desk, it would seem that the juke box is not needed. Music is continuously piped to these areas whether the juke box is playing or not. The only possible negative effect of this solution would be the fact that those who frequently use the pub at night to drink beer and listen to the noise would be denied this pleasure. However, the stereo could also be piped in during these times.

An alternative to this solution is available. During the morning and lunch hours the juke box could be either turned off or turned down to a point where normal conversation or studying is possible. This, being a compromise, would probably be the best solution. The individual who simply had to choose the particular noise he wanted would be able to do so. The one who wished to study or carry on a conversation without shouting would also be able to do so.

Letters from our readers on matters of general interest are welcome. However, they are subject to editing and must be signed. Please include full address and, for verification only, telephone numbers. Anonymous letters will not be published.

Human Jukebox, Hit with Students

The CNC Players are hamming it up again, only this time not on stage, as spectators witnessed this Thursday in the Campus Center, when the group displayed their latest novelty, the "human jukebox."

Mike Diana brainstormed the invention as he recalled a similar idea he had seen on television. Between the available industries of the rest of the group, Micky Shiller, Doug Bergman, Chuck Hass, John McFall, and Pat Roof made the idea come to life. The show's opening day drew a curious audience, as some observers were laughing, some staring, and some incapable of response as they passed by trying to figure the "thing" out.

The operation is simple: a "top 40" chart is posted on the outside, and when an individual makes his selection, he drops a quarter in the marked slot and waits for something to happen. Sometimes the machine is slow, but it doesn't fail - the curtain opens and the selection is sung complete with a routine performed with props.

The idea is part of a series of fund-raising projects the theater players are planning to help defray the cost of their scheduled trip to Poland in January. Other events planned are a dance October 10 and December 19, a variety show and stock pot.

The jukebox will be operated in the campus center at least two days a week for the next several weeks, and each week the "top 40" will be updated. Number 1 this week is Duke of Earl.

Veterans' Hotline:

Questions and Answers About Benefits

Q: Why is my VA File number so important?

A: To put it simply, we can't find your records without the number. There are over 500,000 veterans in the State of Virginia alone and the Regional Office in Roanoke maintains approximately 200,000 active records. With the similarity of many names, a file number system was established for identification purposes. Prior to July 1, 1973, a veteran filing for benefits was given a special VA number. For new claims after July 1, 1973, the social security number is assigned as the VA FILE NUMBER. If you have not received a wallet size card listing your VA File number, contact Mr. Aspell in the Counseling Center.

Q: How is entitlement charged?

A: Each eligible person with more than 18 months active duty is entitled to received 36 months of full-time educational benefits, or the equivalent in part-time benefits.

Q: What happens if I reduce the number of hours that I'm taking?

A: It depends on individual circumstances - 12 or more hours is full time, 9 to 11 hours is 3/4 time, 6 to 8 hours is 1/2 time, and less than 6 hours - payment is for tuition and fees only. If you reduce the number of hours, notify Mrs. Harrison in the Admissions Office. This information must be reported immediately so that any overpayment to you will be held to a minimum.

Dixie Conference Group Names Armistead "Coach of The Year for 1975"

By Faith Ann Gibson

Jack Armistead, Christopher Newport's Tennis coach, has been selected as "Dixie conference coach of the year, for 1975. Armistead's Captains finished second in the Dixie Tournament last year, this was their best finish since the team became part of the small college group in 1970.

The Dixie Conference League consists of Lynchburg College, St. Andrews, North Carolina Wesleyan, Virginia Wesleyan, Greensboro College, University of North Carolina at Greensboro, Methodist College and Christopher Newport College. Each conference school has one vote and the coach with the majority vote is selected as the conference coach of the year for that sport.

The Captains have had winning seasons four out of six years under Coach Armistead. This is an excellent record considering the lack of home courts for practice and the fact that over 70% of their matches have been on the road.

With the completion of the proposed new six count facility on campus, the Captains can look forward to many successful seasons.

CNC Defeats Greensboro, 3-2

By Faith Ann Gibson

Since the soccer field has been moved behind Wingfield Hall, the goal posts have continually been torn down. So, last Monday, September 22, the soccer game was moved to Todd Stadium.

CNC rebounded from the setback in Norfolk (defeat by ODU) with a 3-2 win over Greensboro. After a lot of fumbling around on both sides George Galle headed a cross from Ken Hogge to open the scoring. The game remained tight until the half with CNC leading 1-0.

The second half opened with Greensboro crashing for the opening ten minutes. CNC regained composure with Andre Bell scoring from a penalty kick. Greensboro's efforts paid off with a goal by Steve Gates. CNC put away the game for good with a goal from Roland Reeves although Greensboro did score ten seconds from the end.

