

In an unsuspected move sports editor Kris Van Deusen flew to Sweden where he had a sex change operation. Track team claims they new it all along.  $\pi\lambda\phi$  members support Kris's drastic move, and Morgan Sickles said, "It might be strange to have a brother that became a girl, but who cares he's got a nice rack."

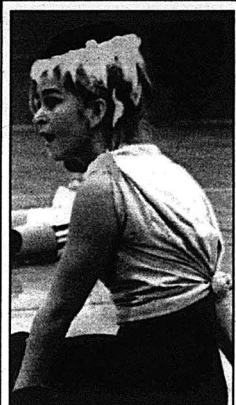

Continued page 96

THE LOG

VOLUME 1, ISSUE 1

HTTP://WWW.CRACKHEADS.COM

APRIL 1, 1888

Bluewave Dancers got pies thrown at them during their last performance. When asked about it Sean Cronin said, "I'm gonna kill the freaking guy who did that. It made them stop before they did their butt wiggle dance."

Continued page 534

Billy Dee Williams and Puppet Yoda To Speak at Graduation

Richard Struube
Staff Jerk Off

The word from the Fourth Floor is that the rumors are true. Actor Billy Dee Williams, best known for his role as Lando Calrissian in "The Empire Strikes Back" and "Return of the Jedi", and the puppet best known as Yoda, from the same blockbuster movies will indeed address the graduating class at this year's commencement ceremonies. A spokesperson from the Administration said "We are pleased to announce two of the most memorable and beloved faces of the past twenty-five years as speakers at our ceremony. The distinctive enunciations and intonations of these two fine individuals and mediocre actors will honor our University and its students." Williams, speaking over the phone from Las Vegas said "I think it's really great. I can absolutely use the money, and I just LOVE helping kids. Now some of you may be wondering: Billy Dee, can we call you Lando? And all I can tell you is: WHY NOT. You can call Shatner Kirk, can't you? As long as the checks keep ROLLING IN!"

While Yoda himself could not be reached, a spokesperson from LucasFilms said "I'm sure that once we find the darn puppet you guys can use it. He may be on display in some museum or something. I really don't know. Why is everybody from your school so interested in some old piece of styrofoam and rubber?"

Imagined dream state of Ms Stokes

Photo by Pooky/The Log

You can keep the damn thing as far as we care."

Student Amy Middlebrooks

expressed her delight at the two actors' appearance. "I'm probably never going to graduate at the rate that I'm going. But I'm going to crush this year's graduation just to meet these two guys! I've loved Yoda ever since I was a kid, and who can resist that Billy Dee? Not me. Maybe meeting them will inspire other commuter students to graduate one day too!"

Student Mike Leonard was also thrilled by the announcement, and plans to organize a pilgrimage to Yoda's podium. "I am convinced that Yoda is god, or at least the closest thing to god our human minds can comprehend. When I saw him lift that huge X-Wing in 'Empire' I was just like 'Man- that guy must be god or something!' I hope that all students will join me in a moment of silent prayer before the blessed Jedi master."

Former student Melanie Stokes is currently the president of the Peninsula Billy Dee Williams Landetts, an exclusively female fan club devoted to the swarthy heart-throb. She is organizing a dinner and reception for the two actors, to be held in the Alumni Room the day before the graduation. "That Billy Dee. He's just too cute. I spoke to him on the phone and he sounded so drunk! The chance to meet him in person- Oooohh!" Stokes collapsed in a fit of giggles and blushes.

But perhaps the most insightful reaction was that of student Heather Mounts. "Lando's the bomb," she said. "And Yoda's simply ineffable."

SGA Restructuring, Casualties Expected

Richard Strube
Ollie-Ollie-In-Come-Free

SGA Vice-President Wally Atkins stunned senators and students across campus when he seized power in a sudden military coup of President Jon Poulsen's administration. Striking just before the Tuesday meeting began, Atkins, along with Secretary Jessica Jenks and a group of camouflage clad mercenaries recruited from ROTC, burst into the Alumni Room, and wounding three senators.

"Everybody remain calm!" shouted Atkins, holding a .45 to Poulsen's temple. "I don't want to hurt anyone, but I will if I have to." As he spoke, mercenary commander Doug Johnson, the mastermind behind the raid, began herding the executive board into a corner of the room. VicePresident Lucky Narain resisted, and was pistol-whipped into unconsciousness by Johnson. "No more monkey business," Johnson growled. "Or I'll initiate some serious ultra-violence."

As the last of the e-board members were forced onto the floor in the corner, Atkins took the main table, gavel in hand. "This is a proud day for the SGA underground. No more lurking under tables. No more spying. No more democracy! From this day forward it is a new rule for the SGA: The rule of Wally Atkins!" Atkins hopped on top of the table, and began to pace up and down its length. "From now on, any questions will be met with instant retaliation." He leered at the frightened senators. "Retaliation of the lethal kind..."

Senator Armani Council, senior class president stood up.

Atkins and gang prior to SGA takeover.

