Hazing is going out of style

by Michael O'Keeffe and J. M. Rubin college press service

National fraternity leaders, hoping to end a rash of hazing deaths and injuries and to stave off simply being banned from many campuses, say they are seriously considering a radical reform: ending pledging.

The national presidents of 59 fraternities voted to ask their organizations to study alternatives to pledging during the annual meeting of the National Interfraternity Conference (NIC), held in Dec. in Burlingame, California.

One alternative, they said, is to ask students to become full members immediately after a brief time, skipping the traditional pledge period.

"Despite our best efforts, the hazing and the death continue," said Drury G. Bagwell, president of Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity and assistant vice president of student affairs at the University of Maryland. "Nothing seems to eliminate hazing and death from the structure of pledging."

"Our survival is at stake," he continued. "If we can't eliminate pledging, colleges and universities will eliminate it for us."

"The public," maintained Dwayne R. Woerpel, a national officer of Tau Kappa Epsilon, "is fed up with us and universities are fed up with us."

While the national frat presidents — all of whom are no longer students — called for reform, active fraternity members disagreed.

"Some chapters have problems with the traditional role of pledges, but it's no problem if it's used the right way," suggested Randall Stevens, president of the University of Kentucky's Phi Kappa Psi chapter.

"Pledging at PKP is a learning process," he explained. "Pledges learn about their brothers and about participating in the group. Everything is positive."

"Membership should be earned, not given away," added Delta Tau Delta's Todd Mantz, a senior at Kansas State. The pledge period "lets brothers see if the pledge contributes to his house and evaluate what kind of person he is."

Hazing should be abolished, he added, but otherwise the present system is "okay."

Some national leaders, too, felt that dropping the pledging process would be too drastic.

"I don't support the notion that pledging and hazing are synonymous," said James C. Cherry, a Sigma Nu official. "I don't agree that all efforts to eliminate hazing have failed. Many of our chapters have found success with a judicious application of education and enforcement."

The NIC, representing more than 400,000 students and 809 campuses nationwide and in Canada, cannot pass binding resolutions. But it does carry great weight because it reflects the consensus of the fraternities, Executive Director Jonathan Brant said.

Students invited to join a fraternity are known as "pledges" during a period in which they're supposed to prove their fitness to belong to the chapter. Many fraternity chapters subject their pledges to arcane rituals — much of it harmless, but some of it degrading, dangerous and in some cases deadly — before initiating them as full members.

For example, Scott Phillips, a University of Texas Delta Tau Delta pledge, was killed in September after he fell 125 feet from a bluff during a hazing incident.

Another University of Texas pledge, Mark Seeburger, died in his sleep in 1986 after Phi Kappa Psi brothers forced him to down more than a half a bottle of rum during an initiation rite.

And in February, 1988, James C. Callahan, a Rutgers University freshman, died after consuming what one law enforcement official called "a tremendous amount of alcohol" during a "drink 'til you're sick" pledging ceremony at the school's Lambda Chi Alpha chapter.

Other pledging incidents have included sexual assaults, destructive parties and racial insults. Last year, in just one of several similar episodes, two black women brought charges against the University of California at Santa Barbara Delta Tau Delta chapter when a pledge shouted racial and sexual affronts at them.

Six University of Tennessee Kappa Alpha Psi brothers were charged with assault in June after beating a pledge with a paddle during an induction ceremony.

In response, courts, schools, other students and parents have taken turns starting public demonstrations of revulsion at the carnage.

Legally, a court recently awarded Jeffrey V. Furek $30,000 in damages for burns he received when his prospective University of Delaware Sigma Phi Epsilon brothers poured oven cleaner over his head during a 1980 "Hell Night."

Dozens of states, including Texas, Missouri and Pennsylvania, have enacted anti-hazing laws in recent years.

Schools themselves have cracked down hard. Cal-Santa Barbara, for one, banished Delta Tau Delta while Tennessee placed Kappa Alpha Psi on indefinite probation.

Several, including Colby, Amherst, Gettysburg, Middlebury and Castleton State colleges have banned all fraternities and sororities from their campuses in recent years. In July, the University of Lowell in Massachusetts, scandalized when a pledge almost died after being forced to spend the night in a sleeping bag in an attic in 107-degree heat, abolished its greek system.

Such incidents, which unfolded after years of efforts to stop hazing, left many of the NIC delegates in Burlingame convinced that only radical reform could stop more schools from dismantling their greek systems.

Dating contract unnecessary silliness

by Tom Gibson
opinions editor

Once upon a time, there was a boy and a girl.

Sometimes the boy would ask the girl to go out and sometimes the girl would ask the boy.

Beforehand, some of the aspects of their outing were decided such as where to go and who would pay.