Andre Bell and Derek Aerrare played an excellent game in the winning cause. Mark Chapman, a new fullback played a solid second half.

Last Saturday morning, September 27, under wet conditions at Mariner's Museum (temporary Soccer Field) the Captains defeated the St. Andrews Knights 5-2. This was quite a comeback for the Captains after their loss to UNC at Greensboro on Wednesday (4-3).

CNC took the lead in the first half with a long shot from Andre Bell. Then, the Captains were down 2-1 at half time.

The second half proved much different when CNC established their superiority which lasted throughout the half. Andre Bell scored again with an assist from Alex Vazquez, followed shortly by two goals from Alex Granger. Just minutes before the end of the game, Bell secured the final goal. Richard Celley and Bell Salade (goalie) played an excellent game.

AKPsi Pledges to Build Ramps

By Mary Dvorak

This year's AK Psi pledge class or prospective fraternity brothers met for the first time on September 19. There they began to familiarize themselves with the fraternity.

Then to the dismay of a few, officers were elected and Fabian Bertocci found himself leading the pledge class as their President.

W & M Wins 8-1 over Captains

Tuesday afternoon, behind Wingfield Hall, CNC Captains came out against a very strong, William and Mary Team. They are fourth in the state.

The Captains held William and Mary well in the first half. However, towards the end of the half, William and Mary scored two goals before CNC scored with a goal from Alex Granger assisted by George Galle. William and Mary gradually took over, outplacing the Captains.

The final score, 8-1, is hardly indicative of how well the Captains play for they hope to get back on the winning streak.