Photo by the late Jon White/The LOG

"Does this begin now?" she asked? Immediately Atkins aimed his .45 and shot her between the eyes. "Let that be an example to out of the room, Atkins spoke of the coup and his reaction to it. "This was great," he said. "I've wanted to hold that gavel in my you all," he yelled over the panicked screaming of the senators. As the tumult died down, Atkins looked at his watch. "Oops," he said. "It's about time to go." Senator Wes Cline raised his hand. "I move to end the meeting," he said. "You fool!" screamed Atkins. "There are no more motions! I decide, do you hear me, I decide!" He fired his weapon, but Cline miraculously ducked in time. "Meeting adjourned," said Atkins.

After the meeting, as the frightened senators slunk hand for a long time now. Too long." When asked his future plans for SGA, Atkins said, "I'll clue you in to one phase of our plan: How about trained chihuahuas to direct traffic in our congested parking lots? Beyond that I really haven't thought that far ahead. To be an effective dictator you don't really have to plan ahead. You just have to be swift to anger, and to action. Like this!" Atkins pointed his firearm into the crowd of exiting senators and fired a shot at ankle level. A shrill scream issued from the mob. "You can expect to see a lot more of that kind of thing on campus from now on," he said, smiling. Although the e-board members were not allowed to speak to the press, co-conspirator Jenks said "They're fine. We have nothing more to say." Johnson, however, was more vocal. "What has happened here today is a landmark event in the history of tyranny. You can expect us to treat them accordingly."

CNU officials refused to comment on the situation, saying only: "We're watching with interest."

New dorm design approved

Above: The front door of the new dorm is an actual Alcatraz front gate reproduction. It is hoped that the bleak existence will crash the rebellious nature of dorm students.

Photo by anonymous/The Log

Donna Eddleman: Dean Or Machine?

Richard "Happy Man" Strube
Staff Lover

Director of Student Life Donna Eddleman stands at the center of the greatest controversy of her career as she faces allegations that she is not a human being, but in fact a cleverly disguised, synthetic, humanoid, automaton.

While Eddleman emphatically denies such rumors, many students and administrators have come forward in continuing testimony before the ACM.

"I want to make this clear," said Eddleman, speaking over the seldom used CNU public address system on Thursday. "I am not a robot. I am not a robot. Please, everyone remain calm."

"No way I'm staying calm," said Student Life employee Tony Felt. "One day I walk into her office and she's walking into the wall over and over again, sparks shooting from her ears, muttering 'oil can what?' over and over again. That chick's creepy," he said, shuddering.

Felt is not the only one to witness unusual behavior from Eddleman. Terrace employee and CNU student Paul Powers told the following story: "Man, I was working in the Terrace late one night, and I heard this strange whirring noise coming from the office of Student Life man. I go back to check it out, and Man! I see Donna sitting on the floor, with one leg detached from her body! She had a couple screwdrivers and a jackhammer, and she seemed to be rewiring the damn thing! I ran as fast as I could man, but I still think she might have seen me. Man, I'll never go back there again."

"That's ridiculous," said Eddleman on Friday. "Even if I were a robot sent for dubious purposes from some dark, alien, Cthulian-esque, gods, I would never rewire my leg with a jackhammer. Is that even possible?"

Many, however, remain skeptical. Dr. John Hoaglund, of the Philosophy Department, said this would not be the first time a robot has been employed by CNU. "I think everyone knows by now the whole truth behind the Gary Sayre incident," he said, referring to the department's newest instructor. "Of course he was from the CIA, not some extraterrestrial empire, but it's not too dissimilar. I think you can make a pretty good case for CNU employing hundreds of robots. That might explain why we have so few books of any decent quality in our library. One would wish they would at least send you robots of tolerable upkeep, but the Sayer unit couldn't even handle basic simulations of human activity. It was quite a shame, really."

While the ACM is not expected to come to a verdict anytime soon, many students are hopeful Eddleman will be declared a robot, and thus ACM property. ACM President Ryan Cresawn said, "I'm really looking forward to examining the machine. I can't wait to dis-assemble her and take a look at her neural nets. I'm anticipating a revolutionary fuzzy-logic system, but hey, maybe she'll surprise us."

Eddleman said only "We'll see what happens. What we're seeing now is how the student body can work together. If they choose to dismantle me to my component parts, then I support them. But I ain't no droid."

THE CAPTAIN'S LOG

Gray Squirrel
Editor In Pretty Flower Panties
Jennifer Schuetze
Barely Managing Editor
Wesley Cline
Wants to get Layedout Editor
Jessica Dang' it
S(ailor) & M(oon) Editor
Kris VanDaLizum
Athletic Supporter
Mandy Malone
Mistress of the Dark
Richard Strube
Sea Monkey Whore

Barbara Temple
Den Mother
Ben (in da) Hutt
The Overexposed One
Ames
Maker of fine Tape-A-Quaters
Mark Schuetze
No Account Executive
Eric Pesola
Has nothing to do with this
Jonathan White
Cake Boy
Wally Atkins
Fila Model

The Captain's Log is the Official Student Newspaper of Christopher Newport University. The Captain's Log is published on 24 Mondays throughout the 1997-1998 academic year. New contributions are accepted by fax (594-8757), by electronic mail (clog@cnu.edu) or in The Captain's Log office (SC223). Circulation inquiries, advertising rates and policies are available upon request by telephone, (757) 594-7196, mail or on our website. The Captain's Log is created with Apple Macintosh computers, using Adobe PageMaker. The Captain's Log welcomes letters from its readers. Send letters to: The Captain's Log, 50 Shoe Lane, Newport News, VA, 23606. Letters may also be brought to our office or sent to us by electronic mail at clog@cnu.edu. Anonymous letters may be printed, but writers must sign the original, providing full address and telephone number for verification purposes. Students: please indicate your class status. If the writer is affiliated with an organization, that may be noted. The Captain's Log reserves the right to edit letters according to style, subject and length, as well as to refuse publication. For a letter to be considered for publication in the next issue, we must receive it by noon of the Wednesday prior to publication. Corrections/Clarifications to The Captain's Log will be published in the issue following the error.

