Ramsey Clark to speak at May Graduation

Ramsey Clark

Committee appointed to survey student opinion of "The Captain's Log", Bob Oliver seated in Student Senate

A record thirty-two persons attended the last meeting of the Senate on March 15. Old business was tabled temporarily as SGA President Barbara Anderson addressed the assembly and presented her nominee for SGA Vice-President, Mickey Mesic. Much debate followed, as the Senators fired questions at both Anderson and Mesic. The matter was finally put to a vote and Mesic was voted down (16-7). The vote was taken by private ballot, and SGA President Anderson remarked, "I'd like to go on record as saying that this private ballot stuff is a crock of (expletive deleted)."

Turning to old business, Speaker, Chuck Edwards postponed the reading of the report of the Senate Committee to investigate the Campus Committee until the next meeting, due to a lack of time. A progress report from Senator Riki Murphy on the Senate committee to look into the feasibility of entering a CNC float in the Peninsula Bicentennial Parade revealed that the committee is still trying to find people interested in building a float.

Introducing new business, a committee was appointed to survey student opinion concerning the campus newspaper, the constitution of the new Concert Music Club was unanimously approved, and Bob Oliver was recognized and seated as the latest Senior Class Senator.

Morgan displays art in "Gallery"

The student artist displaying at the Counseling Center "Gallery" this month is Donnell Morgan. Though most of the paintings are abstract acrylics, one charcoal entitled "The Model" is included. He also works in plexiglass and does seascapes and landscapes, so he is not limited.

His background is varied. He has studied at Townson State College in Maryland and locally under Norman Dehart. He graduated from Newport News High School where he won an award as best artist in 1970. He plans to continue study at the Philadelphia School of Art when he leaves CNC.

Morgan indicates his paintings may be sold with a top price of $50. Everyone is invited to view the display at Wingfield 116 until April 1.

Ramsey Clark, former Attorney General of the United States under Lyndon Johnson, will speak at the Christopher Newport College graduation ceremonies on Sunday, May 16, 1976 at the Hampton Roads Coliseum. His topic will be "Integrity in Government."

In announcing Clark as speaker for the 1976 graduating class, CNC's President James C. Windsor added, "We encourage the public to attend. We feel that this is one way for the people of our community to get to know the college a little better and, by coming to hear nationally known speakers, to share with us in the educational process. We are most fortunate to have Mr. Clark as this year's speaker."

Clark served as Assistant Attorney General under President John F. Kennedy and was instrumental in the admission of James Meredith to the University of Mississippi in 1962. President Lyndon Johnson later named Clark Deputy Attorney General; in 1967 he became Attorney General and served in that post for two years.

In the Justice Department, Clark's primary concerns were civil rights and civil liberties, prison reform, gun control, criminal law enforcement and antitrust law enforcement.

He created the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs and established the first federal narcotics addict treatment unit. He also proposed bans on wiretapping and electronic surveillance and was the first attorney general to propose abolition of the death penalty.

Since serving as attorney general, Clark has worked to end abuse of prisoners in Brazil, Greece, Ireland and Spain, and has actively sought prison reform here in the United States. He went to North Vietnam to investigate U.S. bombing there and to visit U.S. prisoners of war.

Clark's extensive writings include "The Role of the Supreme Court," which he co-authored with Senator Sam Ervin, Jr., and "Crime in America."

Increased crime on campus has prompted extra security precautions

On March 5, at 11:00 a.m., a radio belonging to Debbie Bayless was stolen from the Ratcliffe Gymnasium by three black males of apparent high school age.

Ms. Bayless, a student secretary at the Physical Education Office, reported the theft of the radio to Director of Intercollegiate Athletics R. Bev. Vaughan, who then gave chase to the three men. Running across the field between the Campus Center and Newport Hall, he encountered students who quickly joined the chase. At that point the three thieves dropped the radio and ran in the direction of Ferguson High School across from the college.

Ms. Bayless had called the police from the gym, and a patrol car responded shortly. Coach Vaughan directed the patrol car toward the high school, but a subsequent search failed to disclose the thieves.

The attempted theft was the third in a series of robberies which occurred at the gym in the past six weeks; the previous two cases were matters of stolen money.

Due to the sudden increase of crime, extra security precautions have been put into effect. Leonard Skillman, college Buildings and Grounds Supervisor, has posted an extra security guard to watch for suspicious-looking persons with no business on the campus. The extra guard will be on duty during the times that Ferguson High is in operation, when most of the thefts occur. He will roam the campus, but will spend most of his time at the Campus Center and the Gym.