As far as physical contact went, it was based on the mood of the moment.

Dating was a simple matter.

However, there is someone trying to turn it into an impersonal experience draped by the guise of legality.

This man Dr. Schenk has decided to make dating into a contractual form of prostitution. Depending on who pays for the date they have the right, according to this dating contract, to determine whether or not there will be any sexual involvement.

If, however, the date doesn't go well, they can mutually agree to no sex and reimbursement from the non-paying partner.

This contract is supposed to make dating easier. What it does, though, is make dating no different than buying a car or any other non-feeling activity.

The contract has an I'm-paying-all-this-money-and-I-want-all-the-options attitude. It's as if sex has now become a requirement for a date.

To the man who designed the contract, dating must not be about spending time with someone, enjoying their company, and not thinking about "How much money should I spend on this person if I'm not sure they will go to bed with me."

Dating to this man must be about degrading someone by turning them into a sexual object that can be paid for with a Big Mac and a movie.

Of course, maybe this contract is of use. After all, it is cheaper to pay for a meal at McDonald's and get sex than it is to go pull a hooker off the street at fifty bucks a pop.

And, say! Having a dating contract makes prostitution legal.

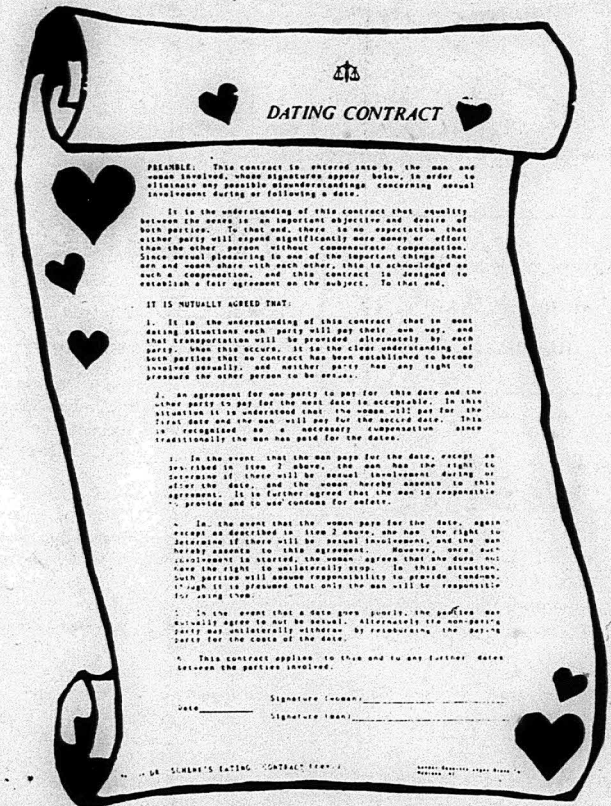

No more fears about being arrested! Just tell the cops you're on a date. Show them your contract.

With the simple signing of a piece of perversion, we can spend a little money, not worry about caring about the other person, be degraded a bit, and have sex.

Oh, what wonderful progress.

Dr. Schrik's Dating Contract, which provides that whoever pays for a date determines "how far" it will go. The man must provide condoms if he pays. If the woman pays and starts sexual involvement, she does not have the right to stop.

Lady Captains tied for first CNC men face tough competition

The Lady Captains won their contest with NC Wesleyan, 94-84. Both Kim Cameron and Allison Murray had 20 points.

Friday, CNC rolled over Ferrum, 86-46. Cathy Skinner racked up 30 points.

CNC placed six players in double figures in the 110-32 defeat of Averett. The team stole a record 36 balls from the Lady Cougars. Skinner again had 30, followed by Murray with 28. Beth Spurell passed the 1000 mark in career rebounds.

In conference stats, Skinner leads scoring with an average of 23.5 points per game. Spurell leads in rebounding with an average of 16.3 per game, and also leads field goal percentage with 59.9%.

The Lady Captains are tied for first in the DIAC at 5-0 with VA Wesleyan. The two teams will meet this Saturday in Va. Beach.

In the Captains' first game of the semester, the team traveled to first place, NC Wesleyan. Even shooting 59%, CNC could not stop the 68% of the Bishops. CNC lost 98-77. Troy Wright led scoring with 21, Lamont Strothers had 18, putting him over the 1000 point mark.

Friday, CNC took a 25 point margin with the victory over Ferrum, 113-88. Strothers had 32 points, Wright had 23.

Unpredictable Averett came up with the win on Saturday, 86-83. Strothers again led scoring with 34, followed by Thomas Pittman with 20.

The Captains are currently fourth in the conference at 3-2, 8-9 all around. Strothers is leading the DIAC in scoring with an average of 25.3 points per game, and is second in blocked shots with an average of 1.5 per game. Senior, Rodney Bradshaw leads in assists, averaging 6.4 a game.