Notice

This is the annual Spoof issue if anyone is insulted or offended by the material contained within it just relax. It's a joke.

Rick Strube: The Man, The Myth

By Amanda Malone
Mistress of the Dark

Who is Rick Strube, Captain's Log Staff Member of the Year? Is he a brilliant, misunderstood genius who is struggling to define himself on his own terms, or is he another John Hinckley Jr. waiting to happen? Rick has been on the staff of the Captain's Log since January 1997 and in that time he has proved to be a tireless worker, going to any lengths to bring to CNU students important news about their school.

"He's a focused, dedicated worker. Always out to get the scoop. He always wants to get on the front page...but, lets not get into that," said Managing Editor Jennifer Schuetze.

Rick's dedication to his job has led to his obtaining many important scoops including the Jon Poulsen controversy and the recent discovery about Director of Student Life Donna Eddleman. Each story he covers bears his trademark of exhaustive research coupled with intense professionalism.

However, Rick Strube can be seen as an enigma of sorts with Rick Strube the reporter and Rick Strube the man being two contradictory factors in constant conflict with each other. It is this almost primal struggle which both fascinates and confounds those who are close to him.

"I don't know how to describe Rick. He's a great guy, but recently he hasn't been the man I remember him to be. Maybe he has had too much Yellow dye #5 in his diet," says close friend Heather Mounts.

Rick has picked up a number of intriguing new extracurricular activities in recent months. He is a founding member of CNU's Free Thought Society, and he recently built an elaborate shrine to the Spice Girls and the women of the SGA in the kitchen of his Newport News apartment.

When asked his reaction to the new decor, roommate Brandon Sparks replied, "It doesn't bother me in the least. Looking at the Spice Girls sure beats the song lyrics our former roommate tacked to the walls of our living room!"

Proving that his talents extend to art as well as the written work, Rick has created a veritable tapestry dedicated to his favorite women. Every square inch of the kitchen, from ceiling to floor, has been lovingly decorated with photos of these women in every size, shape, and color. The Peninsula Fine Arts Center is even considering the room's submission in an upcoming exhibition dedicated to "The Art of the Recently Incarcerated."

"When he first started collecting the music magazines and SGA bulletins, I didn't think too much of it. After all, everyone has to have a hobby. But just between you and me, I get a creepy feeling everytime I step foot into that kitchen," Mounts says.

When asked to give a few statements to sum up his tenure on the Captain's Log staff, Rick discussed a number of subjects including the Spice Girl's "Scandalous" Grammy night shutout, the photogenic qualities of the SGA board, and his desire to "get close to" CNU President Paul Tribble in order to "Impress" Scary Spice. He also expressed his desire to keep working for the Captain's Log and bringing the students of CNU all the latest news.

"Keeping me away from this job would be the worst thing you could do to me. This is my life, my obsession. I don't know what I would do if this was suddenly taken away from me."

It is this selfless dedication to his work which epitomizes why Rick Strube is the Captain's Log Staff Member of the Year.

Tribble Breaks Pact With Satan, Forms new Alliance With Jesus Christ

Richard Strube
Staff Hot Mama

In a stunning political and theological move, CNU President Paul Tribble has renounced his necromaniacal allegiance with the Adversary, and has now signed a contract with our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, a move that he promises will "usher in a new era of prosperity and bountiful blessings."

The recent agreement, signed on Sunday, the day of the Lord, has students, faculty, and administrators abuzz with rumors, hope, and not a small amount of concern. "I don't care what the Son of Man promises," said the Chief of Staff. "You can't shake the Devil's hand and say you're only kidding."

Others, like Professor Ken Rose from the Philosophy and Religious Studies department, are more optimistic. "Let's face it," he said, nonchalantly flipping his glasses on and off his face. "The Magician From Galilee has demonstrated a powerful influence over Western Civilization for the past 2000 years. He can't be all bad."

In a public statement, Tribble said "I am proud to announce that CNU is now a campus on a hill. Although it is true that without the backing of the Prince of Darkness, construction of the new Art Center will be postponed indefinitely, I can assure you all that our new Sports Complex will be completed in the next year. Of course, it will then have to be torn down and rebuilt in three days. That's planned for our year 2000 Homecoming, and we think it will be quite a show."

Although Tribble did most of the talking, the Son of God did briefly address the crowd. "My children, I want to tell you all how much I love you. I have always been a big supporter of CNU in the Heavenly Court, and am proud to now lead the way to a new campus, and to a new vision. God knows I'm a big basketball fan, no joke intended, so let's get to work on that Sports Center. Bless you all, and please, render to Tribble what is Tribble's, and to me what is mine."