Econ students teach in Point Option Program

Christopher Newport is preparing to undertake its second year in the Point Option Program.

Newport News school system designed Point Option as an alternative learning experience for those exceptional students with high IQ's, but also a learning disability. Most of those participating, according to Dr. Colonna, coordinator of the program at CNC, are members of minority groups, predominately Blacks. Those students who cannot mesh with a normal high school atmosphere and the traditional environment, are referred to the various learning modules available in Point Option.

Dr. Colonna points out that the learning modules may be any type of beneficial learning device to enable the student to achieve a specific goal. For example, one student with an IQ of 150 had a reading disability and was given an opportunity to pursue a research history project at the Newport News War Memorial Museum. The experience applied his ability and also counted towards high school credits.

Christopher Newport will contribute an economics program devised and taught by volunteer CNC economics students, with the supervisory assistance of Dr. Colonna. "CNC students," according to Colonna, "compile the syllabus, lecture the high school students, and select texts." Each lecture class will have an appointed student teacher and an alternate, prepared to lecture in the absence of the initial instructor. Each of the student teachers have done extensive research to prepare for the class sessions, which will run March 19 through May 10, in the Campus Center. Twenty high school students from several city high schools will participate.

Dr. Colonna commented that the program is beneficial to both the CNC student teachers and the participating students in several ways. The student instructors receive teaching and speaking exposure, and the opportunity to apply their discipline. They also receive a commendation certificate and a letter of recommendation from the Newport News school board for use as future reference. Their beneficial contribution to the program is a bonus for the attending students. According to Dr. Colonna, "The program we have designed is not simply to teach economics, but to raise student awareness of economic theory and its application in our society. We will describe what an economic system is, how it operates, exactly the meaning of terms such as inflation, high prices, unemployment, etc. and how they affect society." He adds, "It is an institutional approach to economics; we must get back to a real situation, and the realities of people."

Some of the students who were solicited from economics classes as volunteers for the program are veterans from last year's session. Those who will work with Dr. Colonna on the project this year are: George Seward, Jeff Cahoun, Barbara Cottingham, Jan Buriak, San Fairchild, Gene Briggs, Rich Puchaty, Mark Stevenson, Bill Edwards, and Jim Mitchell.

Business first at Universities

(CPS)--Treasury Secretary William E. Simon has recommended that corporate gifts to colleges and universities be based on whether their teaching policies are favorable or unfavorable toward the free-enterprise system, the Chronicle of Higher Education has reported.

In a speech given to the New York Chapter of the Public Relations Society of America, the government's top economic official said that unless business men steer corporate gifts to colleges and universities that are helping to maintain the free-enterprise system--and away from those who are working against it--"the largesse of the free-enterprise system will continue to finance its own destruction." Simon did not elaborate on how some universities might be "working to erode" corporate America.

Simon advised the audience of public relations people to "take a close look at the teaching policies of those schools and foundations being considered for corporate gifts."

Simon, as the government's top financial official, gives new prominence to an idea that the American business community has been expressing for a long time. Presumably,

Simon's speech reflects the view of President Ford on the role of corporate gifts to higher education.

A recent survey, done by the Filer Commission on Private Philanthropy and Public Needs, concluded that most corporation presidents and high officials felt that the most important reasons for giving aid to educational institutions were "corporate citizenship" and "protecting and improving the business environment."

In the latest figures on corporate gifts to colleges and universities, the Council for Financial Aid to Education estimated that business and industry gave $445-million in 1974.

Simon put forth his plea for discretion in giving to higher education after lauding the free-enterprise system and bemoaning the decline in public confidence in business.

State supports new program for minority students

There is a new program for undergraduate minority students. The purpose of the program is to increase the number of minority students entering graduate school subsequently undertaking careers in higher education. Under this program Juniors at the undergraduate level will be able to go through a summer graduate study plus special seminars at one of Virginia's comprehensive state-supported, doctoral-level institutions. The two objectives of this program are; first, to interest qualified minority students in graduate work and academic careers, thereby encouraging graduate school; and second, to increase the number of minority persons with doctorates and employed in Virginia's state supported colleges and universities.

To be eligible for this program you must be a second semester Junior level minority student enrolled in a Virginia state supported institution. Minority students include those persons of the following ethnic categories: American Indian or Alaskan Native, Asian or Pacific Islander, Black not of Hispanic Origin, and Hispanic. Also, to be eligible one must indicate an interest in pursuing a career in higher education; and be in good academic standing according to the standards of their current institutions. You must also be recommended for the program by a faculty advisor.