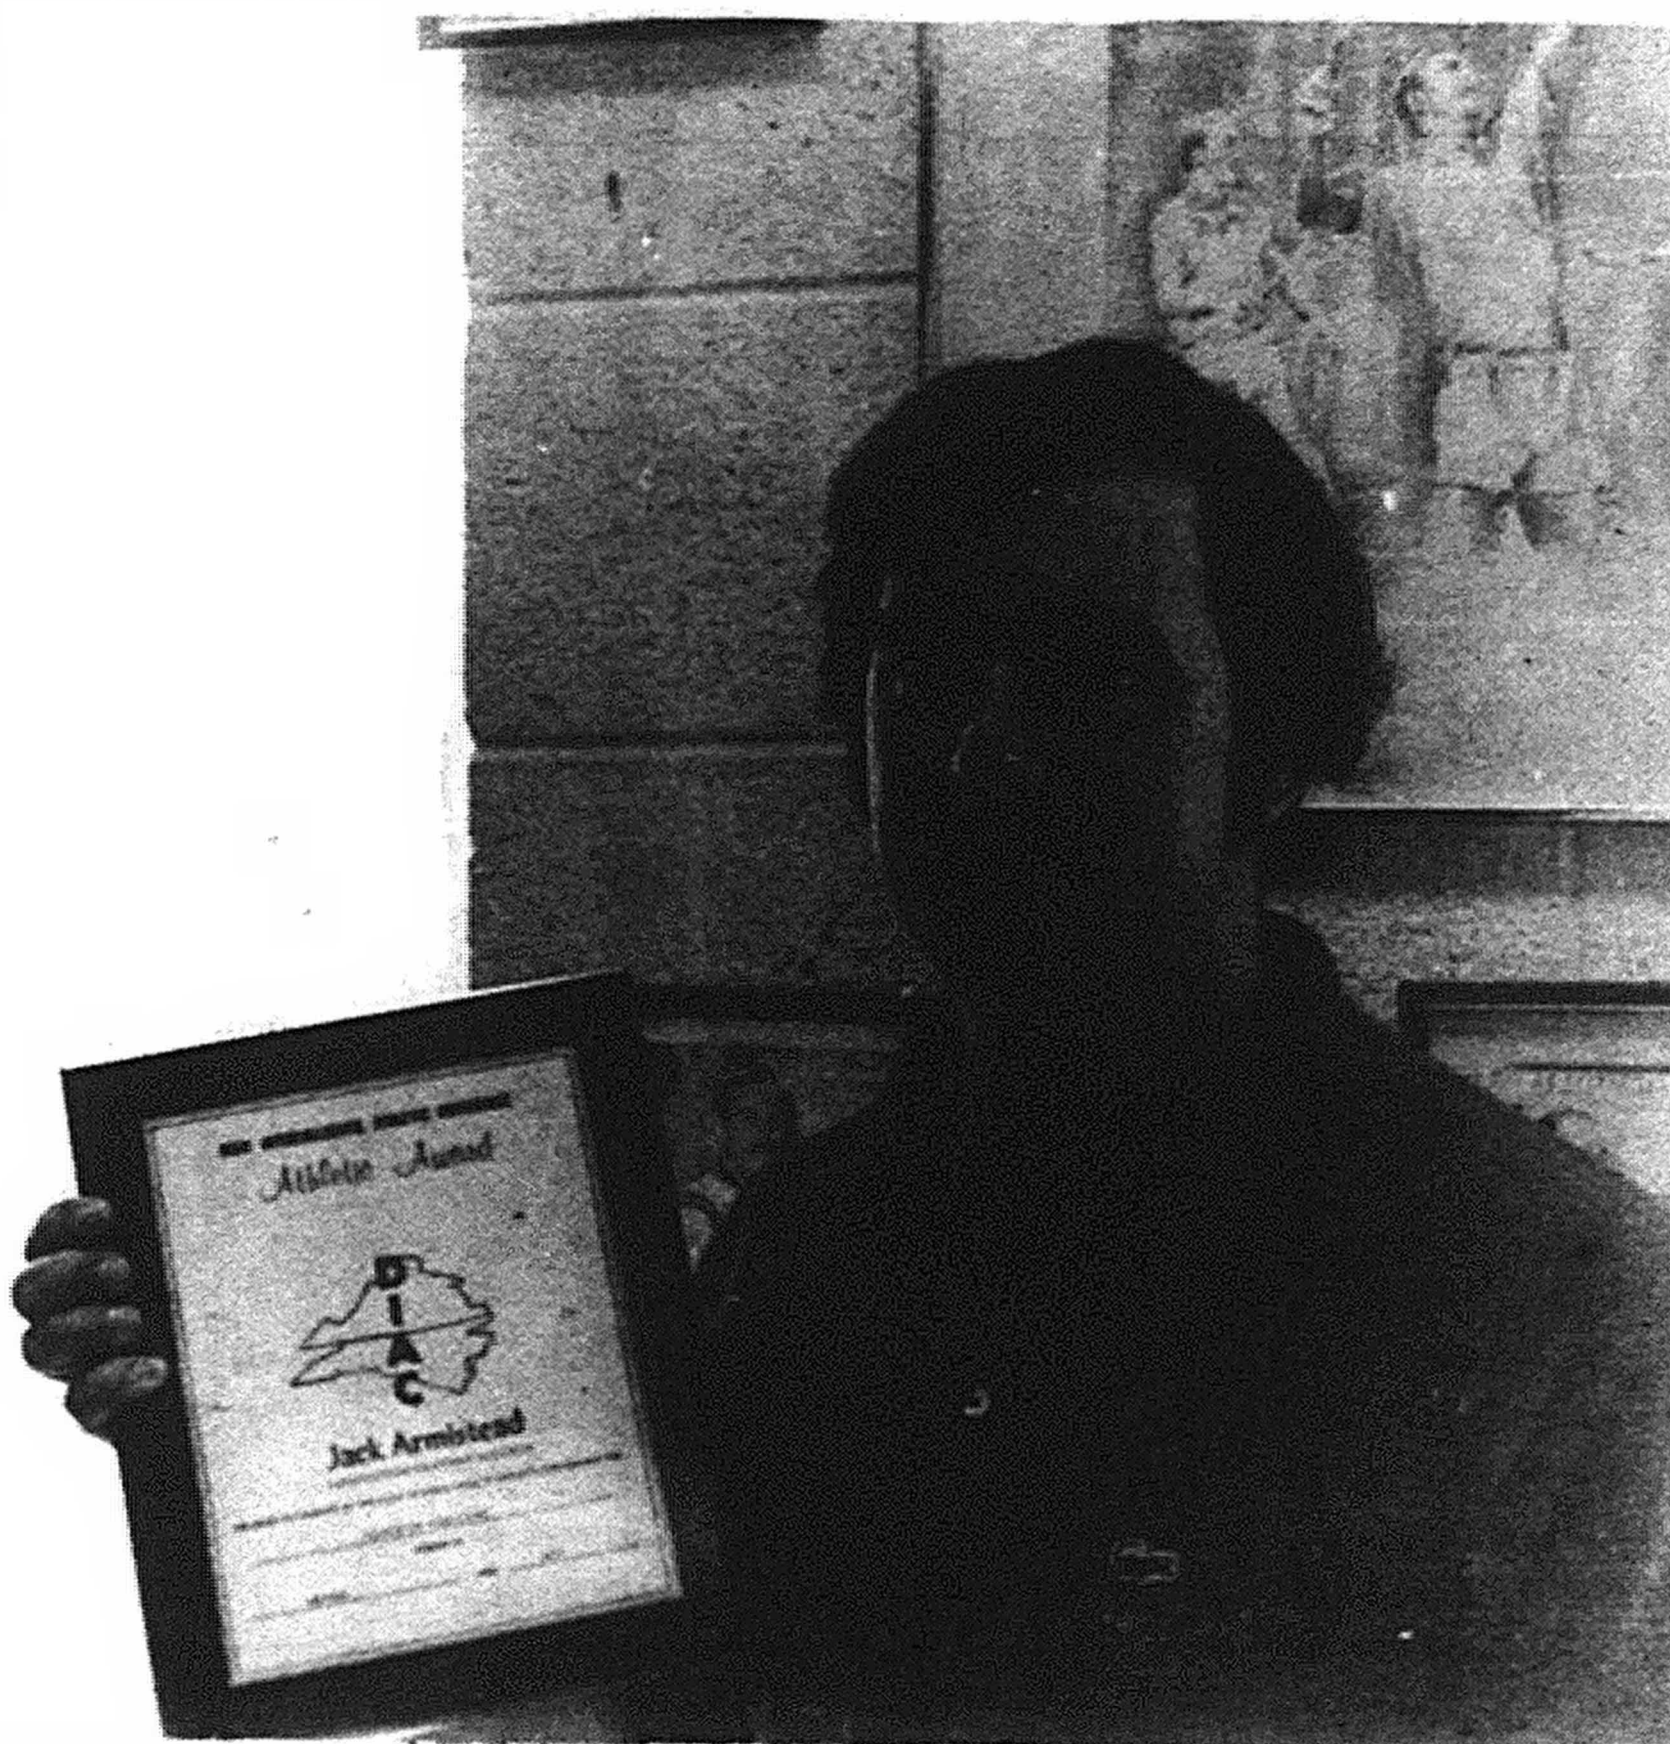

Other pledge offers are Vice President, Edward Richardson; Secretary, Tim Cook; Treasurer, Joseph Michael Hoare; Fraternity Chairman, Clinton D. Cuthrill; and School Project Coordinator, Walter C. Whitt Jr.

The next order of business for the group was deciding on a pledge project, which turned out to be the building of cement ramps at the Wingfield Parking lot, Newport Hall, and Gosnold Hall.

This civic project was selected because the installation of these ramps will make it easier for handicapped students in wheelchairs to go from building to building without having to depend on someone else all of the time.

After much planning and consulting with President Windson, Dr. Edwards, and Mike Czars, the project received blessings and support from President Windsor when he said that the college would pay for the cement, because it is a worthwhile project.

On Sunday, October 5 at 10:30 a.m. the project reached its peak as the AK Psi pledge class gathered for the ground breaking at the Wingfield parking lot.

Tennis Team to Compete in Virginia Intercollegiate Championships

By Faith Ann Gibson

The Christopher Newport College Tennis Team will complete its fall season by competing in the Virginia Intercollegiate Tennis Championship on October 10, 11, 12 at the new Hampton Municipal Tennis Center.

The Captains will enter six singles players and three doubles teams. The matches will be played in flights with each school sending its number one man against the number one man from all other teams and descending down to Number Six for each school. The top Virginia Tennis Teams which are entering the contest include University of Virginia, Hampton, Institute, William and Mary, Washington and Lee, Virginia Tech and CNC.