Dean of Students Donna Eddleman said, "I really can't comment on the matter. But I'll say this: I think that Jesus Christ is going to go over like gangbusters at CNU."

Satan couldn't be reached for comment, but a lesser minion said, "Obviously this is disappointing to the Father of Lies. There were promises made that have not been kept, and that's unfortunate. But Tribble did sign a blood oath, so we'll still get the son of a gun in about thirty years or so. Besides, we haven't had this much fun since that chubby Santoro."

Construction of the Paul Tribble Tabernacle of the New Covenant and Dormitory will be completed by the fall semester. Jesus is expected to spend weekends on campus, although he will be dead, and unavailable on the Saturday before Easter.

Ya we have a hole here. So what?! We don't care why should you? Read the comment to the right.

A Wes factoid

More people die each year. It's true. Every year millions of people die and there is no end in sight. It is a sad fact that one day a loved one may die. So that is why today before you do anything else you should . .

Ligten up this is a spoof issue and nothing we say is meant to offend or be in any way slanderous.

If you think this stuff is over the edge you should see what we felt we couldn't print. It was good but even we have standards. Now if only we could find them. If for some unknown reason you still think we went too far be happy in the thought that we will probably never graduate and will probably be banned from ever touching a pen to paper again. Considering the papers for classes we need to write we will all come out on top.

Pan, God of Mischief and Shepards, Sighted

Richard Lee Strube III
Staff Acolyte

The sound of goats bleating, swarms of students breaking into inexplicable frenzies, and the musk of unwashed animals are just some of the incidents being attributed to a manifestation of the ancient Greek Deity Pan, son of Hermes and some nymph. Born bearded, Pan has had a room on Mt. Olympus since his childhood, but has been commonly known to reside in pastures and on mountains, causing mischief for mortal and immortal alike. His recent appearances on campus have been greeted with delight by some, and heralded as grim omens by others.

"I think it's fantastic," said student Brandon Sparks, a self-proclaimed 'Master of Libations'. "I've been tipping the bottle to Pan for years now, breaking all sorts of laws, and generally being a nuisance. It's just rewarding to see all my hard work paying off." He then began to sing: "Paan, Pa-an, Greek god Pan. One half goat, The other half Ma-an."

Student Cornbread Jones is more dubious. "This whole cloven-foot thing is just nasty," she said. "Sure, I like a good party, but when I saw him running naked across the Great Lawn, I was just, like, 'What-ever!'" Jones does admit to participating in the Mystical Tambourine Ceremony, an allegedly ancient Panic ritual. But she fears Pan's presence signals a return to darker times. "No one seems to remember that the last time the gods walked the earth people died." But don't they die now? "Sure," she said. "But not because they anger Posideon or something. Whatever."

While the Administration could not be reached for comment, Wes Cline, President of Sigma Tau Delta, the English Honor Society, said this. "I think we can take a lot of responsibility for Pan's recent focus on CNU. Do you really think our choice of letters was coincidence? Think about it."

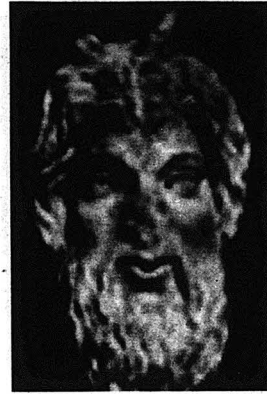

In the Santoro Residence Hall, students refused to open their doors, speaking only through the cracks. "He's out there," said resident George Detweiler. "He kidnapped my girlfriend, he's kidnapped everyone I know! He thinks that because I have a beard I'm his friend. I wish I'd never started partying! Curse you Pan!"

But resident Kimyachi Strube was more impressed than afraid. "I looked out into the commons, and there he was. It was magnificent," he said. "That was no mere satyr! That was the Greek god Pan!"

Classics Professor Elizabeth Jones, however, cautioned an early celebration. "Let's not forget the classic words of Elizabeth Barrett Browning," she said. "Remember: 'Pan is dead- Great Pan is dead- Pan, Pan is dead.'"

Student Jones had only this to say in reply: "Whatever."

Rick's World

By Rick Strube

By Rick Strube
Use Me Ladies

I never thought I would be given a column of my own. But then my editor said to me "Hey, Rick, why not write a column for the next issue." Everybody laughed, so I could tell they thought it was about time I was given my own column, just like I'd been saying. So now I'm able to speak my mind about anything I want at CNU.

I want to start by saying that I don't like John Savage, the computer guy. That's strange too, because he does his job so well. I mean, here's a man who does everything in his power to make sure that CNU computer services are kept well ordered, and CNU students well behaved when using them. Who can fault his efforts toward such notable goals? Every student I talk to says they feel very comfortable using CNU computers. Kudos, Mr. Savage!

A person I do like is Dr. John Hoaglund of the Philosophy Department. I like him because he likes to read a lot. I wish though that he would stop complaining about the lack of good books in John Smith Library. I mean, we don't need such new books, right now. And really, we usually have at least one book about some things. Dr. Hoaglund needs to get with the times and realize that things like a Sports Complex are much more important than books right now.