The Council of Higher Education will select the participants based on the recommendations of a team of scholars from the doctoral granting institution which will host the program.

Students will be required to enroll in a maximum of two graduate level courses within their field of interests. Also weekly seminars will be held for the purpose of orienting the students to careers in higher education and to discuss issues relevant to graduate study.

The program will operate in alternate years at UVA and VPI. The summer program will be arranged to coincide with the regular summer session of the hosting institution. This will normally be a 5-6 week term. Participants may transfer credit only with the approval of their undergraduate institutions.

Ford's Budget to cost students $1.1 million in aid

By Curt Koehler

(CPS)--Students stand to lose more than $1.1 billion in federal financial aid under President Ford's proposed new federal budget that slashes, jabs and squeezes current student aid programs.

Ford asked Congress for a reduction in spending for regular Office of Education student aid programs and called for the phaseout of Social Security and Veterans educational benefits. The combined effect of these proposals could be the loss of some 1.2 million grants, loans and jobs for students.

While Congress will undoubtedly reject many of the President's proposals, the budget nonetheless marked the opening salvo in Washington's annual battle of statistics between the President and Congress, Republicans and Democrats, military hardliners and social activists.

Students will not be permitted to transfer as undergraduates to the hosting institution as a result of this program.

An educational stipend of $90.00 per week will be paid to the participant. The total stipend for the program will be payable in 2 equal payments: one during the program and the final payment at the end of the program. Funds for the tuition, books, room and board, laundry and other fees directly associated with the program will be paid to the host institution by the State Council of Higher Education.

To obtain application forms write to: Mr. James A. McLean, Coordinator of Enrollment Research, State Council of Higher Education, 700 Fidelity Building, 9th and Main Streets, Richmond, Va. 23219.

Application forms and all accompanying materials must be received by the State Council of Higher Education no later than April 15, 1976. The selection of participants will be announced by May 10, 1976.

Acceptance must be filed before May 31, 1976.

For additional information write for the State Council of Higher Education's Summer Program for 1976 and 1977 for Undergraduate Minority Students at the address listed above.

Women break Blue Collar barrier

(CPS)--What do you say to nineteen naked women?

Yale physical education director Joni Barnett was faced with that problem early in March when part of the Yale women's rowing team stripped in her office to protest the lack of shower facilities.

The nude crew members, dressed for the occasion with only the words "Title IX" painted on their backs and chests in Yale-blue paint, stood at attention while team captain Chris Ernst read a prepared statement.

"These are the bodies Yale is exploiting," Ernst told Barnett, "On a day like today the ice freezes on this skin. Then we sit for half an hour as the ice melts and soaks through to meet the sweat that is soaking us from the inside."

The women's crew has been forced to use four crowded showers in a rented trailer for the past two years, according to team members. Barnett has ignored all requests for improved facilities, they claim.

The crew doesn't have high hopes for the situation being remedied either. Member Anne Warner guessed that improvements would be made at about the same time when "Peter Pan comes back to life."

When a North Dakota driver is convicted of impaired driving, his car may be impounded for the duration of his license suspension. The source of this was silent on similar action for driving while intoxicated.

In recent years the Commonwealth of Virginia and Christopher Newport College have made significant strides in furthering equal opportunity. The organization for Affirmative Action in providing equal opportunity at CNC includes the Affirmative Action Coordinator, the College Affirmative Action Committee, and the administrative officers.

Dr. Lora Friedman serves as Affirmative Action Coordinator. Mr. Tim Morban is presently the Chairperson of the Affirmative Action Committee. The committee is representative in composition and includes three women and three members of minority groups. A student representative will be added in the near future.

The Coordinator and the Committee develop affirmative plans of action which ensure that the maximum effort will be made to recruit minority students and employees. They also have investigative authority and have the responsibility of ing, hiring, promotions, terminations, training programs, social affairs, recreation programs, day care center activities, and use of all college facilities.

I encourage all members of the college community to join with me in affirming the policies described above and in insuring that equal opportunity will continue to be a reality at Christopher Newport.

Title IX - Sex Discrimination

Title IX, passed by Congress in 1972, is being implemented in accordance with guidelines issued in July 1975. Title IX is concerned with insuring nondiscrimination on the basis of sex for students and faculty in higher education institutions.

Specifically, Title IX states: "No person in the United States shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program, or activity receiving Federal financial assistance..."

In compliance with Title IX Rules and Regulations and other Civil Rights legislation we wish to reaffirm that Christopher Newport College does not discriminate for reasons of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin or political affiliation in education or employment programs, practices, and procedures.

