Dean William Parks Memorial Colloquia Series

The third presentation in the Dean's Colloquia Series will be held next Wednesday, December 6. Our featured guest will be W.D. Snodgrass, the Pulitzer Prize-winning poet. The program will begin at noon in the Campus Center Theatre where Mr. Snodgrass will present "Hitler's People: Readings from The Fuhrer Bunker." All faculty and students are invited and urged to attend.

Following Mr. Snodgrass' reading, a luncheon in his honor will be held in the Admiralty Room. At 2:00 he will hold an informal seminar in the Board Room on the art of poetry and his work.

Faculty members desiring to have lunch with Mr. Snodgrass should forward $3 to Jim Morris by Monday, December 4, to reserve a place at the luncheon. Attendance at the luncheon must be limited to 25 persons.

Grades for Fall Semester

The following schedule will be in effect for the receipt of final grades for Fall 1978 semester.

1) Final Grade Sheets will be distributed on Wednesday, December 6, 1978, via mailboxes

All Fall 1978 grades are due by 12 Noon on Wednesday, December 20, 1978, in the Office of the Registrar.

3) Student grade reports will be in the mail by the close of the College on Friday, December 22, 1978. Any grades not turned in will have the accompanying statement indicated on the grade report: "Missing grades were not provided by instructor."

NOTE: Dean Wood will contact all of the instructors involved in off-campus courses coordinated by his office.

CNC COMMUNITY NEWS

On November 24-25, John Harwood served as a consultant on problems of literacy and numeracy at St. Mary's University, Halifax, Nova Scotia.

* * * * *

Dr. Hoiberg recently conducted a workshop for the staff of the Hampton V.A. Hospital on the topic "Psychosomatic Disorders and Stress Management."

* * * * *

Ruth Kernodle attended the annual meeting of the American Gerontological Society in Dallas, Texas, November 16-19.

* * * * *

Mrs. Bonnie Hansen, staff counselor for 5 1/2 years, will be leaving the CNC community as of December 15. Mrs. Hansen will be relocating due to her husband's new position with the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, Los Alamos, New Mexico. However, she will be on campus again in February to follow-up on her Behavior Weight Control Group connected with her dissertation for the Ed.D. in Counseling at the College of William and Mary.

Mrs. Hansen recently addressed the Senior Women's Club of Warwick on the topic "Changing Roles of Women - The Challenge of the Middle Years."

Dr. Frank Babcock, Director of the Counseling Center, recently attended the annual conference of the Association of University and College Counseling Center Directors, November 6-10.

Glen Vought, Associate Director of the Counseling Center, attended the Southeastern Conference of Counseling Center Personnel in October, in Staunton, Va.

NOTICES

Christmas Holiday Leave

As previously published, the College will close at 12:00 noon, December 22, 1978, and remain closed until 8:00 A.M. January 2, 1979. However, a report of leave taken will be required for one-half day on December 22, 1978. Since the holidays will be preceded by two non-work days, the Governor has not authorized an additional one-half day for Christmas Eve.

Duplicating Service

The College Duplicating Room is experiencing difficulty in obtaining necessary paper supplies from our contract paper vendors. This is due to labor strikes in major paper mills. In order to conserve the present stock level it is suggested that both sides of printing paper be used wherever possible and that no printing paper be used unnecessarily.

Dean of Financial Affairs

Jane Harrison

Most of you know that Jane Harrison will be retiring from CNC on December 8 after more than a decade of service to the College and its students. Her colleagues in the Admissions Office and all of her friends at CNC will miss her enormously. Please join with us in congratulating Jane and wishing her all happiness in her retirement.

Egg Nog Party

Don't forget the egg not party sponsored by the Physical Education Department on December 6 at 3:30 P.M. in Ratcliffe Gymnasium. Come over and have some Christmas cheer with us!

LIBRARY NEWS

Library Materials on Reserve

All materials presently being held "on reserve" in the library will be removed on Monday, December 18, 1978. Faculty members' personal copies will be placed in faculty mailboxes by noon on Tuesday, December 19, 1978. Please make arrangements to pick up these materials.

The Library service desks will be relocated during the holidays due to construction. Because of this relocation, we will be unable to hold over any reserve materials from fall semester to spring semester. The number of shelves available for reserve material in our temporary quarters will be reduced from the present 35 shelves to only 14 shelves. Please select only the most important items to place on reserve for spring semester. We appreciate the faculty's cooperation during this interim period.

Nan Eddins, Readers' Services Librarian

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Faculty Evaluation Committee

At the 8 December Faculty Meeting the Faculty Evaluation Committee will recommend that the faculty adopt a campus-wide student evaluation form.