The Captains will be lead by their Number One man, Andy West; number two, Mike Youngblood and Johnny Roberts; Larry Shelton, Alex Vazquez and Mike Dash. West and Youngblood are undefeated in doubles this fall and they will play number one doubles at Hampton. Roberts and Shelton will play No.2 doubles and Hash and John Ireland will play No. 3.

A strong showing against this type of competition will aid the Captains in their Spring schedule which begins March 22.

Your Elpee's Worth

Mac Edwards and Kim Davis

Ted Nugent. Written and arranged by Ted Nugent. Produced by Lou Futterman and Tom Werman. 1975 Epic Records.

Out of the late sixties, the Amboy Dukes Band came to short lived fame with a tune called "Journey to the Center of the Mind." Without considering the times it may seem, in retrospect, rather trite. The group was, however, slightly ahead of its time, which may account for its flight success. Ted Nugent and Steve Farmer teamed to form the mainstay of the original Amboy Dukes; later it was Ted Nugent and Andy Solomon.

Now, Nugent has exchanged the Amboy Dukes name for his own. Newer members of the band include Derek St. Holmes, who plays rhythm guitar and sings; Rob Grange, on bass; and Cliff Davies on drums, vibes, and some vocals.

Nugent was one of the original flashy guitarists of rock. He, like Hendrix, implemented such gimmicks as playing the guitar with his teeth. Achievement of accuracy with unbelievable speed is his forte. He can make a run of three notes sound like a single note.

Unfortunately, Nugent's latest album indicates a decline in the quality of his sound, a trait evident in many Motor City Bands. These Detroit-based groups have long been plagued by their oneness of sound, for nothing original has arisen from this area in a long time.