First Inductees honored

by Brent Klich

The first seven inductees of the newly founded CNC Athletic Hall of Fame, were presented in a ceremony on January 20, at the CNC vs. Ferrum basketball game.

Bev Vaughan, father of CNC athletics, lead the way. Vaughan was the school's first athletic director, serving for 20 years, 14 of which he was also the men's basketball coach.

Others were Bobby Arnette (Basketball player from 1968-72 and had 1,259 career points), Andre Bell (soccer player from 1974-77 and had 29 career goals), Edna Davis (premier track star, winning the AIAW nationals in the 200 and 400 meters), Carl Ferris (CNC's first basketball All-American for his 1973-74 season), Linda Richardson (received All-American honors for her 1979-80 basketball season), and Andy Wacławski (CNC's four year athlete, who's number 21 hangs in the gym, one of only three retired basketball jerseys).

Elections will be held every year in the late summer. Nominations can be made by anyone, but nominees must have completed their eligibility five years prior; coaches and administrators can be nominated at any time.

BIO: Lamont Strothers

Strothers is the CNC basketball team's All-American Candidate who has already made waves thru the record book. This season he has achieved 1000 points in only 45 games (the quickest in CNC history), leads in consecutive double figure games with 47 and still counting, leads single game scoring with 37, and as of December 31 he is in thirteenth place in NCAA III men's scoring with an average of 23.8 points per game.

Lamont is from Suffolk, where he graduated from Forest Glen High School in 1986. This is his sophomore year at CNC and he is looking into the field of engineering for a career.

Two workers finish up the elevator shaft outside McMurren.

Construction almost completed

by Rick van Rijn
staff writer

Aside from the elevator in McMurren, construction there and in Gosnold is on schedule.

Jerry Smith, Director of Buildings and Grounds, said that inclement weather during the winter break is to blame for the elevator's delay in McMurren. The elevator should be ready within six weeks.

The other additional construction is virtually finished. The new office space in what was formerly the breezeway is ready to be occupied, as are the music rooms and classroom space for the music department. Renovations making M-125 accessible for the handicapped are also completed.

The majority of Gosnold's renovations should be complete by March 1. Gosnold's elevator should be operational by Jan. 27.

The Falk Gallery, scheduled to be dedicated May 6, will have special projection facilities and will occupy what was formerly the art studio.

Construction on Gosnold also includes a connecting walkway between wings and a student lounge. A nursing lab, a superconductivity lab, a computer science lab, handicapped accessible restrooms, and additional office space will also be completed by March 1.

CNC will be fully accessible to the handicapped when an elevator is installed in Wingfield by next fall.

The total cost for McMurren renovations is $299,500. Cost for Gosnold is $699,100 and the Falk Gallery is funded by a $78,000 donation. Projected cost for Wingfield's elevator is $105,000.

Mid-management hiring picture: bright

A recent national survey indicates that mid-management hiring projections for the South Atlantic Region will improve for the first half of 1989.

Approximately 3,300 executives responsible for hiring in companies throughout the country responded to the poll conducted by Management Recruiters International, Inc. (MRI), the nation's largest search firm.

A total of 36.2% of those surveyed in the South Atlantic Region indicated they were planning to expand their middle management and/or professional staffs in the next six months. Another 52.6% in the region planned to maintain current staff sizes and 10.5% planned staff reductions. This is a 1.2 point increase in staff additions from the second half of 1988 and a 1.3 point decrease in planned staff reductions.

By comparison, 35.9% of those polled throughout the country were planning to increase staff sizes, 52.3% said they would maintain staff size and 11.1% indicated possible staff reductions.

Barry Marsh of Management Recruiters of Newport News felt that the South Atlantic Region was in a growth pattern for the future.

"All of the numbers are heading in the right direction for the South Atlantic Region - expansion up and reduction down. The picture for middle management looks very bright."

Management Recruiters asked the question: "Do you expect inflation, as measured by the consumer price index, to be less than 3%, 3-4%, 5-6%, or more than 6% in 1989?"

Concerning this inflation question, the majority response in this region was 48.5% indicating projected inflation at 3-4%. The second closest response was 26.9% projecting inflation at 5-6%.

This compares to the national statistics where the majority response was 50.1% projecting inflation at 3-4% followed by 28.6% projecting inflation for 1989 at 5-6%.

"The South Atlantic Region follows the national statistics fairly closely in projecting relatively low inflation for 1989. The economic prospects seem promising upon these figures."

Management Recruiters of Newport News is part of a nationwide network of more than 400 Management Recruiters offices throughout the country. Headquartered in Cleveland, Ohio, Management Recruiters recruits qualified candidates for a variety of middle management, professional, technical, sales and marketing positions.