I mean, heck, books will always be around. We need to build an arena while our teams are good. Come on Dr.

Hoaglund. Fall in line behind CNU's big plan!

Two more people I like are Maureen Rodriguez and Debbie Peters, the Executive Secretaries. They are always very nice to me while I wait in the lobby up on the Fourth Floor. I think that the best part of CNU's "open door" policy for students is the company of these charming, witty individuals while you wait. It's even better when you work at the school paper, because then you can sometimes spend hours with them! Thanks ladies!

And now it's time for the person I like the most on campus, and the person I like the least. The person I like the most is President Tribble, because I think he sincerely likes CNU. I think that because he is helping us get a lot of money and students. He also is a man with a plan, a plan that like it or not is the best thing for CNU in a long time. CNU needs that plan to grow. Thanks, President Tribble!

The person I like the least is also President Tribble. Again, I really have no reason for not liking him. I must be a fool, because President Tribble puts students first. He likes construction too. And what else do you need at a university besides a lot of people and buildings? Some people think that there are other ways to grow, but what's that about? Good work, President Tribble.

Buy a John Hulk action figure

Don't make him angry. You wouldn't like him very much when he is anger.

Available only at your local Log-Mart.

Offer not good anywhere but Alaska.

Void where prohibited, which is pretty much everywhere last time we checked. Not meant for small children. Not intended for large children. Not really good for medium size kids either. Warning: this toy does not function as a flotation device. May cause vomiting in small woodland animals especially the famed Gray Squirrel.

By Kris Van Deusen

Heres the scoop

Let me tell you the deal about some CNU athletes. First of all a source close to the

Censored:

Censorship regulated by the Don't Make Them Cry Foundation.

Shown in their new outdoor uniforms for next season are from left to right freshman Miranda Swaim, Senior Hollie Fuller, Junior Stephanie Parent, freshman Heather Vaden, and assistant coach Seng Chiu. (Due to support failure in his push-up bra, Head Coach Art Thatcher could not be pictured.)

Photo provided by Playboy Photography Division.

Volleyball goes to the beach

By Scott Phelps
Staff Writer

In an effort to increase attendance at volleyball matches the Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference announced plans to play all of its conference matches on outdoor sand courts and require all players to wear bikinis next season. The Dixie is the first conference in the U.S. to begin beach volleyball play, so only conference matches will be played this way.

"I'm very proud to say that we are leaders in college beach volleyball," said conference chairman Ted Kennedy. "We really hope this gets people out to watch."

However, Kennedy denies the accusations concerning the bikini rule calling it sexist.

"We know we're taking a risk, but attendance has been dismal, and with Title 9 it looks as if many sports folks won't pay to watch will be sticking around for a while. We just want to produce something out of it."

The Dixie plans to charge $8.00 per person for all matches ($5.00 for students) and plans to increase revenues this year by 30%.

Once a cash cow in the past may become the third largest money maker for the conference.

There are some problems that are expected to occur like the difficulty the girls will have making the transition from the gym to the sand and the fact that some girls simply do not look good in bikinis.

"I know there are some who should never even think of wearing a bikini," added Kennedy. "However, those are just some of the risks you take. Let's just hope that fat chicks give up college volleyball, so we can all enjoy the games."

Referees admit to making poor calls

By Russell Scott
Staff writer

In a statement released by the Division III Basketball Officials Association yesterday two unidentified basketball referees confessed to blowing the whistle and making up fouls.

"Most times we just pick a team to call a lot of penalties on, especially if they're good. It makes the game more interesting," said one official who spoke anonymously. "A lot of times I make-up a call that I know will get a coach angry. Then, I act real serious like the foul really happened. They get mad and two things usually happen. They either buy it or they get so upset they yell at me and then I just call a technical on them. Hey, it really is the officials' game."

"Both officials admitted to blowing the whistle randomly because they simply do not know what is going on."

"The funny thing is I haven't seen a rule book in about nine years."

Division II basketball referee, Hubert "Coke Bottle" Whimsley, discusses a fabricated call that he did not change. He later admitted to laughing about it with his buddies over a beer.

Photo by Chuckie E. Cheese/The Log

Dixie suspends player for illegal bat

By George Brett
Staff Writer

Alex Vasquez was suspended for two games earlier in the season because of an illegally corked bat. Vasquez ordered the bat in the off-season to give him an advantage the following year. Head coach Curt Long was infuriated at the decision, but his appeals have gone unheard. He now looks jovially on the situation.

"We use aluminum bats," said Long. "It actually makes the bat heavier to put cork in it. I don't know what he was thinking."

Averett head coach, Abe Naff, knew something was unusual about the bat when he dropped it on the foot of Averett catcher, Biff Summersby. Naff called for an inspection and, after a two hour delay while maintenance workers cut it open with a blow torch, found the illegal substance. Vasquez was ejected from the game.

When asked why he suspended the youngster Dixie Conference Chairman, Ted Kennedy said, "Hey, if you can't do it in the majors, you can't do it here."

"I almost go away with it," added Vasquez. "If I hadn't dropped it, there wouldn't have been a problem."