The first cut on side one of the album is a long one, but probably the best. A simple, but pulsating rhythm is emitted by the driving guitars while the speed and intricacy of Nugent's leads are quite impressive. The vocals are downright disappointing, another weakness common to Motor City Bands.

"Hey Baby," written by St. Holmes, represents strong, basic rock. Although it's a very danceable tune, there is little variation. Nugent's guitar provides basic rock runs with only a few breaks into the amazing.

"Snakeskin Cowboy" on side two perfectly exemplifies the old Amboy Dukes' style. This cut contains some fine guitar work, relying mainly on the basic rock progressions.

The throbbing rhythm of "Motor City Madhouse" is characteristic of the distinctive Detroit sound that Nugent helped to develop. It is frantic music with lightening fast guitar solos.

In "You Make Me Feel Right at Home," the hard rock theme is broken. Rhythm imitates melody for an easy-flowing, jazzy tune with the welcome addition of keyboards.

Lastly, "Queen of the Forest" bears mentioning because it is competent rock and roll. The four musicians produce a powerful sound and adequate vocals are finally included.

Ted Nugent has made few significant improvements in his music since the Amboy Dukes' days. Through recording advancements however, the technical production of his sound is of better quality.

Nugent may have reached a stagnation point or even a retrogression, but perhaps it's by choice. The latest trend in rock has been back to the simple basics and bands like Bad Company and Bachman Turner Overdrive have capitalized on this. Hopefully, Nugent is just jumping on the bandwagon (or should we say badwagon?) in search of rock and roll money.

If you like your rock hard and driving with a simple, danceable rhythm, then give the Ted Nugent album a try. He's at any rate, no slouch.

Safeguard Your Possessions, Lock Your Automobiles

By Pat Dorsey

There has been no great problem with theft on the CNC campus so far, but it can happen.

In a recent interview with the Dean of Student Affairs, William Polis, the following tips were offered to help you protect your property. His suggests included the use of the Campus Center lockers which can be rented for only $1.50 for the semester with a $2.00 deposit. He also said that you shouldn't leave purses unattended. You should conceal valuable property in your cars and lock the doors. Further, you should not leave your cars in the parking lots over night.

Dean Polis encourages students to use common sense and also to report suspicious persons and activities to the security police. "The problem is primarily with outsiders, not CNC students," he concluded.

Liquid Lunch Blast Planned for Pub

Never been to a Liquid Lunch Blast! Well now is your chance for that is exactly what will be happening in the Pub on Wednesday, October 8 from noon to 2:00 p.m.

You say you are not interested in a Liquid Lunch Blast, well at least come on by and listen to the music of Jeff Smith.

And that's not all that is happening this week. On Thursday, at 12:30 p.m. Conte's Bike Shop will be in the Pub with a Bicycle Crash Course.

You want to know who is playing in the Pub this week? Well for starters Jason will be there from 8:45 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. on Wednesday, October 8 and then Tommy Espinola will be performing on Thursday October 9 starting at 9:00 p.m.

Now do not forget the Monday Night Football in the Pub. This week it will be Dallas vs Detroit.

Speaking of tranquilizers, even back in grandpa's time, there was something to make you sleep. They called it work.

Frisbee Contest, Fun for All

In case you were wondering why you were nearly hit by frisbee last Wednesday as you strolled through the Campus Center lawn, the Frisbee Competition was taking place.

The officials, Tommy Taylor, Richard Samms, Teresa Warf, and John Arthur, were judging distance (longest of three attempts), accuracy (closest to hit a stake 35 yards away), and the best team (frisbee tricks).

There were twelve contestants for the distance and accuracy competitions, they were: George Lord, Bob Lucas, John Schindel, Ricardo Jones, Rick Blleloch, John Wilson, Hep Stoll, Pat Grace, Mike Leininger, Pat Treece, and Dave Shiner.

Teams competing were: John Schindel and Bob Lucas, Pat Grace and Susan Stump, Ken Lassiter and Dave Shiner, and Ricardo Jones and Rick Blleloch.

Winners of the predominantly male competition were: Dave Shiner for distance, Hep Stoll for accuracy, and John Schindel and Bob Lucas as the best team.

The contest featured beginners to experts, the air was light with everyone taking their victories and loses in stride. Comments ranged from Dave Shiner's, "I practice twelve hours

Oops, I Goofed!

By Pat Roof

In last week's review of No, No, Nanette, most of the players were reviewed in their roles, except for two of the most important persons of all - CNC's very own Mike Diana and David Blayton.

David portrayed one of the lead characters and presented a fine performance opposite Chris Jones. It was obvious the work and time that was involved with his perfected song and dance solos.

Mike Diana danced and sung with the chorus and surprised everyone with his zest and techniques, especially considering the play was Mike's first musical.