For further information, call Marsh at 804-873-2266.

Rosenberg to speak

On Fri., Jan. 27, at noon in the Anderson Auditorium of the Administration Building Dr. Roberta K. Rosenberg, assistant professor of English at CNC, will present a paper entitled "Motherhood without Men: Feminist Solution or Cultural Disorder?"

Dr. Rosenberg, a native of New York City who received her degrees from the City University of New York and the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, is a specialist in American literature. She has taught at CNC since 1986.

Taking as her subject matter the prevalent attitude toward men as presented in contemporary feminist novels and essays, Rosenberg seeks to analyze the sources of persistent attitudes displayed there toward children and the family. She argues that the authors' disenchantment with men has led them to an espousal of a new love relationship toward children, especially daughters, which may constitute a cultural disorder with far-ranging ramifications in American society.

The lecture, sponsored by the Dean William Parks Memorial Colloquia Committee as part of its ongoing commitment to scholarship, is free and open to the public as well as the college community.

Students in Who's Who

Fourteen students from CNC have been selected as national outstanding leaders and will be listed in the 1989 edition of WHO'S WHO Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

The selections, announced by Dr. Charles Behymer, Vice President For Student Affairs, were made by a campus nominating committee based on the students' academic achievements, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

"They join an elite group of students selected from more than 1,400 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations," said Dr. Behymer.

The students are:
Ms. Cheryl A. Aukland of Newport News
Mr. Richard T. Cannella of Poquoson
Mrs. Dorothy Marie Carrerra of Hampton
Mrs. Bonnie Wells Daniel of Gloucester
Mrs. Kay B. Helm of Newport News

Going out

"Pledging has become synonymous with hazing," Tau Kappa Epsilon's Woerpel argued. "Our environment is moving against us. If we don't move soon, we will die like the dinosaurs who could not adapt. This is no time to wait and see what happens."

The NIC's Brant maintained Greeks can live without pledging.

"It was only at the turn of the century that pledging was established. Fraternities existed many years without pledging, and we can do it again."

Some are trying. Zeta Beta Tau already has ordered its chapters to eliminate pledging. Greeks at Tulane University are considering abolishing the pledge process.

The University of Colorado Delta Upsilon chapter announced its pledges will participate in an Outward Bound program instead of this month's "Hell Week," a time traditionally set aside for hazing.

CNC, TNCC to sponsor televised speech

Christopher Newport College's Minority Student Association, the Student Government Association, and the Division of Student Affairs and Thomas Nelson Community College's Student Activities Program will sponsor a national televised event to kick-off Black History Month on Wednesday, February 1, 1989 at 1 p.m.

Washington, D.C. and the first Black History Month Telecommunications Program will tie together distinguished experts on the contributions of blacks to this country with audiences at colleges and universities, military installations, secondary schools, national associations and federal, and state agencies.

"Beyond The Dream: A Celebration of Black History" will originate from Washington, D.C. It will be fed via satellite to participating sites.

Sponsored by the publishers of Black Issues in Higher Education, the two hour program will feature leaders in education, politics, business, sports, the military, entertainment and the arts. Included will be historians and scholars such as Dr. John Hope Franklin and Dr. Asa Hilliard; President of the National Education Association, Mary Hatwood Futrell; and four-star Air Force General Bernard P. Randolph.

Through a series of portraits of influential Black leaders, discussion segments and entertainment profiles, the show will trace the impact blacks have had on society. During various segments of the program, viewers are encouraged to participate by calling in with questions, observations and comments.

This teleconference is open to the public free of charge. For information concerning the TNCC location, call 825-2868. For information concerning the CNC location, call 594-7158.

Senior cadets get military assignments over break

The Department of Military Science would like to congratulate those senior cadets who received their branch assignments and service components over the holiday break.

Daphne Chambers received a Military Police assignment and is to receive a commission in the Reserve Forces. Raymond Compton received a Signal Corps assignment and is a Regular Army commission selectee. Kevin Glover received an infantry assignment and is to receive an Active Duty commission. Deborah Howard received a Signal Corps assignment and is to receive an Active Duty commission. Somport Jongwatana received a Military Intelligence assignment and is a Regular Army commission selectee. Allen Joyner received a Transportation Corps assignment and is to receive an Active Duty commission. Quentin McHenry received an Armor assignment and is to receive an Active Duty assignment. Enrik Reyes received a Signal Corps assignment and is to receive a commission in the Reserve Forces. Boris Robinson received an Infantry assignment and is a Regular Army commission selectee. Jon Schwartzman received a Transportation Corps assignment and is a Regular Army commission selectee.

These assignments demonstrate the superb quality of these students because their active duty placement (82%) was well above the national average of 52%. Congratulations!