On a positive note, Vasquez has amazingly improved his numbers since he returning to the team and going back to his old bat. With the corked bat he hit .198 with 15 strikeouts. In the four games since his suspension he has hit for an average of .798 with six home-runs, two doubles, a triple, and no strikeouts.

"All the other bats feel like feathers," said Vasquez. "I think I've built up my strength and bat speed by using the corked bat for the first eight games of the season. I also practiced with it for six months in the off-season."

"He can really get around on the ball, now," added Long. "He could barely carry the thing before. We were thinking about cutting him from the team."

Since the incident, the makers of the illegal bat have been flocked with orders from all over the country.

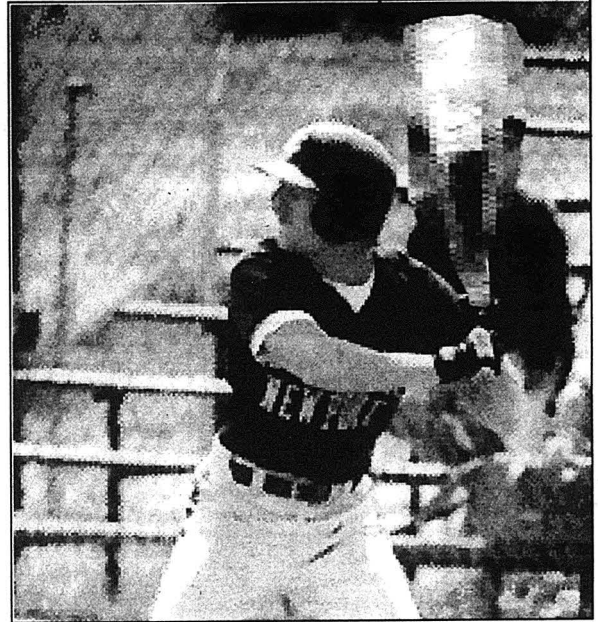

"We can't make enough of the damn things," said Tony's Bat Company spokesman Butch Neanderthal. "Before I'd just make illegal wooden bats on the side for a little extra pocket cash. I thought the kid was nuts, but he had cash, and hey who am I to judge. Anyway, now it's our biggest division."

We were the first to order them for practice," added Long. "We saw what it did for Alex, but it doesn't really work. I guess you have to use the bat exclusively for half a year before you see any results. We're going to use it during Fall ball."

Vasquez still takes a lot of ribbing from his teammates who later informed him that cork only becomes an advantage when it is used inside wooden bats to make them lighter, but it helps now that he leads the Dixie in banning average.

"I didn't know," said Vasquez. "I just thought cork was better."

(Alex Vasquez is looking for a tutor to help him with his classes. If anyone would like to help, please call 1-976complete-moron.)

Alex Vasquez shown here with his corked bat. On this particular swing, the bat was so heavy it ended up in the dirt in front of home plate. He later struck-out watching because he was too tired to swing three times.

Photo by Ben Dover/The Log

Ratcliff gym shrinking

By Kevin Spence
Contributing Writer

Ratcliff Gym, built in 1947, has a seating capacity of about 500, but a strange phenomenon called outdatedfossilizedfacilitiesis may reduce that number by 50 as early as the start of the next basketball season.

"We have experimental age reducers in place to slow the process," said building maintenance worker, Moses, who began his career here the year Ratcliff was built. "I remember when we first laid the plans for the structure right after that golden calf incident. She's a fine building and we hate to see her go like this."

The problem was first discovered during intramural games when a student crashed face first into the fold away bleachers as he was going for a lay-up.

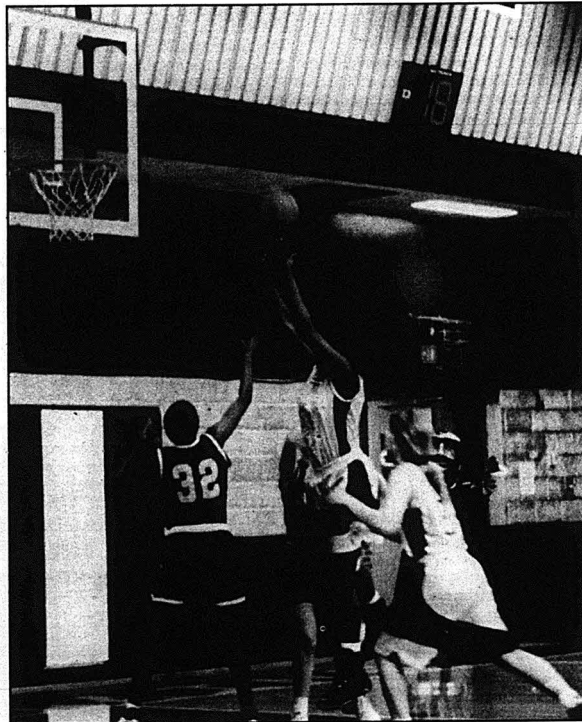

"I could have sworn there was more room there earlier," said the unidentified junior from West Point, VA, who is going bald and answers to "Bubba."

Other facilities like the one in Hope, Michigan were built through the contractor known as WEPLANFORTHETUTURE.