These two CNC actors should be cited for their contributions to a well done performance.

each day," then correcting himself, "maybe twelve minutes..."

To Pat Treece's, "My frisbee days are over!" She received honorable mention for the shortest distance which averaged about ten feet.

Despite the wind and the clouds, bystanders gradually gathered around the lawn. Officials felt the frisbee competition was a success, both participants and bystanders enjoyed the "flying spectacle".

Financial Aid Available Under Many Programs

By Linda Henggeler

College students are a basically industrious group, especially if the subject is money. Many students spend hours trying to find a way to finance their next semester or better still find a way to have someone else finance the next semester. It's surprising to learn that the greatest problems encountered in the financial aid office are carelessness in completing applications and last minute applications.

According to Clark Ward, director of the Financial Aid Office at CNC, late applicants for financial aid are still being accepted for fall students. However, at this point, only some programs are available. Funds in state and federal programs are dispersed on a "need" and "first-come-first-serve" basis. Funds are available in some programs for the fall.

If a student is interested in financial assistance for the spring semester, the deadline for application is November 15, 1975. This deadline is set to allow awards to be made before the second semester begins. The College Scholarships Service (CSS) which serves as a central clearing house for financial aid information, will not accept applications for second semester after Dec. 1.

Mr. Ward emphasized the characteristic problems with financial aid. "First," he said, "there is a tendency for students to wait until after the deadline has passed to enter an application. Other problems include the completion of only one form when more than one may be required.