To provide for prompt and equitable resolution of student or employee complaints alleging any action that would be prohibited by Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, or other Civil Rights Legislation, complaints may be submitted to the CNC Affirmative Action Coordinator or CNC Affirmative Action Committee for review and evaluation, advice and recommendations. All complaints will be given attention and, where appropriate, or so requested, will be brought to the President of the College. (This does not preclude the complainants pursuing his/her grievance directly through the Department, Division and Personnel Administrators; the Deans or President; or State, Federal, or legal channels.

For further information, you may contact Dr. Lora Friedman, Affirmative Action Coordinator, Wingfield 224, extension 7070; or Professor Tim Morgan, Affirmative Action Committee Chairperson, Newport 221, extension 7121.

Student wins due process case

(CPS)--Advocates of full constitutional rights for students were elated over a recent legal victory at the University of Minnesota.

A federal district judge has ruled that veterinary student Robert Waag's right to due process was violated when he was suspended for allegedly cheating on a test.

Waag was found guilty of cheating on an exam last spring by a judiciary board made up of profs from the veterinary school, and was suspended for a year as punishment. Yet Waag maintained that his 14th Amendment rights were violated when his accuser, a veterinary science professor, was allowed to speak at the hearing, and he was not.

According to one of the faculty judges, Waag's accuser gave "a forceful and very well reasoned presentation" of why Waag was guilty of cheating. In fact, it was so effective that despite a sub committee's unanimous recommendation to dismiss the charges against Waag because of insufficient evidence, the faculty voted to oust him from school.

When Waag filed suit against the University, the court say it his way, and consequently Waag will face a new hearing later this year. No word yet whether the J-Board will be manned by students this time around.

Waag's lawsuit was one of several due process cases that have cropped up this year. The Supreme Court, in Goss vs. Lopez, recently ruled that before students are suspended or expelled, school administrators must give them a chance to "informally discuss" the alleged misconduct, stating the reason for punishment and offering them a chance to explain their side of the story.

So far, however, the court has avoided making a clearcut statement on the formal nature of school judiciary hearings. The right to have counsel and cross-examine witnesses and be tried by one's peers are still 14th Amendment freedoms that are unrecognized on campus.

Birth Control vs. Childbirth

(CPS)--There is less risk of death associated with use of any major method of birth control than risk from death from childbirth according to a recent study prepared for the Population Council. And the risk of dying from childbirth is less than the risk of dying in an automobile accident.

The report showed that the lowest mortality rate is associated with natural contraceptive methods (like rhythm) backed up by abortions. But this course would require most women to have one or two abortions in the course of their lifetimes, a practice most medical authorities do not condone.

The only exception to the low mortality rate with major birth control methods is for women over 40 years of age who take birth control pills. For younger women, annual risks with the pill range from one to two deaths per 100,000. But for women over 40, that risk rises sharply to 25 deaths per 100,000.

The report found that the only method of birth control which carries no known risk of death is vasectomy.

HEADHUNTER™

1976 HEADHUNTER Puzzles, New York

HEADHUNTER clues have to be broken down. Rarely do they make sense taken as wholes. The "real" definition, the one actually sought, is almost always at the very beginning or very end of the clue. Constantly search for SYNONYMS for every word or phrase, however vague or farfetched the connection, until the logical/illogical answer with the right number of letters emerges. The three main types of clues:

ANAGRAMS, often signaled by words like broken, scrambled, tangled, mad, sort of, perhaps, now becomes, crazy, stupid, new, changed--anything indicating disorder or rearrangement.

DOUBLE DEFINITIONS, as in "Game for a traveler (4)" = POLO.

HIDDEN WORDS, found in a word (or spanning words) in the clue and sometimes signaled by among, in, between, etc. Example: "In here, warden! A remuneration! (6)" = REWARD. Some clues use more than one of these construction methods.

Clue words often are literal: "embraces" can simply mean one word surrounding another; "that is" may indicate an "i" and an "e" in the answer; "short" may hint at an abbreviation; and so on. Punctuation in a clue has no bearing on its solution.

CNC Golf Team Improves, Looking forward to D.I.A.C. Championships

Despite tough competition at the onset of the season, CNC's golf team has managed two victories and five losses to date. The two victories have been against D.I.A.C. foes - Virginia Wesleyan and Averette College. One conference loss was to St. Andrews. Additional losses have been to perennially tough teams - Francis Marion College, Atlantic Christian College, O.D.U. and the Apprentice School.