President of the company, Leroy Commonsense, said, "we discovered an unknown phenomena shortly after the first recorded diagnosis of outdatedfossilizedfacilitiesis. It occurs with new colleges. It's called growth. We expect a school to become larger so we build what we can to accommodate for it. You know seeing as how schools never really get smaller."

The cost for the treatment to the building is minimal and should mean a slight increase in tuition next year.

"It's worth it," said Moses. "she's all we got until the new facility is completed."

Thanks to state of the art techniques, Ratcliff Gymnasium will last a lot longer although it may be difficult to find a seat for games next season. Building maintenance worker, Moses, believes last second full court shots should begin hitting the roof by mid-season next year.

Photo by Mike Hunt/The Log

Runner not anorexic

by Eric Pesola
Staff Writer

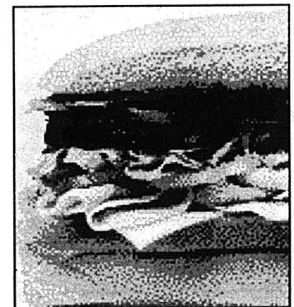

A cross country runner was detained last week at Riverside General Hospital when he was mistaken for a patient with chronic anorexia. Larry "I can see your skeletal frame" Jones was held for three days in the hospital's program before the mistake was discovered.

"They grabbed me," said Jones. "Before I knew it they had me on a high calorie diet, and wouldn't let my exercise for three days. It was hell."

The hospital refuses to accept blame reporting only that he should not have been on that floor without a hoagie.

"I thought he was a patient," said an intern who offered to speak on anonymity. "How was I supposed to know he was just a skinny runt who thinks he's an athlete?"

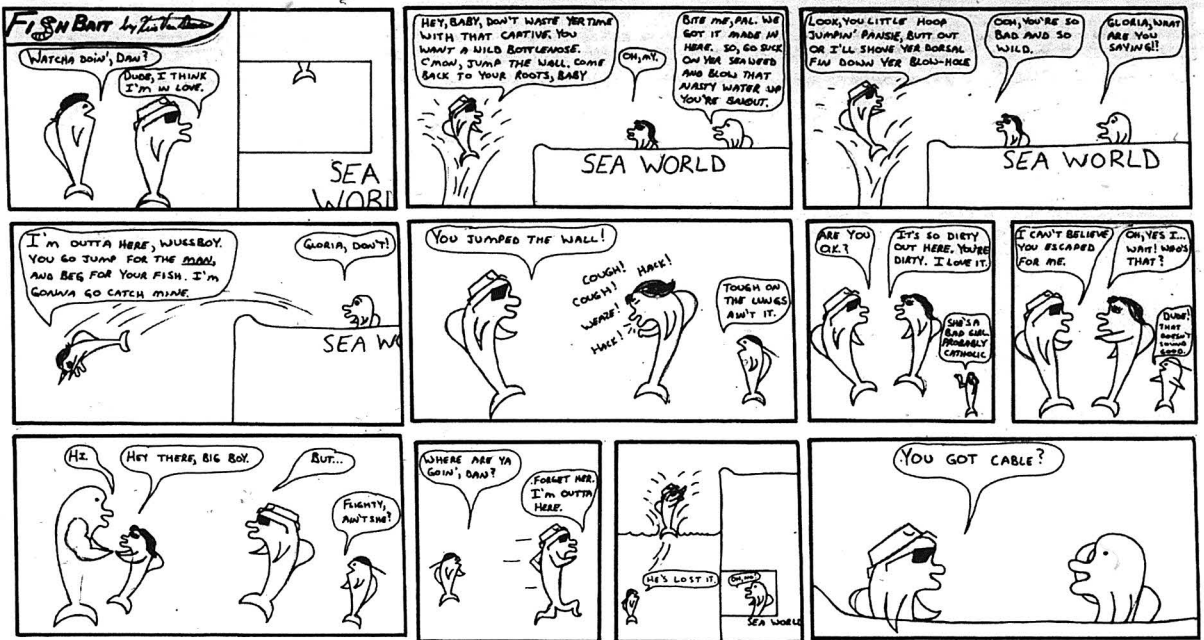

The hospital apologized for the mishap and offered to buy Jones a decent meal. Jones also promised to wear a sign that says, "I do not have an eating disorder," whenever he is on hospital grounds.

A turkey bacon is the most easily spotted hoagie by Riverside Hospital staff.

Photo by Big Mac/The Log

classifieds

REALTOR NEEDS CLERICAL HELP for a self-starter. Computer literate. Part-time set your own hours. $6.00 to $7.00/hr. Call Angela Connors @ 873-0021. Leave Message

The Captain's Log & SGA are gearing up for this year's BATTLE OF THE BANDS. If you are in a band, or know someone who is, and would like to participate in this year's show, email us at clog@cnu.edu. Last year's show was great, and this year's show will be even better! The Battle will be on April 16. The Captain's Log $7.00 per hour plus $150.00 per month housing allowance. Largest rental service on the Outer Banks of N.C. (Nags Head) Call Dona for application & housing information 800-662-2122.

FOR RENT: Oyster Point Area Condo. 2nd Floor, 2BR, 1 1/2 Bath, vaulted ceilings new carpet. All electric appliances $650/mo. Call Sharon 873-8377

Earn $6000 next summer!