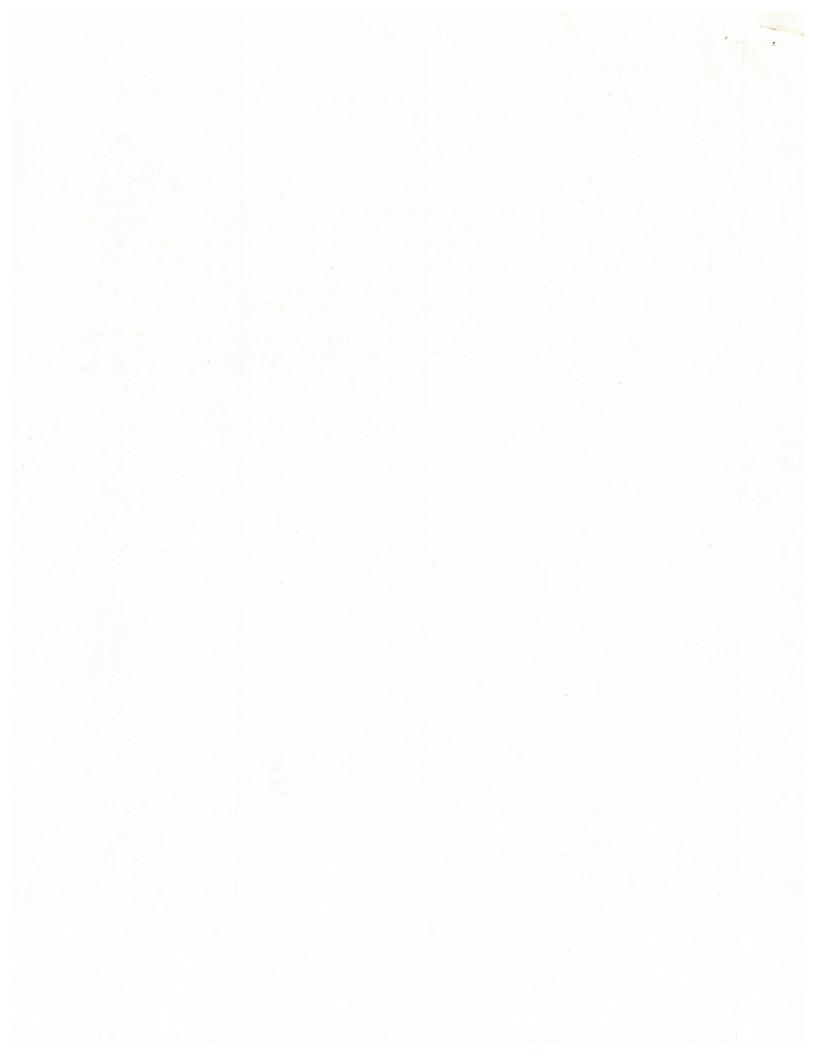

* * * * *

Faculty Advisory Committee

The FAC feels that current grievance procedures (Faculty Handbook, P. V-25, item 7) should be amended so that a faculty member has some recourse concerning other conditions of employment, i.e., scheduling of regular courses, summer session priorities, office assignments, etc.

Therefore we recommend that the Faculty ask the Administration to amend item 7 by adding "or other conditions of employment" after "...promotion or tenure,"....

The new statement would read: In the event a faculty member considers himself aggrieved by a decision concerning his retention, salary, the granting of promotion or tenure, or other conditions of employment, he has the right to appeal the decision.

PROPOSAL

BACHELOR OF ARTS DEGREE IN

INTERNATIONAL CULTURE AND COMMERCE

CHRISTOPHER NEWPORT COLLEGE

JUSTIFICATION - Economic events in the 20th century have been propelling a rapid shift away from national-based economic units and concerns to internationalism in the entire framework of economic interests and commerce which sustain the peoples of the world. The United States has come to play a leading part in this development. American domestic companies and their subsidiaries, with their far-flung interests in all areas of the world, stand as testimony to these commercial tendencies of the 20th century. Likewise, the nation's dependence upon foreign countries and companies for markets, raw materials, and transportation are easily recognized. Fewer and fewer economic interests are purely national in scope; more and more economic interests carry American representatives beyond the nation's borders to countries in Latin America, Europe, the Middle East, and the Far East in pursuit of the business of trade.

One of the cardinal concerns of liberal arts institutions has always been to free their students from provincial concerns and regionalism to enable them to effectively integrate their liberal learning into the world in which they find themselves and thereby to operate efficiently for the betterment of mankind on all levels. Liberal learning must seek to reflect in certain areas the internationalism of the 20th century and beyond, especially in those students who would seek to play an active role in the workaday world of international trade. The representatives of American companies (and governments) must be as internationally acclimated in foreign languages, cultures, and history as the interests they serve.

Accordingly, the Bachelor of Arts degree in International Culture and Commerce should reflect these realities in its requirements upon those who would pursue it. It should serve well the needs of international commerce and understanding through its graduates. This degree cannot by its nature and by the realistic limitations of any four-year program of study graduate a student able to do all jobs in all areas of the world, but it can and should prepare well-rounded students to perform adequately within regions or countries having cultural, linguistic, and historical heritages which the students understand and appreciate.

No other college or university in the nation has a program of this type and is as favorably located to serve this end. The expanded commerce through the ports of Hampton Roads, Baltimore, and Charleston, plus the establishment of international transportation and distribution centers in these areas by both U.S. and foreign enterprises, attest to the current and projected viability of these activities.

DESCRIPTION - The Bachelor of Arts degree in International Culture and Commerce will be an interdisciplinary degree utilizing the courses and personnel of the departments of History; Management and Marketing; Accounting and Finance; Economics; Political Science; Geography; English; Anthropology; Psychology; Computer Science; and Modern Languages and Literature. By a carefully-planned program of study utilizing these disciplines, the student will develop a multi-faceted program of studies leading to a basic knowledge in international commerce as well as an appropriate regional specialization in which he can function with ease, understanding, and efficiency.

ADMINISTRATION - The I.C.C. program will be administered by a Coordinator of International Culture and Commerce appointed by the Dean of Academic Affairs. The Coordinator will consult with the Committee on International Culture and Commerce which will be composed of the chairmen of the departments (or their

AREA IV: Modern Foreign Language (3-17 credits)

Each student is required to complete through the intermediate sequence courses, by course work or by testing, in French, German, or Spanish. An upper level conversation or civilization course in the language is also required. In addition, it is strongly recommended that each student complete additional language courses.

AREA V: Practicum (6 credits)

Each student will receive on-the-job experiences through working with a company or organization which is engaged in international trade. Standards of training experience will be maintained by the College. At the discretion of the Coordinator, a senior-level research paper may be substituted.