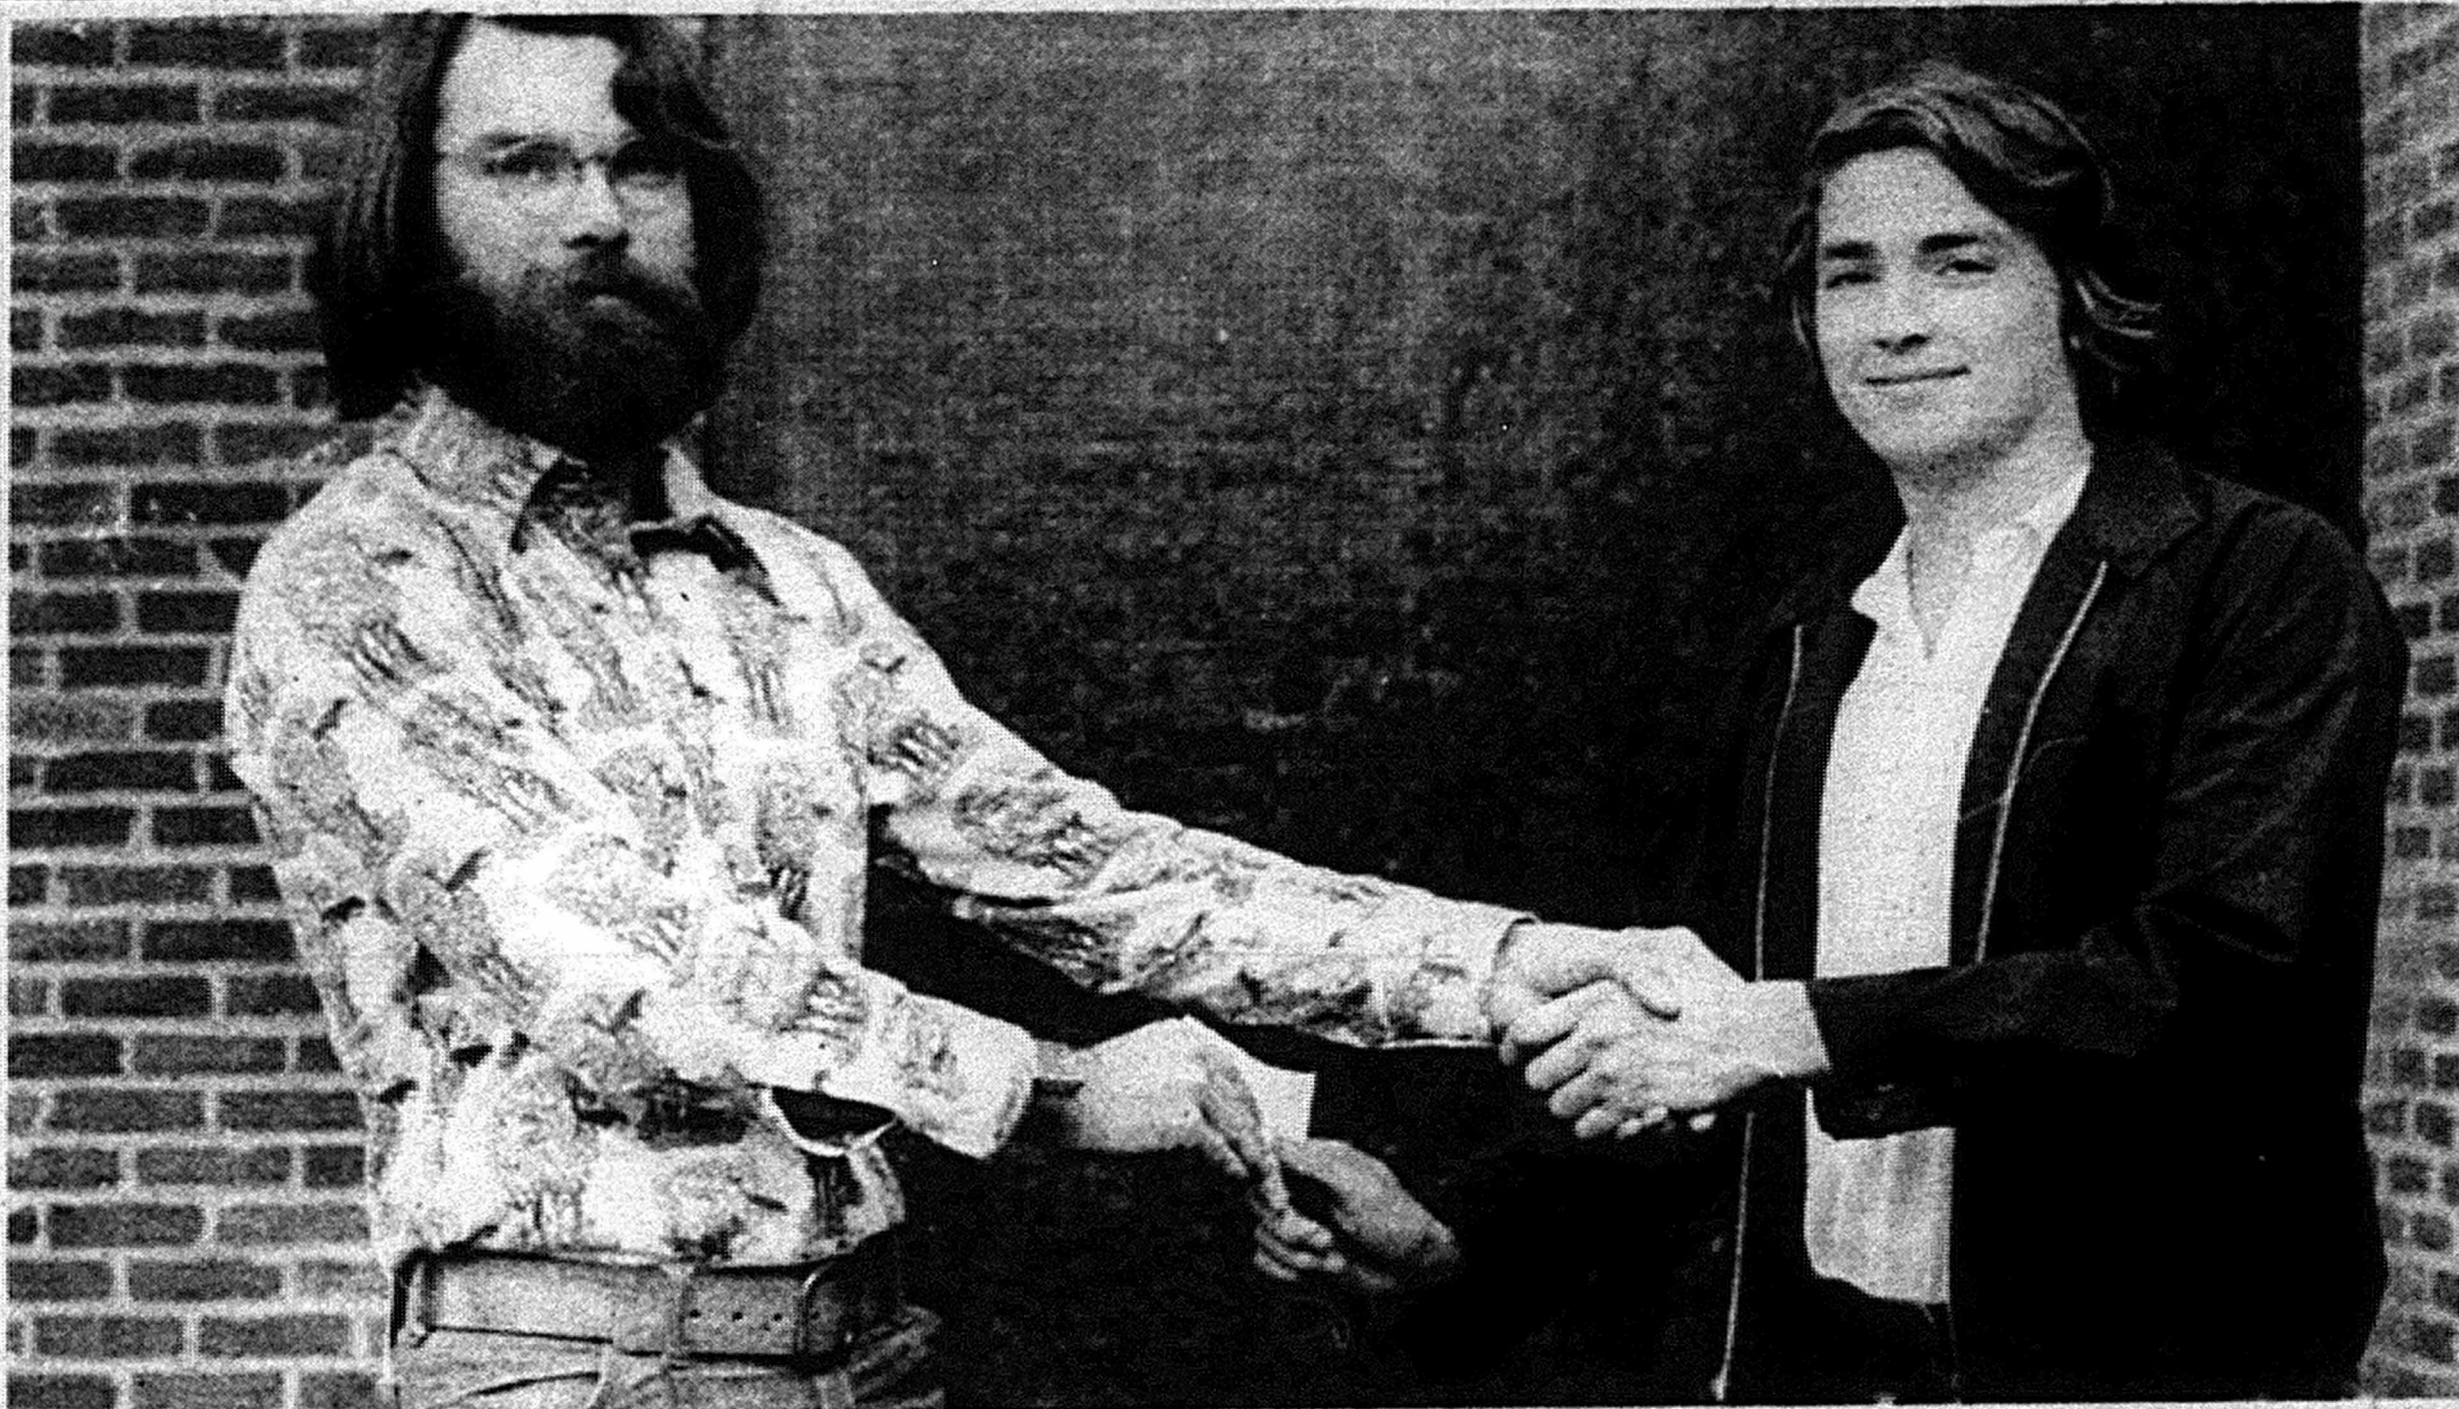

Another point which will be well taken by the student interested in aid is the careful reading of the instructions before filling out the application, this can avoid unnecessary delays.

May 1 is the normal deadline for fall application, most awards are for the full year.

However, if anyone wants to apply for aid, applications are still being accepted. Not all programs are available, but those programs with funds will be considered for fall awards.

It was also pointed out that the deadline for the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant is in March. This application is routed through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and awards for both the first and second semesters are available.

More information on financial aid can be obtained at the Financial Aid Office in Gosnell Hall, Room 216 or by dialing extension 7170.

Litter Plagues Campus

Christopher Newport College is plagued with this sickness termed litter. One can see it everywhere, especially near the outdoor benches and tables. People leave trash lying on the grounds, attracting bees and other insects. These conditions annoy other people outdoors, whether they be studying or catching a few moments relaxation between classes.

If this article had ended here, perhaps it would have pricked the consciences of a few. But that won't cut it! Influence your friends; this has to be a project participated by you and everyone else. You won't overexert yourself by walking those few extra steps to the litter can.

Look at the earth. There are pieces of plastic cup lids and cups destroying its natural beauty. Must man put his mark everywhere? Think about it, but don't stop there. Do something about it!

We students and faculty can end our troublesome sickness by depositing our expired containers (examples: cans, cartons, bags) in the advantageously situated litter cans. It takes perhaps one minute of your time. Just one minute can make all the difference on our campus. We could look upon our grounds as a thing of healthy beauty rather than man-made pollution.