Call Dale for more info @ 872-8598

Painting, Sheet rock Repairs, rotten wood repairs. Keep your investment looking great! Call Scott @ 886-9161

For sale: '65 & '67 Thunderbird, '66 Charger, '90 Topaz. Call Larry in Chesapeake. 757-482-8570

Paramount Builders Virginia's Largest Home Improvement Co. is hiring part time Canvasers. Walk, Talk, & Get Paid! Call James for more info @ 599-0977

ΓΦΒ new members: Jen, Ginger, Kelly, Ashley, Casey and Susie. We love you bunches too We can't wait till you know who we are. Love in PIKE the Sisters of ΓΦΒ

To my Big Sis Erin: Thanks for everything you've done me and all the great gifts you gave me this week. You me ans Susie are going to have so much fun. To all my Pi class buddies, I love you. Casey ΓΦΒ

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED 3 BDR , 2BTH HOUSE. Full house priv. $85.00 a week. Depoist required. debbie 886-1194..

MODEL NEEDED for Art Classes !!!

Dance background desirable but not necessary. Model in leotards or street clothes. Contact Dr. Alexick or Betty Anglin in the Art Dept. 594-7090 or 565-0236

Roomate: Male seeks male/female. Furnished 3 bedroom 1 1/2 bath town house. $250 a month and 1/2 utilities. Call 898-3468. Leave message

Your house is an investment. Have it painted by a pro. 15 yrs. exp. Call scott @ 886-9161 FREE PAINTING ADVICE have a problem or need to know what's what in painting. Call Scott 886-9161

Vikki: whenever you are in need of showing off a new outfit, you know who to call- there's so much out there to see sweetie! Amy: hope your feeling etter. I hate to see my big sis in distress. Felicia: chicken con casa. AΦC can't wait for formal- I love you guys. love in AOE, Denise

To Brandy, Kelly & Summer: You are the best Lullies ever. Kelly I'm glad you had fun during Big7/11 week. Brqabdy thanks for Sunday & Summer I can't wait til you come for April 3 & 4.

Love your Big Kara ΓΦΒ ΓΦΒ ΓΦΒ ΓΦΒ Congrats to the Pi class of ΓΦΒ. We love you. Can't wait till our 10 year reunion Party. Pledge Momma you did a great job w/ out cutie Pi's! ΓΦΒ ΓΦΒ ΓΦΒ ΓΦΒ

Amy the window is shut but I think someone is trying to open it. I love you girl. You are the best little sis. To AΦ you rock! Carrie & Suzanne lets keep bonding. No separates allowed. Shan Shan

Is it just my imagination or is the CNU SGA acting like "real" politics in this country. All students enrolled here are the future of this country, let's strive for something better.

THE SISTERS OF ALPHA PHI would like to thank the brothers of Sig Tau for the mixer. We had a great time. There are many more good times to be had. Keep dancing men! loveAΦ

Jen G: What can I be all about this week? Kim: I think you can go back to N.Y. First stop: All State Cafe'. AH

To my big Sis Jill: Thank you for everything you have done for me. You and I are going to have so much fun together. You ROCK an are the BEST Big Sis. Π class is #1! I love all 6 of you! Momma: Thanks for everything. Jen ΓΦΒ is #1

To: ΓΦΒ Momma & big sis Kristen thanks for everything. don't forget to have Spanky twist the ball. To Christy: how about that 20 bucks! Shell another new-do. To my Π class LOVE YALL, we'll do lunch. ΓΦΒ Rocks Love Ginger

Painting by a Professional Scott 886-9161

ΓΦΒNew Members: We hope you all had fun on Friday! We love our little ones! Love in PIKE Your Bigs AΦΩ: I love my lil Bro Beth. The entire Theta Class is the best! I am proud of all of the hard work you've done! Keep up the great job!

ETT Thank you for the goodies you brought for us Monday night! That was very thoughtful. You guys are the best.

Love The sisters of Phi Mu

Kasi: Trix is my favorite cereal! Sandra: I will miss pimp[ing]. ΠΑΦ: Can't wait until April 10! Tina M: where are you? Cori: You got lots of love for me. Barbara S: clogging away in Austria. You go girl! Lindsay K: I will always love you. Lin dsay S: Pouty ain't ya! ΠΚΦ softball: Tearing it up! (Don't you just love those phat sorority chicks!) whole lotta ΦM love-- Skippy

HEY SKIPPY: Those Phat sorority Chicks Kick Butt! (Right Alley McB!) Hey Joanne, atleast we are not hungry! Love Moonshine

PHI MU'S Lion On The Beach was a blast! Heather P.: Great Job! To all my sisters I love you. you are the best!

ΠΑΦ, ΠΚΦ & ΣΠ thanks for the support! Love Ames

Congratulations Nu class! Mary: Don't want no short ___ Man! Heather P: You did a great job with Carnation. Congratulations on Sister of the year! Shake that Butt girl! Leslie: Kepp smilin'! Things will get better. Kristina S: I need a road trip now!! All My Love, KimΦM official tape-a-quarter form

THE
CAPTAIN'S LOG

tape quarters
here

name, phone number and today's date (required)

print message below. do not exceed six lines