Inexperience has proven to affect the teams performance in the early going. Four freshmen are currently playing the top six spots on the team. The team did show marked improvement in its last match when it only finished 11 points behind O.D.U. and 4 behind the Apprentice School.

Teams averages in matches to date are John Kokoruda (80), Bill Campbell (85), Tery Slo- necker (85), Pete Machak (87), Bob Delay (91), Pat Fallon (93), and Steve Smock (98). The best individual performance so far is by John Kokoruda who shot a 75 at St. Andrews.

Coach Hubbard feels that the early season matches have helped to develop confidence and experience in tournament play. This should be beneficial toward the end of the season, especially for the D.I.A.C. championship which will be held at Ft. Eustis in late April.

Veterans' Hotline:

Questions and Answers About Benefits

In a continuing effort to reach female veterans who may be eligible for a special GI Bill payment, the Veterans Administration is sending letters to 75,000 women who attended school under the GI Bill between June 1, 1966, and October 24, 1972. They are being notified of retroactive allowances to equalize payments with male veterans who were married while in training.

VA Regional Office in Roanoke said to receive the lump sum of about $30 per month for each month she was in GI Bill training, the veteran must furnish proof of marriage while in training.

Women who trained after October 24, 1972, VA said, have already been paid on the same basis as their male counterparts. The law does not allow the additional amount for husbands to be paid to women who trained under the World War II and Korean conflict GI Bills.

Women veterans who proved to VA while they were in training that their husbands were permanently disabled and incapable of self-support have already been paid the additional amount.

Dr. Brackney to return for Summer

Dr. Ross Brackney, who resigned as chairman of the English Department, will return to teaching at CNC for the summer session.

Dr. Brackney became ill in December and was able to return to teaching in time for the Spring semester. However, after a week, he fell ill again and was admitted to the hospital for about three weeks. He apparently feels fine now and would like to return to his teaching post, but following his doctor's advice, he will wait until this summer. He is presently visiting his brother in Chicago.

Dr. Brackney's classes have been reassigned to other instructors in the English department.

History Dept. to present five-day festive celebration of Medieval Culture

The History Department will present Medieval Week, March 29, through April 2, at Christopher Newport.

Under the coordination of Mario Mazzarella, Medieval Week is a five-day festival celebrating medieval culture which will allow CNC students and faculty to enjoy an educational and recreational opportunity to gain an insight and appreciation of medieval culture through the art, drama, music, intellectual pursuits, costumes, food and daily life of the medieval historical period.

So hop aboard the time machine the history department has created and enjoy an adventure into the past. The week will be filled with a different kind of entertainment.

Throughout the week, there will be a library exhibit of medieval books and recorded medieval music will be heard in the Campus Center.

On Monday, March 29, Moderator "Macho Mazz" will head off a medieval debate, The Battle of the Universals, at 12:15 in the Campus Center theater. Dr. "Do-it-Right" Durel, Dr. "Hokey" Hoaglind, Dr. "Pookey" Parks, and of course, our own veteran debater, the devil himself, Dr. "Naughty" Nauman, will fight to the dragon's tooth and sword.

Also on Monday, at 4:00 p.m., and again on Tuesday, at 7:00 p.m., the film Murder in the Cathedral, will be shown in the Campus Center theater. Bring a friend; you can scream or cuddle together and help each other home.

On Wednesday, interested observers and participants will have to juggle their schedules, because at 12:15, there will be a medieval costumes exhibition and a Medieval tournament in the theater, and also there will be a medieval banquet in the Campus Center.

Completing the interesting and exciting adventure into the medieval era will be a play Commedia Del Arte production at 12:15 in the Campus Center Theater.

Blacks ask Maryland to bar Bar Exams

(CPS)--Black activists and attorneys took on Maryland legislators early in February, asking that the state do away with bar exams for graduates of Maryland's two law schools.

Armed with statistics showing that 16.6 percent of black law school graduates passed the bar while 53 percent of white graduates passed between February of 1968 and 1974, a black spokesman said that "no rational person can listen to those statistics and not get the speaking suspicion that something is wrong somewhere."

Speaking against the bill that would waive the bar exams, the state bar association chairman said that the high rate of black failure on the bars is a direct result of law school's efforts to attract larger numbers of blacks.

"Law schools have lowered their standards of admission" to the point where "blacks have to be only two-thirds as qualified as white law school applicants," he said.

The effect of the bill before the Maryland legislature would be to shift the responsibility of determining who could practice law in the state from the board of bar examiners to the deans and instructors at the state's law schools.
